The death occurred Monday at her late residence, 906 Water street, of Mrs. Margaret McAuliffe, relict of the late C. McAuliffe. The deceased lady, who was 65 years of age, had only been sick a short time, having been stricken suddenly with a paralytic stroke, which proved fatal. The late Mrs. McAuliffe was born in Enrick, Ireland, but had lived in Peterborough for over forty years, her husband predeceasing her fourteen years ago. Four sons and two daughters are left to mourn her loss. Mrs. P. Connors and Mrs. A. L. Talbot of town, are the daughters and the sons are Jack and William, of town, James of Sudbury, and Florence of Montreal. The funeral will take place Thursday morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

Look for the Revolver knew both Florence and Ethel very well.

She is a member of McNab street Presbyterian choir, where Florence was missed before she went to Virginia.

"When father told me he saw Ethel that day," said the young lady to the reporter. "I tried to make sure it was she. He described to me the dress she had on. It was a brown one with points. I remembered at once that she had recently had a brown dress altered to that style," and woman-like, Miss Erie, corroborated her father's opinion by his description of Ethel's dress.

Mr. Hossack also recalled that the young lady he saw that day wore a veil.

"And Ethel Kinrade always wore a veil," said Miss Erie.

Herkimer street west leads to the high-level bridge over the Desjardins Canal.

"Before Florence went away south" recalled Miss Erie Hossack, "Ethel and she took daily walks in the summer time to the high-level bridge. While Florence was out of town, Ethel used to go out alone. A day or two previous to the murder I myself saw her pass our house going in that direction."

FURS WERE ON TABLE

Mr. Hossack did not notice deceased return on the day of the murder. He was about the front of his house for an hour or so later and thought he might have noticed her had she passed that way within the time.

And Mr. Hossack's story to the fact that Miss Ethel's furs were found on the dining room table beside which she lay dead. And it seems quite possible that she may have just come back from her walk when the shooting occurred. This does not agree with the story told under the strain of excitement of Miss Florence to the effect that they were just dressing to go out when the murderer entered the house.

That the detectives attach considerable importance to the story of Charles Hossack is evidenced by the fact that when they heard it yesterday a summons was issued for Mr. Hossack to attend the inquest.

Another new witness has been summoned for the inquest from the Hossack family in the person of Miss Phyllis Hossack, another daughter of Charles Hossack. Her evidence is supposed to relate to events since the murder.

Yesterday it became known that George Tate Blackstock, K.C., of Toronto, had been specially delegated to conduct the Kinrade inquest. This is a most unusual step, and one which Crown Attorney Washington, who is a capable man, apparently does not understand. Perhaps the Attorney-General's Department considered that an arrest was likely to follow close upon the inquest, and it would be very desirable that Mr. Blackstock, the man who would prosecute at the Assizes, should have the advantage of handling the case from the start. It may have been thought that an outsider would feel greater freedom in pressing certain questions which it is essential local witnesses should answer. Whatever the explanation, Mr. Washington has made it very plain that it has not been satisfactorily revealed to him. He was seen last week by Detective, but what passed between them he will not reveal.

THREE DETECTIVES WORKING.

Another proof of the importance attached to the case by the Attorney-General is the fact made known today that three instead of two Provincial detectives have been employed on the case. It now appears that both Detectives Greer and Rogers have been bringing their best efforts to bear on the solving of the mystery. They are believed to have done much to clear away the mist enshrouding the case. It is said they found pertinent evidence in Toronto and Buffalo, and also in Virginia. In this way they have well seconded the untiring efforts of Detective Miller.

Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well I struggled against growing page, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned off the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvellous, I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

QUAINT COMPETITION.

Praying Boys at the Tomb of An Eccentric.

A quaint competition survives at Wooton, Dorking, England, and a repetition of it has just been witnessed. The competition is nearly 200 years old. Mr. Wm. Glanvill, a one-time member of the Inner Temple, although a man of law, was evidently an eccentric. His will stipulated that he should be buried 18 feet deep on the north side of the church, and the sum of £30 per annum was set aside for five "prayer boys," each of whom was to receive 40s. The task of the prayer boys is not a light one. On the morning of Feb. 2 they have to stand bareheaded around the tomb, recite from memory the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, Apostles' Creed, read the 15th chapter of the First Epistle to the Corinthians, and then write from dictation in a legible hand two verses from the same chapter.

The grave being on the north side, there is no shelter from the biting wind, and many a competitor—perhaps an expert scholar—when numbed with the cold has his discomfiture added to by contact with the cold marble. Consequently he blunders in his recitation and fails to become a prize winner. Lately, however, a small tent has been drawn around the tomb to act as a wind-screen for the juveniles, and the reading and writing exercises are conducted in the schoolroom. Some of the boys in the recent competition, almost stammering through the cold, were secretly rejoicing that it fell to their lot to repeat the short Commandments, but a moment later the judges were calling upon them to show their proficiency in the knowledge of the second and fourth. The "forty shillings" is a cherished award in the little village.

Singing Fish.

Fish always dumb? Not a bit of it. Any number of them can make some kind of noise.

The common red gurnard of the British coasts, on being hooked and hauled rudely out of the briny, will grunt loudly and indignantly, as a fisherman will tell you. It is a strange croaking sort of noise, such as one might expect a young rook to make.

Then there is a fish called the butterman—why, nobody knows—which is found off the Scotch coast-line. This fish, which is a fat and comfortable looking beast about a foot long, as a rule, makes a distinct hooting noise from the back of his throat when landed in a net or caught on a long line. A netful of these fish—though they are rather rare—is sometimes caught, and when they are hauled in the chorus of sharp, siren-like hoots is very startling to a stranger to the coast.

But in Ceylon there is a shell-fish—a kind of mussel—which positively sings. In still weather, when the water has ebbed away from the mussel-beds for a few hours, these shell-fish can be heard producing a long, low fluting sound. How they do it no one knows, but they certainly make a quite distinct attempts at singing, and as they have no throats they must produce the sound by some manipulation of their double shells. The sound is low and not at all unpleasant, but rather sweet to the ear on a still summer's night.

coroners' Search For Singer.

Mr. Charles Manners, the famous bass singer, who holds that so far as music is concerned, Shakespeare is more honored on the Continent than in his own country, was brought up with the idea of his becoming a solicitor. But the law had no fascination for him. He tried two years at a crammer's with a view to getting into the army. Then he took up civil engineering, and later went into a stockbroker's office. It was while here he decided to become a professional singer, and his first engagement in London was as a chorister in the comic opera called "Claude Duval." Eighteen months later Mr. Manners became a principal, and he has humorously related that he got the chance through his having a dress suit in his box, and by promising to use it when he got the part. Mr. Manners, son of the late Col. J. C. Manners, Royal Horse Artillery, is 6 feet 4 1-4 inches in height, and the smallest of five sons. He numbers an incident in Malta among his earliest recollections. He was then six years old, and his father a captain in the Garrison Artillery. A soldier's funeral was passing the quarters, and young Charles decided to stick to the big drum all the way to the cemetery and back again. On the return journey he was promptly pounced upon by the irate father and tearful mother, and after being well shaken he was put to bed. After remaining there twenty-four hours he learned that half the battery had been hunting Valetta for him.

Agricultural Class in Norwood is Assured

If any of the members of the County Council or of the deputation from Norwood were asked whether or no that an agricultural class would be established at Norwood the answer would invariably be "Yes, Norwood will get a class."

A representative deputation from Peterborough county, particularly from the eastern portion, and numbering about forty strong, were in Toronto yesterday, and though the efforts of Mr. Thompson, M.P.P., were granted an interview by Hon. Jas. Duff, minister of agriculture. The object of the visit was to place before the minister the advantages offered by the town of Norwood for the location of one of the special agricultural classes which the Ontario Government proposes to establish throughout the province. The object of these classes is to teach the theory of agriculture in the local high schools with the view of educating the boys who cannot afford to go to Guelph College, the greatest business in the world, and thus retain for the farm the vast number of young men who enter other lines of business.

The deputation was introduced to Hon. Mr. Duff by Mr. Thompson and the delegates were individually welcomed and were also bid farewell by the minister when leaving. The whole interview was most cordial and both the delegates and minister were impressed. The claims of Norwood as the location for one of the classes were placed before the minister by Mr. Thompson, M.P.P. Mr. Squires of Norwood, Mr. Birdsall of Norwood, Mr. O'Reilly, Mr. E. M. Elliott, Warden Robt. Scott and Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

It was pointed out that Norwood was the center of a large dairy industry. Within a radius of ten miles there were 17 cheese factories and all were doing well. Attending the Normal High school were pupils from four contiguous counties so that it could easily be seen that the town was easy of access The Norwood High school had also lots of room for the classes and good arable land was available near at hand. The people of Peterborough also realized the benefits that such a class would be to the young men and young women and they appreciated the effect such an education would have upon the farming community.

HON. JAMES DUFF.

In reply Hon. James Duff, minister of agriculture, expressed his great pleasure at having met the deputation. He regretted that Hon. Dr. Pyle, minister of education, had not also been present, as he intended to be, but he was tied up with another deputation. The minister then outlined the government's policy in regard to these agricultural classes. It was a case of going hand in hand with the County Council. The government proposed to appoint a competent teacher and to pay his salary, while the county would be expected to furnish the equipment. This was to create an interest among the people themselves and to cause them to appreciate the value of the education.

Mr. Duff said he was impressed with the arguments put forth by the members of the deputation. That the people are beginning to value this departure of the Ontario Government speaks volumes for the foresight of the distinguished gentleman who is now Premier of Ontario, Sir James P. Whitney. It was Sir James who years ago propounded this policy and the few classes already established have proven most successful. It is the intention of the government to establish the classes as rapidly as would be consistent with the finances at the disposal of the department.

In conclusion the minister stated that he would place before his colleagues the arguments of the deputation and he would do his utmost to have the wishes of the people granted.

The delegation then adjourned to wait upon the minister of public works.

Nothing New in the Kindred Case, Inquest Adjourned Until Tonight

(Special to The Times.)

Hamilton, March 10.—The adjourned inquest into the murder of Miss Ethel Kinrade, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Kinrade, was resumed here tonight before Coroner Anderson at No. 3 police station. The murder of this young lady has caused wide spread interest and it was fully expected that something of a sensational nature would be brought out in the evidence.

Messrs. Blackstock and Washington looked after the case for the Crown, while Mr. Holmon represented the Kinrade family. The first witness put on the stand was the dead girl's father. His direct evidence did not disclose any new features nor anything that has not already been published. Mr. Blackstock, however put him through a rigid cross-examination and went into the family history very thoroughly. His examination lasted until a late hour and the inquest will be continued tomorrow night.

Lindsay Gave Champion Midgets a Great Welcome

(Special to The Times.)

Lindsay, March 10.—The Lindsay hockey team, champions of the intermediate O.H.A., arrived home from Stratford last night, fresh from their great victory over the Indians on their own ice. The Midgets were met at the station by at least half of the population of the town and the boys were given a reception that they will never forget. In warmth and enthusiasm it has never been equalled in the town's history. Besides the several thousand cheering citizens the band was out in force and a torch light procession was formed and marched through the town to the Academy, where they were guests of the opera house management at Floradora. The whole line of the procession was brilliantly illuminated by fire works and altogether it was the wildest night Lindsay has seen for many a year.

Hon. Dr. Reaume Gave Peterboro' Deputation a Satisfactory Answer

It was a well pleased deputation which left the Hon. Dr. Reaume's office yesterday noon after having interviewed the minister of public works, in reference to the bridge over Ball Lake Narrows. The deputation had interviewed the minister at Ottawa a couple of weeks ago and he stated that if the Provincial Government made a grant the Dominion Government would likely come forward also.

The object of the County Council's visit was to place before the minister of public works the project of the Ball Lake Narrows bridge. This is to be a float bridge with a swing in it. It will connect North Harvey and South Harvey by a direct route and will also reduce the distance to Bobcaygeon by 15 miles. It is estimated that the cost will be about $12,000, and the two governments were asked to donate $7,000 between them.

The deputation was introduced to the minister by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., for West Peterborough, and he called upon the Warden, Mr. Robt. Scott and Councillor Shaw, Mr. Kone of Bobcaygeon, Mr. Graham of North Harvey, and Messrs. Carnegie, Fee and Thompson, M.P.P.S. These gentlemen presented their case in a very forceful manner and made a deep impression upon the minister of public works.

Hon. Dr. Reaume, in reply, dealt with the deputation in an open, honest and business-like manner. He was frank in his statements and to the point with his questions. The result was he gained valuable information. One feature he brought out was that the county did not intend to build the bridge until next year. Then the honorable minister stated that he would be most happy to place a grant in the estimates for next year. He always wanted to pay out any money he placed in his estimates, and not have to ask for anything that was not necessary that year. The deputation was given the assurance of the minister that as soon as they were ready to go ahead with their work he would appeal to his colleagues for assistance, as he was strongly in favor of going hand in hand with municipalities in undertakings of public benefit. But when the grant was made Hon. Dr. Reaume stated that it would be on condition that the work was being carried on and that the Dominion Government made a grant of an equal amount.

The deputation was indeed pleased with the very business like and frank manner in which they were received and heard and they have every confidence in the Provincial Government doing its share.

High Scores Rolled on the P.B.C. Alley

There was some remarkable bowling done on the P.B.C. alleys last night. It is doubtful if ever so many 200 scores have been rolled in a single night since the alleys were opened and it shows that a keen interest is being taken in the game and also that the boys are out for the box of cigars that are offered each week. The record for this week was 234 bowled on Tuesday night but this was tied yesterday afternoon by Dusty. Then Sutherland broke loose and bowled 245, which is still the high score and looks good for the box of cigars. Sutherland's score for three consecutive games was 180, 192 and 245 or a total of 617 which is getting up near the record of the alleys, 661, rolled by Mr. Grey, a commercial traveller who blew into the club rooms last fall. The 200 or over scores made last night were,—

Sutherland—208, 245, 212.
Fryer—234, 216.
C. Ford—200.
H. Martin—226.

This is pretty classy bowling and something which none of them need be ashamed of. In the American Bowling Tournament in Chicago last week the scores would not average anything like 200 and some of the best men in the game took part in the tournament. If the local boys keep going for a while they will be in a position to hold their own with any team.

Crowds of Indians at Belleville to See Smart Tried in Murder Case

Belleville, March 10.—Large numbers of Indians are in the city today to attend the trial of Thomas Smart, charged with murder of Jas. Sero, another Indian, in September last, on the Mohawk Reserve, about a mile and a half from Shannonville. Much interest is being taken in the case, which begins this afternoon. The court room was crowded this morning. The prisoner is a round-faced, good-tempered looking lad, who does not appear as if he would harm anyone. W. S. Herrington, Napanee, is his counsel.

STORY OF THE CASE.

According to evidence given at the preliminary trial, the shooting occurred about as follows;

On Saturday, Sept. 17, James Sero, his wife and brother, came to this city, as was their usual weekly custom, and during their stay Sero and his brother are said to have imbibed rather freely, and on leaving the city were considerably under the weather. All left the city shortly after dark, arriving home about 10 p.m. Sero and wife got out of the rig leaving the brother asleep in the vehicle. Both went into the house with their purchases and found Dorothy Smart, the fifteen-year-old sister of the prisoner, sitting at the organ in the parlor. James Sero then put the horses in the stable and Dorothy went to her room, but did not retire, sitting at the window.

She testified that she saw a man crouching behind a lilac bush in the yard, and as her uncle approached, the shadowed figure stepped out and fired a shotgun, and the uncle reeled and fell, and at the same time she recognized her brother as the assailant.

"I expect to hang," is a statement credited to Smart by William Hughes, a close companion.

H. H. Gamble, K.C., of Toronto, is conducting the prosecution.

Sterling Defeated Norwood for the Trent Valley Hockey Championship

Sterling hockey team are the Trent Valley League champions for the season having decisively defeated Norwood, winners of District No. 1 at the Brock street rink last night. The score was 10—3 in favor of Sterling. Special trains were run from both towns and brought large crowds to the city. The rink was well filled and the spectators saw a pretty fair exhibition of hockey. The Trent Valley league has been very successful this year and the winners of the championship are the best team of the bunch.

The teams lined up as follows;—

Norwood.		Sterling
	Goal.
Doherty		Grain
Edwards	Point.	Whitty
Cummings	Cover.	Saylor
Kempt	Rover.	Betts
L. McNichol	Center.	Fletcher
H. McNichol	Right.	Kennedy

Hartley and Pollanti in Seventh Place in Go-as-You Please Race

New York, March 10.—Painfully limping over the sawdust covered clay and cinder track, the surviving pedestrians in the six-day go-as-you-please race in Madison Square Garden were today reduced to eleven and a half teams. Louis Someran, of Brooklyn, also for the second time since the race started, was without the partner, composed the half team. The first man who drops out today will be replaced by Someran, who has shown a lot of gameness.

The French men—Chet and Orphe—seemed to possess an inexhaustible store of energy, and had a lead of over sixteen miles on Davis and Metkus, a reconstructed team. Davis and Metkus, in turn, were nine miles in front of the Irish pair. Feegan and Curtis, who have made heroic efforts during the last twenty-four hours to get to the front.

Dineen, of the Boston team, seemed quite exhausted today, but pluckily plodded along.

The score at eight a.m., was as follows; Inhot and Orphee, 333; Davis and Metkus, 316 3; Feegan and Curtis, 306.2; Dineen and Prouty, 303 7; Locatelin and Klubertang, 295 9; Corey and Hegelman, 281; Shelton and Frazer, 276 8; Guignard and Revere, 263 8; Naves and Kellar, 250 8; Hartley and Pollanti, 244 7; Quakenbush and Edelson, 225 8; Someran and Sapsford, 199 7.

Four Bullets in the Girl's Body

Hamilton, March 10.—AT the second autopsy performed by Drs. Balfe and Edgar on the body of Miss Ethel Kinrade, who was disinterred for the purpose of clearing up the conflicting evidence as to the number of shots fired, four bullets were discovered in the body, two in the back part of the jaw, and two in the region of the back. This is one less than the doctors expected to find.

Talking to a reporter last night, Dr. Balfe said that it was though that there were five bullets still in the body.

"Nothing startling was discovered at our autopsy last night," said Dr. Balfe; "that's all I can say; we have decided to keep quite regarding anything we found. You know, if we told you everything now, we'd have nothing new to tell the jury tonight."

FOUR BULLETS FOUND

It is understood, however, that only four bullets were found in last night's examination, and in that case eight bullets must have been fired, if, as Dr. Balfe states, the one found in the hair was the one that caused the wound in the head. Two bullets were found at the first autopsy by the doctors, one in the left pleural cavity, and one lying loose in the hair. One bullet was found by the police in a flattened condition on the floor. This is thought to have dropped out of the girl's mouth. Another was found in the woodwork. Totalling them, the result is as follows; Two found by the doctors, two by the police, and four in the body last night—eight in all.

It was yesterday morning that the attorney-general's department first decided to disinter the body of the dead girl. After a conference between Detective Miller and Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright at the parliament buildings, Mr. Miller came to Hamilton and communicated to County Crown Attorney Washington the information that the attorney-general's department wished the body of the murdered girl disinterred.

CORONER MUST TESTIFY.

The reason given was that the Crown wished to obtain Dr. McNichol's evidence. As coroner he could not be called upon to testify. Accordingly a new jury had to be empanelled, a new coroner appointed, and the body had to be viewed.

The work of removing the body from beneath the six feet of earth which covered it took about two hours. Meanwhile Dr. James Anderson, coroner, was summoned to the Crown attorney's, and informed of the fact that he would have to take Dr. McNichol's place as coroner.

Tom Longboat Must Run for P. T. Powers

Toronto, March 10.—When P. T. Powers, president of the Eastern League, Marathon magnate, and Madison Square Garden impressario, gets after anybody, send flowers if he is a friend of yours, for he'll get him sure.

P. T. is after one Thomas Longboat just now, and is doing the thing up thoroughly. He is building a legal barb-wire fence around the Onondaga and his $20,000 legs that would puzzle a gazelle to over leap.

Powers came to town today; leaves again tonight.

"My object in visiting Toronto is to file with a legal firm here certified copies of the Indian's contract with Tom Flanagan and Tom Flanagan's contract with me," said Mr. Powers. "I have already filed them in Ottawa and Montreal."

"The object is ——?"

"The object is to restrain him from running except for me," returned Mr. Powers. "If he won't run for me he won't run for anybody else—that I am determined. If he tries to run my attorneys will get out an injunction restraining him or attaching the receipts. I will be back in a couple of days, and will see the Indian and try and persuade him to do what is right."

It is whispered on the side that Mr. Powers is also here in the interests of a deal with J. J. McCaffery for a series of big races at the Island this summer, in which Power's brigade of Marathoners will be featured.

OFFERING CONCESSIONS.

Mr. Powers said he was prepared to offer Longboat his own choice of trainers, and in other ways to placate the Indian. He is satisfied that Longboat will not run the 15-mile race with Shrubb, but expects that he will race him at the Marathon distance all right.

Mr. Powers is bringing out another Marathon runner, a Frenchman named St. Ives, who, besides winning the Scottish Marathon, has smashed many records recently. St. Ives sailed today on the Teutonic for New York, and will join Mr. Power's colony of runners when he arrives.

Mr. J. W. Weart, barrister of Vancouver, B.C., spent Sunday with his brother, Mr. B. J. Weart, Wolseley street.

Fred Simpson Preparing for the Big Race on 20th

Toronto, March 10—Both Simpson and Shrubb, who are to meet in a twelve-mile race at the Armories, on the 20th, were out working yesterday.

The Indian was up at the Central "Y" track yesterday afternoon, where he tore off three or four miles, while Alfred spent a couple of hours up at the Varsity track. Shrubb ran about three miles. The Englishman prefers running in the open, but it was too slippery and dangerous. Today, however, he is upon the cinder path.

THE MEN ARE WORKING

Simpson will work out late this afternoon for another three or four miles, likely at the Armories.

Immediately after this event Shrubb will leave for Montreal, where he will race three local men in a fifteen-mile relay on March 24, just four days after the Toronto engagement. This race was planned some weeks ago, but the New York race and the Buffalo fiasco prevented it.

Shrubb Gave Supper to 600 of the Unemployed

Toronto, March 10.—"It was a great sight to see those hungry men eating last night," said Alfred Shrubb to a reporter in reference to the supper which he had generously given to 550 of Toronto's unemployed in the British Welcome League hall.

"They made away with a lot of food. Six hundred loaves of bread disappeared, besides another hundred, which were sent to families in need. They had meat, cheese, crackers, tea and coffee and cake—a substantial meal. There wasn't much speaking, only two or three speakers."

Shrubb then went on to discuss the prevailing conditions in both Canada and England. Where there are one hundred unemployed men here, says the great runner, there would be a thousand walking the streets of London.

BETTER STAY AT HOME.

"It is a pity that the immigration authorities don't come right out and say there are no jobs to be had here in Canada. A man might better stay in England, where living is ever so much cheaper. Times have been hard over there for the past three years, and something must be done very soon. It's too bad the government can't put a stop to this foreign labor which is flooding the place. These foreigners will work for less, and so get the jobs. This is particularly so in London, but Manchester and the North of England are being affected also. Even Glasgow is beginning to suffer.

"A starving man can beg in England—here in Canada the police won't stand for it."

Alfie's speech before the men last night was well received. Time and again he was interrupted by cheers such as only men who have been touched by kindness can give.

Albert Chamberlain, president of the British Welcome League, sat at the head of the table.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think! It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the 25c. box. Sold by all dealers.

The Peterborough Curlers Won The Cup from the Lindsay Rinks

Peterborough curlers won the Peterborough-Lindsay Cup capturing the valued trophy after one of the best contests ever played for it. Lindsay held the mug last year and judging from the game they have been putting up this year all over the province things did not look particularly favorable for the locals. Still the Peterborough curlers are above the average and they went after Lindsay and with success. The game was close, Peterborough winning by only three shots.

Four rinks from Lindsay played here and four from the city played in Lindsay. The games here were all close except Messrs. Ray and O'Connor which was 22 to 16. Messrs. Connal and Little played a tie game 16 each. This was a hard battle every end and Little had a lot of luck with him too. In one end Peterborough lay five shots when Mr. Little played his last stone and by a streak of pure luck wiggled between two stones and went on in to the tee for shot. Both Skips put up a great contest.

AT LINDSAY.

The four rinks left here yesterday morning for Lindsay and in the afternoon met their old rivals on their own ice. The ice was not in the best of shape, being uneven in some places and this was a decided disadvantage to the visitors. However the Lindsay rinks were only one up on the total.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchia-Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

Catarrh

THE MOTHER OF CONSUMPTION.

How this dread disease may be prevented and cured—the opinions of people who have been cured by

CATARRHOZONE.

Catarrh is very often spoken of as the mother of consumption, because when unchecked it extends from its place of beginning to the bronchial tubes then deeper and deeper, till finally the disease becomes consumption of the lungs.

The safest and best remedy for any form of Catarrh is Catarrhozone. It is inhaled to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the disease, and drives it completely out of the system.

Mrs. Mary J. Whitney, of Clay street, Topeka, Kansas, was cured of Nasal Catarrh after twenty years' suffering by Catarrhozone. She says;

"I owe to Catarrhozone an immense debt of gratitude. It cured me of Catarrh of the most disagreeable kind after doctors without number had pronounced my case incurable. My breath is pure and my respiration regular, and I do not cough any more since using Catarrhozone. It has cured me perfectly."

Another case of Chronic Catarrh that was cured quickly by Catarrhozone is that of Mr. G. I. Luce, of [illegible] Avenue, Mr. Luce says;

"I tried for four years to get rid of Nasal Catarrh, used salt douches, atomizers, tablets, stomach medicines, etc., but they didn't do much good.

"Then I tried Catarrhozone, and received relief in a few hours. It cured in a week, so that I never had a recurrence of my former trouble."

Miss Winer, who resides on May street in Hartford, Conn., was cured of throat trouble by Catarrhozone, and speaks of her recovery in the following words;—

"Repeated colds finally resulted in a Catarrhal condition from which I suffered more or less every spring and fall. Catarrhozone was the only remedy that relieved and cured me. I recommended it."

No treatment is so good for Catarrhal affections and Bronchitis as Catarrhozone. Its success is quite unequalled in the history of medicine. It will cure you quickly and surely, and is well worth a trial. Two months' treatment guaranteed to cure, price $1.00; small size 50c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it today.

BURDENS OF ARMAMENTS

We are inclined to think that at no previous period during several centuries, when the leading nations of the world were at peace, was such activity displayed in increasing their armaments and taking steps to be prepared to repel successfully any attack made upon them, as we see in many countries at the present time. Even among peoples which in the past have made little or no effort to maintain large naval or military forces, we see a disposition to follow the example set them by other nations and to devote large sums to the creation of formidable fleets or the erection of fortifications along their shores. We have had a somewhat striking proof of this change in public sentiment in the United States during the last few years, which, from having only a few war vessels, and those of an antiquated character, has now taken its place as the second or third greatest naval Power in the world. While Mr. Roosevelt must be regarded as the most important factor in bringing about this change in the national policy he could scarcely have succeeded in his efforts had not public opinion throughout the country been tending in that direction and prepared to support what is nothing less than a great departure from the former national policy.

In the United Kingdom—and to some extent throughout the British Empire—a similar opinion seems to prevail that the safety and security of the country depend on a larger army and a more powerful fleet than it has at the present time. The activity and persistency displayed by the German Government in the creation of a navy, powerful beyond what the circumstances seem to require for the defence of the country's coasts or commerce, are undoubtedly the cause of the uneasiness felt in Great Britain as to the security to the country against invasion. The Hague conferences have been fruitless of results as regards checking the international rivalry in armaments, as was almost to be expected, since the question touches national interests and aspirations at so many points that neither statesmen nor people are likely to place them in the hands of outsiders, however impartial they may be assumed to be. But it seems as though the rivalry must sooner or later come to an end through the inability of the nations to bear the constantly increasing burdens that it imposes upon them and which makes an armed peace almost worse than actual war with all the uncertainties and possibilities of disaster that may ensue. But the remedy for the evil is not apparent in the present mood of both the rulers and their peoples.

Partial to serpents.

Sir Edward and Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson, who are on a round of visits to friends in America, are fond of unconventionality. Their marriage, five years ago, was a romantic one. The banns were published in the quaint little town of Tain, in Ross-shire, and the world at large knew nothing of the event until after the nuptial knot had been tied. A few guests were invited by telegraph, and the instruction to the clergyman was so delayed that in the end some difficulty was experienced in getting one to officiate. To crown the unconventional procedure the bagpipe took the place of the organ, and played the bridal pair in and out of church. Sir Edward derives his title from Nova Scotia, and is the fifteenth holder. The family motto is "Honor gained by valor." At one time Lady Constance was partial to snakes and other denizens of the creepy world. She used to carry a pet serpent twined round her wrist or nestled in the bosom of her dress. Not so very long ago she showed her prowess in the United States as a huntress of big game. Among the wild hogs of Texas she had a startling adventure. She started in pursuit of her first animal—a kind which has been known to kill or maim every one of a pack of dogs within a few minutes—and when near enough drew a revolver and fired. The shot struck the animal, but did not disable it. It turned with an angry roar on its fair pursuer. Lady Constance leaped from her horse, and running towards the maddened beast, met the attack half-way. When the animal was within springing distance she fired again, and with a great shudder, it rolled over dead.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful. Sold by all [illegible]

By-law No...

A BY-LAW to authorize the borrowing of the sum of $15,000 to pay the cost of developing power at the Waterworks Dam.

Passed the day of 1909.

WHEREAS the Corporation of the City of Peterborough is the owner of a water power and dam and the land connected therewith, which was acquired and is used for the purpose of supplying the City of Peterborough with water for all purposes and it is intended to substitute for the present dam, a new concrete dam in the same locality, for the more effective control of the waters of the River Otonabee, from which the water supply of the city is derived, and it has been ascertained that the water power to be developed at the said new dam will be more than sufficient for the purposes of the Peterborough Water Commissioners and it is desirable to provide for the use of such additional water power to generate electrical power or energy for transmission to the City of Peterborough and for this purpose, at the same time as the said new dam is being constructed, to put in the foundations for and construct the power house, forebay, wheel pits, tail races and other works necessary for the development and use of such additional water power.

AND WHEREAS it has been estimated that the cost of said works will be the sum of $15,000 and it is desirable to pass this bylaw, to be submitted to the votes of the duly qualified electors, to authorize the borrowing of the said sum for the purposes aforesaid, which sum of $15,000 is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this bylaw.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $15,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll being the roll prepared in the year 1908 for the year 1909 is the sum of $8,426,778 and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates but including the debt of $312,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks is the sum of $870,331 98 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $637.50 to be raised annually for a period of twenty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this Bylaw to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $530.42 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at the maturity thereof—such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $1,167 92 to be raised annually as aforesaid by special rate on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS;—

1. This Bylaw shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the said City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $15,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough, and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust and to be made payable within twenty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough.

3. There shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the Municipality, the sum of $637 50 for payment of the interest on the said debt and the sum of $530.42 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof, making together the sum of $1,167.92 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

4. The proceeds of the said debentures when sold shall be applied for the purposes above mentioned.

5. For the purpose of taking the votes of the duly qualified electors on this Bylaw the following adjoining Polling Subdivisions shall be united, namely;—Polling Subdivisions Numbers 1 and 2; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 4, 5 and 6; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 7 and 8; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 10 and 11 and Polling Subdivisions Numbers 13 and 14.

6. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough qualified to vote upon Bylaws for creating debts shall be taken upon this Bylaw on the 30th day of March, 1909, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the forenoon and closing at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at the following places and before the following Deputy Returning Officers, with the following Poll Clerks, that is to say:—

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 1 and 2—Place, B. McGill's grocery, Cor. Aylmer and Lake streets. Deputy Returning Officer, Josiah Robertson. Poll Clerk, W. Van Every.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NO. 3—Place, L. Spry's, 210 Stewart street. Deputy Returning Officer, F. J. A. Hall. Poll Clerk, John Comstock.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 4, 5 and 6—Place, The City Council Chambers. Deputy Returning Officer, Angus McIntosh. Poll Clerk, J. P. Bryson.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 7 and 8—Place, A. J. Warne's, 358 Charlotte street. Deputy Returning Officer, J. M. Greene. Poll Clerk, Henry Greene.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NO. 9—Place, N. Routley's, 392 Brock street. Deputy Returning Officer, John Sawers. Poll Clerk, N. Routley.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NO. 12—Place, Mrs. Wm. Lee's shop, Smith street. Deputy Returning Officer, T. W. Robinson. Poll Clerk, D. Kennedy.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 13 and 14—Place, the former Village Hall. Deputy Returning Officer, Robert Ramilton. Poll Clerk, James MacDonald.

7. The 31st day of March, 1909 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where, the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the Bylaw.

8. The 29th day of March, 1909, at the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the bylaw respectively.

Mayor.

Clerk.

NOTICE.

TAKE notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed Bylaw which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication thereof in The Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the fourth day of March, 1909, and that at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

WONDERS OF ALLOYS.

Modern Discoveries Have Revolutionized Metals.

Some of the most remarkable advances of recent science have been in connection with the production of new alloys of well-known metals by which new metals have been produced possessing extraordinary qualities.

For instance, it is commonly considered that magnetism is confined to iron—and to nickel in a lesser degree. Some wonderful alloys, however, have been manufactured which are magnetic and contain neither of these metals. It has been discovered that magnetic substances may be formed by the combination of metals which themselves are entirely free from magnetism: for instance, an alloy of copper, manganese and aluminium in certain proportions is readily attracted by a magnet.

When to this alloy a little lead is added a most remarkable substance is produced. The new alloy is magnetic when placed in cold water, but so soon as the water is heated the magnetism begins to disappear, although it reappears as soon as the water cools. That is to say, between 60 degrees and 70 degrees C. all traces of magnetism disappear.

Some wonderful alloys have been discovered by a Sheffield steel-master in connection with magnetic bodies. This experimenter has produced an alloy which is far more permeable by magnetism than any other substance, with the result that much energy is saved in case of dynamos and other electric apparatus.

The discovery of these remarkable new metals has given rise to the hope that some experimenter will discover a metal which is more strongly susceptible to magnetism than iron, in which case an enormous benefit will be conferred upon electrical engineers.

In the same way, by the mere trifling admixture of various substances, metals can be produced with increased capabilities to resist high temperatures, abrasion and friction, and which possess increased strength, elasticity and hardness. In short, the most wonderful properties are conferred upon metals as the result of alloying.

To take the case of steel, for example. When a small proportion of manganese is added, the steel which results is so remarkably brittle that it may be powdered with the greatest of ease. By the addition of a larger quantity of manganese quite opposite properties are given. The strength of the steel becomes increased to such a vast extent that its capacity to resist abrasion is increased four-fold. This wonderful steel is so extremely hard that it is impossible to work it with ordinary tools and machinery. In fact, there is no metal known on which it is more difficult to make an impression.

In a similar way, if a small quantity of nickel is added to steel its tensile strength is increased four-fold, this alloy having a strength which cannot even be approached by any other metal, and so it is of great utility in building bridges, and what not. By adding another portion of nickel a steel is produced which will not corrode, while by adding still another portion the resultant steel will neither expand nor contract under the influence of varying temperatures.

Men and Houses.

In all our modern industrial development there is the note of a dehumanized monstrosity. Our millionaires and our mendicants are like the stunted dwarfs and toppling giants in a fair. We are a museum of freaks with no spectators, and this unnatural spirit breaks out even in our architecture. Our houses are either giant houses like the flats of New York or dwarf houses like the villas of Brixton. That there is a normal human size for a family house has been entirely forgotten. But these little houses beyond Clapham common carried yet a step farther the parallel of Barnum freaks, for they were semidetached villas. They were built in the revolting image of the Siamese twins.

The man who lived in such a modern house, or, rather, half house, was not isolated, like a brave man, in his family fortress, nor was he welded into a manly and military community like a man in a monastery or a barracks. He was linked by a link of brick as loathsome as the Siamese link of flesh to one other accidental man, generally to a man whom he disliked.—G. K. Chesterton in London News.

The Name Was There.

In a college talk the speaker, apropos of "graft," told a story about a swindling tramp.

"This tramp," said he, "had the alert, unscrupulous, bold mind that makes 'grafting' successful.

"He was walking in Chicago one day when he saw a little boy stoop and pick up something.

"'You have made a find, my lad,' he said.

"'Yes, sir,' said the innocent boy. 'I have found a silver ring.'

"'I thought so,' said the tramp. 'It's the one I just dropped. Now, ain't it lucky I had my name cut in it?'

"'What's you name?' said the boy suspiciously.

"'Sterling, lad.'

"'Take it, then. It's yours,' said the boy, handing over the ring, with a disappointed air."

Hob and Nob.

The phrase "hob and nob" and the custom it indicates originated in Elizabethan days thus: With great chimneys were in fashion there was at each corner of the hearth or grate a small elevated projection called the hob and behind it a seat. In winter time the beer was placed on the hob to warm, and the cold beer was set on a small table, said to have been called the nob, so that the question "Will you hob or nob?" seems only to have meant, "Will you have warm or cold beer?"—i.e., beer from the hob or beer from the nob.

A Church Record.

Members of the family of Rev. Canon William Riland-Bedford, who has just resigned the living of Sutton Coldfield, Warwickshire, have held the incumbency during the past twenty years.

Fortify now against the Grip—if it comes every season sure! Preventics—the little Candy Cold Cure Tablets—offer in this respect a most certain and dependable safeguard. "Preventics, at the "sneeze stage" will, as well, also surely head off all common colds. But promptness is all-important. Keep Preventics in the pocket or purse, for instant use. Box of 48 for 25c. AN ARAB SURGEON.

His Own Story of a Wonderful Operation He Performed.

Mr. Walter B. Harris in his account of a journey to Tafilet tells the story of a wonderful operation in surgery as it was reported to him by a native doctor who was traveling in his company:

"I think the old man fancied that I doubted his skill. At least, he was always holding forth upon the subject and continually repeating the story that when in Algeria he had been offered a fabulous salary—the sum varied each time the tale was told—to remain in charge of the military hospital at Algiers, an honor which he had declined.

"He never tired of narrating the facts and details of his most successful operation. There is a sect in Morocco called Hamiacha, who are followers of a certain saint buried near Mekinez. These devotees amuse their audience—and themselves, too, let us hope—by throwing into the air heavy cannon balls, which they allow to fall upon their shaven crowns. On the occasion in question a Hamdushi had unfortunately been wanting in religious power, for the cannon ball crushed his skull.

"My old shereef friend had been called to the rescue. According to his account, he removed the broken patch of skull, replacing it with the rind of a green pumpkin, and closed the skin over it. In a month's time, he said, the patient was not only convalescent, but was once more hard at work practicing his religio-acrobatic feats, with not only a remodeled and renovated skull, but even a new crop of hair."

THE SILVER FOX.

He Is a Glorified Freak of the Red Fox Breed.

Only those wise in the woodlore of the north can fully know the magic in the name silver fox. The silver fox is not of different kind, but a glorified freak of the red race. His parents may have been the commonest kind of red foxes, yet nature in extravagant mood may have showered all her gifts on this favored one of the offspring and not only clad him in a marvelous coat, but gifted him with speed and wind and brains above his kind to guard his perilous wealth. And need he has of all such power, for this exquisite robe is so mellow rich, so wonderful in style, with its gloss black and delicate frosting, that it is the most desirable, the most precious of all furs, worth many times its weight in gold, the noblest peltry known to man. It is the proper robe of kings, the appanage of great imperial thrones today, as was the tyrian purple in the days of Rome. This is indeed the hunter's highest prize, but so guarded by the cunning brain and the wind and limb of the beast himself that it is through rare good luck more than hunter skill that a few of these fur jewels are taken each year in the woods.

There are degrees of rank among these patricians. They range in quality even as diamonds range, and the hunters have a jargon of their own to express all shades between the cross and the finest silver black.—Ernest Thompson Seton in Century Magazine.

Influence of Food.

"What do you think of the theory that food has a potent influence in determining character?" asked Mr. Smithfield as he put three lumps of sugar in his coffee.

"I guess it's all right," replied Mr. Wood as he severed a portion of his beefsteak. "It always seems a little cannibalistic to me when you order lobster."

"Well," retorted Mr. Smithfield good humoredly, "I ought to have known it was dangerous to lend you money after I discovered your fondness for beets. But, seriously, if there were anything in the theory, wouldn't it make a man sheepish to eat mutton?"

"It would, and prize fighters ought to restrict themselves to a diet of scraps."

All in the Mind.

On the opening day of one winter session the late Professor Tait of Edinburgh university entered the natural philosophy class room in the midst of the uproarious applause common to those occasions.

Presently he looked up at the tumultuous benches above him with the smile of one who had known the ways of students for a lifetime. At last, when a momentary lull came, he remarked, his gray eyes twinkling:

"Gentlemen, I must remind you that there is really no such thing as noise. It is merely a matter of subjective impression."

No Flies on Him.

Two Irishmen, just landed, stopped at a private boarding house on one hot July night. Retiring early, they left the window open and the light burning brightly. The mosquitoes swarmed into the room and began biting.

Mike, awakening, called to Pat to put out the light. Pat got up and put it out and crawled back to bed again.

Pat awoke about an hour later and found the room full of fireflies and said: "It's no use, Mike. They are coming in with lanterns!"

Pleasure Trips.

"Going to the north pole is no pleasure trip," said the sympathetic friend.

"Well," answered the arctic explorer "it reminds me somewhat of the average pleasure trip. Everybody is so anxious to start and so glad to get home."

They never taste who always drink. They always talk who never think.—Prior.

Direct to Western Canada

The Canadian Pacific "Winnipeg Express," leaving Toronto at 10.15 p.m. daily, carries through standard and tourist sleeping cars for Winnipeg, the Northwest and Pacific Coast. This is the only direct, through-car service to Western Canada, trains run the entire distance through Canadian territory, and the time made is considerably faster than by any other route.

"For three weeks I actually had to be fed like one feeds a baby, because my hands and arms were so covered with eczema that they had to be bound up all the time."

That is the experience of Miss Violet M. McSorley, of 75, Gore Street, Sault Ste. Marie. She adds: "I could not hold spoon nor fork. From finger tips to elbows the dreaded disease spread, my finger nails came off and my flesh was one raw mass. The itching and the pain were almost excruciating. I had three months of this torture and at one time amputation was discussed."

"Zam-Buk alone saved my hands and arms. I persevered with it and in the end had my reward. To-day, I am cured completely of every trace of the dreaded eczema, and I fervently hope that sufferers from skin disease may know of my case and the miracle Zam-Buk has worked."

Zam-Buk is without equal for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, cracked hands, cold sores, chapped places, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for same price. You are warned against dangerous substitutes sometimes offered as "just as good."

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore.—that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droops.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot, at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints lack of spetite, and loss of sleep. Touch the cause. Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 25c. at all dealers.

Trolley Wheels Burned Through

"That's the fourth wheel that I have put on this morning," remarked Mr. Jack Blackburn as he climed down from the top of a street car after renewing the trolley wheel. The one he had taken off the trolley pole was cut in two at right angles to its face, having been burned by the arc that trailed behind it as it ran along the wire. This arc or flame was noticed at times to be almost a yard long and the heat generated was sufficient to burn the wheel as cleanly as if it had been cut with a knife. The water and ice on the wire caused the trouble.

Live Wire Caused Small Blaze

The fire brigade received a call yesterday afternoon over the telephone to a fire that was started by a primary wire of the Peterborough Light and Power Company having fallen to the ground at the back of the Crown Hotel. The firemen were on the scene in a very few minutes, and cut the wire that had grounded at the foot of the pole, but in so doing the end wire flew onto the transformer making a short circuit, burning the transformer out. A large crowd had gathered and when the transformer sent a blaze high in the air they thought that a comet had come to see them "duck" their heads.

Deputation to Ontario Government

The deputation from Peterborough County which went to Toronto yesterday, was composed of the whole County Council, Warden Scott, County Treasurer Elliott, County Solicitor Peck, representatives from Norwood, Harvey, Bobcaygeon and North Monaghan. They left Peterborough on the eight o'clock C.P.R. train and had a special car at their disposal. Directly upon arrival at the Don station a street car was taken to the parliament buildings, and the business transacted.

Mr. Thompson, M.P.P., for East Peterborough, met the delegates at the Don and directed them to the Queen's Park, where they were joined by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P. for West Peterborough, Mr. Fox, M.P.P. for Victoria, and Mr. Carnegie, M.P.P. for East Northumberland. They were very warmly received and well looked after.

In addition to the two main questions, viz., Norwood's Agricultural claim, and the Ball Lake Narrows bridge, there were two or three minor matters to be brought before the attention to the legislature and these were looked after by small deputations which necessitated some of the members remaining in Toronto over night. The majority however returned on the C.P.R. local.

To give some idea of what deputation day means to the cabinet ministers it might be stated that 45 delegations were at the parliament buildings yesterday and the ministers were kept on the jump all the time.

The Peterborough people who went to Toronto are deeply grateful to Warden Robt. Scott for the very cordial way in whic hhe treated them. Besides the trip being a financial success to the county it was greatly enjoyed by all who were privileged to go.

MATTHEWS—BUCK.

At the George street Methodist parsonage yesterday morning the marriage took place of William Matthews of Asphodel and Hanna Eliza Buck, of the same township. Rev. E. A. Pearson officiated. The ceremony was quietly observed, the contracting parties being unattended.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two fundamentals must be established. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure for the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, for the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical muscular relaxing suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes pain and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, supplies nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, brings the blood renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

"True Irish Hearts"

"You have a very pretty show there George, and I very much regret that I will not be able to see the production on the 17th of March." Mr. E. C. Fitzgerald, who has been signed by Burton Nixon Co., to appear next season in "Mollie Bawn," in bidding farewell to Mr. George Lynch was heard by a reporter to make the above reference to "True Irish Hearts," that will be presented on March 17th, by the dramatic section of St. Peter's T.A.S. Mr. Fitzgerald while in the city several days was present at the rehearsals of the play lending his assistance in parts and helping Mr. Lynch who will play the leading role. The piece will delight the public according to those who have seen it and the musical numbers are very appropriate and will appeal to every ear in the house.

The parts are taken by experienced amateurs and a very pleasing and effective role is that played by a little boy. There are many surprises in the production. There are no multiplicity of scenes. The curtain goes down only on the close of the acts. Mr. Lynch having devoted his best efforts to make the piece smooth running, and well connected. The bills are out announcing the play and another success is at this early date practically assured. A word of caution is given to those intending to purchase seats and that is that as the early bird catches the worm, so the early applicants get the best seats.

Rev. J. Bedford and Mrs. and Miss Bedford of Lakefield, are taking a holiday at Barrie and other points.

ENCOUNTERS WITH CABBIES.

Stories of Famous Men Who Have Had the Worst of It.

Mr. George Alexander, the English actor, tells an amusing story against hurry to get home after the performance, he called a taxicab, to the prejudice of the hansom that stood first on the rank. Cabby, however, was not to be overlooked without protest. "So, Mr. G. A.," he cried, "you've no use for 'oases now; but you'll 'ave to 'ave one to take you on the day you're buried."

The late Lord Brampton's habit of wearing his hair close-cropped was, on more than one occasion, the cause of laughable mistakes. On his alighting one day from a cab and handing the driver but sixpence over his legal fare Jehu, after regarding him for a moment with a withering look, exclaimed: "From the cut of your 'air I took you for a sportaman, guv'nor; but 'anged if I don't think you're a bloomin' fiddler just out of quod."

Sir Henry Irving's castigation at the tongue of a witty cabman was often related by the actor himself. One evening, during the run of "The Merchant of Venice," he arrived late at the Lyceum, and in the thoughtlessness of hurry handed the driver a shilling instead of the legal fare of eightcenpence. Cabby regarded the coin disdainfully, and, with bitter sarcasm, remarked, "If yer plays the Jew inside that theayter as well as yer does outside, darned if I won't spend this bob in coming to see yer." So delighted was the actor at the man's wit that he handed him half a sovereign.

Equally felicitous was the humor of the cabman when told by Lord Chief Justice Coleridge to drive him to the Courts of Justice. He received the direction with a look of blank bewilderment, and stared at his fare as though he thought he was of weak intellect. "Don't you know the Courts of Justice?" demanded Lord Coleridge. The other shook his head. "Not the Courts of Justice?" cried the judge—"you a cabman, and don't know the Law Courts!" "Law Courts!" cried cabby, "of course, I do; but you said Courts of Justice. Heaven only knows where they are!"

Cabby, however, met his match when he drove Dr. Temple, then Bishop of London, to his palace at Fulham, and, on receipt of 1s. 6d., grumbled against the prelate for his niggardliness, and expressed regret that he did not follow closer in the steps of the patron saint of his cathedral, St. Paul, who was a just man. "And therefore," retorted Dr. Temple, drily, "would have given you your legal fare—a shilling."

"The Adonis of the House."

The description was once applied to Mr. George Wyndham, who has been paying a visit to Edinburgh University, of which he is Lord Rector, on account of nature's generosity in endowing him with attractive wavy hair, a beautiful black moustache, and a figure six feet in height, proportioned to a nicety. Nature also endowed him with one of the cleverest minds amongst clever men of today. He first distinguished himself as a soldier, then as a litterateur, and latterly as a politican. "Fortune's most fastidious darling," is another nickname which has been bestowed upon him, and when he was quite a small child, so the story goes, he was so learned that all conversation at his father's table would be silenced by the announcement, "Hush, George is going to say something about Shakespeare."

VARICOCELE CURED

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope, but I feared it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got Their New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $30 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers know of your valuable treatment. HENRY C. LOCUST.

HABIT'S CHAIN

Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed and Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimates that the amount of will power necessary to break a life-long habit would, if it could be transformed, lift a weight of many tons.

It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chains of a pernicious habit than to lead a forlorn hope in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:

"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was out of my teens I was a miserable dyspeptic, suffering terribly at times with my stomach.

"I was convinced that it was coffee that was causing the trouble and yet I could not deny myself a cup for breakfast. At the age of 36 I was in very poor health, indeed. My sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard.

"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast, although it kept me constantly ill, until I tried Postum. I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast, and care nothing at all for coffee.

"I am no longer troubled with dyspepsia, do not have spells of suffering with my stomach that used to trouble me so when I drank coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Reception Committee of City will Help to Entertain Pressmen

Upon the invitation of the Legal and Reception Committee the publishers of the local press attended a meeting of the committee last night. The committee was anxious to learn more about the coming visit of the Canadian Press Association on Saturday, March 20th. The aldermen realized the value of the visit of the newspaper men of Canada and they desire to show the city to them to the best possible advantage, and so give the scribes as good a time as possible.

The publishers briefly outlined the probable program of the association. It is intended that the pressmen will leave Toronto in the morning by special train and arrive here about 10.30 or 11 o'clock. Visits will be made to the C.G.E., the Cordage Works, and the Quaker Oats Co., and other leading industries. The Peterborough Radial Railway will supply cars to take the visitors around the city and then the lift lock will be visited, as that is one of the chief attractions.

The Legal and Reception Committee discussed the matter and upon a motion decided to recommend to the council that the city assist in the entertainment and reception of the newspaper men of Canada to the extent of $100.

The publishers also extended an invitation to the mayor and aldermen to accompany the city's guests on Saturday afternoon, and to take the lady members of their families with them, so that the visit will be made as pleasant and interesting as possible. The visiting pressmen will also be accompanied by their lady friends.

Craig and Chapman to be Tried at the General Sessions of the Peace

Preliminary Hearing of Three Ex-Firemen Charged with Assaulting the Deputy Fire Chief Held by Magistrate Dumble—Hawes Acquitted

Another chapter of the case of assault upon Deputy Chief Grange by three ex-firemen on February 27, was closed yesterday afternoon in the police court when Magistrate Dumble committed Craig and Chapman for trial at the general sessions of the peace, which are held on Tuesday, June 8th. Hawes, the third man connected with the trouble was allowed to go as there was no evidence to connect him with the assault. The other two men are out on bail, Craig on $1000 and Chapman on $500.

The preliminary hearing of the three ex-firemen charged with assaulting Deputy Fire Chief Grange took place before Magistrate Dumble yesterday. The deputy chief has so far recovered as to be able to attend court and give evidence against the three prisoners. Grang was viciously attacked and severely pounded and according to the evidence of one witness, was kicked at least a couple of times by Craig. At any rate the beating Grange got was sufficient to confine him to his bed for a week under the doctor's care.

All the evidence went to show that Craig was the main offender. It was he who struck the first blow which knocked Grange down and it was he who one witness said kicked him a couple of times. Chapman was there more for the purpose of preventing interference and this did when Fireman Hetherington undertook to part the two men. It was also stated by one witness that Chapman struck Grange.

The prisoners were not put in the witness box. The evidence against Hawes was that he called Grange a sneak and a cur and also a ——— Mar. He did not take any part in the assault as he was aware of the legal consequences.

The hearing adjourned at 1.30 until three o'clock, and when opened the evidence of Clifford Howard and Mr. Dela Fosse was also taken, also Fireman Brumwell. The first two stated that Craig kicked Grange a couple of times when he was down. Dela Fosse also swore that when Champman came into the fire hall he took off his coat, intimating to be prepared for what was about to happen.

The magistrate considered that there was sufficient evidence and he committed Craig and Chapman to the General Sessions of the Peace, and allowed them out on the same bail, $1,000 and $500 respectively. They have of course the right to surrender themselves to the custody of the court and be tried by Judge Weller at any time. Hawes was allowed to go.

Power for Peterboro'

The following telegram has been received by the president of the Board of Trade;—

Toronto, March 9th, 1909.

We prefer to sell Burleigh Power to Peterborough, if fair and prompt deal can be made. Two offers pending to use power outside. Peterborough's future depends upon large immediate supply of cheap power not small temporary supply from nearer sources at higher cost. Unbiased engineers' reports will demonstrate costs.

Incorrect published statements by past council and power companies as to quantity of Peterborough's available power prevented financing Burleigh's development and misled the ratepayers.

We expended immense sums advertising Peterborough and shareholders expect return.

Engineers' reports demonstrate Burleigh now entitled to twenty-seven feet head and reservoir will give fifty per cent. additional power during working hours and prevent frazile ice and give cheapest delivered power. Waterflow same as Peterborough.

Let ratepayers and not selfish interests now decide industrial future of Greater Peterborough.

The Legal Committee Dealt with Claims

A letter was received from Messrs O'Connell & Gordon on behalf of Dr. Galvin, owner of the property at the north-east corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets, claiming damages caused by the recent thaw and the flooding of surface water into his cellar, etc.

Several other claims for small damages were also read and they were all referred to the city solicitor to report on.

Mr. Johnston Greer's claim for damages caused by him falling on the sidewalk near the Auburn dam and fracturing his arm. The walk is alleged to have been out of repair. City Engineer Hay reported on this matter, stating that ice had been formed on the walk at the entrance to the gravel pit.

Mr. R. Elwood on behalf of Mr. Greer, wrote asking that he reimbursed for his time and doctor bill. He was laid off for a month, $65, and $25 doctor bill or a total of $90. This was referred to the city solicitor.

W. G. Metheral's claim for $50 damages, caused by the building of Aylmer street bridge and blocking the street, was referred to the solicitor.

Street Commissioner H. Evans reported that Mr. Metheral had no claim whatever against the city as his business was in no way interfered with.

Col. J. Z. Rogers is Dead, Cause was Heart Failure

It will be learned with deepest grief that Col. James Zacheus Rogers passed away last night at 11.15 o'clock after having suffered from heart trouble only a little more than an hour. Previous to his very sudden call he had been in the best of health having attended to his business during the day and returned home for supper at the usual time. It was not until about ten o'clock that he felt at all unwell and then without any warning he was seized with a sudden attack of heart trouble. Medical assistance was summoned but the stricken man sank rapidly until death came.

The late Col. J. Z. Rogers was one of the most prominent and best known men in the city and in Peterborough County. He was a son of the late Robert D. Rogers, who was one of the pioneers of Otonabee township.

The deceased was born in Otonabee on August 3rd, 1842, and when a small child he moved to Ashburnham with his parents and has resided there continuously since. His life was one which was identified with everything that pertained to the welfare of the community. He was always ready and willing to assist his fellow man, and through his personal honor and integrity, his generosity and kindness he became the friend of all. He was a stamp of true manhood and his life was one that might well be followed.

When the deceased reached the age of maturity he went into the lumbering business for himself and for many year had a saw mill on the south side of Hunter street, a short distance east of the river. He also conducted a general store. It was about twenty years ago that he began manufacturing canoes from a new model of his own. He erected a factory in Ashburnham which went under the name of the Ontario Canoe Co. Mr Rogers' canoe was placed upon the market and it was soon recognized as a superior article and every year since it has been in great demand, both for pleasure and for transportation purposes and the Peterborough canoe will today be found in all parts of the world. Five years after the factory was built fire broke out and destroyed it, and then Mr. Rogers erected the present factory which has developed into one of the leading industries in the city.

The late Col. Rogers was a soldier from the time he was old enough to join the ranks. He was in his father's company, and in the Fenian Raid of 1866 he saw actual service as a lieutenant. In 1867 he again went to the front, this time as captain. From that time on he took an active interest in military matters, and was advanced in rank until about 1879 when the 57th Regiment was reorganized he was appointed lieutenant-colonel. He was in command of the regiment for 16 years, retiring about 1894. It was to the patriotic exertions and the personal popularity of the Rogers family the various corps of the Peterborough militia are deeply indebted. The late colonel was a descendant of a remarkable race of loyalist soldiers.

The deceased served in the village of Ashburnham council for several years. He was one of the founders of St. Luke's church, and was always one of its most valued and consistent members. He was for many years one of the wardens and took an active part in church affairs until the last. It was only Wednesday night that he attended the special service and took up the offertory. As a churchman and as a citizen the late Col. Rogers will be greatly missed. To his family will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community for by his death Peterborough looses one of its best, oldest and most highly respected citizens.

The deceased is survived by his wife, one son, Claude, and one daughter, Miss Mamie, both living at home. Three brothers and one sister also survive. The brothers are E. R. Rogers of Toronto, inspector of prisons and asylums, H. B. Rogers, Guelph city and Alfred B. Rogers of Calgary. Mrs. Price of Otonabee, is the sister.

The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence, 135 Hunter St. east and interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

Smart is Not Guilty--- Jury Out 30 Minutes

Belleville, March 11.—"Not guilty" was the verdict brought in by the jury, after being out 30 minutes, in the Smart murder trial here last night. Thomas Smart, an Indian, was accused of the murder of James Sero, another Indian. Judge Teetzel was the presiding judge.

Mrs. Catherine Sero, widow of the murdered man, told practically the same story as at the preliminary examination. She said herself, her husband, and her brother-in-law, Joseph Sero, came to Belleville, and started for home about six o'clock that evening. The two men were under the influence of liquor. Her husband drove part of the way, and she drove the other part. Her husband's brother was asleep in the rig. They drove to the kitchen door, and took the parcels in, the prisoner, Tommy Smart, coming to the door.

She went outside and saw the prisoner with a gun in his hands. He was behind a lilac bush. The gun was pointing towards the ground. The prisoner told the witness to keep to the east, as she would soon see a man fall. This remark caused considerable sensation in the courtroom. Continuing, the witness said she then went to the prisoner and asked him who he meant. He said, "Uncle Jim." Her husband was about two feet from the witness when he was shot. She thought her husband was about to take the gun away from the prisoner when he was shot. She was positive the prisoner did the shooting. After being shot, her husband cried out, staggered a few steps, and fell. He died in a short time, having bled to death before the doctor arrived. At the time of the shooting Dorothy was upstairs. She came down after the shooting and came out on the scene, Tommy said he did the shooting, and said he was willing to hang like a man. He said he had no intention of killing his uncle, but only intended to break his legs. "He will not abuse you or Dorothy any more," said the prisoner to the witness after the shooting. Dorothy took the gun away from the prisoner. Her husband had not abused either her or Dorothy that night.

Thomas Smart, the prisoner, gave his evidence. He said on the night of the murder his uncle came home drunk and acted very badly. His grandmother said it looked as if there would be the deuce to pay. The dead man appeared to be veyr aggressive towards him. Witness started for home, and had gone only about 300 yards when he heard cries coming from his sister. He ran home and got his gun, intending to scare his uncle so that he could secure his sister. When he went back the first person he saw was his uncle, the latter being all alone, and if he had wanted to he could have shot Sero then. Witness claimed that he was standing behind the bush when Mrs Sero came and attempted to take the gun away from him, but in the struggle the gun went off by coming in contact with his wooden leg.

Peterborough Curling Club's Big Bonspiel Opens This Evening

For the first time in the history of the Peterborough Curling Club a purely club bonspiel will be held starting with fourteen rinks playing tonight and fourteen on Monday night with the semi-finals Tuesday night and the finals Wednesday night. Altogether there will be thirty-one rinks playing or a hundred and twenty curlers. This is a showing that very few of the smaller cities can equal.

The idea of a local club bonspiel has been talked of for a couple of weeks although it was suggested at the first of the season, but nothing definite was decided upon until Wednesday night. The members got together and arranged the players when it was found necessary to make two draws of fourteen rinks each and still three rinks are left over. S. Ray's rink and Dr. McCullough's rink will play off in the afternoon and Dr. Greer's rink drew the bye.

The first seven games will be played tonight starting at eight o'clock sharp and the draws were as follows;

1ST DRAW—FRIDAY.

W G Ferguson v. H R H Kenner.
S T Medd v. D. Fraser.
W M Lang v. T. Brightman.
A Moore v. W. G. Read.
Fitzgerald v. Matthews.
W E Talbot v. D. Hall.
W J. Thompson v. C. N. Brown.

2ND DRAW—MONDAY.

W. G. Morrow v. Dr. Eastwood.
R. Neill v. J. H. Connal.
J. H. Ferguson v. E. B. Clegg
J. H. Burnham v. Rev. Pearson.
J. S. Knapman v. G. B. Stevenson.
G. L. Hay v. G. H. Giroux.
R Hicks v. D. Davidson.
S. Ray v. Dr. McCullough.
Dr. Greer drew the bye.

A valuable prize will be offered to the winning rink.

Collegiate Institute Seven Defeated O.H.A. Juniors

The Collegiate Institute Hockey team made the O.H.A. juniors look rather sick last night at Brock street rink. These two teams of youngsters went onto the ice full of confidence that they could trim the other fellows. Referee Josh Craig handled the bell and he gave general satisfaction although there was one or two players for the O.H.A. that were inclined to throw some dirt that Josh did not see. The game was fast and a pretty good exhibition of the national winter sport. The Collegiate boys are all comers. They are fast on their skates and they handle their sticks remarkably well while they are not inclined towards rough house tactics, although they have a few little tricks of their own. They put it all over the juniors, and were easily the favorites with the girls, who comprised the greater part of the audience.

The half-time score was 3—2 in favor of the Collegiates, and the full time score 5—2 in their favor. The juniors were unable to break through the defense in the last half.

The line-up was as follows;—

Collegiate.		O.H.A. Juniors
Meldrum	Goal.	Giroux
Dennison	Point.	Wade
Wallace	Cover.	Pentland
Crane	Rover.	Coughlin
Geale	Centre.	Giroux
Forsye	Right.	Ross
Conroy	Left.	Short

Referee—Fred Craig.

CURLING NOTES.

The handsome and valuable silver cup which is annually played for by Peterborough and Lindsay players, and won this week by the local club, is now on exhibition in Mr. W. E. Talbot's window. The silverware is greatly prized, and will be a big addition to the club's collection.

Mr. McIntosh promises to have the ice at the rink in first-class shape for the big bonspeil which opens tonight.

Will Address the Canadian Club

The next meeting and most likely the final one this season of the Canadian Club will be held on Tuesday evening, March 30th, at the Hotel National. It was announced by the president at last Wednesday night's gathering that the speaker on that occasion would be Prof. Adam Shortt of Queen's University. His subject will be "Canada's Foreign Relations."

Prof. Shortt addressed the Peterborough Canadian Club last year, when his remarks were greatly enjoyed, and his visit here again will be looked forward to with great pleasure.

Shocking Accident to Russel Morrison That Resulted in His Death

The residents of South Monaghan were shocked to learn of the tragic death of Russell Morrison, one of the best known young men of the township. The accident which had such disastrous effects happened on Wednesday morning about ten o'clock. The deceased was 28 years of age and resided near Bensfort on the 3rd Concession of South Monaghan. He was married only last New Year's, and with his young wife were just nicely settled in their comfortable new home and began to enjoy the real happiness of life.

The late Mr. Morrison owned and operated a saw mill and was working on the fatal morning sawing wood. The accident was caused by the balance wheel breaking and a piece struck him on the thigh inflicting a very severe and deep wound and bled profusely.

As soon as the accident happened medical assistance was summoned, and Dr. Russell of Bailieboro, and Dr. Montgomery of Millbrook, hastened to the injured man's aid. But, while everything possible was done the flow of blood was so great that the unfortunate young man gradually sank until he passed away about eleven o'clock that night.

The deceased is survived by a heart-broken wife, a father, David Morrison; a mother, one married sister and two brothers at home. He was a member of the Presbyterian church at Sunderland, and his loss will be much felt.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 1.30 and interment will take place in the Presbyterian church at Centerville.

Baum Knows Something But will Not Speak Yet

Portsmouth, Va., March 11.—James Baum, the actor-mechanic, who was on very intimate terms with Miss Florence Kinrade, while she was at the Orpheum theater here, was seen at Scott's undertaking rooms this morning, where he is working as an assistant at present. He enquired if there was any word of the inquest at Hamilton last night.

"If Miss Kinrade is concealing anything I don't believe that it is for the purpose of shielding any man," he said.

"Then why should she conceal anything?" Baum was asked.

"She might be shielding herself."

"Was she ever bothered by anyone when she was down here?"

"I'm not going to say anything about that. If her family know about it there is no need for me to speak. If she has not told anything, and she should be arrested o charged with the thing at Hamilton, I would speak out, and say what I know. I don't really know anything for sure, but there were some things she told me and a number of little things that I know about that might, perhaps, point to something."

"Would whatever this is be concerned with her stay in Portsmouth?"

"Yes."

"Not with her visit to Richmond or Virginia Beach?"

"No."

"Do you think it is possible that she might be shielding herself in regard to some serious matter?"

"I could not say."

"But you said before that she was as good a girl as God ever made?"

"Yes, I know; but there are just these little things that I know about."

"Had the sending of the box of flowers to Miss Kinrade anything to do with what you are thinking about?"

"Yes, that was one of the things."

"But Mrs. Butler, the wife of the manager of the theater, who lived at the same hotel, states that the card inside the box said that the flowers were from an old college friend?"

"I didn't know that; I used to know the name of the man whosent them, but I can't remember it now."

Wm. Hamilton Company Get a Large Contract

There are busy times ahead at the Wm. Hamilton Co's. plant. The company has received notice that they have been awarded the contract of supplying the operation machinery, pivots and anchorages for twenty-four locks on the Trent Canal. The contract was let by tender by the Dominion Government and was awarded to the local firm at $80,000. In addition to this there will be extras that will bring the contract up to $100,000.

Work has already been started on the contract. About seventy men are employed at the works at the present time and this number will be increased to one hundred within the next month.

The contract is for ninety-six sets of machinery of similar design.

Peterborough citizens will be glad to hear that this large contract has come to Peterborough

Asthma Cured

Mrs. Farndel, of Clementsport, N.S., suffered all her life from asthma, but was permanently cured by Catarrhozone after all other means failed.

Mrs. Farndel's recovery affords overwhelming proof of what Catarrhozone will do. Nothing except Catarrhozone was of the slightest benefit, but when given a fair trial it cured.

Now perhaps you need something for your cold, or bronchitis or Asthma? Why not try Catarrhozone? Thousands have been cured by inhaling it a few minutes now and again, and certainly it wouldn't do you any harm to profit by their experience.

Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma, and hopes that many will follow her example and use Catarrhozone.

"I am now in my eightieth year, and cannot recall the time when I was free from the Asthma. I had always a choking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhozone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave relief in five minutes and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhozone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used, I was completely cured. I am as free now from Asthma as if I never had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. I prize my Catarrhozone Inhaler next to life itself."

(Signed) MRS. T. FARNDEL."

This is a proof positive that Catarrhozone is a sure and speedy cure for the worst kind of Asthma. It is guaranteed to give satisfactory results, and your money will be refunded if it fails. All you need is a trial of this grand preparation to be quite satisfied and convinced that it is the best. Your druggist recommends and sells it. Price $1.00, small size 50 cents. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ontario.

MIXED MARRIAGES

President Eliot of Harvard University is quoted as protesting against marriage between French and Jews, Germans and Italians, Irish and English, and against racial unions in general. He does not believe that such mixing of blood produces good results. Yet we have no more polyglot race than the Anglo-Saxon, and it surely has shown itself to be possessed of almost unequalled virility.

AN UNFAIR AMENDMENT

The rider attached to the Waterways Treaty at the instance of Senator Smith of Michigan, constitutes a vital change in the instrument. The treaty as originally drafted provided for absolute equality of right to the use of common waters from one end of the international boundary to the other. Senator Smith's rider, if it be made an integral part of the document, will apparently give to the people of Michigan the use of over half the water at the Sault because more than half of these waters are said to be on their side of the boundary. On precisely the same grounds Ontario would claim the greater part of the waters of Niagara, because much the larger part of the flow passes over the Falls on the Canadian side.

There should either be equal division from end to end, or rights should be apportioned according to the volume at particular points. The Americans cannot in justice claim an equal share in Niagara River without allowing Canada an equal share in the Sault. The Smith rider should be cut off.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S INAUGURAL

President Taft's inaugural address is a clear and frank statement of the policies of the new administration which will satisfy public expectations. The qualifying phrase, "so far as they can be anticipated," implies nothing more than that issues must be met as they rise, and from what is known of the man we may believe that they will be met wisely and resolutely for the honor and good of the nation.

The policies in the main are those that were initiated under Mr. Roosevelt, and the President gives no comfort to persons who are trying to deceive themselves with dreams of a reactionary era. He says: "I should be untrue to myself, to my promises and to the declarations of the party platform on which I was elected if I did not make the maintenance and enforcement of these (the Roosevelt) reforms a most important feature of my administration." This general assertion covers much of what follows in the treatment of particular subjects. There will be progress along the lines that have been indicated during the last seven years. There will be no yielding to those who are continually protesting against the increasing activities of the government. "The scope of a modern government," says the president, "in what it can and ought to accomplish for its people has been widened far beyond the principles laid down by the old laissez faire school of political writers, and this widening has met popular approval."

The thought of impossible economies is thus rejected, but cognisance is taken of the deficit and quick action is desired on the tariff for the relief of business and the readjustment of the revenues. The president's idea is that certain rates may be reduced, and that few, if any, will require advancement. He favor a maximum tariff to be used against countries whose trade policy toward us justifies such discrimination, and suggests an inheritance tax as a means of increasing revenues if the present means are insufficient.

The passage in the address relating to the negro have a special importance and interest. They are sympathetic toward the whites and blacks of the South and are characterized by sound sense and by a patriotism and depth of feeling that must make a most favorable impression upon the country, which cannot fail to applaud both their political wisdom and their broad humanity.

The president refers to the subject of the treaty rights of aliens and urges that by proper legislation we should place in the hands of the federal executive the means of enforcing those rights in the courts of the federal government. There can be no question as to the need of such legislation, and it is to be hoped that the appeal for it will not be ignored. On the subject of the courts and labor injunctions a very firm stand is taken. The secondary boycott is condemned, and, though there is a reference to the remedy proposed in the Republican platform for injunction abuses, the president expresses his strong conviction that injunctions should issue in labor disputes and that the authority of the courts should be upheld.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even or a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful. Sold by all dealers.

Delane's Fastidious Taste.

A characteristic of the famous editor of The London Times was the extraordinary thoroughness of his editorial revision. He watched with the utmost care not merely the substance and the general argument of an article, but every detail of expression. He could correct commas at 3.30 a.m., and would write one of his brilliant notes at that hour to warn a writer against an incorrect expression. I remember his once writing to me at that hour to protest against my using the word "action" to describe an act. "Action," he said, "is properly used only of a military action or an action at law." I think he was wrong, on the authority of the Scriptural expression: "The Lord is a God of knowledge, and by Him actions are weighed"; but the vigilance which could insist on such a point in the heat and haste of editing illustrates the indefatiable conscientiousness of his work. —The Dean of Canterbury in The Cornhill.

Human Salamander.

There has been much excitement at Mangrol, in Kathiwar, where a Mohammedan Punjabi has walked through a burning pit and had coals at white heat thrown on his head without being hurt, apparently. The Punjabi gave his exhibition on the grounds of the Sheik Sahib's palace. A pit was dug under his direction and lined with 300 pounds of firewood. When the whole thing was ablaze the heat was so great that it drove back bystanders, but the "saint" walked down into the pit and walked through it several times. He conducted two of the Sheik Sahib's servants through the "fiery furnace," and they also appeared to be immune to burns or other injuries. It is believed that the villagers in the vicinity of the Mangrol will shortly deify the Punjabi.

Smoking Potato Skins.

At the meeting of the Aylesbury, Eng., Board of Guardians recently a memorial from the workhouse inmates was read. It asked that Irish roll tobacco should be substituted for the usual allowance of shag, "which is of very bady quality, and only lasts till about Tuesday, and we have to make up with potato skins or anything else we can get hold of."

VAGARIES OF VOLCANOES.

Scientists Have a Hard Time Predicting What Will Happen Next.

There is no more contradictory thing in nature than a volcano. Its heat is incalculable, yet ice formed upon it may remain intact, even underneath streams of lava. This has occurred on Aetna, where an ice-sheet formed from melted snow was covered with molten lava without disappearing. The lava congealed, leaving the ice intact beneath it in the shape of a stratified bed, much the same as the extraordinary formation known as "stone ice," which underlies the later rocks of the Lena Peninsula and of the New Siberian Islands.

Something of the same kind exists almost within the crater of Teide, the still-smoking vent from which the last eruption of the Peak of Teneriffe took place. There, within a cavern blown by some outburst of white hot gases, is a pool of water frozen almost solid, with huge icicles pendant from the still warm rocks above. The ice thus created in the very heart of the fiery mountain is a luxury eagerly sought after in the semi-tropical heat of the island. So also are the snows of other volcanic peaks; but these owe their existence—which is seldom constant—to the mountains' height rather than to any freak of subterranean forces.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the volcanic mud baths of the Medocino district of California are not boiling, as one might expect, but icy cold. During the terrible eruption in the North Island of New Zealand, the same peculiarity appeared, hot and cold springs appearing there close together.

The causes of this phenomenon are obscure, which is not now the case with that of the strange, rounded balls, like boys' marbles magnified many times, thrown out by some volcanoes. The Neopolitans call those ejected by Vesuvius "ciottoloni," and where the fashion of their making is not understood, they are still regarded with superstitious reverence. They are, however, simply boulders with which the volcano has been playing, as a stream might play with the pebbles in its bed. Only instead of being water-worn into rounded masses, these boulders, weighing sometimes up to one hundred tons, have been whirled about in maelstroms of liquid lava far beneath the earth's crust. Upon no other hypothesis can they be accounted for.

These balls are accountable for another puzzling volcanic freak. Within the area affected by a great eruption huge pits are sometimes found to have been dug in the form of inverted cones. Many theories have been advanced to account for these, but their secret was finally revealed after the tremendous outburst from Bandaisan. Then in digging below the point of these pits, Japanese scientists discovered "ciottoloni," which had been projected, bomb-like, from the crater to some incalculable height, and in falling had dug out the mysterious holes. Further proof of this theory was found in the fact that some of these balls still bore green fragments of foliage caught in their descent.

Cigars in Glass Boxes.

I don't believe it will be long before the cedar-wood cigar box is a thing of the past, said a London tobacconist, as he pulled the nails out of a box. Several big cigar manufacturing concerns have been experimenting recently with glass jars as a substitute, and they are proving a great success. Of course they are heavier than the wooden box and there is a slight percentage of breakage, but in the end they are cheaper, for the price of the wooden boxes is going up all the time. The package is attractive, and the cigars packed in the jars will not dry out so rapidly.

Fifty cigars are packed in the jars, which have a light, nickeled screw top. The best part of the glass-box idea is that the smokers' wives can put them to good use after the cigars are all gone. They can be used in house for a thousand different things. But a wooden cigar-box isn't much use for anything after it has served its first purpose. You could break, shatter, or do most anything with it, but the scent of the tobacco always clings to it.

Bravery and Cowardice.

Cowardice is often ignorance. Are any men brave, more ready to take their lives in their hands, to reckon death as one of the daily encounters, than the deep sea fishermen? Yet a group of these men brought to London by one of their missionaries have been seen too terrified to cross the street. The police had to stop the traffic to allow them to cross. The cynic, quarrelsome, fearless cockneys who laughed at them—how would they feel in a freezing storm in the North Sea? A spider may terrify the most courageous of women and a V. C. shrink from a cat. Every hero has his weakness, and we may believe every coward has a point where he turns and will fight the world.—London Outlook.

Swiss English.

A Zurich newspaper published the following advertisement in English: "Residing board house among a charming set of mountains. Very becoming for families or singular individuals. Shadowed glades and amiable places for resting for guests of the cure. All facilities for mountainous expeditions. Excellent kitchen, with lager beer running from the tap."

In an English village an official notice reads as follows: "The public are warned against using the well for domestic purposes unless previously boiled."

Crabbed Carlyle.

There is a story of Carlyle in his old age having taken the following farewell in his broadest Scotch of a young friend who had had him in charge for walks and who, while almost always adapting himself to Carlyle's mood, had on a single occasion ventured to disagree with him: "I would have you to know, young man, that you have the capacity of being the greatest bore in Christendom."

No Flies on Him.

Two Irishmen, just landed, stopped at a private boarding house on one hot July night. Retiring early, they left the window open and the light burning brightly. The mosquitoes swarmed into the room and began biting.

Mike, awakening, called to Pat to put out the light. Pat got up and put it out and crawled back to bed again.

Pat awoke about an hour later and found the room full of fireflies and said: "It's no use, Mike. They are coming in with lanterns!"

Pleasure Trips.

"Going to the north pole is no pleasure trip," said the sympathetic friend.

"Well," answered the arctic explorer "it reminds me somewhat of the average pleasure trip. Everybody is so anxious to start and so glad to get home."

They never quite who always drink. They always sink who never think.—Prior.

RECOGNITION BY ODOR.

Each Race and Individual Has a Particular Scent.

Every person exhales a recognizable individual odor, even if we cannot ourselves recognize it, is the contention of a writer in La Chronique Medicale, translated for The Literary Digest. He says:

"It is certain that every individual, in every nation, has his own personal odor, more or less pronounced in different subjects, but always existent. It is marked when two different races come in contact. The negro and the yellow races have for the European quite a characteristic odor, which affects our olfactories more or less disagreeably. The reverse is also true—the white race exhales a perfume that is not at all pleasant to the Asiatic sense of smell. Negroes and Chinese say that the white man has the odor of death—a heavy, flat smell. According to Harve and other anthropologists, negroes have a most marked odor—that of the goat.

Dr. Matignon says that the oriental countries have so characteristic an odor that one of his friends, for several years in the foreign affairs office, asserted that when he was in the minister's private office he could always tell of the arrival of a despatch box from Pekin or Tokio solely by its odor. . . . Besides this racial odor there is an individual odor, scarcely or not at all appreciable in some persons, pronounced in others. No matter how slight it is, a dog will recognize it and follow it."

After describing some of the popular traditions that ascribe to the saints delightful odors such as those of roses or lilies, and to sorcerers diabolic odors of sulphur or of burning flesh, the writer goes on:

"Without dwelling longer on legends, we may assert that red haired persons have especially strong odors.

The personal odor varies in quantity and intensity with the hour of the day, with the moral condition of the subject, with the state of his nervous system, with the thousand and one variable conditions of daily life. Hysterical persons have an odor of violets, and this odor changes if a different modality enters their psychic or physical state.

"Why have certain human beings an agreeable odor? I do not think that physiologists have ever found a plausible reason. It is true that these odors, whether good or bad, are not in most cases well developed, and that consequently they are perceptible to only a small number of persons, but they do exist in every individual; the scent of his master which the dog follows for long distances and over numerous obstacles is a proof of this. If we do not perceive, except under special conditions, the odor exhaled by our own species, we must attribute it to the imperfections of our sense of smell."

"The Dream Food" of the Greeks.

Hashish, that strange drug which has given our language its word "assassin"—a man so frenzied by the drug that he accomplishes murder—is used by the Persian, Turk, and Egyptians in a manner akin to the use of opium by the Chinese. It is the product of a plant grown in large quantities in the Pelopponnesus (Southern Greece), in the district about Tripolitza. The plant grows to a height of about four feet, and its branches are thickly covered with small leaves and studded with tiny seeds.

The entire plant, stalk and branches, is cut within a few inches of the root and laid out in the sun to dry. The branches are then rubbed to separate the seeds, and these in turn are ground into a fine powder, which constitutes the drug. The drug has the power of producing sleep and producing pleasant and fantastic dreams. Continued use of hashish renders its devotees wild and reckless, and results in a complete wreck of their mental and physical constitution.

For this reason the Egyptian Government has prohibited the importation of the drug, and recently entered into a convention with Greece to prevent its exportation from there to Egypt, where the consumers of hashish are very numerous. The drug is practically never used in Greece, but is now exported to various ports in England, Austria, France, and Italy, and from there much, no doubt, ultimately finds its way to Egypt.

Mount Everest.

"Mount Everest" has not been universally accepted as the name of the world's highest mountain. It was bestowed in 1857 by the Royal Geographical Society in honor of Sir Geo. Everest, the surveyor-general, who organized the survey of India upon a scientific basis. The society overruled an objection that the Nepalese already called the mountain Devadhunga (God's Seat) and Bhairava Lamgur (the Terrible pass), it being doubtful whether these names referred to this particular mountain. On the continent of Europe many have persisted in calling it Dawrisankar, a title of the god Shiva the Destroyer and his wife. But this seems to be really another peak, and Col. Waddell has found by much inquiring no native name for Everest but "the White mountain," a vague term, just like the original Mont Blanc of the Alps.

The Armenians.

Armenia is a country of strong contrasts, of opposite extremes of heat and cold, light and shade, drought and moisture, and contains many mysteries awaiting solution. The ethnologist is still in doubt as to what branch of the great European family the Armenian people belong to. The philologist has not yet classified their language. The antiquarian knows next to nothing of their early history.

OUT OF THE PAST.

Memories of Charles Dickens Recalled at Anniversary.

The Dickens Fellowship celebrated the 97th anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens at Essex Hall, in London, a few days ago. Sir John Hare, who presided in the place of Mr. Henry Dickens, K.C., who was absent on account of professional duties, paid an eloquent tribute to "the great master of love and fellowship," and said that the influence of Dickens in the cause of humanity had made hundreds of thousands of the poor and oppressed bless his name. Great soldiers and statesmen died and were forgotten, but Dickens had attained immortality, and his work and teachings would endure. Sir Wm. Treloar made a breezy and characteristic speech. Proclaiming himself as a great lover of Dickens, he said that when he was a young married man 40 years ago he used to read the works of Charles Dickens to his wife, and they have laughed and cried together over those books, over and over again. Often they used to go and hear Dickens read passages from his own books, and they would wait for an hour or more outside the hall in order to get a seat. "My wife," said Sir William Treloar, "used to pass the time by knitting—she used to knit my socks. "I love Dickens all through," said Sir William; "but best of all I love his humor. Bless my soul, Sir John, he could even make fun of a Lord Mayor—and so can I! While I was Lord Mayor I met some of Dickens' characters at the Mansion House. I often met Mr. Stiggins there, and sometimes there was a Pecksniff, and now and again a Chadband. Even Mr. Micawber was to be found—I have done a little bit in that way myself, for a Lord Mayor should have a touch of Micawber and a spice of Mark Tapley." While holding that office he had the pleasure of kissing a little Dickens girl, aged 3, and he had just heard from Mrs. Dickens that when she went home she said, "I have been kissed by the Lord Mayor's Show." That was not surprising. When he first rode in the golden coach he felt uncommonly like the Lord Mayor's Show, especially when he heard the admiring comments of the people. "'E fancies 'isself, don't 'e?" said one lady. It had been pleasant to live in the Mansion House, and to hob-nob with kings and potentates who had been intimate with him. But he had met one or two of them since in Pall Mall, and somehow or other they did not seem to know him.

Sir Wm. Treloar showed that he had read Dickens to some purpose, for he proved himself to have the highest sense of humor—the gift of laughing at oneself. There were several members of the Dickens family present, and Miss Elaine Dickens, a handsome girl with a glint of merriment in her eyes that was perhaps inherited from her illustrious grandfather, played the violin charmingly

Fair Versus Foul.

There is a good football story told of the Lyttelton family, which numbers amongst its members such famous men as the Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, late Secretary for the Colonies, the Rev. and Hon. Edward Lyttelton, headmaster of Eton, and Gen. Sir Neville Lyttelton.

As is well known, the Lytteltons were renowned alike on the cricket and football fields, as well as in the larger world, and in the old days the Lytteltons could put a family eleven into the football field—and a very formidable side, too.

On one occasion, then, these Lytteltons were playing against a team of professionals in the Midlands. The latter, finding themselves outplayed, began to employ very dangerous and foul tactics against the amateurs; but they quickly found their mistake, and the football ground soon resembled a miniature battlefield, the professionals playing the part of the wounded. For the Lytteltons opposed the unfair tactics indulged in by the professionals with some fair and square charging; and, being all "whipcord and steel," they quickly convinced their opponents that football played on strictly fair lines was the healthier pastime, and, indeed, might save doctors' bills.

Emigrating to New Zealand.

New Zealand, for its native people, is all right, but New Zealand for a London working man is—well, rotten. In the first place, an emigrant settling in New Zealand must be fully and decisively prepared to rough it to the last heart-beat, until he gets a footing and a thorough insight into the working laws of this country. If he is not financially "flush," and commences, as soon as he lands, to put on airs and side, and begins that idiotic "haw-hawing," he would have been better at home, because we have enough of that kind of people here already, and a "new chum" with a "Just-out-from-the-Old-Country, don't-cher-know" drawl is truly a pitiable object among the working classes of New Zealand.—New Zealander, in The Captain.

Tolpuddle Martyrs.

It is proposed to commemorate the "Tolpuddle Martyrs," at Tolpuddle, in Dorsetshire, England. The martyrs were transported for seven years in 1834, because they formed a friendly society in order to raise their wages above the local standard rate of 7s. a week. They were released three years later, the conscience of the country having been roused against the twisting of the charge of "mutiny and conspiracy" to fit their crime. Now they are to be commemorated as the first trade union martyrs, and there should be little difficulty in raising $25,000 to establish model cottage homes for aged laborers, a scholarship tenable at Ruskin College, Oxford—both for Tolpuddle people—and a monument in the village itself.

Carving In Coal.

Remarkable carving work in coal is being done by a resident at Newbail, near Burton, England, who says he has discovered a secret process for polishing his productions. At a local bazaar he exhibited a cabinet of coal work containing a model suite of furniture, salt-cellars, pipes, and black rings set with stones.

GROWING EMPIRE.

Cession of Siamese Territory Adds Big Area to Greater Britain.

The negotiations which were commenced in 1907 and suspended last spring, between Great Britain and Siam for the cession to Great Britain of the Siamese States of Kelantan, Tringano, and Kedah, have been resumed, and an agreement on the subject has (Reuter's Agency learns) been practically reached. There is reason to believe that an Anglo-Siamese treaty by which, in return for certain advantages, Siam will renounce her suzerainty over the states in question in favor of Great Britain, is likely to be signed at Bangkok in the immediate future. The immediate effect of the conclusion of such a treaty will be the inclusion in the federated Malay States of an area of about 15,000 miles, or more than half the present area of the federated Malay States. The territory in question contains a large Mahommedan population, amongst whom are a considerable number of British subjects, exceeding that of the federated Malay States themselves.

Mr. E. W. Duff, the managing director of an English company which holds, until 1940, extensive commercial, fiscal, and other rights in Kelantan, states, in regard to the above, that it is incorrect to assume that the cession of territory has been given as a quid pro quo for the relinquishment of British extra territorial rights in Siam proper, although it is quite possible that this question may also form part of the treaty. "It is much more likely," he added, "that advantages of a commercial nature have been granted to Siam in return. The proposed arrangement will strengthen the position of Great Britain in the Malay Peninsula, and will effectually prevent the possibility of the establishment of any important foreign interest which might lead to disputes in dependencies of Siam which are remote from effective control from Bangkok. From a strategic point it is valuable, as the federated Malay States railway system, which extends from Singapore to Penang, can now be extended considerably further northward.

A Famous Hunt.

The 42nd anniversary of that famous fox-hunt known as "the Waterloo run," from the fact that it had its inception at Waterloo Gorse, has just taken place in England. Col. Anstruther-Thomson—who hunted with 101 different packs—was then master of the Pytchley Hounds, and they covered 30 miles in three hours and 45 minutes—the first 21 miles occupied only one hour and 50 minutes—but subsequently a rather long check was experienced. The railway was crossed four times and the canal once, and fox, hounds, and followers negotiated rivers and brooks upon nine occasions, while main and other roads came within the scope of operations at no fewer than 26 different points. The master rode five horses, and for an hour and 45 minutes was alone with the hounds. Those who ran a portion of this remarkable chase included Capt. Clark, who was the only man that rode the same horse through, and Tom Firr, the most scientific huntsman that ever carried a horn. Hounds were stopped owing to darkness, and it was ten at night when they reached home.

The Queen's Technical Schools."

It is not generally known that the Queen conducts a school at Sandringham. After they leave the ordinary school the village girls and boys on the Sandringham estate are received into "The Queen's Technical Schools" and taught an industry which will stand them in good stead during the whole of their lives. The girls are taught needlework, and the boys cabinet making. With the former some very beautiful work is done, in some cases the material used being actually spun and woven in the school. Lace-making, drawn-thread work, and embroidery of all kinds is carried out. The boys produce chairs, tables, trays, bureaus—in fact, almost anything in the furniture way, and the workmanship is really excellent. Many pieces of furniture are made for the King and Queen themselves to give away as presents. Often the King's guests go to see the school, and leave their orders. On the pages of the order book are to be found the signatures of the German Emperor, the late King and Queen of Portugal, the King and Queen of Spain, and the Queen of Norway.—The Country-Home.

Hard on the Bishop.

Of Dr. King, the Bishop of Lincoln, who entered on his eightieth year the other day, many curious stories are told, notwithstanding the placid and uneventful life that he has led. One day, and he tells the tale himself, he was sitting in a chair by the seashore, and on attempting to rise found that his legs were not so young as they were. While he was still struggling to gain an erect position a fisherman's little daughter came along and lent her aid. "Thank you, little girl," said the bishop, when safely on his feet. "Oh, it's nothing," said the girl, in reply; "I've helped father to get up many a time when he hasn't been near so sober as you."

White Strawberries.

A grower, of Berkeley, England, has, after twenty years of experimental work, produced two new strawberries, one of which is quite white. The fruit is studded with fine seeds upon the outside, as are ordinary strawberries. Otherwise it is totally different from them. The plant bears throughout the winter in a congenial climate, similar to that which exists in the south of England, and, when set in frames during the winter, will bear freely till Christmas. The berries are large and of excellent flavor, equalling in these respects the Paxton and Royal Sovereign.

Appetite Gone--- Nerves Badly Run Down

Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—wintry sorely tired her health and vigor. It now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Westmere, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleaning, invigorating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits. They are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to enable renewed activity and strength to every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. OBITUARY.

MRS. JAS. MILLER.

The death occurred Wednesday night at St. Joseph's Hospital, of Mrs. James Miller, at the age of 86 years. Her late husband predeceased her several months ago. One son, Edward Ellemer, is now residing in Oakland, Cal. In religion the deceased was a Methodist. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the residence of Mr. F. W. Miller, Water street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

ELIZA RIGHTMEYER.

The death occurred in the Toronto General Hospital on Tuesday, March 9, of Eliza Rightmyer, wife of Mr. Joseph Rightmyer, formerly of Downer's Corners, and well-known in Peterborough. The deceased was seventy-two years of age, and had lived in Toronto for the past three years moving there from Downer's Corners.

She is survived by her husband and three sons, and two daughters. They are Mr. Stanley Rightmyer, 569 Sherbrooke street, city, Mr. W. C. Rightmyer, Carlevale, Sask., Mr. Harrison Rightmyer, 622 Dufferin St., city, Mrs. John Grose, Bolivar street, city, and Miss Francis L. Rightmyer in Toronto.

THOMAS LARMER

The death occurred Wednesday night, after an illness extending over three years, of Thomas H. Larmer, at his late residence, 558 Water street. The deceased had been a sufferer with rheumatism.

The deceased was forty-five years of age and was born in Cavan, being a son of the late Henry Larmer. He was married twenty-four years ago to his now surviving wife, her maiden name being Lucy Donaldson. He had been a resident of Peterborough for the past seventeen years, during which time he made a large number of friends who will learn with deep regret of his death. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

The late Mr. Larmer was a bookkeeper by profession. During the six years previous to his being compelled to abandon all work, he was the faithful employee of Mr. G. Walter Green. Mr. Green valued his services very highly as a man of sound judgment as well as a careful and conscientious accountant, and he has never forgotten his old employe during his protracted illness.

He leaves a wife, four brothers and three sisters to mourn his loss. The brothers are Messrs. William, Herbert, Percy, and Cecil, of Elk Horn, Man., and the sisters are Mrs. Scott, of Portage Laprairie, Mrs. McFee, of New Liskeard, and Mrs. James Francy of Millbrook.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, 558 Water St., to the Little Lake cemetery.

Wouldn't Go Back

To old Days of Coffee Trouble

Studious, sedentary habits are apt to cause indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous headaches, etc., but often it's the daily use of coffee that is at the bottom of the whole trouble and it is surprising how quickly these troubles disappear when coffee is dropped and well-made Postum is the daily beverage.

A No. Dak minister writes of the relief obtained when he changed from coffee to Postum. He says;

"I began using Postum about a year ago while stopping at the home of friends during the absence of my wife.

"It seemed almost providential for during that time I got rid of coffee and his attendant ills. I used to have bilious attacks about every two weeks that completely used me up for a day or two at a time.

"I did not suspect coffee and was unable to account for the attacks. Since I began Postum I have had but one slight attack and the change to restored health is most acceptable.

"My wife declared on her return that nothing would induce her to give up coffee, but after a few cupsful preparations of Postum, according to directions on pkg., she said it was superior to coffee in flavor, and now we would not change back to coffee.

"We feel we owe a debt of gratitude to Postum which has done so much for all of us—children and older ones."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich., in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

PAIN

Pain in the head—made sorrowful, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pain tablet, which he has called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets. It causes blood pressure to away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful, quick, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressing. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and down it goes red, and swell, and pain you! Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it there always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

BOWLING NOTES

Josh Craig has been doing some great stunts at the P.B.C. alleys this week. He started out with the idea that he might win the box of cigars if he practiced hard enough and long enough. He might at that because yesterday he rolled 212 and 206. If Josh doesn't speak to you on the street now the cause will be understood.

The past week has seen some very classy bowling at the P.B.C. alleys. There have been more 200 scores made than in an previous two weeks here and more than is being made on any one alley in Toronto in a week. The boys are right onto the game now.

It is rumored that a challenge will be issued by local bowlers for a match with the best five-man team that can be picked from the Toronto ten pin fams. It is felt that the Peterborough boys have improved to such an extent that they are justified in sending out the flat. Besides the many 200 scores made previously there were several more added last night by;

Fred Craig—212, 206.
Norman Perry—216.
Hurtubise—204.
G. Ferguson—206.

The Peterborough Bowling Club have secured and are offering for competition a very handsome trophy for the fraternal societies in the city. The different societies have been communicated with a society league is being organized. The trophy is now on exhibition in Macdonald's drug store window.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Book-Made Towns.

The most remarkable example of a book-made town is Biskra, the oasis in the Sahara that Robert Hichens idealized, under the name of Beni Mora, in his novel of "The Garden of Allah." Biskra, quite unknown in the past, is now, thanks to Mr. Hichens, a fashionable winter resort. It is rather odd that all the world should know that Biskra was meant by Beni Mora in "The Garden of Allah." There is a Beni Mora near Biskra—a kind of swamp, with a few clay huts and a palm or two sticking up out of the mud—but Biskra itself is never mentioned in the book.

Biskra is a pleasant enough winter resort. It is by no means, however, the desert paradise described by the novelist.

Ilfracombe, the famous North Devon watering-place, owes its renown to Charles Kingsley, who, in his novel of "Westward Ho!" praised it. Ilfracombe deserved Kingsley's praise. It is really beautiful; it has a superb climate.

Two other Devon water-places, Lynton and Lynmouth, are book-made. Blackmore's novel of "Lorna Doone" first drew the public to them.

Pierre Loti, in "Pecheur d'Islande," describes very beautifully the Breton seaport of Paimpol. Many persons in consequence have visited Paimpol in the hope of passing the summer there. Vain hope. Paimpol, with its muddy, smelly tidal river, is not quite an ideal holiday resort.

In America there are no book-made towns, unless it be Salem, which Nathaniel Hawthorne so vividly described.

First Oranges In Europe.

At a time when tiny orange trees are to be seen as table decorations and oranges innumerable are for sale it is not inappropriate to trace the introduction of the fruit into Europe. According to a Paris contemporary, after its introduction into Europe from China a Carthaginian conceived the idea of grafting the yellow mandarin orange upon the grenadier, with the result that we have the blood orange. Jean de Castro introduced the orange from the West Indies to Portugal, and the first attempt to cultivate it was made by the Constable de Bourbon, but after his revolt Francis I. continued the experiments. At the time Louis XIV. visited Toulon the Chevalier Paul, in compliment of the King, placed some preserved oranges on trees in the orangery. Ladies in the retinue, it is added, were under the impression that these oranges grew sugared.

Cigarettes In the Army.

"The consumption of 40,000 packets of cigarettes a month is no uncommon thing in a regiment, and if the regiment is 1,000 strong the consumption reaches more like 80,000 packets a month," stated Lieut. Allen, of the 2nd Northumberland Fusiliers, in addressing a gathering of Dover Boy Scouts recently.

Beresford's Bulldogs.

The fact that Lord Charles Beresford has just presented bulldog pups to four of the battleships in his command reminds one that bulldog breeding is only one of "Charley" Beresford's hobbies. Carpentering and turning are numbered amongst his land recreations, which also include gardening and horse breaking. He has long been a member of the Society of Ornamental Turners, and at his suburban home on Kingston Hill he has a good workshop.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchia-Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

Tortured by Rheumatism?

Zam-Buk will Give You Ease!

Just at this season when the cold dry winter is giving way to a milder yet more humid season, the germs of rheumatism, sciatica, and allied ailments come upon their victims with renewed force.

As soon as you feel any deep-seated pain in the joints, wrists or elsewhere, place a liberal supply of Zam-Buk on the fingers, or on the palm of the hand, and rub it well into the part affected. The penetrating power of this "embrocation-balm" is exceedingly great, and once having reached the seat of the pain it removes it speedily. It also ends the stiffness which is so unpleasant.

Frequent rubbings of the afflicted parts with Zam-Buk will not only drive out all pain, reduce swelling, etc., but will strengthen the skin and tissues and enable them to resist cold and damp. The following case will show how Zam-Buk brings ease to those tortured by rheumatism.

Mr. P. G. Wells, of 338 Ogden St., Fort William, Ont., says;—"Following my duties in attending to passenger trains I often get wet through with rain and steam (the latter in winter). This with hours of duty in ice houses in summer was no doubt the cause of my contracting rheumatism in both knees, left arm, and shoulder. This got so bad that I could no longer work, and was laid off on three different occasions for several weeks, during which I was under the treatment of my doctor. I seemed to get little if any better, no matter what I tried, and this was my state when Zam-Buk was recommended to me. I laid in a supply, and to my great joy it began to cure me. I rubbed it well in every night, and when a few boxes had been used, found I was free again from the pain and stiffness of rheumatism. I have had no more trouble from the disease and unhesitatingly recommend Zam-Buk to all who suffer from rheumatism, muscular stiffness, etc."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for eczema, ring-worms, ulcers, abscesses, piles, bad leg, suppurating wounds, cuts, burns, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

THE PNEUMONIA SEASON

MORE DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA THAN FROM TUBERCULOSIS.

Pneumonia an Infectious Disease. It Can Be Prevented---A Remarkable Record.

[From the Des Moines Register and Leader.]

"Why has this season of the year become known as the pneumonia season? Why during the closing week of the old year were there more deaths in Chicago and New York from pneumonia than tuberculosis? Why are pneumonia and related bronchial troubles beginning to take the place of tuberculosis as the dread scourge of city life? Simply and solely because we are devoting too much ingenuity and energy to dodging the fresh and invigorating winter air that every twelve months refrigerates our latitude.

It is believed now that pneumonia is an infectious disease, and that in the cities where the death rate is growing so rapidly it is communicated in the heated and crowded cars. A nickel is so small, and the cold air is so chilling, that the American people are forgetting how to walk. The old time red that burned the cheek of childhood does not visit a mature face on an average of once in the twelve months, not even the red of a chilly and pinched nose. We are getting afraid of the climate, and as a result, the climate is taking its revenge.

The more habit of turning up coat collars has killed thousands of people, and the fur boa has a long list to its account, for no part of the human body becomes delicate more quickly because of superfluous covering than the throat. And yet we are multiplying devices for turning up more coat collars. It is not too early to recognize that this is all wrong, that our climate is here to stay, and that if we are going to live in it with comfort we must accommodate ourselves to it. It will pay to keep on good terms with the climate."

A great many have learned that pneumonia may be avoided by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy whenever they have a cold. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for colds and grip during the epidemics of the past few years, we have yet to learn of a single one having had pneumonia, which should certainly convince the most skeptical of the value of that preparation. Its remarkable cures of colds have made it a staple article of trade and commerce throughout the United States and in many foreign countries.

VARICOCELE CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

"I SEE THAT MAN. HE WILL SHOOT ME." Cried Florence Kinrade in a Hysterical Faint when George Tate Blackstock Asked "WHO MURDERED YOUR SISTER?"

Shot Six Times, Said Florence

Mr. Blackstock—"Did you see Florence cross the road? "No."

"When did you see her first?" "When she was at the bottom of the stairs."

"How did she get in?" "I don't know."

"Was the door locked?" "No."

"You heard her before you saw her?" "Yes. I heard her screaming in the back of the house. Then she ran up crying, "Mrs. Hickey, Mrs. Hickey, Mrs. Hickey.' Then she fell."

"Had she fainted?" "No."

"Did she say anything before that?" "Yes, she said; 'Oh, Mrs. Hickey, Ethel is shot. Six times; she's been shot.'"

"Then what did you say?" "I thought the girl was out of her head and I was also greatly startled. Then she repeated.

"'O, believe me. Ethel is shot. Six times he shot her.

To Excavate Under House for Revolver

Hamilton, March 12.—It was learned this afternoon that the police intend to excavate for evidence under the Kinrade residence.

The other day a plumber searched the pipes leading from the bathroom, but could find nothing.

At the same time he expressed the opinion that if a revolver had been dropped into the drain it might have been washed down to the drain underneath the house. This morning the police called in a representative of a firm of contractors here and asked him if he would undertake the work. He declined, and the police are now looking elsewhere for a contractor who will.

It is understood that they want the private drain torn up right through to the sewer trap.

Was Frothing at Mouth, Said Mrs. Hickey

"Did you notice anything peculiar about her appearance. Anything about her mouth. "The saliva. I noticed that it was ver thick, in fact, almost like froth. She would try to spit, and it would cling to her lips."

"Then what did you do?" 'I said to her; 'Who did it?' She said; 'A burglar. He came in and asked for money. I went to get it for him and while I was upstairs he shot Ethel. When I came down with the ten dollars he pointed the gun at me and said; 'Keep quiet or I'll shoot you too.' I grabbed the gun and tried to take it away from him, and then ran right out into the back yard. Then I ran back, and across to your place."

Instead of Answering the Crown Attorney the Girl Collapsed in a Hysterical Faint and was Carried Out of the Court Room by her Fiance

Inquest was Adjourned

(Special to The Times.)

Hamilton, March 12.—"Who murdered your sister!" asked Mr. George Tate Blackstock, of Miss Florence Kinrade. Instead of answering the girl collapsed, and in a hysterical faint screamed, "I see that man. He will shoot me."

On account of Miss Florence Kinrade having fainted about eight o'clock tonight the inquest into the mysterious Kinrade murder was abruptly brought to a close and adjourned for a week. In the meantime the Crown will gather together a lot of evidence from the south.

The inquest on the murder of Miss Ethel Kinrade was resumed here this evening. The witnesses were Earl Kinrade, the dead girl's youngest brother, Detective Bleakley and Coachman Woodbridge.

There was nothing new in the evidence except that Earl Kinrade stated that his sister Florence had practiced with a revolver while in the south.

Miss Florence Kinrade was recalled and after being sworn, Mr. G. T. Blackstock took up her examination. The witness denied the evidence of her brother Earl, that she had practiced with a revolver. She stated that she had never fired a gun in her life.

"Who murdered your sister!" asked Mr. Blackstock suddenly. The girl collapsed and screamed hysterically. "I see that man. He will shoot me." This she repeated several times and had to be carried out of the court room. Her lover, the young theological student from Victoria College assisting to take her away.

The inquest was then adjourned for a week.

Peterborough will Get 5c. Reduction

Ald. Turner reported that when in Toronto he and Ald. Gillespie and the city clerk had interviewed the Canadian Fire Underwriters Association in reference to the city receiving a reduction in the fire rates in accordance with the agreement before the permanent fire department had been organized. Ald. Turner stated that they had been promised at least a reduction of 5 cents on the key rate and that the association would take the matter up at once.

The Fire Department Trouble Created a Stir

There was a very stormy session of the Fire, Water & Light Committee last night. The old story of story of the fire department and the recent investigation was opened up. Ald. Morgan was responsible for the outburst. When the chairman of the committee read Chief Howard's report on the fracas in the fire hall on February 27th. Ald. Morgan stated that so long as the present chief was at the head of the department there would be trouble. He also thought that the chief should not be allowed to discharge men whenever he felt like it and to keep the hall full of raw recruits. Ald. Turner defended the chief's action, and so did Ald. Buller. This started the ball rolling and there were some warm things said. Then Ald. Hicks told the chairman and Ald. Turner what he thought of their action in connection with the committee's report on the investigation. This was followed by a heated discussion between Ald. Buller and Ald. Hicks.

A report from Fire Chief Howard was read in reference to the assault upon Deputy Fire Chief Grange, by the three ex-firemen was received and read.

Ald. Morgan said that he did not think the chief should have authority to discharge any man when he pleased. Ald. Morgan stated that the chief was knifing the men for personal reasons and that should be put a stop to. He said that nothing was satisfactory at the fire hall.

Chairman Buller stated that on the memorable Saturday night he was telephoned for to come to the fire hall at once. Upon his arrival the chief informed him of the scrap and asked him what was to be done. The chairman informed the chief that it was up to him to straighten the matter out. If he could not do it then the committee would act. The chief then discharged the three men and Chairman Buller said the chief did perfectly right and would stand by him.

Ald. Morgan asked what was the cause of the other men being discharged.

Chairman Buller said that the quickest way to tell that story was to state that there were some people outside of the fire hall who were just as bad and even worse than those in the fire hall and until those people straightened themselves out they should refrain from criticising.

Ald. Morgan and Ald. Buller had quite a warm argument over this matter, and there was a hot debate bringing up the whole fire department.

Ald. Hicks and Chairman Ald. Buller also had a warm debate over the fire hall matter.

Ald Hicks took the opportunity to tell the chairman and Ald. Turner that he did not like the unfair way they had treated his resolution re the fire chief's investigation when they introduced a rider to the report to council. This led up to a heated debate and as a result Ald. Hicks retired from the committee.

Fire, Water and Light Committee Transacted Lot of General Business

Several matters were dealt with by the Fire, Water & Light Committee last night which are of interest to the public.

Those present were; —Chairman Ald. Buller, Mayor Rush, Aldermen Hicks, Turner and Morgan.

A communication was received from James Owen of Campbellford, offering a team of nice black horses, five years old, 16 hands hight, and weighing about 2600 or 2700. He asked for a man to be sent down to look at them.

The committee thought it would be advisable to purchase a team as soon as possible. No matter what the estimates will be for the year horses are needed.

It was moved that Ald. Hicks be authorized to look after the purchase of a team of horses for the fire hall. He will be authorized to have a veterinary surgeon with him, and the horses be paid for on the order of the chairman.

POOR FIRE ALARM.

A letter was received from the water commissioners stating that the fire alarm gong at the pump house was not satisfactory and could not be heard by the engineer in charge. This might result in serious loss in case of a fire. The commissioners stated that the Fire, Water & Light Committee should recommend the council to put in a new gong that would give efficient service.

It was decided that Ald. Turner and Ald. Morgan be a committee to visit the pump house and try the gong and report to the committee.

A horse was sold for the sum of $60 and the money had been received and paid to the treasurer.

A petition from Gilmour street was received from fifty residents asking for a better distribution of lights on that street. They asked for a number of incandescent lights. The petition was received.

WATER WANTED.

A petition was received from residents on Rink street, asking that the water mains be extended on that street as their wells had gone dry and the residents had to draw water from the river. The water commissioners had refused to act on the grounds that the revenue would not pay the necessary ten per cent. The petitioners also asked for a hydrant being placed on the street.—The petition was received.

FIRE PROTECTION.

A report was received from the Fire Underwriters' Association, upon the city's fire protection. One feature of the report was the recommendation of an additional main being laid across the river to give protection to the north end of Ashburnham which is known as Auburn.

Ald. Morgan said that the matter should be taken up by the committee at once and moved to that effect.—The motion carried.

A petition was also received from the residents of Auburn asking for fire protection on the east side of the river north of Smith street and that hydrants be placed at various sections.—The petition was received and the request was included in the above motion.

The Fire Underwriters' Association reported that the electric wiring at the fire hall was not satisfactory and must be remedied before March 8.

The chief was by motion authorized to have the wiring attended to at once.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan and Ald. Turner that the fire chief hand over to the city treasurer the $25 received from the C.P.R. for work done at the fire of the wreckage some time ago. The committee to decide later what to do with it.—Carried.

Ald. Turner and Ald. Morgan moved that a reward of $25 be paid to the informant on persons sending in false alarms. The money to be paid upon conviction and that the notice of reward be printed on cotton and placed in conspicuous places.—Carried.

The chairman stated to the Fire, Water & Light Committee that Fire Chief Howard had notified him that he wished to appoint an assistant chief, and that his choice was Grange, who has been acting in that capacity for some time past.

The matter was left over for the time being until it was ascertained what would be done about the committee.

Jurors Visit Kinrade House with Detectives

Hamilton, March 12.—Before the opening of the afternoon session of the inquest into the death of Miss Ethel Kinrade, the coroner's jury visited the Kinrade home on Herkimer street. Detectives Coulter and Bleakley acted as guides.

Assisted by the detectives, the jurors examined the places indicated in the evidence. They grouped around the parlor window, opening on the front verandah, and carefully examined the abrasion in the lower sash. Considerable speculation was passed as to whether the piece of wood was forced out by an upward or a downward motion of a hand instrument.

Detective Coulter again indicated the exact spot where the heel marks of Florence Kinrade were seen by him just outside the back parlor window.

"I thought they were toe marks," said a juror.

"Oh, no, they were heel marks," replied the detective. "I saw them myself in the snow. The reason only the impression of the heels were visible was because they caught the inner fringe of snow. The toes rested on the ground near the brick wall where the snow had melted."

DIFFICULT TO CLIMB.

The jurors showed considerable interest in the back fence. They examined the small nail keg placed against a box, which, in turn, was closely pressed against the boards of the fence. Some thought it would be difficult for a girl to climb over, even with the aid of the keg and box. Others pointed to the six-foot drop into the lane behind. Detective Coulter lifted the lid of the box and showed them it was a garbage box, which opened directly into the street. "A hard-pressed person might climb into the box through the opening left through the lid being opened, and escaped without climbing the fence," said Detective Coulter.

Only the jurors were allowed to go through the house. During an interview Mr. Kinrade was asked; 'What do you think of your daughter's evidence?'

"Poor Florence," replied the father. "She told her story as best she could, poor girl.

"I do not think there is anything strange in her not remembering anything, because I now think she must have fainted for perhaps fifteen minutes, thus missing what really happened."

"What are your plans for the future?"

"I have made no plans. The Board of Education has given me a month, but I do not know what I will do, nor do I know what tomorrow will bring forth. Each day is enough for me now."

Birth to Quadruplets

Havana, March 12.—The wife of a poor cigarmaker of Havana, the mother of 14 children, gave birth yesterday to quadruplets, two boys and two girls.

President Gomez sent his congratulations to the mother as a woman deserving well of the republic with tender and substantial assistance.

How David Hartley Reached New York

The New York Times of March 9th, reporting the six-day walk in Madison Square Garden says.

"The result was that when the first twenty-four hours ended, the athletes left in the contest were only the determined and well-trained men, who, relying on courage and condition, jogged resolutely on after the first prize in utter disregard of the distance that separated the leaders from the last laggards.

"Of all the walkers the race has brought into view, a picturesquely pathetic one in old Dave Hartley, of the original Canadian team. Hartley "ringer" for Sammy Day, of six-day walk fame, arrived in New York Sunday night and reached Madison Garden six minutes before the start of the race, penniless, after a trip on the bumpers of freight cars from his home in Peterborough, Ont. He gratefully ate a slice of pie, the only food he had taken in twenty-four hours, and would not be denied admission to the race. Teamed with Anthony Higgins, he started, but Higgins broke down.

Hartley remained with Christie of the New York West Side team and raced on until Christie collapsed. Then he re-mated with Pollanti of the Italian team, and the old timers were betting last night that Hartley will be in the race Saturday night.

"I need some of that prize money for my family," Hartley said."

Dave Hartley Trudges on Alone in Big Race

New York, March 12—With Cibot and Orphee twenty-one miles ahead of their nearest competitors, ten and a half teams of plodders were represented in the six day go-as-you-please race in Madison Square Garden today.

The race has become a procession with great odds in favor of the fast French team, which has now held the lead for days. Nearly three-fourths of the long journey had been accomplished, and this spurred the weary men to do their best. David Hartley was still struggling along without a partner, waiting for some one to drop out and give him a place.

New York, March 12—The scoring in the six-day go-as-you-please race at 8 a.m. today was; Cibot and Orphee, 573.0; Davis and Metkus, 552.0; Dineen and Prouty, 532.1; Loeblein and Klubertanz, 519.3; Corey and Hegelman, 509.1; Shelton and Fraser, 499.5; Feegan and Curtis, 495.5; Guignard and Rovere, 467.6; Navez and Kellar, 451.0; Edelson and Pollanti, 416.2; Hartley (running alone), 346.4.

Militia will Not Attend

The funeral of the late Col. J. Z. Rogers on Sunday afternoon, will not be a military one. It was the expressed wish of the deceased that his burial be as quiet as possible. The family also requested that there be no military parade. The officers of the 57th Regiment will, however attend in a body, and it is expected also that they will be joined by the veterans.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Fred Simpson will be a Starter in All-Star Marathon in April

Have P. T. Powers and Tom Longboat patched up their differences?

P. T. says they have. Tom lives in eloquent silence.

Powers saw Longboat at Preston Springs yesterday, and when he returned said that he and the Indian had reached an agreement. The Indian refused to run Shrubb fifteen miles just now, but agreed to be a starter in the all-star Marathon race at the Polo grounds, New York, in April. The Indian will meet Shrubb, St. Yves, the Frenchman, Matt Maloney, John J. Hayes, Dorando Pietri, and Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Thunderbolt.

First Draw of the Club Bonspiel was Played

There was a big time at the curling rink last night. It was the first series of games in the club bonspiel, and it is proving a great success. The first draw has been completed and there were several very close games. The skips and scores were as follows;

D. Hall—7	Talbot—8
Hicks—14	Davidson—2
Clegg—14	Ferguson—17
Dr. Greer—16	Stevenson—17
Ray—11	Dr McCullough—6
Brown—10	Thompson—11
Burnham—7	Pearson—8
Lang—17	Brightman—13

A curling game of unusual interest was played last night between Mr. Innis of Perkins Innis Company, Toronto, and Mr. John A. Cameron, the manager of the local branch. It is an annual affair. Mr. Cameron selects two strong rinks of local players, and he skips on one while Mr. Innis skips the other. Mr. Innis won out, the result being as follows;

Knapman	Talbot
Neill	Morrow
Connal	Davidson
Innis—27.	Cameron—14

Fumigate Schools

It is said that the Board of Education will make an effort to have the schools of the city fumigated on Saturday next. The idea of the fumigation is to prevent the spread of any contagious diseases among the pupils. The recent outbreak of scarlet fever in the city is under control and there is no danger from it now. It would appear. The sanitary arrangements at the schools are most satisfactory but the board thinks the fumigation would be a wise precaution.

HOCKEY

The Strathconas, city league hockey team easily defeated the St. Andrew's bunch, the winners of the church league at Brock street rink last night. The Straths had the best of the play all through and demonstrated to the crowd that the city league hockey is far superior to that played in the church league. For St. Andrew's Halpin in goal put up a great game and owing to his clever work the score was kept down to seven, while it might otherwise have easily been 14 or more. The weakness of the Saints is that they do not play their positions. Every man on the ice is hammering at the puck at the same time.

Congenial Work

And Strength to Perform It

A person in good health is likely to have a genial disposition, ambition, and enjoy work.

On the other hand, if the digestive organs have been upset by wrong food, work becomes drudgery.

"Until recently," writes a Washington girl, "I was a railroad stenographer, which means full work every day.

"Like many other girls alone in a large city, I lived in a boarding house. For breakfast it was mush, greasy meat, soggy cakes, black coffee, etc.

"After a few months of this diet I used to feel sleepy and heavy in the mornings. My work seemed a terrible effort; and I thought the work was to blame—too arduous.

"At home I had heard my father speak of a young fellow who went long distances on the cold on Grape-Nuts and cream and nothing more for breakfast.

"I concluded if it would tide him over a morning's heavy work, it might help me, so on my way home one night I bought a package and next morning I had Grape-Nuts and milk for breakfast.

"I stuck to Grape-Nuts, and in less than two weeks I noticed improvement. I can't just tell how well I felt, but I remember I used to walk the 12 blocks to business and knew how good it was simply to live.

"As to my work—well, did you ever feel the delight of having congenial work and the strength to perform it? That's how I felt. I truly believe there's life an vigor in every grain of Grape-Nuts."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich., read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Miss Elliott, Florence Kinrade's Chum Is Not Known in Portsmouth, Va.

(Special to The Times.)

Portsmouth, Va., March 12. — Mrs. Stephen Butler, the wife of the manager of the Orpheum Theater, and James Baum, the actor mechanic, the two people with whom Miss Florence Kinrade associated with most intimately, while at Portsmouth, say that they do not remember her ever mentioning the name of Miss Marion Elliott, with whom she has stated that she travelled for some time. Baum said if she ever mentioned it to him he could not recall it.

"Miss Kinrade only spoke to me once of her cousin who is on the stage," said Mrs. Butler, "and then she called her Miss Kensington. It may be that that was just her name on the stage and that Mario Elliott was her real name, but I don't know as to that.

A meeting of the City Trust Commission will be held Monday next when the matter of reduction of the demand upon the city by $6,500 will be taken up. If the commissioners do not grant the reduction another meeting of the council will have to be called to consider the rates again as it may be necessary to make a further increase.

ARE YOU DEAF?

Hundred of perfect recoveries from are reported as a result of the use of Catarrhozone.

The result of actual experience proves that ninety cases in every hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the regular use of Catarrhozone.

Among the many prominent business men whose hearing has been restored by Catarrhozone, might be mentioned Mr. Geo. W. Warner of 353 Wellesley street, Toronto, and Mr. William Jones, contractor, of Halifax, N.S. Both these gentlemen have testified to the merits of Catarrhozone as a valuable cure for deafness, and their statements prove beyond all question that Catarrhozone cures impaired hearing and even total deafness.

The efficiency of Catarrhozone is placed beyond dispute by its long list of successful cures, and on the highest authority we can recommend it to our readers. It is a very simple remedy to use, and never causes confusion or gets out of order.

Catarrhozone Inhaler is beautifully polished and made of hard rubber. It is suitable to carry in the vest pocket, and can be used in the church, theater, street car, at any time. In any place. The complete outfit costs but $1.00 and last two months. Trial size 50c. Sold by druggists or sent to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

FOR FREE TRADE IN COAL.

If the United States is ready to offer reciprocity in coal, there should be no hesitation on the part of Canada in showing willingness to accept the offer.

It really seems as if, in the distribution of this fuel over the North American continent, Nature intended the supply to be considered as a whole for the common use of both countries. The mines of Nova Scotia are so situated as to make them the source most easily available, not only to the manufacturing industries of the Maritime Provinces, but to those of New England as well. Ontario, could under a policy of free trade in this commodity, draw upon the mines of Pennsylvania and Ohio almost as easily as the states containing those mines. In the Far West, Idaho, Montana, and California would be greatly benefited by the freedom of access to the coal fields of British Columbia and Alberta, and capital invested in those fields could be made more remunerative by the same means.

The treaty providing for the common use of common waterways should be followed by an arrangement providing for liberty to draw upon a common coal supply without interference by a double line of customs officers.

HAVELOCK

Havelock, March 10.—Mr. R. Ford of Omemee visited Mr. J. W. Bryans on Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Carman Holcombe was in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Armstrong visited friends in Warsaw on Sunday.

Mr. McWilliams of Marmora, visited friends here on Tuesday.

Mr. Wm. Goddard has moved into the house recently occupied by Mr. Wm. Griffith.

The inspector of the Bank of Toronto visited the Havelock branch last week.

Messrs. Jos. Fowler and J. Weir were in Norwood on Tuesday.

Messrs. W. Rose, Robt. Curry and H. Matthison, attending the Stirling-Norwood game at Peterborough on Wednesday.

On Saturday, March 20th, Mr. A. Wallace of town will sell a quantity of property by auction.

RESISTED POLICE.

The police found some resistance last week while trying to take children from the Rosebrush home, three miles east of here to the Children's Shelter in Peterborough. Officer Cochrane with Havelock Policeman Brill visited the home which is claimed to be an improper place for the children. When they attempted to take the boy who is about 16 years old, but very small for his age, he picked up a pine cordwood stick and struck Policeman Brill over the head very forcibly a couple of times. Had it not been for the hard hat worn, Havelock's chief of police would likely be nursing his wounds at the present.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

The electric lights are greatly improved lately owing to the rise in Crowe river, where the power is generated. The mild weather with the recent rains has swollen the river considerable and the company have been able to give a large number of residences light that have not had any for a considerable long time.

The Presbyterian choir gathered at the home of Mrs. W. McBurney on George street, on Monday evening, to bid good bye to her daughter, Mrs. C. Intyre, who is leaving in a short time for Moose Jaw, Sas., where she will reside. A delightful evening was spent in playing games, etc.

Dr. Holderoft's horse which ran away while he was making calls at Oak Lake, has not up to the present been seen or heard of. The sleigh while going at a fast rate slid down an icy bank, throwing the doctor into the snowbank. The horse became frightened, and ran away and has not up to the present been found. It was traced until it separated the shafts from the cutter but after that the trail was lost and although every effort is being made, it has not appeared yet. It is feared that it has either fallen through the ice on the lake or got lost in the woods.

Wedding Bells at Village of Keene

Keene, March 11.—We regret to report that Mr John B Doris is confined to his house with a severe attof la grippe.

Mrs. Hull of Winnipeg, who has been visiting her sister Mrs. Dr. Harrison, left for home on Tuesday.

Mr. John Clark is in the village once more, having secured a job from Mr. John McFarlane.

Dr. V. H. McWilliams was in Toronto on a professional visit this week.

Mr. Fred Taylor of Mather's Corners is confined to his room. Dr. W. T. Harrison is in attendance.

Miss May Foley of Lindsay, was the guest of her sister Mrs. Vera on Monday.

A number of the Keene sports went up to Peterborough on Wednesday evening to witness the match between Norwood and Stirling for the championship of the T.V.H.L.

A wedding was celebrated at the parsonage on Wednesday evening, when Flora the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLachlan, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to William Wedlock, the eldest son of William Wedlock. The bride, who looked charming in a blue suit with hat to match, was assisted by Miss Maggie Wedlock, while the groom was assisted by Mr. Albert Stillman. After the wedding ceremony they repaired to their future home on Mill street, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The evening was spent in dancing and games. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold bracelet. Their many friends wish them long life and happiness.

Miss Sadie Kempt who has been visiting her sister in Toronto for the last few weeks, has returned home.

Don't forget the Sixters' Assembly on March 17th. Come one, come all and enjoy a good time.

Mr. Daniel McCarthy had the misfortune to loose a valuable cow on Tuesday evening. It seems that the stable door was left open and the animal strayed in and helped itself to a quantity of chops. Inflammation followed and although the veterinary did all he could the animal died. It was quite a loss being valued at fifty dollars.

STORIES OF LORD NORTHCOTE.

He Once Bore a Kiss and a Sausage For a Girl to Her Lover.

Apropos of Lord Northcote's name being mentioned as a probable successor to Earl Grey in Canada, it may be noted that his lordship was once made curious use of while Governor-General of Australia. Strolling one night through an avenue of sombre trees to a friend's house to dinner, he was suddenly pounced upon by a maid-servant, who kissed him effusively and pressed a little parcel into his hand.

"Here's a sausage for you. I can't come out to-night, as master has company," she whispered, and as mysteriously disappeared.

When he got to the house, he found one of his servants loitering by the gate.

"What are you doing here?" asked Lord Northcote.

"I'm waiting for my sweetheart," the man stammered.

"Where is she?"

"In service here."

"Ah, then I am right. Here is a sausage from your sweetheart, and she wishes me to tell you that she cannot come out to-night, as her master has company."

Seeing that the man looked nervous, he added kindly:

"She also gave me a kiss for you; but perhaps you would rather wait till you see her. Here is five shillings instead."

An enterprising newspaper reporter who once happened to be holidaying at the same seaside resort as Lord Northcote took the occasion by the hand by asking for some advice on a policy his paper proposed to adopt.

"Advice I am always chary of," said his lordship. "It is so cheap, so easy. I remember some years ago watching a boy pushing a heavy cart up a hill. The hill was steep; the boy thin. He bent forward at the work till he was almost horizontal. 'Push it up zig-zag,' I cried, 'and you will find it will go much easier.'

"The boy snarled back: 'Not so much of yer bloom'n' advice. Come and give's a shove.'"

A Toss of a Coin With an Unexpected Result.

A New York traveling man was telling stories of "Toothpick Tom," a famous Bowery character, who lived by his wits as a gambler. Tom was known far and wide, not only because of this gambling mania, which was insatiable, but because of his quaint wit and originality. He was an illiterate and could neither read nor write, but in the course of his career he handled perhaps a little more than the average gambler's share of coin raked in across the green cloth.

"One afternoon Tom woke up with a healthy appetite for breakfast," said the New Yorker. "He found on investigating his pockets that he had a five dollar gold piece, and he set out for the nearest cafe to appease his hunger. But just as he was about to enter the restaurant he suddenly recognised the entrance to the next place as the one leading to a gambling house which he had not visited for some time. Tom paused. He felt himself torn between two emotions, hunger and the spirit of gambling.

"Should he risk his gold piece on the faro table or the roulette or should he eat? That was the question. He might make a 'killing,' in which event, of course, he would eat sumptuously. Then, again, he might lose and face starvation. The natural thing for Tom to do was to leave it to chance.

"'Heads up, I eat breakfast; tails, I play,' said Tom and flipped the coin. It was heads up, and Tom scratched his head thoughtfully and said:

"'Well, we'll make it two out of three.'

"Again he tossed up, but this time the gold piece struck a crevice in the sidewalk and disappeared. Tom looked at the crack and philosophically remarked:

"'Whipsawed both ways.'"

Tricked of the Time.

A Philadelphia lawyer who spends most of his time at his country estate employs a sturdy Irish gardener whose one desire in life is to live until the banner of freedom is unfurled over Ireland.

One evening the lawyer strolled through the grounds of his place and stopped to have a chat with the gardener.

"Michael, do you know that while we are here enjoying the beautiful twilight it is dark midnight in Ireland?" he asked.

"Faith, an' Of'm not surprised," replied the gardener. "Ireland niver got justice yit."

Money Getters.

"Do you think it pays to send our sons to college? Do they obtain the practical experience in money getting that is so necessary in these days?"

"Well, judging from the experience I have had with my son, I should say they did. His practical experience in money getting increases with every letter that I receive from him."

Simplified Debate.

"Are you going to attempt to answer all the charges made against you?"

"Certainly," replied Senator Sorghum. "Answering charges these days is easy. All you've got to do is to say, 'You're another.'"

A Popular Leader.

One of the most striking and popular figures in the Nonconformist pulpit to-day is the Rev. J. H. Jowett, who is to be president of the British Free Church Council for 1910. Mr. Jowett is the youngest man who has ever been elected to this responsible position. He is only forty-five years of age, but he has crowded an immense amount of work into his life. For thirteen years he has been minister of Carr's Lane Chapel, Birmingham, where Dr. Dale was amongst his predecessors. Mr. Jowett only heard Dr. Dale preach once, and the sermon so impressed him that he stayed behind after the service to thank Dr. Dale for the benefit he had derived from his discourse.

The pulpit manner of Mr. Jowett himself is very impressive. He relies on no dramatic gestures or force of voice to drive truths home, but in a calm, dispassionate manner he leans over the front of the pulpit and quietly takes the congregation into his confidence. But although he rarely raises his voice, the softness of which reminds one very much of the late C. H. Spurgeon, his utterances are so clear that a word is rarely missed. Mr. Jowett likes nothing better than to work in the open air, and during the summer it is in his garden that the majority of his sermons are thought out, and where the "Bible Talks," which are such a popular feature of The Sunday Strand, are written.

Curious Marriage Tangle.

An extraordinary marriage complication was explained in the Lincoln (Eng.) Police Court recently, when a girl named Rix applied for an order against a Mansfield pitman named Herbert Hall.

The parties had been married at Lincoln registry office, but after living together and having one child the man discovered that he had married his own niece by half-blood relationship, which was illegal. John Richardson, chairman of the bench and a well-known Socialist, asked if it were not possible to persuade the people to live together. The legal barrier, he said, was a very silly piece of canonical law, which ought to be entirely disregarded.

Eventually the magistrates made an order against the man to pay 60 cents a week to his "wife" in respect of the child.

A New Peer.

The elevation of Mr. John Sinclair, M.P., to the peerage, makes the seventh member of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's Government who has gone up to the House of Lords. Like Mr. Haldane, Mr. Sinclair is a product of Edinburgh Academy, which establishment therefore enjoys the distinction of having a couple of former students in the Cabinet. Mr. Sinclair was a soldier before he took to politics. He got his medal and clasp in the Soudan, and ultimately became private secretary to the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. He was on great terms of intimacy with the late Prime Minister, who left him all his correspondence and private papers to be dealt with solely at his discretion.

England's Living Boy Bishop.

A boy bishop is certainly an anomaly, and yet there is one: he is Master Ralph Bankes, of Kingston Lacy, and he is a lay bishop of Wimborne Minster, a title which has belonged to his family for centuries.

This child is at present eight years of age, and inherited his present dignity with his estates on his father's death.

BABIES SUBJECT TO COUGHS AND COLDS

KICK OFF THE COVER AND TAKE COLD.

How One Baby Was Cured of a Dreadful Cold by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

All the world loves a baby and everyone is more or less interested in their health and happiness. There probably never was a baby that did not kick off the covers and take cold; in fact, babies are particularly susceptible to colds and croup, and the favorite remedy for these ailments is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It always gives quick relief and is pleasant and safe to take, in fact, it contains nothing injurious. Mothers have become acquainted with this fact and do not hesitate to give it to their babies when such a preparation is required. Mrs. John D. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., says: "About two weeks ago our baby had a dreadful cold, and at one time I feared it would have pneumonia, but one of our neighbors told how Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had cured her little boy, and I began giving it to our baby at once and it soon cured her. I had tried other remedies as they all failed to do her any good. Our baby is now well and we heartily thank Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for it cured her. I cannot recommend it too highly, say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced as was."

Synopsis of Canadian North west

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

TRIED TO BE JOCOSE.

Snicker Was In a Jovial Mood and Hungry as Well.

BUT HE SPOILED HIS MEAL.

By the Time He Managed to Order His Breakfast the Glow of Genial Good Humor He Tried to Shed Around Him Had Turned to Gloom.

Mr. Snicker is well known in his home town as the most facetious man in seventeen counties. His method of expressing what ideas he has is entirely along lines of pure jocosity, but now and then his wit falls upon unappreciative ears. On a recent visit to New York Mr. Snicker arrived rather early in the morning, and the pangs of hunger would brook no little delay that he went immediately upon his arrival to a prominent hotel in the vicinity of the station for his breakfast.

"Good morning, Henri," he chortled in his usual salubrious manner to the waiter as the latter hung his hat on a hook over his table. "Has the butcher come yet?"

"Ze what, sir?" asked the waiter, with a puzzled look on his face, for he was not used to Snickers.

"The butcher," said Snicker, with a merry wink in his left eye. "You know—the chap who brings the food. I thought perhaps"—

"Wait one moment, sir," said the waiter, his perplexity growing deeper. "I will bring ze head waiter, sir."

"Oh, never mind," Snicker began, but the waiter had departed to return in about three minutes with the head waiter.

"What is it, sir?" asked the latter, with a great show of civil interest.

"Oh, nothing," returned Snicker rather sheepishly. "I just asked Henri here if the butcher had arrived yet, fearing that possibly"—

"The butcher, sir?" repeated the head waiter, like his subordinate, very much mystified.

"Yes," said Snicker, with a faint smile, which he hoped the head waiter would find contagious. "I was only joking"—

"Wait till I find ze superintendent," said the head waiter courteously. "I have no doubt we can accommodate monsieur if we can only find out what it is that he wants. I will send for him."

Snicker again started in to explain the mere facetious bearing of his inquiry, but the head waiter, too, had sped away in search of a superior officer who might be expected to be equal to this new and unexpected emergency.

Several omnibus boys and Snicker's waiter as well were dispatched to the kitchen and elsewhere to find him, but apparently without success. Five, ten, fifteen minutes elapsed, and Snicker began to feel that it did not really pay to be as funny as he could under all circumstances.

Finally, however, the head waiter returned and courteously explained that the superintendent had not yet arrived at his post of duty, but that he had telephoned up to the office for the manager of the hotel, who, he assured him, would be down in a very few moments.

"He is rather busy at this time of the morning, sir," he vouchsafed, "but he said he would be down right away."

"Well, I'm sorry," said Snicker ruefully. "You'd better head him off if you can. You see, when I asked if the butcher had come yet, it was only meant as a joke"—

"Ah, here is the manager," interrupted the head waiter as a tall, impressive gentleman with a majestic front loomed up in the dining room door and made his way across to Snicker's table. "This is the gentleman, Mr. Pingleton," the head waiter added when the manager had reached Snicker's side.

"Good morning, sir," said the manager breezily. "I hope there is no trouble, sir. I am sorry to have kept you waiting, but this is the busy end of the day with me getting things started along, and our dining room superintendent, I regret to say, is off duty this morning. What can we do for you, sir?"

"I—I—want a hard boiled egg and some Lyonnaise potatoes," said Snicker.—John Kendrick Bangs in Lippincott's Magazine.

Cats Disguised as Snakes.

"Do you know why a cat hisses when in rage or danger?" said a nature student. "Well, sir, she hisses as a flying criminal puts on blue goggles and a false beard. With that hiss she tries instinctively to disguise herself as a snake.

"Did you ever notice the markings on a cat's tail? They are transverse, like a snake's markings. The primitive cat in the wild state lived in rather tall grass. When danger approached he hissed and at the same time put up his tail and waved it slowly. The encomer heard that serpentine hiss. He saw the tail, and only the tail, which waved in an ominous, serpentine manner. He said 'snake in the grass' and withdrew.

"The cat of today, hissing horribly and waving to and fro his erected tail, follows ancestral precedent. It helps him not at all; nevertheless he always does it, thinking it the right thing. Is not man sometimes like the cat in this respect?"

A laugh costs too much if it is bought at the expense of propriety.—Quotidian.

WEBSTER AND CHOATE.

The Latter a Rapid Fire Maxim, the Former a Thirteen Inch Gun.

"Probably no educational institution in our country has ever graduated two more eminent and eloquent lawyers than old Dartmouth college gave us in Daniel Webster and Rufus Choate," says a writer in Our Dumb Animals. "It was my privilege as a member of the Suffolk bar to attend many years ago the trial of one of the most important cases of the year in our supreme judicial court at Boston.

"On the two sides were arrayed some half a dozen of our most eminent lawyers. Daniel Webster and Rufus Choate, as it happened, were on the same side.

"A hostile witness was put on by the other side, some of whose evidence was of the utmost importance to Webster and Choate, if it could be obtained, and Choate undertook the task of obtaining it. No man at our bar had more profound skill in cross examination, and the questions he put to the witness were like the fire of a Maxim gun, but in every instance he failed to get the evidence he wanted and finally sat down in despair.

"Then Webster, who had been sitting in his great armchair, apparently about half asleep, as though taking no interest in the case whatever, slowly arose to his feet, put his great eyes on the hostile witness, asked him in the most serious tone a single question and brought instantly the required answer. Then as quietly he sat down and apparently went about half asleep again. It was a scene photographed on my mind, never to be forgotten.

"The difference between Webster and Choate cannot better be explained as it rests in my mind than to compare Choate to a Maxim gun raining bullets of eloquence wherever he chose and Webster to a great gun that can send out a thirteen inch shell to penetrate an ironclad.

"It was wonderful to listen to Choate. I remember a case in which an ordinary lawyer would have simply said to the court that he moved a postponement of the case because witness So-and-so was sick, but in this case Choate arose and commenced by saying that his important witness was on a bed of sickness and perhaps a bed of death and so went whirling up almost to the skies on this simple motion, to the great interest of everybody that heard him.

"Our old chief justice, Judge Shaw, one of the greatest lawyers of his time, was a plain, practical man, and looked in his old age as he sat on the bench somewhat like a Chinese idol, and he used to frequently cut off Mr. Choate's eloquence by calling him back to the plain facts."

The Reconciliation.

The doctor was soon at the child's bedside. Remedies were administered; then the agonized pair watched the fight for life—skill and vitality on one side, fierce disease on the other. When at last the struggle ceased, the gray dawn of day was looking in at the window. Life had won. The child slept.

"She is all right now," said the doctor, shaking the man's hand, which had gripped his, and feeling his heart grow warm under the look of mute gratitude the woman turned upon him.

When he had gone the two stood side by side at the baby's crib, listening to her regular breathing. Then, with one accord, they turned and kissed each other. And in that kiss the icy barrier between them melted away.

The French Guide Is a Public Pest.

Paris has produced a species which is the lowest embodiment of sentient being. It is the "guide." The guide is an evolutionary "throwback," a reversion to type. You must go deep into the muck heap whence the race has risen to find his prototype—back of the ape, back of the tiger, back of the mousing hog, though he partakes of the nature of all of these, to the dim ages when nameless troglodytes treaded in cold lethargy the primordial slime. Somewhere in that category belongs the Paris guide. Interminably these ghosts of dead decencies squeak and gibber in the streets of the city.—Collier's.

A Long Spell of Duty.

A Scotsman had come to London on his way to India and for a few days had time to amuse himself by sightseeing before his departure, says Oscar Ramsay in his "Reminiscences." He had been much struck with the appearance of the mounted sentinels of the horse guards, Whitehall, and bore them in remembrance during his eastern sojourn. On his return after a period of thirty years, on passing the horse guards, he looked up to one, and seeing him, as he thought, unchanged as to horse, position and accouterments, he exclaimed, "Od, freend, ye hae had a lang spell on't sin' I left."

Mutual Surprise.

They stood beneath the mistletoe.

She was justly resentful of what he had done.

"How dare you kiss me?" she exclaimed. "I never was so surprised in all my life!"

"Neither was I," he replied contritely. "I thought it was your younger sister."

Forbidden Fruit.

"Your luncheons are always so successful, Mrs. Penrhyn-Paget. Do tell me how you select your menus."

"Oh, you see, the doctor has given me a printed list of things I mustn't eat, and I choose the dishes from that."

A kindness done to the good is never lost.—Plautus.

Says This Medicin Has Mystic Powers

It's in the spring that health gives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged

If you've reached this state read what J. W. Jarrell, well known in Morristown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the system, made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.—They possess mystic powers surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—come right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and camphile,—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which revitalize delicate glands, search out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficient aid that comes from this king of all tonics. Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 8th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. R. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order.

Letters to The Editor

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—In your issue of today's date, you give a report of the interview, which took place in Toronto, yesterday, between representatives of Peterborough County and the honorable minister of public works, with reference to a grant towards a bridge to be constructed across Ball Lake Narrows.

You seem quite enthusiastic over the prospects of the county receiving a grant towards this bridge, and you point out that it will shorten the distance to Bobcaygeon by 15 miles.

In the interests of the City of Peterborough, would it not have been well to point out that in shortening the distance to Bobcaygeon 15 miles, it diverts a very great amount of traffic that has always come to Peterborough, to Bobcaygeon.

You might have pointed out that the construction of this bridge will be a very severe blow to the interests of Peterborough, by reason of the diversion of the traffic from that district.

Yours truly,
OBSERVER.

South Monaghan Flooded Land

(To the Editor of The Times)

Dear Sir,—Now that a number of the farmers have received their cheques for their drowned land, it seems to me that these men who have put a good many hundred dollars in their pocket should give some credit to the one man who kept at the government day and night, year in and year out for fourteen years till his right was admitted. Mr. Joseph Clark fought their battles when the rest sat at ease and thought it no use and now every man who got a dollar can thank Mr. Clark for the just compensation he received. He opened the door for all the rest and it strikes me, Mr. Editor, that those who have been so handsomely benefitted, should recognize Mr. Clark's able work in their behalf. He pointed out the way and did the work and the others reaped where he had sown, and nothing is surer than this, not one man would have got one cent for his drowned land had Mr. Clark not pounded away at the government. Now I suggest that these who got the benefit should get together and make Mr. Clark such recognition as will be worthy of his untiring efforts in this matter, something that he will have to look back on in future years and his children after him, as a remembrance from his friends. What say you all.

ACTION.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your home. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a smothering poison. It's strange how many things finally come about. For twenty years Dr Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the diff-rence. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

A Hot Reply to Mr. W. H. Moore

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—In The Times of the 9th inst, there is reported a conversation with Mr. W. H. Moore, chairman of the City Trust Commission, in which Mr. Moore takes me to task for stating in my letter of the 6th inst., that the commissioners had consented to the proposition of the City Council to apply a part of the city's assets on the deficit in last year's current account. Mr. Moore states that the commissioners had not consented to the proposition, nor taken any action whatever on the proposal. I am most willing to withdraw this part of my letter and shall be delighted to express my appreciation of the Commissioners' action if they stick to that course.

My information as to their action in the matter was derived from the newspaper reports of the representations made by the Finance Committee through their chairman of the committee of the whole council, these reports being unanimous and being confirmed by individual members of the council. The reports upon this point were as follows;

The Review—The Finance Committee had a joint meeting yesterday afternoon with the City Trust Commission and the latter decided to reduce their request on the city for 1909 by $8,500.

The Examiner—Alderman Morrow, chairman of the Finance Committee, stated that the committee had been successful in inducing the commissioners to reduce their demand by $8,500.

The Times. — Alderman Morrow, chairman of the Finance Committee, notified the aldermen that his committee had met the City Trust Commissioners and induced that body city by $8,500.

The question is one of fact, which must be settled between Alderman Morrow and Mr. Moore, and of which I have, of course, no personal knowledge. To such fault as is involved in assuming that the representations of the Finance Committee to the council were true in fact, I plead guilty. I trust that the little day light which I have endeavored to let in on this transaction will be sufficient to make impossible any such questionable dealing with the city assets.

The Radial Railway Bill

The Times has received a printed copy of the proposed act respecting the Peterborough Radial Railway, which has just received its first reading and is now under consideration. The following are the sections of the act;

1. The time for the completion of the whole undertaking referred to in the said Acts is hereby extended for a period of five years from the passing of this Act, and the time for commencement of one of the sections of the railway outside of the city of Peterborough is extended for a period of two years from the passing of this Act.

2. If one of the sections outside of the City of Peterborough is not commenced within the time limited as aforesaid and the railway completed within five years from the passing of this Act then the power granted by said acts shall cease and be null and void as respects such sections as at the expiry of said period of five years remain uncompleted.

OBITUARY

MRS. MACGREGOR.

Mrs. Wm. J. MacGregor passed away yesterday morning at half-past eleven at her home at 505 Patterson street. The deceased lady was born in Ireland 44 years ago, and came to Peterborough about 1880, and has lived here ever since and has made a large circle of friends. She is survived by her husband, five daughters, Mrs. Alex. Morrison, Perry St., Mrs. David Beevis, Elm street, Mrs Robert Hamilton, Hamilton, and Misses Matilda and Bessie at home; four sons, Wm. J., of Otonabee, and George, John and Leslie at home. The deceased was a valued and devoted member of All Saints' church. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, and interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

"Every One Thought I Had Consumption. Pe-ru-na Saved Me."

"I THANK DR. HARTMAN FOR PE-RU-NA."

Mrs. Mois Parisseau.

"I hardly knew how to thank you for the good Peruna has done me.

"I suffered five years with pain in the stomach. About a year ago it became so bad I could hardly bear it. I coughed day and night and grew weaker and weaker. The pain extended through my body and I also had difficulty in breathing, which made me cough. Everyone thought I had consumption.

"My husband heard of Peruna and bought five bottles. This treatment virtually cured me and now I recommend Peruna to every one who is suffering.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for this excellent remedy."

Ste. Julie de Vercheres, P. Q., Canada. —Mrs. Mois Parisseau.

A NEGLECTED cold is generally the first cause of catarrh.

Women are especially liable to colds. These colds occur more frequently during the wet, sloppy weather of winter and spring than any other time of the year. Often they are not considered serious and are allowed to run on, or they are treated in such a way as to only palliate the symptoms, while the cold becomes more deep-seated and the patient finally awakens to the fact that she has a well-developed case of catarrh.

WOMEN SHOULD BEWARE OF CATCHING COLD.

PE-RU-NA THE REMEDY FOR CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

By reason of their delicate structure, the lungs are frequently the seat of a cold, especially if there is the slightest weakness of these organs. The treatment of catarrh of the lungs is also more difficult and discouraging than catarrh of any other organ of the body.

It would be wise therefore, to guard against it by every precaution possible. Peruna has been found the most reliable of all remedies for coughs, colds and catarrh, by reason of the fact that it goes at once to the very seat of the trouble.

It searches out every crevice, every duct of the body. It quickens and equalizes the circulation of the blood, thus relieving the congested mucous membranes. It exercises a healing and soothing effect upon the mucous membranes, no matter whether they are the more exposed membranes of the head and throat, or whether they line the remotest cells of the lungs.

Mrs. Jaschob, 1831 Hicks St., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"When I wrote to you for advice, I had been sick for three years. I had trouble with my throat. Often I could not breathe through my nose. I also had pains in my chest and a cough. I took Peruna according to directions and it has cured me."

Who Said Huethers?

We All Did.

Water Commissioners May be Asked to Take Up Power Development

There was an interesting session of the Special Power Committee in the city clerk's office on Saturday afternoon when the question of electric power was taken up in a general way and the $15,000 bylaw in particular. That money if granted by the people is for the purpose of constructing sluice ways, wheel pits and a power house for the future development of the water at the new water works dam. The water commissioners did not intend to have anything to do so far as the part of the work was concerned except to superintend the construction. The City Council was to assume the responsibility.

There has been considerable opposition to this scheme in the council although the majority of the aldermen finally voted for the bylaw to be submitted to the people. This however may not be carried out. There is to be a meeting with the water commissioners on Tuesday night and that body will be asked to accept the responsibility of the power development. That is to say the commissioners will be asked to develop the water power, use what they require and the city will purchase the balance at a rate in proportion to the cost of development.

This seems to be a most reasonable proposition. It has many advantages both for the water commissioners and the ratepayers. The former will have all the power they want themselves and will have a market for the surplus. They will also have full control and authority. The council will be relieved of all responsibility and the ratepayers will benefit by having one body of managing the water works and electric power.

The commissioners may not consent to this although there is no reason why they should not. They have full information on the quantity of power available and if there is sufficient to pay for the development they should be anxious to assume control of the work and the power.

Detective Murdered by the Black Hand Band

New York, March 13. — Lieut. Joseph Petrosino, head of the Italian Bureau of the New York Police Department, yesterday was assassinated in Palermo, Sicily, according to a special cable despatch to the Herald today.

The assassins, the despatch says, are unknown. Lieut. Petrosino went to Italy on a special mission to investigate the so-called Black Hand, with a view to bringing about better protection for peace-abiding Italians in this country. Petrosino was the Black Hand expert of the New York Police Department, and a terror to Italian criminals. It is said that he had more convictions for murder to his credit than any five policemen connected with the detective bureau. In his work it is only natural that he incurred the enmity of all Italian criminals, and the report of his death in Italy leads to the belief that at last he fell a victim to those whom he had so relentlessly prosecuted.

He went to Italy more than a year ago to work on a plan suggested by Police Commissioner Bingham, the object of which was to be the adoption of means to check the tide of undesirable Italians and Sicilians to this country, and particularly to New York city. A native of Italy, and a man of great experience on the local police force, Petrosino was the best all-round man to accomplish the mission. A private subscription was started, and $30 000 was raised. With this to defray the expenses of the undertaking Petrosino left for his native land to establish bureaus through which it was hoped to keep such complete records that the news of the departure from Italy or Sicily of any criminals could be flashed to this country almost immediately, so that the authorities here could be on the alert and prevent their landing.

Late Col. Rogers Was Laid at Rest

The funeral of the late Col. J. Z. Rogers was held yesterday afternoon and was one of the largest ever held in the city. The deceased was one of the early residents and he was one of the most prominent citizens. His many friends and admirers gathered to pay their last respects to their departed friend. A private service was held at the family residence on Hunter street east conducted by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's church. The remains were then conveyed to St. Luke's church, where a public service was held in which Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's, and Archdeacon Warren, rector of St. John's, Lakefield took part. From the church the large and solemn procession proceeded to Little Lake cemetery where Rev. Dr. Langfeldt performed the last sad rites. Besides the large gathering at the church and cemetery the streets were thronged with citizens who had admired the deceased in life. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, testifying to the esteem in which the late colonel was held. Among the offerings were a pillow from the officers of the 57th Regiment; gates ajar from the employes of the Peterborough Canoe Company, and a wreath from St. Luke's church. The pall bearers were Messrs. R. E. Wood, J. H. Burnham, W. H. Hill, T. A. S. Hay and Col. Miller and Col. Stevenson. As the procession proceeded from the church the bells on St. Luke's and St. John's church were tolled.

"There's a Reason"

Time May Come When Church of England will be Unknown in Canada

London, March 13. — The King has approved P. W. Thomson as consul to Austria-Hungary at St. John, N.B.

The council of the London Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution affirming preferential treatment accorded by various self-governing colonies which have been of distinct advantage to British manufacturers, and that withdrawal of the preference would be most detrimental to trade between the various parts of the empire.

Speaking of Church prospects in Canada, Archdeacon Renison, of Moosinee, gave warm praise to the work of the Colonial Continental Church Society which stands for nothing less than the perpetuity of protestant christianity among English speaking people. Archdeacon Renison told how, in travelling from Liverpool to London lately, he had met an emigration agent of the Canadian government. This man was a German who had built up a prosperous home in Canada. Foreseeing the future prosperity of that country, he asked the Canadian Government to appoint him as agent. For the last few years he has been working in his native country bringing out bands of emigrants and settling them in the farthest parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan. This man told the archdeacon he had instructions to bring out only emigrants of the Catholic faith. He said hundreds of German Roman Catholics were being located every year by the Canadian Government on the great Western prairie lands. Archdeacon Renison fears the time may come when the Church of England will be unknown in that country.

Daylight Bill to Put Forward Clock an Hour

Ottawa, March 13.—In the Commons yesterday Mr. E. N. Lewis introduced a measure similar to that which has recently caused so much comment in the old country, and which seeks to put forward the clock an hour during the summer months. The bill, which is called the daylight saving bill, provides for the adoption of local time one hour in advance of the standard time throughout Canada. Mr. Lewis' proposal being that the change should take effect at 2 a.m., on the last day of April, and continue until the last day of October.

The members did not seem to take Mr. Lewis' scheme very seriously, but the bill was read a first time.

In reply to a suggestion by Mr. Borden that the Government should take the House into their confidence as to their attitude towards the changes effected in the waterways treaty by the United States Senate, Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that the government had been prepared to adopt the treaty as it was concluded, but that, as the changes seemed to affect the waters of St Mary's river, it was intended to obtain some local information with regard to that matter before they made up their minds. Sir Wilfrid announced that the treaty will be laid on the table on Monday.

Expert Demonstrator

Mrs. Wright, demonstrator in Jellies, coffees and spices for the McLaren Co., Hamilton, was in charge of these goods at Mason & Company's stores for the past two weeks, and during her visit many ladies availed themselves of the opportunity to acquaint themselves of the varied methods of preparing these articles of food. Mrs. Wright is very skilful as an expert demonstrator, and the goods shown were much admired by the throngs of ladies who saw them.

Electric Power at the Water Works Dam is the Cause of Much Interest

(To the Editor of The Times)

Dear Sir.—As the time is approaching for the voting on the Money bylaws, one for the waterworks dam and one for a fraction of the amount required for the development of power at the waterworks dam, I might be pardoned for expressing my opinion in your columns on the raw proposition for $15,000 upon which the ratepayers will be asked to vote on March 30. As to the $120,000 bylaw for a new dam and pump house equipment I have at the present not one word to say more than this. If the old dam is unsafe we cannot afford to take the risk longer as a perfect waterworks system is vital to the city's interests.

With regard to the $15 000 bylaw for a power house. By starting the work on the new dam from the west side the construction of the power house would not be reached until the summer of 1910 according to the water commissioners' statement, and the bylaw could be held until January next, when the total cost could be estimated and such information as would give the ratepayers an intelligent idea of the total amount of money involved; they could then vote knowing their full responsibility in the matter.

The power house then would be built at the same time as the dam, which is the only argument the 11 members of the council have for submitting the bylaw at the present time, without proper information.

Not one of the members of the city council have been able to tell me how much more money will be required for the completion of the scheme. The power house must be equipped with electrical machinery and the power conveyed to the city. From the cost of these different operations is to be judged the merits of the proposition which will solve itself in answer to these questions. How many horse power can you have delivered to the city? And at what cost?

Let the council get this information first and ask the ratepayers to vote the money afterwards. A good sound well defined power policy is of such vital interest to the city of Peterborough that the City Council can ill afford to make a joke of such a matter by groping in the dark—and submitting two or three bylaws and shaking the public confidence to such an extent, as to make the proper carrying out of the scheme impossible.

Some member of our City Council stated at one of the committee meetings that the water commissioners have advised certain matters in connection with the power house. To this I will say if the council insists on submitting the bylaw for the $15,000 for the power house in its present raw state let them here and now hand over the construction as well as the operation of the scheme to the water commissioners (as the law provides for this) so that to those who have the knowledge in the matter will belong the responsibility.

Yours truly,
R. HICKS.

The Pacifics took Two Games from the Hams

The Pacifics won two games from the Hams on Saturday night, although they should have have had all three. The Pacifics are going back. They manage to keep near the top, but their averages are not as large as they used to be, and with all the good bowling being done a score of 120 or 137 will be of very little use. Clancy was also off color for the Hams. The best he could do was 145. As a matter of fact he lost the last two games. Had he had a respectable score the totals would have been different. The results were;—

PACIFICS—
Connors	146	160	137—	443
McElroy	154	180	186—	520
Lillie	120	166	164—	450
	420	506	487—	1413
HAMS—
Clancy	128	145	129—	403
Hurtubise	162	177	136—	475
Houlihan	135	136	159—	430
	425	458	424—	1308

SCHEDULE FOR THE WEEK.

Monday—Iroquois v. Bankers.
Tuesday—Lockworks v. Examiner
Wednesday—Grays v. Examiner
Thursday—Belmonts v. B.A.C.

NOTES.

The box of cigars last week went to Sutherland, the new man on the Iroquois, who had a score of 245. The nearest approach to this was 235 by Martin and Heard. The week's bowling however, showed 31 scores over the 200 mark, and that is saying a good deal.

Of the 31 scores over 200 the Iroquois got nine of them. It looks like the Indians to climb to the top of the list in the near future. They are just a little better than half way now but they are coming.

Mr Halstead, an old Peterborough bowler who is now in Toronto, spent Saturday night on the local alleys. He was a welcome visitor.

Already the boys are figuring on the box of cigars for this week, and it is expected that another bunch of big scores will be run up.

OBITUARY

Wellington Cowie, jr., aged about 27, and a well-known and generally esteemed resident of Hiawatha, passed away at Hiawatha on Thursday morning. Deceased was a son of Mr. Wellington Cowie. He is survived by his father and two brothers, Henry, the postmaster at Hiawatha, and James of Peterborough.

The burial took place Saturday afternoon, the funeral leaving the family residence at two o'clock. Interment took place in the Hiawatha cemetery. Rev George Dunkley, pastor of the Hiawatha Presbyterian church, being the officiating clergyman.

WEDDING BELLS

ANDERSON—TAMBYLN.

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. F. M. Tamblyn, Elizabethville, Ont., Friday afternoon, when his daughter, Miss Edna Tamblyn was united in marriage to Mr. Chas. E. Anderson, until recently a residence of Peterborough, but who is about to remove to Hamilton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hore, of Canton, Ont., in the presence of only a few of the immediate friends of the young couple, who were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left after the ceremony for Hamilton, where they will reside in future. Mr. Anderson's many friends in Peterborough will unite in congratulating him.

River is open

The Otonabee river is open from the locks for quite a distance down the river and there is little prospect of it freezing over again this winter. Last week the ferry was started and is now on regular schedule from the street railway wharf to Otonabee. The Little Lake is also open in the channel.

ST. ANDREW'S.

The following meetings will be held in St. Andrew's church this week;

Young people's society tonight.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held on Tuesday afternoon at half-past three.

The Young Men's Guild meets Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. All the members are requested to be present as important business is to be taken up.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band meets Tuesday evening at 4.30 o'clock.

Prayer meeting Wednesday night.

The Snow By-Law is Not Enforced

There is a snow bylaw stored away some place in the city clerk's office which it would be well for the officials to take out and pursue. There has been very little snow this winter, and there is no excuse for the residents leaving any on the walks. Strange as it may seem the well-to-do people, professional men, aldermen and merchants, are the greatest offenders. The people who have large premises and who can afford to pay some of the out-of-works to do their shovelling, have in many cases ignored the snow bylaw. On Sunday when the sun was warm the several inches of ice turned into several inches of slush, water and slop and it was necessary to go out into the road to prevent the slush running over one's boot tops. The people with large houses, large lawns and a long stretch of sidewalk should follow the example of the poor man who shovels his snow regularly and keeps a clean walk for the rich people.

Wealthy Parisian Blows Out Brains At Monte Carlo

Paris, March 13—Fernand Ravenez, a wealthy young Parisian, committed suicide at Monte Carlo last night under remarkable and sensational circumstances.

The young man gave a supper to a number of friends, at which the pleasure was fast and furious. Several times during the evening Ravenez cried; "This is nothing. A big surprise is awaiting you at the end." At dawn, when the party was separating, Ravenez shouted; "Now for the great surprise."

At the same time he arose abruptly and walked toward the gypsy orchestra, which was playing a Hungarian rhapsody. His friends, expecting a practical joke, watched him expectantly. They were stupefied to see him suddenly place a pistol at his head and fire. He fell dead.

The only reason for this act is described as "sheer boredom." Ravenez was only 20 years old, and he had been a familiar figure on the Paris boulevards, where his liking for vivid clothing attracted attention.

Three years ago the young man figured in a sensational duel. He challenged a professional swordsman as a result of a safe quarrel, but the swordsman refused to fight on the ground that Ravenez had not yet reached his majority. Undaunted, Ravenez issued a challenge dated the date he was 18 years old, and he devoted the intervening time to rigorous training.

When he finally did meet his adversary on the field the contest was of the fiercest character, and it ended by Ravenez plunging his sword eight inches into his opponent's body.

The Newspapermen are Coming to City

The visit of the Canadian Press Association on Saturday, March 27th is being looked forward with a great deal of interest. Very few citizens have seen any very large number of scribes and pencil pushers and scissor artists together, to say nothing of their wives and daughters. In advance it might be stated that when together the pressmen do not hesitate to criticise and say just what they think, and as it is most desirable to send them away from Peterborough with a good impression it would be well for the City Council to do as much cleaning up on the streets as possible. The Board of Works, for instance might get the drains opened up so the water will not lay around in little lakes. The residents might get their shovels out and clean the slush off their walks. These little things are what make the impression.

WILL NOT BACK DORANDO.

New York, March 13.—When Hayes and Dorando meet at the Marathon distance, 26 miles and 385 yards, in Madison Square Garden on Monday night it is safe to say that the Italian residents of this city will not bet much on the result. When Dorando defeated Hayes here last December the Italians cleaned up handsomely; but when Dorando was trimmed by Longboat later they dropped not only their winnings but a lot of their hard-earned saving. It cannot be said, however, that the Italians have entirely lost confidence in Dorando as a Marathon runner, for they still believe that he is a wonder. But owing to the reported improved condition of Hayes, who has been training hard for several weeks.

Mr. Blackstock Declares the Case is Developing Along Lines Expected

Hamilton, March 13.—Miss Walker, the trained nurse in charge of Miss Florence Kinrade, was interviewed by a reporter this morning.

"How long did it take Miss Kinrade to recover from the swoon into which she relapsed at the close of yesterday's examination.

"Do you mean, how long was it before she acted rationally?"

"Yes."

"About ten minutes."

"How was she by the time she arrived at the house where she was staying?"

"She had practically recovered."

"And how did she appear the remainder of the evening?"

"Perfectly natural. She laughed and talked as usual."

"What was the cause of her swooning?"

"Purely from physical exhaustion resulting from the strain of three or four hours of severe cross-examination. The poor girl had influenza in addition to her other trouble. She was very ill with it the day before she left Toronto."

"Is she on the way towards recovery now?"

"Yes, she will soon be all right."

"Do you anticipate any physical injury as a result of her severe examination?"

"Oh, no; she merely fainted because she was tired," replied Miss Walker. "She'll be all right."

NOT HUNTING FOR REVOLVER

No attempt has been made yet by the authorities to dig up the sewers leading out of the Kinrade residence on Herkimer street. The theory was advanced that owing to the peculiar plumbing in the house a revolver would go down the pipes leading from the bathroom. When the weapon would reach the horizontal pipe and thus close the aid of gravity, the tendency would be for it to remain in the pipe until the flow would gradually work it toward the street sewer. It was thought that as the bathroom had not been used since the tragedy the flow of water through the pipe would not move a heavy object like a revolver more than a few feet.

A permit would be required from the Public Works Department before the street sewer could be taken up. It was ascertained this morning that no application for a permit has yet been made. Neither has the aid of the pick and shovel been called in on the Kinrade property to help dig up a solution of the mystery.

The house and vicinity are deserted this morning. The curious crowd have become tired looking at the closely drawn shutters, behind which may live forever the key to the tragedy.

Country people driving into the city usually manage to pass down Herkimer street. They stop their horses and discuss the house and its surroundings in awe-struck tones.

MR HOBSON IS SATISFIED.

Mr. Thomas Hobson, solicitor for Mr. T. L. Kinrade, was asked this morning what he thought of last evening's developments at the inquest.

"There's no doubt about it," said he, "that Miss Kinrade's testimony last night brought out a point which will help to explain many of the differences in her stories. She says she may have fainted during the scene on the afternoon of the murder. Wouldn't that be a natural thing for any woman to do under the circumstances? And if she did, and lay there for some time unconscious, would that not account for the fact that her story, as told in the witness box now, differs somewhat from the stories she told immediately after the occurrence?"

Mr. Hobson said that the recalling of Miss Kinrade yesterday was a complete surprise to him. As solicitor for the family, however, he made no objection. Mr. Kinrade was anxious that every effort should be made to throw lights on the mystery surrounding the death of his daughter. If the cross-examination of Miss Florence would help any, he was willing and anxious that she should go through the ordeal.

"Indeed, Miss Florence herself was just as anxious as her father and friends," said Mr. Hobson, "to have the problem solved. There were no protestations from her yesterday afternoon when she was told that she must go to the inquest to be again examined."

$1,000 REWARD STILL OPEN

"Mr. Kinrade has offered $1,000 reward for anybody who can throw light on this," said Mr. Hobson, "and that offer is still open."

There seems to be a feeling that Miss Kinrade will again be in the witness box next Friday night. Mr. Hobson intimated this morning that she would be quite willing to go if called upon.

REASON FOR ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. S. F. Washington, K.C., was interviewed this morning.

"Why was the inquest adjourned for a whole week?"

"Because Mr. Blackstock's engagements prevented his returning to Hamilton before that date," replied Mr. Washington.

"Will the sewer pipe on the Kinrade property be dug up in search for the revolver?"

"I do not know."

Mr. Washington was then asked several questions about the possible location of the revolver.

"The back yard, alleyway, and every yard within the distance which it was possible to throw a revolver, were carefully searched immediately after the tragedy," he replied.

JEFF WAS STOPPED

While the Jeffries party was hurrying through the Lake Shore station to catch the Twentieth Century Limited at Chicago, Jeff stopped to say good-bye to a friend and the others went on ahead. Mrs. Jeffries had the tickets and showed them to the gateman in a hasty manner, attempting to indicate that two more were coming.

Presently the big fellow lumbered up and attempted to go through the gate. The man with the punch stopped him with the usual demand for a ticket.

"Didn't the lady show you a ticket for me?" Jeff asked in a surprised manner.

"No, sir," came the reply. Jeff looked at the man an instant, then his face broke into a great grin.

"My boy, you've just done something no other man has been able to do," he laughed.

"What's that?" asked the surprised gateman.

"You've stopped Jim Jeffries," said the giant.

Bronchitis

Catarrhozone Cures Bronchitis of three years' Standing after four doctors failed.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

"I feel it my duty," writes Mrs. Boyd, of Leonardville, N.B., to let you know that I have been cured of Bronchitis of three months' standing by Catarrhozone.

"With the least change in temperature or exposure to inclement weather, I was attacked with bronchial discomfort, wheezing in the chest, hoarseness, sore throat, partial loss of voice, and stuffiness of the head. I consulted four doctors and was treated by them all without any benefit.

"Catarrhozone was strongly recommended to me by several persons whom it had benefited, and I was induced to give it a good trial.

"It quickly relieved my difficult breathing, so I got the complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, etc., and I began systematically the Catarrhozone treatment.

"In a few days the huskiness and hoarseness disappeared, and my voice became stronger. The running of the nose, and stuffiness of the head, feverishness, difficult breathing, were all done away with before I had been using Catarrhozone very long.

"About six weeks' treatment was sufficient to do more for me than four doctors failed to do in three years' time. It cured me and I don't believe there is another such a remedy on earth. Its action is speedy, pleasant and permanent."

Catarrhozone is a new, scientific treatment, and is guaranteed to cure Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Cold, etc., or money refunded. It contains nothing injurious and can be used by the infant as well as by the adult.

It is both a local and a constitutional remedy. The Inhaler supplies abundance of medicated air, which spreads through all the air passages, killing germ life, and healing sore spots as it goes.

The impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone tablets, which strengthen and build up the system to such a healthy condition that disease simply can't exist.

Catarrhozone is recommended by doctors and druggists for all respiratory diseases. It relieves quickly and cures permanently. Complete outfit costs $1.00; trial size, 50c. At Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Con., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone today.

SIMPLY A HIGH MARE

Jingoes and alarmists have for some time past been working with feverish haste in an effort to persuade the people of Great Britain that the Inland Kingdom is in imminent danger of sudden invasion by a German Army. It is not pretended by these that there is a possibility of the British fleet being destroyed by a German naval force as a preliminary to such invasion. The attempt to create a scarce is base on the assumption that a German force might, without a previous declaration of war, and under cover of a fog, evade the British warships and effect a landing by stealth.

Some sane British writers have performed a service of inestimable value in pointing out how utterly groundless these fears are. In the first place the German Emperor can make war only with the consent of an Imperial Council, and that consent could not be obtained without Britain becoming aware of the fact. In the second place, if invasion is to be hurriedly ordered, use must be made for the purpose of a lot of commandeered merchant vessels, the captains of which have not been accustomed to acting in concert, and with such a fleet, covering a distance of twenty miles from van to rear, and a fog covering the ocean, collisions would be almost certain to occurr. With no fog discovery would be absolutely certain. Finally, no matter how favorable the conditions, the passage from the home port to the English coast could not be made in less than three days, and meantime every British warship within reach of the wireless station at Admiralty headquarters could be summoned for defence. It is inconceivable, under such circumstances, that a landing could be effected unless the defending fleet was first destroyed. It is beyond question, that failing such destruction the invading armada could not escape annihilation after landing the army it had carried, and then what would become of the army with its base of supplies cut off?

This whole German scarce is simply a nightmare. There is no good reason why Germany should desire to invade England, and there is no human possibility that such a desire could be made effective even if it did exist.

WOMEN IN TROUSERS.

Peasants In Valais, Switzerland, Have Quaint Customs.

Amongst the curious communities of the world, that of Valais, a beautiful canton of Switzerland, certainly ranks as one of the most peculiar and interesting of them all. It provides a delightful picture of topsy-turvydom. From time immemorial the women have worn the "breeks" and performed the manual labor of the fields, while their lords and masters lounge their days away in ease.

What is more, the women are quite content with this inverted order of things, and are perfectly satisfied if their husbands brew the herbs, fry the meat, and look after the baby, while they wrestle with the sterner duties of field and stable.

And not only do the women of Valais wear trousers for convenience when working in the fields or tramping after cattle, but also on Sundays and fete-days. "They have better-looking ones for these occasions, I must confess," says Miss Van der Veer, in an interesting article published in The Wide World Magazine, "but they have no hankering for the trammels of skirts even during their courting hours. I was highly amused at seeing the pretty girls sauntering along the picturesque trails with their sweethearts' arms around their waists, looking to the casual stranger for all the world like two young men gone 'looney.'

"One can scarcely imagine a wedding party with bride and groom dressed in the same kind of garments, but I have seen one in the mountains, when the bride wore a white bodice, white trousers, and a bunch of white violets in her hair! She was as pretty as a picture, too, despite the attire, and quite as blushing and shy as any bride out of a convent."

The working-day trousers are of the "home-made" variety and by no means becoming. Often they are so long and baggy that they seem almost as cumbersome as skirts would be. The most amusing part about this working costume is that the upper part remains feminine, being the ordinary rough bodice line, being the ordinary rough bodice of the peasant woman, often in bright colors of red or blue.

And, in spite of their familiarity with trousers, the women of Valais do not walk or sit in a masculine manner. "Anyone can see at a glance that they are women in men's clothes. They always sit sideways on horseback, and get over fences by first mounting to the top rail and sliding down woman-fashion, instead of striding over man-fashion.

"Another feminine absurdity is the wearing of a long sort of toga, which trails down their backs and gets in the way whenever they bend over or go through the tangles of the mountain wood.

"Why don't you wear a cap or small felt hat like the men?" I asked an old woman once.

"'We have always covered our heads so,' was her explanation—an explanation, in her opinion, that was all-sufficing: peasants from one generation to another do everything simply because their forefathers did the same."

NEW BRITISH OPERA.

"The Angelus," By Dr. Naylor, Scores a Big Success.

The lapse of time since an opera by a British composer was produced at Covent Garden, London, makes the first performance recently of Dr. E. W. Naylor's "The Angelus" an occasion of more than usual interest.

The libretto, by Wilfrid Thornley, is a typical story of the Middle Ages, and is divided into a prologue and four brief acts.

It tells of the discovery by an abbot of a parchment which contains the recipe for the elixir of life and directions where to find the herb which is the essential part of it. The abbot dies, but not before he has given the document to Francis, a young novice, who sets out to seek the herb.

His journey leads him to a village, where he falls in love with Beatrice, the queen of the festival. She, thinking him to be nameless and fameless, would send him away, but he tells her the secret which he possesses, and when she finds that he is bound by no vows she yields to his love. But the sound of the Angelus reminds him of the abbot and his quest, and he goes on his way.

He finds the herb in the sacred grove of the Temple of Fates, where the wood nymphs take him for a god and help him. The discovery that he is a mere mortal brings down a terrible curse on him, and with a defiance of fate and the Creator he returns to Beatrice.

She is lying at the point of death, and the elixir is too late to save her. Francis tries to stab himself, but Death in person prevents him and commands him to drink the cup himself. He drinks, and is condemned to live on in eternal unrest for soul and body.

The music is on thoroughly modern lines, and motifs are employed, although not to excess. The three chief themes are associated with the elixir of life, the parchment which contains the secret and the utterances of Death.

"The Angelus" won the prize of $2,500 which was offered by Messrs. Ricordi, who undertook to have it produced at Covent Garden, where it scored an unmistakable success.

WITTY TO THE LAST.

Even In His Despair Lord Byron Saw the Funny Side of Things.

The sufferings of dramatic authors at the first night performance of their plays are said to be so acute that few of them dare to sit in front at the dramatic debut of the children of their brain. Thackeray, in his Virginians, has George Warrington sitting in a neighboring coffee house while the first production of his Carpezan is in progress, receiving bulletins of its reception from his friends, and doubtless consoling himself with copious drafts of stimulating liquids as a sort of insulation against unhappiness in case things should go wrong. Even Lord Byron, who was supposed to be a callous sort of person, if so far as caring for the world's verdict was concerned, is said to have been completely wretched at the first production of his play, Dearer Than Life.

It was at this performance that a long delay occurred at the end of the second act, filling the audience with impatience and the distinguished author with dread.

"What in the name of heaven can they be doing back there?" asked a critic, meeting Byron in the lobby of the theatre trying to calm his troubled spirit by walking nervously about.

"I don't know," moaned the poet, with a melancholy gesture of despair.

A moment later the sound of a saw at work behind the curtain was heard, and the critic, returning to the playwright's side, inquired:

"And what do you imagine that to be, my lord?"

Byron's sense of humor came to his rescue instantly.

"I think," he said, "they must be cutting out the last act."

Romance of a Royal Legacy.

A poor woman's act of kindness has brought an unexpected reward under a romantic legacy which a King of England granted to a subject over 250 years ago.

The story of the legacy's origin is famous. Flying from the Battle of Worcester, in 1651, King Charles II. was hidden from the pursuing soldiers amid the foliage of an oak tree by a farmer named Richard Penderel.

The King's gratitude took the form of six perpetual legacies, granted to Richard Penderel and other members of his family. Two were of $500 a year, the others of slightly over $250. These legacies have come down through many generations, links being lost here and there, heirs occasionally disappearing.

Some time ago Mrs. Cassin, the wife of a London cabdriver, appeared at the office of Messrs. Petch & Co., solicitors, having read of a Penderel legacy last July. Nine years ago, she said, her brother, John Penderel, a fruit porter, died, leaving a little daughter of four years old quite unprovided for.

Although she had no children of her own, and it was a struggle to make both ends meet, Mrs. Cassin adopted the little girl to save her from the workhouse. Her brother, she said, had spoken of an annuity which had come down to him from King Charles II., but her impression was that the pension ceased at his death.

Application to the courts and to trustees followed, and recently the dead man's little daughter was held to be legal successor to her father's pension, which amounts to nearly $6 a week.

ODD ANIMAL CONTESTS.

Possibilities For Sport That Have Inspired Gambling Fraternity.

At Huddersfield, England, is an association for the promotion of lark singing which has achieved a more than local fame. The association has now been in existence for about twenty years, and as many as three hundred and twenty-five birds have been entered for the various competitions at one meet.

As a rule, the birds are kept for a considerable time in the dark, and when the competitor's turn comes he is brought in in his darkened cage before a mirror. Light is thrown on the mirror, and when he sees his own reflection he takes it to be a rival. He is allowed about half a minute in which to scan the "enemy," after which his cage is taken in front of a window. At once he bursts into song, spreading his wings, and singing for quite a while. The rules of the contest require all spectators to remain absolutely quiet and motionless as far as possible. The lark is extremely sensitive while singing, and the least thing, such as taking out a pocket-handkerchief, or making even a slight noise, may put an abrupt end to his lay. Last year three birds each sang for about ten minutes without cessation, thus gaining the championship.

These contests, together with the lark breeding necessary, form an attractive and sometimes highly remunerative hobby to many people in Huddersfield and the surrounding country.

In England cock-crowing competitions have been popular for a number of years. Silverton, in Devon, is a favorite place for holding them.

For some weeks before the competition begins the birds are fed in a special manner. Each owner has his own peculiar secret method of feeding, which he closely guards from his competitors. For about three weeks prior to the match the food is carefully dosed, and made as stimulating as possible.

The time of each contest is generally limited to fifteen minutes, and a timekeeper, armed with a chronometer, stands in front and marks the number of crows and the variations of notes, which are all considered in selecting the champion.

An odd form of animal contest used to be practiced by office clerks in London some years ago. It was known as grub-racing, and nearly every younger clerk had his table of racers. These worms were bred in nuts or apples, and carefully stabled between two walnut shells. They were selected by placing them in the centre of a piece of paper, and the one that proved most adept in making a speedy beeline to the edge of the paper was matched against the pick of a rival stable.

Some of the fastest could not be induced to travel in a straight line, in racing parlance they bolted, and were bad betting propositions. But when two came together that showed a disposition to run straight and true the betting on the result was lively enough to stir up the anti-gambling enthusiasts.

In the eighteenth century an odd sight occasionally seen on Newmarket Heath, the scene of many of the great English stake races of the present day, were the goose races between birds owned by the sport-loving noblemen of that day. Great care was observed in the training of these birds and a champion frequently sold for a large sum.

A MAD SIGNALMAN.

British Sailor Goes Crazy and Causes Trouble.

A few days ago news leaked out of a strange incident which caused much mystification among the vessels of the Channel Fleet during the recent visit to Torbay.

During the week-end a signalman on board the third-class cruiser Diamond suddenly went mad. He sent all sorts of queer and incomprehensible message from the ship to other vessels in the fleet. The climax was reached when the demented signalman threw overboard the lead casket holding the book containing the confidential signalling code. He was at once placed under arrest.

In the usual course the fleet took its departure from Torbay to Portland, but the Diamond remained behind to look for the lost book, the recovery of which was a matter of much importance. With the Diamond remained the battleship Swiftsure. Although a heavy sea was running in the bay, divers from the two ships were down all day on Sunday searching for the missing box, but without result.

On the following Monday the Commonwealth steamed round to Torbay, with divers collected from other ships of the fleet, and operations were resumed on a large scale. These were under the direction of Commander Carver, of the Swiftsure, who himself went down in diving gear. Towards evening the missing box was found in seven fathoms of water by Torpedo-Instructor Dawe.

Like all receptacles in which confidential codes are kept, the box is weighted with lead and perforated with holes to ensure its sinking on being thrown overboard, the final directions to the captain if a ship is taken in action being to throw the signal book and code into the sea.

The signal book was of such an important character that if it had been lost the whole signalling code of the navy would have had to be recast.

Neptune's Mail.

As far back as the reign of Queen Elizabeth there was a crown official known as the "Uncorker of Queen Bottles," whose duty it was to open all sealed bottles cast up by the sea and examine the contents. The official "Uncorker" continued to flourish down to the reign of George III. when the position was abolished. Neptune's mail cannot be said to be a quick method of communication. In July, 1887, while cruising in his yacht, the present Prince of Monaco threw a bottle overboard in mid-Atlantic. It was not recovered until seven years later, when it was picked up on the beach of San Salvador in the Bahamas. In point of time it was one of the longest bottle drifts on record, but it has been eclipsed by the bottle which was found recently on the beach near Carmathen. The latter contained a message, dated as far back as March 13, 1898, which stated that the steamship Brunswick was sinking off Cape Horn. It was the first intimation to reach England regarding the fate of the long-missing vessel, and it is curious that it should have been cast on shore in Great Britain, after drifting all the way from the Horn. In another case a bottle which was thrown over board in 1837 by an American captain was not recovered until twenty-one years later, when it was picked up on the coast of Ireland.—English Illustrated.

Lord Curzon's Misfortune.

The ex-Viceroy of India seems to have had his full share of mishaps. A thief has just secured a nice little haul of silver belonging to his lordship; a short time ago he was in a nasty motor-car accident, and prior to that had a cycling mishap. He had cycled down to the House of Commons early in the forenoon to get his letters, and was coming away again when, in Palace Yard, he very nearly came into collision with an elderly and consequential member of the House, who did not recognize him in his tweed suit and billycock hat. Accordingly the pompous legislator rated him soundly on his carelessness, said that men of his class should not be admitted within Palace Yard, and told him he might be very thankful that his arrest had not been ordered. Lord Curzon's reply is not recorded. Lord Curzon attributes his success in life to his love of order. He is certainly one of the most methodical of men, and it was said of him when in India that he could place his hand on any paper in his possession relating to India that he wanted.

Tinworth's Pulpit.

Though it is true that a stream cannot rise above the spring, yet genius is always greater than personality, and George Tinworth, humble-minded, simple, a man of the people, would be the first to acknowledge that his gift was from above. A clergyman who visited Tinworth in his workshop was much struck with a pulpit in Doulton ware which he had designed and decorated. On one of the doors he had modeled a bird's nest, and under it had written, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head." The clergyman asked him why he had put that on a pulpit. "It is for the bishops and canons to see," he said, "when they go into the pulpit in their fine robes." Years afterwards the clergyman came again and reminded him of it. Since they had met, the clergyman had risen to be Archbishop of Canterbury. It was Dr. Benson.

One Against the Judge.

One of Mr. Bigham's retorts is almost historic. A certain judge was distinguished amongst other things for his unpunctuality, and one day kept Mr. Bigham—then one of the busiest advocates of the day—waiting for twenty-five minutes. Having a second case to attend to in another court, he went to see how it was getting on, and while he was gone the unpunctual judge arrived. "I have waited five minutes for you, Mr. Bigham," he exclaimed, impatiently, when the busy counsel returned. "My lord," was the bold retort, "I waited five times as long for you."

SPARING HER NERVES.

A Careful, Considerate Visitor and Her Timid Friend.

The mistakes which were plentifully sprinkled along Mrs. Comer's career were never regretted by any one more than by Mrs. Comer herself. "I used the very best judgment I had," she said, referring to one unfortunate occurrence, "but, as usual, everything went wrong.

"You see, I went to Greenville in the morning with Mrs. Hobart, intending to go on to Nashua, but I changed my mind when the weather turned cool and spent the day with Anna Woods, going home at dusk. I'd forgotten my little bag with my key in it, so I went right over to Mrs. Hobart's.

"She'd gone down the road to Mrs. Cole's, but I found her key behind the left hand blind and went right in.

"The house was dark, but I said to myself, 'I won't light a lamp for fear of scaring her, a timid woman, living all alone, as she does.' So I sat in the dark till I heard her coming up the walk.

"When she found the door was unlocked she gave a kind of a gasp, so I stepped forward and then, long as I had a cold so my voice didn't sound natural and I was afraid 'twould scare her, she being so timid, I put out my hand and laid it on her arm.

"And, if you'll believe me," finished Mrs. Comer plaintively, "she fell right over in a faint and cut her forehead on the edge of the rocking chair, and I though I'd never bring her to!

"There's no use trying to be careful with a woman like her."

CIRCUS CHILDREN.

The Making of Acrobats Begins at an Early Age.

It is nothing unusual for the larger circuses to carry thirty and forty children, ranging all the way from mere babies to boys and girls of fifteen and sixteen years of age. The majority are traveling with their parents, both the father and mother doing daily duty in the ring, and while often they are trained to follow in the steps of their elders they are seldom allowed to perform in public.

It is a common belief among circus men that the performer whose training is not started until after the age of six will seldom make a distinctive record. Following the afternoon show I often saw groups of boys, some of whom could not have been over four and five years old, practicing rudimentary somersaults and hand springs, while their parents looked on with a gratified smile. These were the families of the circus aristocracy, who treasure the records of their ancestors with the pride of a son in his father's sword and who see no more inspiring calling for their own children than that of the great white canvas.

Not that their education is neglected in other respects. Several of the families often hire an instructor—perhaps one of the performers who has the time and ability for such work—to coach their children in the standard studies. One circus has a traveling school for the youngsters. If they are to be acrobats, they are to be educated acrobats.—Bohemian Magazine.

A Sponge That Works.

"Here is a clever notion—a fog bell," said an old New England fisherman.

On a bleak, gray afternoon they stood at the seashore—the old man and his city cousin from Boston. A great bell hung from a scaffold, and under a metal cover hung a great sponge.

"This here machinery is wound up regular," the fisherman explained, "and this here sponge is kept under cover so as the rain can't get at it. In dry weather, natch'rally, the sponge is dry and light; in foggy, though, it gets heavy with fog natch'rations, just heavy enough for to press down the lever that starts the machinery a-going. Then, ding-dong, ding-dong, sounds the bell in the fog, savin' many a fisherman from wreck on this rock bound coast."—Exchange.

A Persistent Hen.

Ever hear about our little red hen? Well, sir, she was on the set for keeps. Couldn't keep her off. Old doorknobs, soda bottles, lamp chimneys, match safes—anything was good enough for her. Finally I put her on three mud turtles, and I hope to die if she didn't hatch out alligators—yes, sir, three of 'em! One of 'em ate her up, and when we opened him there was the hen settin' on his back teeth, and they'd swelled up so they choked him to death.—Exchange.

Unreasonable.

"My husband is so very unreasonable."

"Most husbands are. What did yours do?"

"He fixed a fishhook in one of his pockets because he pretended to suppose that I robbed him at night, and then he blamed me because he forgot it was there."

Coarsely Defined.

"What is the distinguishing quality of the problem play?"

"It makes you think. The first half keeps you wondering what the question is, and the second half keeps you guessing what's the answer."

The Mean Thing!

Mrs. Oldham—Why are you so down on that lively Mr. Bachelor? Mrs. Youngling—Oh, he snubbed our precious Alfred! He said he thought baby might some day become vice president.—Exchange.

In order to love mankind we must not expect too much of them.—Helvetius.

ONE HAT, ONE LIFE.

In Papua the Fashions Last a Person's Lifetime.

Papua is fast altering, in these days of settlement and plantation, which bid fair to make of Australia's wonderful South Sea colony a rival to Borneo or the Malay States—especially as the rich and valuable Papuan lands are being offered practically without rent to any one who has capital enough to work them. But still there is much of the country unknown, and a great deal that is remarkable for the quaintest of savage customs. Guama, in Western Papua, has a tribe of natives who live and die in their hats and in little else. These hats are of plaited fibre, very large, conical shaped, and much resembling the Chinaman's headgear on the well-known willow pattern plate of the nursery. They are securely fastened to the head with masses of thick, stiff clay, and (so far as is known) are never removed at all. Strange to say, the sex that clings so obstinately to the matinee hat in civilised lands is not the one that decorates itself with the permanent hat of Gaima, the men reserving this distinction to themselves.

The enormous rivers watering the rich lands of Papua are very swift, and even the amphibious native at times finds it hard to cross safely. A curious sight was seen recently by a magistrate on patrol duty. Five men carrying large wooden warrior shields wished to cross a very wide and rapid river in high flood, a stream that no white man would have ventured into. The ingenious Papuans put all their goods on a raft, flung their shields in the stream, and bestriding the shields like mermen riding on dolphins, worked their way across the torrent with powerful strokes of the legs, driving the raft, the goods, and the Government official in front of them. The Papuan does not stop at devices as simple as this. In many parts of the country he builds excellent suspension bridges of strong fibrous creeper, hundreds of feet long, and spans great rivers and gorges by their means. White carpenters are now at work in the districts round the capital, Port Moresby, bridging the rivers that lie close to the important rubber and coffee plantations with the ordinary material of civilization, but the Papuan, looking on at these new-fashioned ideas, declines scornfully to learn from them, and returns contentedly to his ancient engineering of "bushrope" and stick.

Sang With Patti.

In a small top back room over a newspaper shop in Charlotte street, Fitzroy Square, lives an old operatic singer who more than once has sung with Mme. Patti at Covent Garden, London.

A quarter of a century ago Signor Ria was frequently seen in many leading operatic roles, but of late years things have been going from bad to worse with the old man, and much against his pride he recently wrote to August van Biene, of "Broken Melody" fame, asking for assistance in his distress.

The old man a few days ago, speaking with difficulty, told of the result of his appeal, an appeal which Mrs. van Biene described as "heartbreaking."

"Until Wednesday," he said, "I hadn't any fire this winter, but he (Mr. van Biene) and his wife came as angels and he said: How are you, old friend?' The fire you see in the grate was given by them.

"I am now 64 years old," he went on, "and when I was a boy of 16 I fought with Garibaldi. I started life as a journalist, but used to sing at benefit concerts, and made my debut at Assises in 'Favorita.'"

This year Signor Ria has had only four engagements—to sing at "smoking" concerts.

The G.O.M. of Art.

A wonderful Punch record is that held by Sir John Tenniel, the famous cartoonist, who, on the 28th of February, entered upon his ninetieth year. For over forty years his cartoons appeared week after week in Punch. Indeed, so regular was their appearance that during the whole of this long period Punch only appeared thirteen times without a cartoon bearing the well-known monogram. "I got my subject on Wednesday night," once said Sir John, when describing his work, "thought it out carefully on Thursday and made a rough sketch; on Friday morning I began, and stuck to it all day with my nose well down on the block. The following night the block was finished, and by Monday evening I received an advance copy of the following Wednesday's paper. But I never had the courage to open the packet. I always left it to my sister. Then I would take a glance at the cartoon and receive my weekly pang." To-day, sad to relate, the famous cartoonist is quite blind. In his own words—"My sole occupation now is resting."

Wireless Telegraphy.

It is a somewhat curious fact, perhaps, that as a boy Mr. Marconi, the value of whose system of wireless telegraphy has been so strikingly demonstrated by the saving of the passengers of the ill-fated Republic, showed little signs of cleverness. One of his teachers, in fact, once said of him that he could never learn anything by heart. Nevertheless, he was only twenty-one when he began to startle the world with his demonstrations of wireless telegraphy. In spite of his fame, Marconi is one of the most unassuming of men, and hates demonstrations. He was once recognized while walking in Rome. Immediately a cheering crowd assembled. Marconi bolted into what he thought was an empty carriage. But it contained a lady who was too frightened to expostulate. The inventor quickly made his apologies, and the lady allowed him to remain until they were free of the crowd.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

Local Papers are Yellow

A newspaper has many duties to perform in the interest of the general public but there are some papers that try to exceed even their present wide scope. For instance, a local journal has been doing its utmost the past few days to dig up something sensational, and have published fake yarns about attempted hold-ups, attempted robberies, girls and ladies assaulted, etc. Any casual reader recognizes the fakey tone of the stories, still they have an unpleasant effect upon the feminine population. There is no call for such reports. There has been no burglaries or hold-ups in the city and there is not the least excuse for the energetic (?) reporters racking their brains for sensations of that nature. It would be much better if the guilty parties retired earlier to their beds and enjoyed an hour or two beauty sleep and dream dreams of things beautiful, than to spend all their spare hours with blood stirring novels and amateur theatricals. They would themselves see fewer of those hair-raising spectacles on their way home while the public would not be unnecessarily punished.

MORE MYSTERIOUS STILL.

Hamilton, March 12—"More mystery than ever." Such is the opinion of the coroner's jury, which visited the Kinrade home at 105 Herkimer street this afternoon, and expressed by Foreman Spera to a reporter.

The jurymen spent almost an hour in the house and yard. With them were Detectives Bleakley and Coulter. Not a newspaper man was allowed inside the house, and for once it was shown that the influence of the church was greater than that of the press, as Canon Sutherland, of the Church of Ascension, Anglican, was allowed to accompany the jury in and out and about the house. He happened to be in the vicinity and took advantage of the occasion to see what was to be seen.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

What Every Woman Requires for Headache Languor

Has your strength given out? Do you feel languid and tired this spring?

Are you pale, somewhat nervous, finding it hard to do your housework? Thousands feel just the same,—feel the enervating influence of spring whether that brings out latent symptoms of disease and weakness. You should do like Mrs. Flanagan of Essex Junction—here is her experience. "I will never again suffer the torture of deadening spring illness — never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I lived through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that cures. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless,—Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite—I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks, every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonic, blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Women who are continually pale, tired and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, aching muscles, bearing, downs pains, lack of sleep and loss of appetite—they are the poor women that sorely need Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c at all dealers.

St. Paul's Church

The following meetings will be held in St. Paul's church this week:

Monday at 8 p.m.—Young People's Guild. An address will be given by Mr. G. M. Roger on "Some Lessons Taught in the Psalms."

Wednesday, 8 p.m.—Prayer meeting with a meeting of the Sunday school teachers after.

Thursday, 4.15 p.m.—The Faithful Workers Mission Band.

Social Evening

The young people of Murray St. Baptist church will hold a social evening tonight in place of the regular meeting. A good program is being prepared and refreshments will be served. A bright evening is expected and all the young people of the congregation are invited to attend.

Will Give Address

An address of great interest at the present time when the question of the regulation of the liquor law is of such importance will be given at the Park street Baptist church tonight when Mr. Joseph Stewart, the local license inspector, will give a talk on "Our License Laws and How They are Enforced." The address will be given under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's Union.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread — takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful. Sold by all dealers.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women. I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured, for it (the cost of postage stamps). Your letters held confidential. Write to-day for my free treatment. Mrs. F. B CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

Mrs. Robt. Hamilton of Hamilton, is home called here by the death of her mother, Mr. Wm. J. McGregor.

Mrs. C. S. Griffith and baby, Guthrie, Okla., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. McNicholl, Stewart street.

Miss K. Hart of Deseronto, Ont., niece of Mrs. Thomas Embury, 344 Simcoe street, is enjoying a holiday outing in the city.

Miss Minnie Poole has returned to the city after a six months' visit with relatives in Illinois, Kansas and Nebraska, and will receive with Mrs. H. C. Winch, 81 Crescent street, on the first and third Thursday of each month.

The many friends of Mr. Dawson Kennedy will regret to learn that he was taken suddenly ill on Thursday last. His condition and ailment require a surgical operation, and he was removed to the hospital on Saturday for that purpose, which it is hoped will accomplish all that is desired.

For the convenience of those summering on Clear Lake, and part of Stony Lake, a new post office will be established at what is to be known in the future as Kawartha Park. It will be conducted by Miss Bertha Brown, and will be continued only during the summer months.

Brigadier Burgreaves and Staff-Capt. Floss of Montreal, are coming to Peterborough next Saturday, and will officiate at the meeting at the barracks on Saturday and Sunday.

While here they will also take up the business in connection with the proposed extension of the barracks.

The Territorial Band of the Salvation Army, Toronto, will visit Peterborough on Saturday, April 3rd and 4th. The band will give a concert at the barracks on Saturday night, and will provide music at the Sunday meetings.

A Bible Class Was Organized

The adult members of St. James Methodist church met Thursday night and organized their adult Bible class.

They chose the name of "Treasure Seekers" for the name of their class. For their object they undertook to do the Master's service.

Officers elected were;
Mr. L. Petley—Teacher.
Mr. C. Kitney—President.
Mrs. Wm. Mann—Vice-President.
Mr. C. J. Hicks—Secretary.
Mrs. A. E. Prest—Treasurer.

The members of the class cordially extend the invitation to all interested to come and join our Bible class.

Notes and Notices From St. Paul's

A weekly calendar is being published by St. Paul's church, and from the one distributed to the congregation yesterday the following items are taken.

A meeting of the laymen of the Presbytery will be held in St. Andrew's church on Tuesday, March 23rd. They will meet for an all day conference. The ladies of the three churches intend treating them to lunch. Three prominent speakers will be with us from Toronto. Men of St. Paul's, try and take this day off so as to meet with your brethren from all over the Presbytery.

The first national missionary congress ever held will meet in Toronto—it will be Canadian—from March 31st to April 4th. Our Laymen's Committee is sending a number of delegates from St. Paul's.

The "Mitto" adult Bible class is supporting a missionary at Grassy Lake, Alberta.

Young people don't forget the Guild meeting Monday night.

The pastor spent three nights this week at special services in Cooke's church, Toronto. The meetings were undertaken by the Presbytery.

Mr. Pogue regrets that his regular visiting is progressing so slowly. The number of sick has been very large this winter. He is working to the limit of his ability, and so asks the patience of all. If you are sick send him word, and he will visit you no matter what comes behind.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness,—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such [illegible] accomplishments are ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath, sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend OFFICERS' CHARADE.

One of the Company Was an Expert at the Game.

A general arrived from St. Petersburg in a garrison town in the interior of Russia to hold an inspection of the troops. After the review he stepped into the officers' mess room, where he noticed on the counter a row of bottles, to which, instead of usual labels, white tickets, with a single letter of the alphabet on each, were affixed. The bottles stood in rank and file and in alphabetical order.

"What does this mean?" the general asked the lieutenant who was showing him around.

"That is an officers' charade, your excellency," replied the officer, rather embarrassed.

The general continued his inquiries and elicited the following information: "Each bottle contains a different kind of liquor. At the meeting of the officers' club one of us mixes some of these varieties in a glass so that the initials spell a name, and the older and more experienced members of the club after tasting it guess what it is composed of and name the word intended."

"Very original idea," remarked the general. "And are you able to make a guess of that kind?"

"If it is your excellency's pleasure, I will try," the lieutenant replied.

The general went to the counter and mixed a glass, while the officer stood at the other end of the room with his face to the wall.

"Now, guess what this means," said the general as he handed the glass to the officer.

The latter drank it at one gulp, smacked his tongue and replied:

"That was 'Anna,' your excellency."

"Bravo!" exclaimed the general. "It requires a lot of practice, eh?"

"Your excellency, 'Anna' is easy enough, but there is a captain in our corps who can even guess 'Nebuchadnezzar!'"

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 8th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. R. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway.
Dated at Ottawa, 6th March, 1909.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the commissioners will not be paid for it.

Penitentiary Supplies

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

A MEDICINE OF REAL WORTH AND MERIT.

It Not Only Cures Colds and Grip, But Prevents Them From Resulting in Pneumonia.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is intended especially for acute throat and lung diseases, of which colds, croup and whooping cough are the most common. Those who have used it for years and are in a position to know its real value, assert that it is without an equal for the treatment of these diseases. It not only cures colds and grip, but counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia.

It has come into almost universal use as a preventive and cure for croup, and has never been known to fail.

In cases of whooping cough it keeps the cough loose, expectoration easy and renders the paroxysms of coughing less frequent and less severe, depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences.

It is pleasant to take, which is of much importance when the medicine must be given to small children.

It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult.

It is an ideal remedy both for adults and children, and we think the most perfect and most effectual yet produced in any country.

Synopsis of Canadian North-west

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

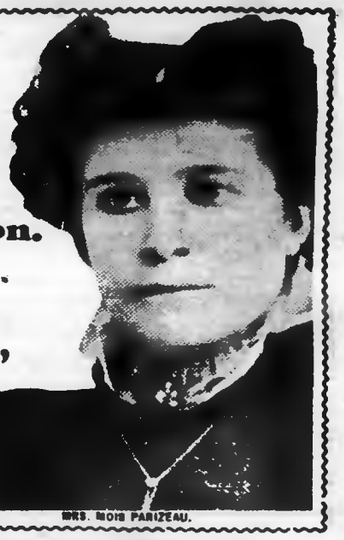
"Every One Thought I Had Consumption. Pe-ru-na Saved Me."



"I THANK DR. HARTMAN FOR PE-RU-NA."

MRS. MOIS PARIZEAU.

"I hardly know how to thank you for the good Peruna has done me.

"I suffered five years with pain in the stomach. About a year ago it became so bad I could hardly bear it. I coughed day and night and grew weaker and weaker. The pain extended through my body and I also had difficulty in breathing, which made me cough. Everyone thought I had consumption.

"My husband heard of Peruna and bought five bottles. This treatment virtually cured me and now I recommend Peruna to every one who is suffering.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for this excellent remedy."

Ste. Julie de Vercheres, P. Q., Canada. —Mrs. Mois Parizeau.

A NEGLECTED cold is generally the first cause of catarrh.

Women are especially liable to colds. These colds occur more frequently during the wet, sloppy weather of winter and spring than any other time of the year. Often they are not considered serious and are allowed to run on, or they are treated in such a way as to only palliate the symptoms, while the cold becomes more deep-seated and the patient finally awakens to the fact that she has a well-developed case of catarrh.

WOMEN SHOULD BEWARE OF CATCHING COLD.

By reason of their delicate structure, the lungs are frequently the seat of a cold, especially if there is the slightest weakness of these organs. The treatment of catarrh of the lungs is also more difficult and discouraging than catarrh of any other organ of the body.

It would be wise therefore, to guard against it by every precaution possible.

Peruna has been found the most reliable of all remedies for coughs, colds and catarrh, by reason of the fact that it goes at once to the very seat of the trouble.

It searches out every crevice, every duct of the body. It quickens and equalizes the circulation of the blood, thus relieving the congested mucous membranes. It exercises a healing and soothing effect upon the mucous membranes, no matter whether they are the more exposed membranes of the head and throat, or whether they line the remotest cells of the lungs.

PE-RU-NA THE REMEDY FOR CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

Mrs. Jaschob, 1631 Hicks St., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"When I wrote to you for advice, I had been sick for three years. I had trouble with my throat. Often I could not breathe through my nose. I also had pains in my chest and a cough. I took Peruna according to directions and it has cured me."

Hamilton, March 15.—Shortly before 3.30 this afternoon, Detectives Bleakley and Coulter walked into the Board of Works office, with an order from the Crown attorney, directing that the sewer leading into the Kinrade house be opened.

This will be done tomorrow morning, and a search for the revolver made.

Simpson is the Man that Longboat will Have to Beat

Toronto, March 15.—Tom Longboat and his wife arrived in Toronto Saturday night, and left for Deseronto at two o'clock this afternoon.

Longboat weighs 156 pounds, and looks as strong as an ox.

"I am in good shape, and have had rest enough now," said Longboat. "I'm ready for any race."

"Have you patched up with Pat Powers?"

"Yes, I'm going to run in the big Marathon race in New York in the first week in April," replied the Indian.

"Will two weeks be long enough for you to get in shape?"

"Yes, I don't need much work," was the reply.

"Where will you train?"

"Hamilton, with Bill Davis," was the answer.

There is a growing feeling around town that Longboat is not giving himself time to get into shape to meet such men as St. Yves, Maloney, Simpson, Shrubb, White and Dorando. He had had a five weeks' lay up. He wasn't in the pink when he came home from New York, and while the rest has worked wonders with him he is away too heavy to run twenty-six miles against the cream of the "pros."

Simpson looks like the man Longboat has to beat in the big Marathon Derby. Simpson is in grand shape right now, and will be ready to run the race of his life at 20 miles in the early April days. Longboat is ten or twelve pounds over weight right now. He cannot get that off without weakening himself by the sweat-out process. He should have at least six weeks to get into condition. Only one thing is in his favor now. He has the stamina, and while he may not run in phenomenal time, he has a grand chance to win out on that reserve power the others do not seem to possess, while Dorando, White, St. Yves and Shrubb have all quit at the distance.

Englishman Tried to End His Life by Taking Paris Green

Went Into a Restaurant and Ordered Beans and Tea—Emptied Poison Into His Tea and was Drinking It when Proprietor Noticed Him—Man was Arrested

Something of a sensation was created last night in Jacobi's restaurant when Wilson Francis attempted to commit suicide by taking Paris green. Francis is an Englishman, under forty years of age, who said he was a farm laborer. About a quarter past eight last night he walked into the Quick Lunch room and ordered pork and beans and a cup of tea. Mr. Grant, who is on duty at night, filled the order and walked away to the back of the building. He did not notice anything wrong with the man and paid no particular attention to him. A minute or two afterward, however, Mr. Jacobi, who was standing a few feet away, happened to turn around and saw that the man's lips were green.

"What are you drinking there?" demanded the proprietor of the restaurant as he advanced rapidly towards the man.

"Paris green," was the reply, and with that the would-be suicide suicide jumped from his stool, and ducked out the front door and started up George street.

Mr. Jacobi at once called up the police station and then ran after the man. Fortunately, however, Police Officers Meharry and Meagher were just on the opposite side of the street, and they were notified, and started after Francis, who they captured just north of the Royal theater. He was at once taken to the police station and medical assistance summoned. Drs. Halliday and Leach responded and by the use of the stomach pump, and a large quantity of water succeeded in extracting practically all the poison.

It appears the fellow went into the restaurant, got up on the first stool and as soon as the attendant's back was turned emptied a large quantity of Paris green into his cup of tea and proceeded to drink it. He also spilled a lot on the floor and still had some left which he threw away when he got up street a short distance. Just how much he had is not known, but judging from what was left in the tea cup, on the floor and on the street he had enough to do the trick had he not been interrupted.

Francis was very averse to give any account of himself. He said he had been a "bit dispondent," but that was all. He had been working on a farm near here but would not say where as he did not wish to draw his employer into the affair.

At a late hour last night he was feeling fairly well, and he will be in good shape to explain matters to his worship in police court this morning.

Second Draw Finished, Semi-Finals Tonight

The first and second draws in the local bonspiel have been completed, the last games being played last night, and Dr. Greer who drew a bye and S. Ray also played off last night. Canadians Unharmed by Big Earthquake

Ottawa, March 15.—A despatch as to a big earthquake in Japan received from W. T. R. Preston, the Canadian commercial agent, is confirmed by the observatory seismograph, which shows two shocks, one on Saturday at 9.42 a.m. and one on Sunday at 42 minutes past midnight, Japan time.

Mr. Preston's message reads: "Severe earthquake. Canadians safe." It is surmised that much damage had been done or Mr. Preston would not have cabled his assuring message. The quake was recorded in Russia, where it was supposed to be centered between Formosa and the Philippines.

Getting Steamer Ready to Bring Down 3,000 Cords of Hardwood

The Fuel & Cartage Company have a gang of men at Lakefield repairing and fitting up their steamer the Beaver and now preparatory to the opening of navigation. The Beaver has been lying in the Lakefield reach of the canal all winter and as the water will be let into that reach in a day or two it was necessary to get the steamer in shape before this was done. The Fuel & Cartage Company are preparing for a big season's work as they expect to bring down 3000 cords of wood the coming season. The wood is all ready, and men will go up the latter part of this week or the first of next to measure it up. It is located on the shores of Deer Bay, Stony Lake and Buckhorn Lake.

James Falls was Accidentally Shot

Mr. Jas. Falls, of South Verulam, had a very narrow escape from death last Saturday, by an accidental discharge of his gun.

It appears that he started out on one of his many rabbit hunts and was returning home when he met a friend in the person of Mr. Harry Gillece, who was cutting wood nearby. He laid down his gun while chatting, and was about to return home, when, reaching down for his gun, it went off by some unknown means, unless it was that it chanced to be caught by a twig.

The shot struck him above the eye, tearing a strip of flesh about an inch wide across his forehead, the powder burning him severely. Mr. Gillece ran forward and assisted Mr. Falls to his house, where medical aid was procured as soon as possible.

Latest reports are that Mr. Falls is improving as well as can be expected under the circumstances, and his friends are glad that he escaped with his life as miraculously as he did, and hope for his rapid recovery.—Lindsay Post.

C. P. R. Officials were in the City

Two well known C.P.R. officials were in the city yesterday looking over the company's property, and giving things up preparatory to the season's operations.

A Social Night at Murray Street

A very successful social evening was held in the Murray street Baptist church last night under the auspices of the Social Committee of the Young People's Society. There was a large attendance and a good time was spent. An informal program of readings, vocal and instrumental solos were rendered, and refreshments were served. Mr. Robt. Lang, vice president of the society occupied the chair.

Drawing Stone for New Church

Those in charge of the construction work of All Saints' new church are progressing with their work and last night The Times was informed that a contract was about to be let for the drawing of several hundred cords of stone from the river bed below the old dam above the Quaker Oats mills. This stone is all good quarry stone and is valuable for building purposes. Earlier in the season the city council was discussing the advisability of drawing stone from the same place but decided upon getting it from the country. The construction of All Saints' new church will be proceeded with as soon as the weather opens up.

Prohibit International Union Officers from Working in Canada

Ottawa, March 15.—Senator McMullen has introduced a bill in the Senate to amend the Lemieux Act. It limits the definition of conciliator to "citizens of Canada and British subjects." It also aims at the exclusion of American international union officers at the time of strikes by providing a penalty of $100 for everyone not a citizen of Canada and British subject "Who in any way intervenes in a difference, whether existing or apprehended, between an employer or any class of employers, and workmen, or between different classes or workmen."

T.A.S. Athletic Section will Meet Tonight

The athletic section of the T.A.S. will hold a re-organization meeting tonight in their rooms at eight o'clock for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. It is the intention of the T.A.S. Athletic Club to take up all branches of sport and they have the membership to draw from, and they have a good bunch of athletes so there is every reason to expect most favorable results. A large attendance is requested at tonight's gathering.

Who Pays the Surplus of the Water Commission?

(To the Editor of The Times:)

Dear Sir,—Ottawa has troubles of its own and in a way it resembles the proposition Peterborough's council is facing at the present time, viz., the desire for a low tax rate when a reduction of the expenditure is almost impossible. In Ottawa the water works department is dictating to the Board of Control. The former demands the latter to saddle the general taxpayer with $40,000 of their taxes so that a reduction of the water rates may be declared. As a result the Board of Control has pared $20,000 off the street committee's appropriation, and that appropriation was already too small.

In Peterborough the water commissioners apparently care as little for the welfare of the general taxpayer. There seems to be a desire upon the part of one section of the civic service to place as great a burden as possible upon the other fellow so that they themselves may make a good showing and pat themselves on the back in public places. At the same time the other fellow is paying the shot and shouldering the responsibility of the high taxes.

For instance, in Peterborough the the water commissioners have several times reduced the water rates by increasing the discount and still the commissioners have an increasing surplus each year. That is a feat which brings great credit to the commissioners and the people accept the statements without making any inquiry into the whys and wherefores. Then when the city council's financial statement is presented and an overdraft is shown and a higher tax rate is necessary and more debentures have to be issued, the two departments do not compare very favorably. One is lauded and the other criticized, and yet both bodies have done the best they could.

How much better off are the people by the reduction in the water rates? Do they appreciate the gift of a few cents or a few dollars from the water commissioners? The money thus received is paid into the city coffers again to make up the increase in direct taxes. Therefore the people are no better off; their taxes are no lighter and the apparent glory of the water commissioners has vanished like vapor before a summer's sun.

Why can the water commissioners conduct their department at a profit while the council conducts theirs at a loss? Well the people might ask. There is a reason however, and one which the council might fairly consider.

The water commission has a property assessed at $312,000, at least there is that much of the people's money invested, although the property is really worth about double that sum, yet the commission does not contribute one cent towards the revenue of the council.

On the other hand the city paid in cash last year for hydrants, and municipal power $6,500, which is equal almost to the commissioners surplus which was $6,220.13.

With these facts before the public it will be easy to see where the surplus comes from. The city council levies a direct tax upon the ratepayers to enable the water commissioners to declare a surplus while at the same time the council is forced to declare a deficit. Its the old system of robbing Peter to pay Paul.

That $6,500 which the council pays to the water commissioners could be used to great advantage upon the streets, parks, market, public buildings, in many other ways whereby the public would be benefited and at the same time their direct taxes kept down while the council would not have to face a big overdraft at the end of the year.

Yours truly,

RATEPAYER.

Sons of Scotland Social Evening

Camp Clan Milpine, Sons of Scotland, held a very successful social evening in the Knights of Pythias hall on Simcoe street. A large number were present and a new interest was created in the society. Among those present was District Deputy Weatherson of Warkworth, who is in the city in the interests of the society.

City Trust Commission will Not Reduce Demand

The first meeting of the new City Trust commission was held yesterday afternoon when several matters were taken up. The important item of business was the consideration of the request of the Finance Committee to the Commission to reduce its demand upon the city by $10,000. This matter was talked over by the commissioners and Finance Committee some time ago and the Finance Committee reported that the commissioners had consented to reduce its demand by $6,500. Since that time it has been learned that it would be illegal and improper for the city Trust Commission to use any surplus it might have for this purpose.

On the grounds that a reduction of the demand would be illegal the City Trust Commissioners passed a resolution deciding not to grant the request of Finance Committee.

This will necessitate another meeting of the City Council to fix up a new tax rate.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

A Hysterical Evening Paper

Our little evening contemporary the Review went into hysterics last night over an item which appeared in The Morning Times in reference to publishing fake stories of attempted burglaries, etc. The Times mentioned no names in connection with its item but evidently the cap fitted the Review pretty well or they would not have adjusted their head in it. The object of the item in this journal was to point out the ill effect of fake burglary stories at this particular time when the feminine portion of the population is nervous anyway about tramps and burglars on account of the Hamilton affair. Such items do not at any time do any amount of good. The personal reference made by the evening sheet to this journal does not effect the matter in any way, nor does it improve the standing of the Review in the public estimation.

Summer Home was Destroyed

Mr. A. A. Hollingshead's handsome summer home at Chemong Park was burned to the ground and totally destroyed with its contents as the result of a fire which broke out early yesterday morning. The origin of the blaze is somewhat of a mystery. Mr. Hollingshead with another Peterborough gentleman, was at the Indian village Sunday, and on the return trip stopped at Mr. Hollingshead's cottage. They had a fire in the fire place, but it was carefully extinguished when they left for home at five o'clock. There was no sign of any fire at that time, but next morning at seven o'clock some of the people of Bridgenorth discovered that the cottage was on fire, the blaze apparently having originated in the front part of the cottage in which was stored a quantity of furniture used by Mr. Loomis, who occupied the cottage last summer.

The people who arrived on the scene did everything in their power to extinguish the blaze but their efforts were in vain and the building which was erected two years ago was totally destroyed, together with the furniture and a number of sails, paddles, etc., which were stored there.

The loss which will be considerable, will be partially covered by insurance.

"Shiny" Fat Folks

One of the fat woman's chief griefs in life is her shiny, greasy skin. If it be pimply besides, as it probably (or may be), her cup of anguish is full. Powder and cosmetics simply hide these horrors for a season—a very short season. They are not a cure for them. There isn't any cure for them except getting rid of the grease beneath. When she does that she finds her complexion improves.

In this way only can I account for the clear, natural complexion acquired by those who use the Marmola receipt; One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water. By causing the excess flesh to be absorbed, it clears the blood of the globules of fat which, physicians say, cause the greasy, oily skin of the over-fat.

This simple receipt makes a mixture both pleasant and harmless. It causes neither wrinkles nor stomach disturbances. It is also quite inexpensive. Make it a point to try some; take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime for a week or two and see if your oily skin does not quickly disappear. As you lose your fat your complexion should progressively improve, and after a month or so, when you have lost 15 or 20 pounds of flesh, it should be nearly perfect.

Good Score at Bowling Alley

George Sutherland is again out for the box of cigars offered for high score by the P.B.C. management. Sutherland won it last week with a score of 245 and last night he rolled 223 which is pretty fair for a starter. Gutterson, in his last game for the night, got away to a great start, rolling 120 in the fifth, but he blew a couple of times and wound up with 226.

Croup positively stopped in 20 minutes, with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One test alone will surely prove this truth. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—25c. Sold by all dealers.

A Great Military Demonstration Being Arranged for 24th of May

If everything goes well the formal opening of Peterborough's new armories will be held on May 24th, and it will be marked by a grand military demonstration. Three full regiments will hold forth in the city and will protest it from any Fenian raid.

The officers of the 57th Regiment met in their mess rooms last night and took up the matter of the opening of the new armories. The officers are anxious to make this one of the most memorable occasions in the history of the city and if their plans are carried out they will accomplish their purpose. It is proposed to invite the 38th Rifles of Brantford and the 19th Regiment of St. Catharines, with their bands and bugle bands. The soldiers will be under canvas on the outskirts of the city at night, and during the day there will be processions and military manouvers.

In order to carry out this program it will be necessary to secure assistance from the City Council as the expense of entertainment, of the private, the camp grounds, water and light will be very heavy. It is customary for the councils in all cities to help in this way, and Peterborough's council will not be behind in this way. The officers of the 57th will look after the entertainment of the visiting officers and the non-commissioned officers of the visiting non-commissioned officers.

This will be an occasion which every man, woman and child will look forward to with the greatest of pleasure and all will hope to see the officer's program carried out.

HOCKEY

The Lindsay Post says:

Before a fair sized crowd of enthusiastic supporters, the hockey artists from our Collegiate trimmed a fast team from the Peterborough Collegiate by the score of 7 to 2.

The game was fast and exciting, and every man played until he was obliged to relax his exertions through sheer exhaustion. The P.C.I. played fine combination and were individually speedy skaters, getting somewhat the better of the play in the first half. But the locals had more staying power and finished strong and aggressive. The playing was entirely devoid of roughness, and of a kind that is most appreciated by the true sport. Ken Randall refereed satisfactory to all.

Mr. AM. McGhee is home from the neighborhood of Gooderham, suffering from a severe cut on his foot.

Building Committee will Meet Wednesday Night

An important meeting of the Murray street Baptist church building committee will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock in the church. It is expected that at this meeting the report in connection with the proposed new church will be completed for presentation to the congregation at a meeting to be held in the near future.

Mr. M. Mulkay of Keene, was in the city yesterday on business, and a guest of Dr. Blanchard.

Persian Troops at Frontier Shoot Down Peasants

St. Petersburg, March 15.—A despatch to the Novoe Vremya from Julfa, on the frontier between Persia and Russia, says that 1,000 Persian Government horsemen and 500 infantrymen are marching on Julfa from the Persian bank of the Araxes river, devouring the villages in their path and shooting down the people. Already ten villages, four of them inhabited by Russian subjects, have been pillaged and burned. The troops are ruthlessly killing the fleeing peasants. Many women, carrying their children on their backs, attempted to swim the Araxes to the Russian side, but they were shot down. Three hundred homeless families have taken refuge on an island in the river opposite Julfa.

Mr. Richard McCallum

A well known citizen of Stirling, Ont., cured of Chronic Catarrh and irritable throat by Catarrhozone.

A remarkable case, exciting great interest in Stirling, which, if possible, adds to the popularity of Catarrhozone as a cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, and Throat Trouble.

Catarrh is one of the most disagreeable and at the same time hardest to cure diseases. This has been Mr. McCallum's experience:

"For many years," he writes, "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed irritable condition.

"Doctor's medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of and tried a sample, and it really benefitted me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors.

"Receiving such immense benefit from the sample size, I got the complete outfit, large Hard Rubber Inhaler, etc., and but a few weeks of its use completely cured me of Catarrh and throat trouble.

"I recommend Catarrhozone as the most satisfactory Catarrh remedy on the market. Every word said about it is true.

(Signed) "Richard McCallum."

Now perhaps you need a remedy like Catarrhozone. It is the only treatment that is applied locally as well as constitutionally. The Inhaler clears the air passages, stops hawking and sneezing, and purifies the breath.

The Perfected Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler, drive all the poisons from the blood and build up the system to a healthy, vigorous condition.

The complete outfit costs $1 at all druggists; trial size 25c., by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

ARE DOMINION FARMS NECESSARY?

A general demand was voiced in the House of Commons on Wednesday for the organization of more experimental farms, under the control of the Dominion Government, and the Hon. Mr. Fisher said the Government intended establishing such in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and on the Island of Vancouver.

As to the value of experimental farms in demonstrating the gains that may be made by the use of the best seed and the application of the best methods of cultivation, there can be no question. It has been stated and apparently with justification, that the introduction of Mandscheuri barley through the Ontario Agricultural College has been worth more to the Province than the college has cost the public treasury. What was done last year at the Macdonald Agricultural College, near Montreal, demonstrated that the farmers of Quebec might increase their returns, without any addition to acreage, by $100,000,000 a year.

But, while all this is admitted, it is at least questionable whether the Dominion Government has any right today to meddle in the model farm business. It was justified in doing this in the West before provincial governments were organized on the prairies, but there is doubt as to the justification of the work done in the older provinces from the beginning and of the continuance of such work in the newer provinces today. Agricultural colleges and experimental farms are, or should be, a part of our educational system, and the control of education is left by the British North America Act to the provincial legislatures and governments. Besides, by the Dominion as well as the provinces engaging in this sort of thing, duplication of effort and waste of energy are certain to follow. There are provincial agricultural colleges and experimental farms in Ontario, Nova Scotia and Manitoba, while Quebec has a similar institution maintained at private cost. Whatever the Dominion Government does at the Ottawa Experimental farm, at Brandon, in Quebec, or in Nova Scotia, must of necessity be largely a duplication of work carried on under Provincial or private control. We have not such overflowing public treasuries that we can afford to have two sets of officials treading over each other's heels. It would really seem as if Dominion experimental farms, instead of being increased in number, might well be abolished.

NEW BRITISH OPERA.

"The Angelus," By Dr. Naylor, Scores a Big Success.

The lapse of time since an opera by a British composer was produced at Covent Garden, London, makes the first performance recently of Dr. E. W. Naylor's "The Angelus" an occasion of more than usual interest.

The libretto, by Wilfrid Thornley, is a typical story of the Middle Ages, and is divided into a prologue and four brief acts.

It tells of the discovery by an abbot of a parchment which contains the recipe for the elixir of life and directions where to find the herb which is the essential part of it. The abbot dies, but not before he has given the document to Francis, a young novice, who sets out to seek the herb.

His journey leads him to a village, where he falls in love with Beatrice, the queen of the festival. She, thinking him to be nameless and fameless, would send him away, but he tells her the secret which he possesses, and when she finds that he is bound by no vows she yields to his love. But the sound of the Angelus reminds him of the abbot and his quest, and he goes on his way.

He finds the herb in the sacred grove of the Temple of Fates, where the wood nymphs take him for a god and help him. The discovery that he is a mere mortal brings down a terrible curse on him, and with a defiance of fate and the Creator he returns to Beatrice.

She is lying at the point of death, and the elixir is too late to save her. Francis tries to stab himself, but Death in person prevents him and commands him to drink the cup himself. He drinks, and is condemned to live on in eternal unrest for soul and body.

The music is on thoroughly modern lines, and motifs are employed, although not to excess. The three chief themes are associated with the elixir of life, the parchment which contains the secret and the utterances of Death.

"The Angelus" won the prize of $2,500 which was offered by Messrs. Ricordi, who undertook to have it produced at Covent Garden, where it scored an unmistakable success.

Synopsis of Canadian North west

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—(1) At least six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

BURNS & SCALDS.

DAILY MISHAPS MAKE ZAM-BUK A DAILY NEED.

ACCIDENTS will happen in the best regulated homes; and having a box of Zam-Buk handy is a precaution that has saved thousands of families much worry and expense. There is never any knowing what a small injury may lead up to if neglected. The stoppage of the bleeding, or the pain from a cut, burn, or scald, lulls many people into a false sense of security. Dust getting into a wound may set up festering, inflammation, and blood-poisoning. In a similar way, a tiny cut may be the starting point of itching and irritating eczema; and the spot your child scratches on his head, the unsuspected beginning of ringworm or some other hair-destroying scalp disease.

Zam-Buk, while such a perfect healer, is also the inveterate enemy of skin-diseases. A burn, scald, cut, or bruise promptly and regularly dressed with this rare and rich balm cannot "turn the wrong way"; and any tendency of the skin to become itchy, inflamed, or "masterry" is speedily checked. This is because Zam-Buk not only grows new, healthy skin, but, being so rich in the purest, and its healing essences make perfectly healthy all the underlying tissues. Always have a box of Zam-Buk handy, for daily mishaps make Zam-Buk a daily need.

BAD SCALD CURED.

Mr. W. Corbey, 35, Richmond Square, Montreal, says:—"My little grandson was severely scalded on his right leg from the knee to the ankle. The injury was very serious, and demanded great attention. We used nothing but Zam-Buk, and it was wonderful how cooling and soothing it proved. It was some weeks before the leg was finally healed, but there was not a scar left to show where he had been scalded. As the horse 'first-aid,' I think Zam-Buk is without equal."

CHILD SCORED BY STOVE LID.

Mrs. H. Girdlestone, of 30b Rawdon Street, Brantford, Ont., says:—"I find Zam-Buk a splendid healer of children's injuries. My little boy burned his foot very badly on the red-hot lid of the stove. The skin was completely burned off, and he had a shocking foot, the wound turning to a running sore, festering and discharging. I applied Zam-Buk, and it effectively checked all discharging and festering, drew out the inflammation, and finally healed the wound nicely."

Zam-Buk is a positive and certain cure for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczemas, scabs, chapped hands, cold-cracks, chilblains, ringworm, scalp sores, bad leg, diseased nobbles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected, it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, and sciatica. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. box, these (or $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price

ANCIENT ARMAGH.

Primatial See of St. Patrick Nearly 1,500 Years Ago.

The cathedral city of Armagh is the most sacred place in Ireland, the ecclesiastical headquarters of both the Roman Catholic and the Protestant churches of Ireland, the seat of the most ancient and celebrated of Irish schools of learning, the burial place of Brian Boru, the greatest of all the Irish kings; the home of St. Patrick for the important years of his life, and the cradle of the Christian Church in the United Kingdom. It was from Armagh, says William E. Curtis in The Chicago Record-Herald, that the message of the gospel was sent to the people of Scotland and England, and here was the genesis of the faith that is now professed by all the nation.

Armagh is a quiet, well-kept town of about 8,000 inhabitants, built on a hill around the cathedral founded by St. Patrick in the year 432, and the streets are steep and rather crooked. It resembles an English university town, and looks more like Cambridge or Winchester than the rest of Ireland. More than 1,900 years ago it was the greatest educational centre in the civilized world, and it still has several important schools, including a Roman Catholic theological seminary, a large convent for young women, a technological school, and astronomical observatory, a public library of 20,000 volumes and a little old-fashioned Grecian temple of a building with a sign to advertise it as the rooms of the Philosophical Society. The houses are packed together very closely, as is the custom in all Ireland, although there is plenty of room for the town to spread out, if it were the fashion to do so.

There are ranges of green hills all around, and their sunny slopes are closely planted to grain, potatoes and other crops. There are several linen factories in the neighborhood which furnish employment for the wives and daughters of the town, and a small automobile factory. The population is about equally divided between Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths. There are three Presbyterian churches and one Methodist, which assert themselves boldly, even in the presence of an ecclesiastical see that is nearly 1,400 years old.

The Trials of a Musician.

By hard work, and hard work alone, has Sir Frederick Bridge, organist of Westminster Abbey, attained his present prominent position in the musical world. He can recall the days when, as a boy in a country cathedral town, he had to play, teach, and walk four and a half miles between Rochester and Gravesend to fill the position of organist for $165 per year. He has also mentioned the interesting fact that Sir Edward Elgar once played second fiddle in an orchestra which Sir Frederick conducted.

Sir Frederick has confessed that he tries under all circumstances to be cheerful, and tells a story of how he greatly benefited one pupil by advising him not to grumble. "This pupil," says Sir Frederick, "was an inveterate grumbler. He obtained a very nice appointment in the country. I went down to see him, and asked him how he was getting on. 'Oh, pretty well,' he replied, 'but the place is so inartistic.' He had a nice lot of illuminated texts on the walls of his room, which he said had been drawn by a young lady. 'So you are going to be married?' I suggested. Dolefully he replied that he hoped so. 'Look here,' I said, 'if I give you a text, will you get the young lady to work it? It will do you more good than all these Scriptural subjects.' He said he would. The text I gave him was 'Don't grumble.' I went down to see him a few years afterwards, and he told me the text had done him a lot of good. This happened years ago. He has now a wife and five or six children; he has nothing to grumble about."

An Early Riser.

"What on earth has induced you to come to the Bar?" was the discouraging question asked by Lord Russell of Killowen, when Mr. Justice Bigham, who has succeeded Sir John Gorell Barnes as president of the Probate and Divorce Division, entered the chambers of the famous advocate as a pupil. It was a question that took the pupil some years to answer. During his first twelve months Mr. Bigham's total earnings amounted to seven guineas, although, when he succeeded Lord Russell of Killowen as leader of the Northern Circuit, his income was one of the largest ever earned at the Bar. Few lawyers, however, lived more laborious days. "I used to start work at four o'clock in the morning and go on till night," he says. "Breakfast, and then the Temple at 9.30 or 10, where I worked until six, and after six I did nothing. Such was my program for twenty-seven years."

"Onward Christian Soldiers."

The Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould, who has just celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, has over a hundred books on all sorts of topics to his credit, and shares with many past and present celebrities the distinction of having read his own obituary notice in the newspapers. One of his most popular achievements perhaps was the writing of that famous hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," which is such a favorite in both church and chapel. But when Mr. Baring-Gould wanted to have it sung in his own church his bishop, who was very Low Church, objected, owing to the last lines, "With the cross of Jesus going on before." Mr. Baring-Gould, therefore, changed the last line to "Left behind the door," which made the bishop so angry that he dismissed the vicar. But Mr. Gladstone made it up by presenting him with a far better living in Essex.

$1,000 For a Coin.

A rare coin sold for $1,350 in the Benson sale at Sotheby's in London recently. It was probably issued during the great Pythian festival of 346 B.C., on the occasion of the re-assembling of the Amphictyonic Council at the close of the Phokian war.

Fortify now against the Grip—for it comes every season sure! Preventics—the little Candy Cold Cure Tablets—offer in this respect a most certain and dependable safeguard. Preventics, at the "sneeze stage" will, as well, also surely head off all common colds. But promptness is all-important. Keep Preventics in the pocket or purse, for instant use. Box of 48 for 25c. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

DRUGGISTS KNOW BEST COLD CURES

THEY USE THE MOST SUCCESSFUL THEMSELVES.

Many Druggists Use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in Their Own Families.

Everyone must realize the dangers attending a severe cold, and that it is always prudent to remain in doors until the danger is past. Many, however, do not feel able to lose the time and will be interested in knowing the quickest way to break up a cold and to avoid the dangerous consequences which so often follow. Druggists who handle all kinds of medicines and are familiar with prescriptions of the best physicians, know which medicines are the most successful, and when in need of a medicine for their own use will of course choose the one which is likely to be the most prompt and most effectual. It has been observed that many druggists use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy themselves and in their families, and take pleasure in testifying to its good qualities. Mr. E. M. Lyons, the leading druggist of Broadhead, Wis., says: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years and have yet to hear of the first case it has not relieved. I would not be without it in my own home."

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 8th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. R. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,

P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway.

Dated at Ottawa, 6th March, 1909.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. B. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

WEBSTER AND CHOATE.

The Latter a Rapid Fire Maxim, the Former a Thirteen Inch Gun.

"Probably no educational institution in our country has ever graduated two more eminent and eloquent lawyers than old Dartmouth college gave us in Daniel Webster and Rufus Choate," says a writer in Our Dumb Animals. "It was my privilege as a member of the Suffolk bar to attend many years ago the trial of one of the most important cases of the year in our supreme judicial court at Boston.

"On the two sides were arrayed some half a dozen of our most eminent lawyers. Daniel Webster and Rufus Choate, as it happened, were on the same side.

"A hostile witness was put on by the other side, some of whose evidence was of the utmost importance to Webster and Choate, if it could be obtained, and Choate undertook the task of obtaining it. No man at our bar had more profound skill in cross examination, and the questions he put to the witness were like the fire of a Maxim gun, but in every instance he failed to get the evidence he wanted and finally sat down in despair.

"Then Webster, who had been sitting in his great armchair, apparently about half asleep, as though taking no interest in the case whatever, slowly arose to his feet, put his great eyes on the hostile witness, asked him in the most serious tone a single question and brought instantly the required answer. Then as quietly he sat down and apparently went about half asleep again. It was a scene photographed on my mind, never to be forgotten.

"The difference between Webster and Choate cannot better be explained as it rests in my mind than to compare Choate to a Maxim gun raining bullets of eloquence wherever he chose and Webster to a great gun that can send out a thirteen inch shell to penetrate an ironclad.

"It was wonderful to listen to Choate. I remember a case in which an ordinary lawyer would have simply said to the court that he moved a postponement of the case because witness So-and-so was sick, but in this case Choate arose and commenced by saying that his important witness was on a bed of sickness and perhaps a bed of death and so went whirling up almost to the skies on this simple motion, to the great interest of everybody that heard him.

"Our old chief justice, Judge Shaw, one of the greatest lawyers of his time, was a plain, practical man, and looked in his old age as he sat on the bench somewhat like a Chinese idol, and he used to frequently cut off Mr. Choate's eloquence by calling him back to the plain facts."

The Reconciliation.

The doctor was soon at the child's bedside. Remedies were administered; then the agonized pair watched the fight for life—skill and vitality on one side, fierce disease on the other. When at last the struggle ceased, the gray dawn of day was looking in at the window. Life had won. The child slept.

"She is all right now," said the doctor, shaking the man's hand, which had gripped his, and feeling his heart grow warm under the look of mute gratitude the woman turned upon him.

When he had gone the two stood side by side at the baby's crib, listening to her regular breathing. Then, with one accord, they turned and kissed each other. And in that kiss the icy barrier between them melted away.

The French Guide Is a Public Pest.

Paris has produced a species which is the lowest embodiment of sentient being. It is the "guide." The guide is an evolutionary "throwback," a reversion to type. You must go deep into the muck heap whence the race has risen to find his prototype—back of the ape, back of the tiger, back of the mounting hog, though he partakes of the nature of all of these, to the dim ages when nameless troglodytes treaded in cold lethargy the primordial slime. Somewhere in that category belongs the Paris guide. Interminably these ghosts of dead decencies squeak and gibber in the streets of the city.—Collier's.

A Long Spell of Duty.

A Scotsman had come to London on his way to India and for a few days had time to amuse himself by sight-seeing before his departure, says Oscar Ramsay in his "Reminiscences." He had been much struck with the appearance of the mounted sentinels of the horse guards, Whitehall, and bore them in remembrance during his eastern sojourn. On his return after a period of thirty years, on passing the horse guards, he looked up to one, and seeing him, as he thought, unchanged as to horse, position and accoutrements, he exclaimed, "Od, freend, ye hae had a lang spell on't sin' I left."

Mutual Surprise.

They stood beneath the mistletoe.

She was justly resentful of what he had done.

"How dare you kiss me?" she exclaimed. "I never was so surprised in all my life!"

"Neither was I," he replied contritely. "I thought it was your younger sister."

Forbidden Fruit.

"Your luncheons are always so successful, Mrs. Penrhyn-Paget. Do tell me how you select your menus."

"Oh, you see, the doctor has given me a printed list of things I mustn't eat, and I choose the dishes from that."

A kindness done to the good is never lost.—Plautus.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think! It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the 25c. box. Sold by all dealers.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

State Butter

While Mr. S. A. Dke and his family were away from home Sunday, some one entered the house and seizing upon a basket containing seven pounds of choice butter, made his escape with the spoils, leaving no clue as to his identity. The inmates were absent from two until ten p.m., and the theft was committed sometime between those two hours, although just when it is hard to say. There were no signs as if anything else had been taken.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness in the only scientific and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

Small Fire

The fire brigade was given a call at ten o'clock yesterday morning to the residence of Mr. W. O'Brien, 249 Stewart street, where a chimney fire had caused trouble. A boy named Kennedy gave the alarm over the telephone, and getting a little excited gave the firemen the wrong number so that the brigade had a long run in the wrong direction. The boy told the firemen that the fire was at 249 George street, and they of course, went directly for the number, only to find their mistake. No damage was done to Mr. O'Brien's residence.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

OBITUARY

MRS. CHAS. H. MANN.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Mann will learn with regret of the death of Mrs. Mann, at their home, 122 Young street, Hamilton, Ont., on Saturday, March 13th at 12 o'clock noon.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mann were widely known throughout Peterborough, Bridgenorth and Smith.

Mrs. Mann's maiden name was Mary E. Buntin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Buntin of this city.

Mrs. Mann was born in Port Perry and in 1898 she came with her parents, who moved to this city.

She was an active worker in temperance movements and took an active part in church work in Murray and Park street churches, but after their marriage on April 30, 1902, Mrs. Mann united with Gore street Methodist church, Hamilton, where she became active in choir work. We regret to learn that Mrs. Mann has been in poor health for the past two years. In September last she went under an operation for peritonitis, from which she never seemed to recover successfully. Her last illness was of two days' duration, having taken ill on Thursday at noon and in spite of all medical aid passed away Saturday noon.

The parents received messages by telephone that their daughter was not expected to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Buntin, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Gertrude, hastened in response to the call but on arriving at Hamilton, at 2 o'clock Saturday, found that death's messenger had taken earlier than their train as their loved one had passed away one hour and fifty-five minutes prior to their arrival.

Mrs. Mann leaves to mourn her loss her loving husband, Chas. H. Mann, her father and mother, two sisters and two brothers, Miss Gertrude and Mr. F. J. Buntin of this city, and Mrs. Wm. Ed. Dixon of Hamilton, and Albert E. of Skykomish, Washington, U.S.A.

MRS. GEORGE B. HANBIDGE.

The death occurred at Nicholls Hospital on Sunday of Mrs. George B. Hanbidge of Otonabee, after an illness from Bright's disease. She was 27 years of age and was born in Otonabee, she being the daughter of Mr. W. B. Stewart. Her maiden name was Bertha Irene Stewart. She was smarried only a few months ago to her now sorrowing husband. She was a woman of many estimable qualities, and the news of her death will be learned with the profoundest regret.

Her husband, father and one sister are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence, lot 20, concession 15, to the Little Lake cemetery.

REV. R. HASSARD.

Orangeville, March 14.—The Rev. Richard Hassard of this place, died on Saturday night. He had been ailing for two or three weeks, but so little was anything apprehended that his son, Dr. George Hassard of Harrow, Ont., and who had been with him on Saturday, felt his condition to be so satisfactory that he decided at his father's express request to take a run home for a few days.

The Rev. Mr. Hassard was one of the pioneer Methodist ministers of Ontario. He came to Canada from the north of Ireland many years ago, being then associated with the Primitive Methodist or Wesleyan Methodist body, and many were the experiences which he underwent in the sparsely settled circuits in which he ministered. He was identified with the Mount Albert, Manilla, Cartwright, Laurel, Tyrone and other districts in days when the work of a minister covered many things, and when long drives through unsettled districts and preaching almost constantly were the usual life of the minister. He was perfectly fearless, and by his courage won and made lifelong friends every place he went. About thirteen years ago, owing to failing health, Rev. Mr. Hassard withdrew from active pulpit life, and took up his residence in Orangeville, where he resided until the time of his death.

Rev. Mr. Hassard is survived by his widow, five sons and one daughter, as follows; Rev. E. E. of Toronto, Dr. George A. of Barrow, Dr. Robert E. of Brooklyn, N.Y., Frank, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in Peterborough; Harry, a druggist in Fort William, and Mrs. Irwin, wife of the Rev. A. J. Irwin, B.A., Methodist minister of Tara.

WEDDING BELLS

AKER—STARR.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, Winnipeg, Man., was the scene of a quiet wedding recently, when Miss Elizabeth Starr, daughter of Mr. Jos. Stair of Peterborough, Ont., was united in marriage to Mr. Geo. C. Aker of Windsor, N.S., by Rev. W. A. Maclean, of St. Giles' church. A large number of friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony. The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. Billington. The bride was attired in cream silk, and carried a pretty bouquet of white carnations and ferns. The bridesmaid, Miss Jean Aker, sister of the groom, was attired in white organdie. She also carried a bouquet of carnations and ferns. The groom was supported by Mr. W. O. Graham, of Norwood Grove. A splendid wedding dinner was served and at its conclusion Rev. Mr. Maclean proposed the toast of the bride, coupled with best wishes for a happy journey through life. The bride was the recipient of many useful gifts. The groom's present to the bride was a gold watch. Mr. and Mrs. Aker will reside at 173 Maple street.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" is sure defiance for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Prevention is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze, chilliness, heavy head, or head cold stage—they work like magic—they break up these early colds. That's simply better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Prevention is better than Cure. Preventics are little Cocoanut Oil Cures. No Cocaine, no physic, breaking up habits. They are for children—and thoroughly safe for them. They are for adults. If you sneeze, if you take cold easily, think of Preventics. Preventics are very small, very pleasant, very like Preventics' package. Cold in a minute is known for the greatest value in the name of all Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and sores heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that lost power, lost manhood and impotency disappear; the eyes become bright, the form full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. To invite all the afflicted to consult us confidentially and free of charge. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard-earned dollars.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter H. Bowers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indigestion and constipation in early youth. I became very despondent, and didn't care whether I lived or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me thought my mental condition was abnormal, at night I awakened from my hard sleep, and my hands and feet were cold, dead in the morning, poor appetite, bowels were sluggish, eyes blurred, head heavy, memory poor, etc. Headaches in the forepart of my head and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicine and could get only first-class temporary relief. I read many first-class testimonials, wrote an inquiring letter for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cool mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Will Delay Securing Report on Available Water Powers in City

The idea of securing a report on the water power available at the new water works dam and at Auburn dam has been postponed for a couple of weeks or so. The committee expects to get some information from Ottawa on other water powers available in the neighborhood. There was some opposition to this, however, although the majority favored the delay. In the meantime the $15,000 bylaw will be submitted on March 30th.

Chairman Ald. McIntyre stated that it was intended to have had a joint meeting with the Water Commissioners to discuss the matter of the new dam and the proposed power development. He had since learned that Mr. T. F. Matthews was unable to be present so that the only thing which could be taken up was in connection with securing an engineer to furnish a report on the water powers available in the city.

The aldermen discussed at some length the advisability of getting the proposed report on the water powers. Ald. Morrow was strongly in favor of waiting until some other information was forthcoming. Ald. Bradburn also supported this idea.

Ald. Hicks asked why not hand this whole business over to the water commissioners. Let them assume the responsibility as they have all the information while the council has none.

Ald. Morrow pointed out that the power development at water works dam was now the recommendation of the Water Commissioners. The commissioners got a report on the available power and that the council took the idea up of developing the power.

Ald. Gillespie agreed with Ald Morrow.

Ald Hicks did not agree with this. He said let the commissioners take over the power end of the scheme now and if they think it is all right they can go ahead with it. If they have not full information as to the cost they will not submit it until January or at such time as they do get that information.

Ald. Morrow moved that the proposed report on the water powers be left in abeyance until some other information is secured, or until April 1st.

Ald. Morgan moved in amendment that an engineer go ahead at once and ascertain for the city the amount of power available.

Only Ald. Morgan and Ald. Hicks voted for the amendment.

Aldermen Morrow, Gillespie, Bradburn and Phelan voted for the original motion and it carried.

Young Actor, Named Carr was at Virginia Beach

Portsmouth, Va., March 16. Manager Butler of the Orpheum Theater, states that the man who told him about Miss Kensington being at Virginia Beach was a young actor named Carr.

He said that he had seen both Miss Kensington and Miss Kinrade down there. This differs from the statement of Mrs. Forman, wife of the manager of the Virginia Beach Hotel, who said that Miss Kinrade was always alone during her first stay there. Manager Butler's statement also differs, perhaps unintentionally from his former statement. He says now that he knew of Miss Kinrade being at Virginia Beach as well as Miss Kensington, when he decided to go down to look for a performer for his theater. Before he said he went down only to see Miss Kensington, and when he found she was not there he was told that the other young lady was there, and he saw her, heard her sing and engaged her. Mr. Butler said that Carr was looking for some girls for somebody else to make up a musical comed company. Apparently he saw Miss Kinrade, and she refused to go.

CARR DRIFTED ABOUT.

Manager Kirby, of the Colonial Theater in Norfolk, states that Carr has since gone with the Wills Comedy Company. He claimed to have been with some company before. He drifted into Norfolk, however, and was a pantryman at one of the big hotels. Then Mr. Butler had him taking the tickets at the door.

James Baum says he knew Carr, and remembers that he was advertising for girls to make up a company. It may be that Miss Kinrade answered the advertisement, and then when he went down there changed her mind," he said.

Mrs. Butler states that she knows that Miss Kinrade had been receiving money from her father while she was engaged at the theater. She also states that she and Mr. Butler went down to see her at Virginia Beach Hotel one Sunday during the four days that she spent there just before returning home the first time. This explains the two persons referred to by Mrs. Forman.

DID NOT MEMORIZE SONGS.

Manager Butler states that the reason he did not give Miss Kinrade the increase of salary she expected was that she did not improve as he expected she would. "She had a nice appearance on the stage, and was different from other girls who go into vaudeville work, and she had a nice voice," he said: "In her other work she did not excel particularly. The singing of the illustrated songs could not have been hard on her voice, for she had just the one song to sing. The trouble was that I wanted her to memorize her song and sing it on the stage without having her eyes glued to the music sheet, but she didn't memorize it."

"A FIND" FOR BUTLER.

Manager Kirby of the Colonial theater, remarked that Miss Kinrade was evidently a find for Butler. "But she was evidently a mysterious sort of person. I remember being over there with Mr. and Mrs. Butler in their parlor, and Miss Kinrade was there too. We had some sandwiches and beer during the evening. She took a sandwich, but would not drink anything, and she would sit for an hour and not join in any conversation of her own accord."

Arrest will be Made by Friday in The Hamilton Murder Case

Had a Revolver on Train

St. Catharines, March 16.—The Spectator prints a despatch from St. Catharines to the effect that on the afternoon of the day on which Miss Ethel Kinrade was murdered a young lady teacher, living at Jordan station, who was returning home on the train saw in the car near her a strange man who answered perfectly the description given by Miss Florence Kinrade of her sister's murderer. Suddenly the man, who was talking to somebody in the same seat, pulled out a revolver, and exclaimed; "That's how we deal with girls who go back on us down in Virginia." The young lady, according to the story, kept the matter quiet, not wishing to be connected with the case. She is the daughter of Rev. John R Isaacs, it is stated.

This or Other Important Developments Sure, the Detectives Admit—Opening the Sewer Leading to The Kinrade House

Hamilton, March 16.—That there will be an arrest in the Kinrade murder case on or before Friday is now almost beyond the shadow of a doubt. This was implied almost to a certainty by the statement made by Detective John Miller this morning.

"Are you working on any new clue?" he was asked.

"None but the first and only one," was the reply.

Several other questions were asked him but to all of them he refused to make definite reply.

The statement quoted above, however, is significant and it means that the detectives have never for a moment been thrown off the trail.

WORKING ON ONE THEORY.

It means that from the first they have been working on a theory which time and the investigations which have since been so diligently pursued have only strengthened, and although Detective Miller refused to make a statement this morning beyond those quoted, it is now almost certain that on Thursday night or Friday morning Detective Miller, and his colleagues, Detectives Coulter and Bleakley, will spring the "coup" which they have been planning and preparing for.

A conversation held with Detective Miller after the one reported above was very significant.

"Will you have any new witnesses on Friday?" he was asked.

"Yes, I think so," was the reply.

"Will there be an arrest made before Friday?"

"I hope so, at any rate there will be a satisfactory denouement shortly."

What this denouement will be is a matter for a wide range of conjecture.

SEARCHING FOR REVOLVER.

The only thing that seems to be lacking in the Crown's case now is the revolver. It has been searched for everywhere. Yesterday afternoon a permit was obtained from the sewers department of the Board of Works at the City Hall for the opening of the sewer leading out of the Kinrade home. A gang of workmen with tools went up, but desisted on account of the storm; the main will probably be opened this afternoon. Detective Miller and County Crown Attorney Washington refused to state this morning whether or not the report was true to the effect that the authorities at Portsmouth had orders to arrest a man.

"I know nothing," said Mr. Washington.

"I can told you nothing," said Detective Miller.

Miss Evelyn Trenwath Walker, the nurse with whom Miss Kinrade is staying, stated this morning that the girl is quite well.

Mr. C. Montrose Wright was asked by a reporter this morning if Miss Kinrade would care to make any statement for publication clearing up the apparent inconsistencies in her evidence, and giving the public the interpretation of what she had intended to convey in her replies to the questions put to her in the witness box at the inquest.

"There are no inconsistencies in her evidence on essential points," was Mr. Wright's reply. "There may be in some small and inconsequential details, but none which in any way effect the main portion of her story. We don't wish to bother her with explaining things which are not necessary to be explained."

Otonabee Navigation Co. Appoint Captains for Four Steamers

The directors of the Otonabee Navigation Company held a meeting in their office in the Times Building last night when arrangements were partially completed for the coming season. In the early part the company will have four steamers in commission and five the latter part. Capt. White who is commodore of the fleet and also marine superintendent of the company will once more be in command of the steamer Otonabee, Captain Frewr, who is very popular with the public since his connection with the company will command the Water Lily. Capt. Harris will again control the steamer Monarch, while a captain for the Manita has not yet been selected.

The work of overhauling the steamer Water Lily will be commenced on Monday, March 22, and as soon as the ice breaks up the boat will be launched to make more room for the construction of the new steel frame boat. The steamer Otonabee will be placed in dry dock below the lift lock and the necessary repairs to her shafting and propellor made.

The Otonabee Navigation Company has set out to make 1909 the banner year for the tourists and travelling public and also for the company. The time table has been prepared with a view to giving a service satisfactory to all, while their boats will be in the very best of shape.

Peterborough Paying High Freight Rates

The freight rates on coal from Black Rock to Peterborough is higher than it is to surrounding towns and cities, and thus the people of Peterborough are paying higher for their coal. The matter was taken up by the Manufacturers' Committee and that body will look into the matter.

Ald. Gillespie stated that there was quite a difference between the freight rates of Peterborough and surrounding towns on coal, and he thought that it was about time some thing was done here. The very high coal freight rates to the city, was one of the hardest propositions the city had to go up against in securing new industries.

For instance the distance from Black Rock to Toronto is 101 miles, and the rate is 60c per ton. From Toronto to Peterborough on the G T.R. is 94 miles and the rate is 65 cents or from Black Rock to Peterborough $1.25 per ton.

This is about 11-2 cents a ton per mile more than is paid by Lindsay.

It was stated that when this city has water connection to Lake Ontario, coal will be delivered here at 80 cents per ton, the same rate as paid by Belleville. Belleville is 219 miles from Black Rock, and the rate is 90c per ton. Peterborough is 199 miles from Black Rock and the rate is $1.25 per ton.

It was moved that the Manufacturers' Committee take the matter of freight rates up with the Railway Commission and the railway companies and that the Board of Trade be requested to co-operate. —This motion was carried.

Athletic Section of T. A. S. Re-Organized

A very gratifying re-organization meeting of the T.A.S. athletic section was held in their rooms last night when a large gathering of enthusiastic sports were present. The reports of the secretary for last year was very satisfactory. The various games in which the society took part were attended with gratifying results and lends a lot of encouragement to the management for this year and who arouses new life in the boys. It is intended during the coming season to have baseball, football and track teams for which the captains will be selected later.

The officers for the year were elected as follows;—

Hon. Pres.—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—Robt. Begley.
President—M. J. Picord.
Vice-President—F. Whaley.
Secretary-treasurer— Wm. J. O'Brien.
Manager—J. B. Desmard.
Executive Committee — Messrs. J. Shevlin, J. J. Hannarahan and W. Landry.

Proposed to Refit The Y. M. C. A.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., with their usual kindness towards the members and officers of the Association have undertaken the work of the annual refitting and refurnishing of the building this spring. In order to secure the funds necessary for the carrying out of their purposes the ladies are holding an "at home" on Friday evening, March 26th, in the Y.M.C.A. Hall. The event will take the nature of a musical evening and a choice program is being arranged for the occasion while refreshments will be served. As this will be the only means adopted by the auxiliary this year to raise the amount required, it is hoped that the many people who have the interests of the association at heart will respond to the opportunity to help in the work by attending the at-home and keeping the date in mind. Further particulars will be given in papers later on.

City Solicitor to Be Consulted

The Finance Committee met yesterday afternoon for a few minutes when the resolution passed by the City Trust Commission on Monday was read. The commissioners refused to make the grant of $8,500, and the committee decided to get an official opinion from the city solicitor on the matter and if he states that the commissioners have a legal right to make the grant the Finance Committee will in all probability approach the City Trust.

Chairman Ald. Morrow notified the committee that the City Trust Commission had decided not to grant the request of the Finance Committee to reduce their demand upon the council.

Ald. Bradburn read the section of the act covering this matter and stated that he would like to have a written opinion from the city solicitor. He moved and Ald. Phelan seconded that the city solicitor be asked to give his opinion on the legality of the City Trust Commissioners to grant the reduction in their demand upon the council for the purpose intended.—Carried.

When the solicitor's opinion is received there will be another meeting of the Finance Committee.

Preparing for Thaw

The Board of Works Department had a number of men employed yesterday digging gutters in the ice along the sides of the streets to allow the water to run off when the next thaw comes and thus prevent the walks and crossings being flooded.

Cobourg to Havelock Rival Lines Proposed

Toronto, March 16.—Two applicants for the same railway rights between Cobourg and Havelock, including the Kawartha Lakes district, appeared before the Railway Committee this morning in support of two separate bills of incorporation. Representatives of both interests were present to press the alleged prior claims.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Samuel Clark, Northumberland, "that the two companies should settle the matter between themselves. Two charters are being asked for practically the same route."

It was explained that the opposition to the second bill "to incorporate the Cobourg, Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes Railway Company" was strongly opposed by the Board of Trade of Port Hope, which did not wish to see the town cut off from the new electric route through the Kawartha Lakes district. Of the Cobourg line promoters Mr. H. M. Fields, a barrister of Cobourg, was the spokesman.

Col. Henry A. Ward appeared for the Port Hope line advocates.

Hon. Frank Cochrane, chairman;—"The point seems to me to be whether the two companies shall reconcile the difficulties between themselves, or that the committee shall take it out of their hands."

Col. Ward—"I should only be too glad to arrange another conference."

A motion of Mr. Sam Clark, seconded by T. W. McGarry, solved the difficulty. It was in this form;

"That the promoters of the two companies retire for half an hour to endeavor to reach a mutual agreement, reporting the result to the committee."

This carried, and the majority of the members, supporters and lawyers left the room.

In the stipulated time the two bodies returned. Dr. R. F. Preston advised the committee that he had proposed to appoint five members of each board of directors as a joint controlling board. It had not been accepted. Mr. Samuel Nesbitt, East Northumberland, thought that both companies should build their roads and compete for available business.

"Do I understand that the Cobourg company would run their line to Port Hope just as the other company propose doing?" asked Mr. Nesbitt. He was confirmed on this point.

A motion of Mr. Samuel Clark, that both bills be passed, thus granting the two charters, carried with few dissenting votes.

Can't Buy Simpson Off

Toronto, March 16—Tommy Longboat pulled another funny one yesterday, when he found the crowd in Toronto all talking of the Shrubb-Simpson 12-mile race at the Armories Saturday night. He hunted Shrubb up, and gravely offered to take Simpson's place, and pay Simpson his own price to drop out.

"Get out, man!" returned Alfie. "I'm not running easy marks."

"I'll beat you," returned the Onondaga, as mad as a wet hen.

"Why, man, in your present condition Simpson will beat you and do it easily," said Shrubb. "I've got a real runner to beat here Saturday night. There would be no honor in beating you as you are now. Get in shape and I'll run you two weeks after the Marathon Derby."

When Simpson heard of Longboat's temerity, he remarked; "The nerve of him. I've got my chance now. Do you think I would sell it out? No chance. I'm out to win or go into the athletic discard."

Tom Eck simply smiles, and says; "This is the year for dark horses. Remember Jack Johnson and Tommy Burns, and Tom Longboat and Alf. Shrubb in the Marathon, and St. Mikes' hockey team and Kingston 14th. All considered lemons in their big events, but every one came home on the bit. Watch my Ojibway Saturday night. If Shrubb beats him he'll step faster than he ever stepped 12 miles on this continent."

Letter to The Editor

(To the Editor of The Times)

Dear Sir,—Noticing your letter in yesterday's issue, there is another little matter which might give the people some light on how the water commissioners figure out a big surprise. Take any street in the city on which the water mains have not been run. There are for instance ten to twenty families residing there. The majority or all of these want the water service and a petition is sent to the commissioners. There happens to be several vacant lots on the street, and a few of the residents are averse to signing a petition. The commissioners estimate the cost of the work and it is found that the estimated revenue from the consumers on the petition falls a little short of the required 10 per cent. of the cost. The petition is flatly refused. The people are told to go to the council and secure an order from that body for one or more hydrants. This makes up the ten per cent. and a little more. Thus the surplus is increased before even a pick has been placed in the ground. But it is the city that pays the shot. Without the open purse of the council the water commissioners' profits would not climb so rapidly.

Yours truly,

CONSUMER.

The Exam. Stock Took Big Drop

The two Examiner teams took a big drop last night, by losing five games out of the six. The seniors who have been near the top for a long time and had an opportunity to take a good safe lead lost two games to the Lock Works, while the juniors lost all three to the Grays. The results were as follows;—

GREYS—

N. Perry	169	150	176	495

BOWLING

By their loss of two games last night the Examiner A drop back to second place with the Bankers only a few behind and an opportunity to go ahead tonight. The Pacifics are still in first place.

The high score remains with Sutherland at 223. Herb. Martin, however, gave him a close run last night when he rolled 221.

One of the fastest finishes ever seen on the local alleys was played last night by Martin and Cairns. Both men were tied from the fifth frame and both struck out with a score of 159. They played an extra frame and both got a strike and three more frames were played in which both got strikes. Then Martin rolled his fifth extra and got nine, while Cairns rolled his fifth and knocked down only eight. Thus Martin won by one pin.

Didn't Realize

How Injurious Coffee Really Was

Many persons go on drinking coffee year after year without realizing that it is the cause of many obscure but persistent ailments.

The drug—caffeine—in coffee and tea, is very like uric acid and is often the cause of rheumatic attacks which, when coffee is used habitually, become chronic.

A Washington lady said, recently; "I am sixty-five and have had a good deal of experience with coffee. I consider it very injurious and the cause of many diseases. I am sure it causes decay of teeth in children.

"When I drank coffee I had sick spells and still did not realize that coffee could be so harmful, till about a year ago I had rheumatism in my arms and fingers, got so nervous I could not sleep and was all run down.

"At last, after finding that medicines did me no good, I decided to quit coffee entirely and try Postum. After using it six months I fully recovered my health beyond all expectations, can sleep sound and my rheumatism is all gone."

"There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich., read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MONEY NO OBJECT

When People are Seeking Health or RELIEF from any DISEASE the Price Never Counts.

It is a fact that not less than a million is spent every year by people seeking a satisfactory cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably the best and most highly recommended preparation is Catarrhozone which treats the local symptoms very effectually by means of medicated air supplied through a convenient hard rubber inhaler. The poisons in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone Tablets, which are taken after each meal. They promote appetite, aid digestion, and make the blood rich and pure, so that it will nourish all parts of the body.

This combined local and constitutional treatment in catarrhal diseases has met with wonderful success and can be relied upon to cure every time. The inhaler stops sneezing, coughing, dropsings in the throat, and brings quick relief and cure to all the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.

The following testimonials from well-known Canadians furnish abundant proof what Catarrhozone accomplishes in stubborn cases.

Mrs. James Tweedie, of Jay Bridge, says: "For years my daughter doctored unsuccessfully for Catarrh. She had droppings in the throat, hawkings, nausea, and could not sleep at night. The first day's use of Catarrhozone benefitted and ultimately cured my daughter so that Catarrh has never returned. I can recommend Catarrhozone as a grand remedy for Catarrh."

Thousands of strong letters could be given like the above if necessary, but all this is required to prove the merit of Catarrhozone is a trial. It is sure as death to cure and if it fails your money will be refunded. Catarrhozone cured lots of cases worse than yours and can do it again.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17, 1909.

SOME POINTERS

A young farmer living near Berlin having engaged to work for a farmer out in Nebraska, was on his way there when he was stopped at Detroit and turned back. In the same week twelve other Canadians were refused admission to the United States at the same port.

The young man's name is Andrew Diestner, and having been turned back he cannot, under the regulations, enter the Republic for one year at least.

During the year we would like to lay before Andrew, from time to time, some facts for his consideration. Why should he go to Nebraska? He is a young farmer, and if he wants to take his skill, experience, and industry to the best market on the continent, or in the world, he should not go to Nebraska, but to the Canadian West. He should go to Manitoba or Saskatchewan, or Alberta, or or British Columbia. He should strike up into the Peace River country or into the districts north of Prince Albert, where nature has been munificent in her gifts, and where men have not, as yet, skimmed the cream off everything.

Why should a young Ontario farmer who feels the call to wander—who has an ambition to go away off somewhere and be somebody—follow old and weather-beaten sign-posts, and take the worn road to Nebraska, when a whole half continent richer than that Western State ever was calls him into the West and the North of his own country? Why should he subject himself to the indignity of being "turned back" at Detroit, when by reading the despatches in the newspapers on the same day that he suffered this affront he would have learned that hundreds of Nebraskan farmers are trekking across the border to settle on Canadian wheat lands?

Andrew should read the papers and keep tab on the opportunities that his own country presents. If he goes to Nebraska he will merely get in at the tail of the procession and take the dust of those who are teaming their goods and chattels back across the border into the great agricultural area of the future. Why follow? Why not get in the van.

Take it in another way. The new provinces of Canada and the as yet unorganized districts not only offer virgin lands to those who have the skill to work them, but these new provinces need men to think and plan and lead in the building up of social organizations. There are opportunities for young men to win more than financial success—honors, offices, and the respect of posterity. All the chances a man needs for himself and should desire for his descendents can be had in Canada—in the West and in New Ontario.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A Thirteenth Century Drink.

Thirteenth century tastes in food had few limitations. Besides the "fowl of Africa and the rare godwit of Ionia" mentioned by Fitzstephen, gourmets in the time of King John used to regale themselves on herons, cranes, crows, storks, cormorants and bitterns. Some would wash their meals down with wine, but the majority drank mead or methegiln. Mead, according to Hollished, was only the washing of the combs after the honey had been taken from them and so poor a beverage that it had to be spiced, peppered or made palatable with sweetbrier or thyme. But methegiln contained one hundredweight of honey to twenty-four gallons of water and must have been much more intoxicating than the strongest old ale of the present day.—Loudon Chronicle.

Calling the Deaf.

"To waken a deaf person who wishes to be called at a certain time in the morning is about the hardest proposition a hotel clerk runs up against," said a member of that fraternity. "To ring the telephone is useless, because the man can't hear. Knocking, for the same reason, is futile. Now and then a guest who has lost his hearing suggests that he leave his door open so we can walk right in and shake him, but even if he does appear to be dead game there are so many chances of somebody less guileless than ourselves walking in ahead of us that we can't consent to that simple expedient. It seems to me the man who can patent a device for waking the deaf is sure of fame and fortune, not to mention the gratitude of the brotherhood of hotel clerks."—Exchange.

To Save the Tablecloth.

Nothing is more provoking to the careful housewife than to have a perfectly clean tablecloth liberally bespattered with gravy the first time it is used. Get a large table napkin—one to match the tablecloth if possible—and a piece of white oilcloth cut an inch shorter and an inch narrower than the napkin. Place the oilcloth where the meat dish will stand and spread the napkin over it. The gravy cannot penetrate through the oilcloth. Thus there is a considerable saving in the washing bill.

How It Looked.

"I think you ought to turn the lights up a little when your beau comes," said the boy who is beginning to use big words to his older sister. "I wouldn't sit in the dim light if I were you. It looks too conspicuous."

The Real Reason.

"Why don't you go down Main street?"

"Well, you see, on one side of it lives my tailor and on the other side my shoemaker, while a canal runs through the middle."—Meggendorfer Blatter.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

WOMEN ON ENGLISH MOORS.

Colony Is Granted Land by Lord Shaftesbury For Cultivation.

The "Ladies Home Colony" in Dorset, advanced an important step recently. The seven acres of land which Lord Shaftesbury has granted to the women squatters was investigated closely, and proved on expert examination to be of more promise than was expected.

It is at present a waste of heather and furze, in the middle of several hundred acres equally waste and valueless. "Why has no one thought of reclaiming this before?" was asked; and any one who inspected a section of the ground must have echoed the question.

If this experiment is successful, we may see at West Moors, as elsewhere, hundreds of such acres reclaimed to fertility. A Women's Home Colony Guild, for the encouragement of womanly crafts, from French gardening to weaving, is to be established; and this pioneer experiment is being watched and encouraged by Mrs. Pennant and those who are organizing schemes for London's unemployed women.

Neighboring experiments prove that this unused and so-called useless land is admirable for growing strawberries, lavender and many bushes. The biggest scent distillery in England is close by, and it has just been found that the soil grows lavender at least as fine in quality as that which the builders are driving from its famous home at Mitcham. It is a surprising and most satisfactory sight to see sheep grazing white clover planted between the lavender bushes.

The growing of sweet herbs will be one of the first endeavors of the ten squatters; but at the beginning, while the plow and cultivator are busy with the gorse and heather, the crafts will occupy the principal energy.

Lord Shaftesbury has been making valuable experiments on the Irish model—in reclaiming waste acres by artificial manures. It is just such land as Professor Bottomley's bacteria mixture should reform, and probably an experiment with it will be made. The colony at West Moors, which is a rising village some seven miles from Bournemouth, has thus a double importance. It is a scientific experiment in the reclamation of waste land, and it is a promising endeavor to give women who have worked and overworked in the town a prospect of a healthy life in the country.

It may mark an important stage in the "return to the land," of which new signs appear month by month.

In Business as Fruit-Seller.

Although he has entered on his sixty-sixth year, Lord Harrington still indulges in his favorite pastime of polo. It is thirty-three years ago since he became possessed of his first polo pony. He was the first president and one of the original founders of the Polo Pony Society, rendering not only good service to the game, but also to the improvement of the riding pony; for his lordship breeds nearly all his own hunters and polo ponies. His interests in life, however, do not end at sport. He was a civil engineer before he succeeded to the family honors, and is, like Lord Dundonald, something of an inventor, a motor mowing machine and a self-opening gate being among his ingenious contrivances. Then, again, he is a very keen gardener; and not only grows excellent fruit, but also sells it at a shop of his own at Charing Cross for the benefit of his tenants.

"The Dream Fruit" of the Greeks.

Hashish, that strange drug which has given our language its word "assassin"—a man so frenzied by the drug that he accomplishes murder—is used by the Persian, Turk, and Egyptians in a manner akin to the use of opium by the Chinese. It is the product of a plant grown in large quantities in the Peloponnesus (Southern Greece), in the district about Tripolitza. The plant grows to a height of about four feet, and its branches are thickly covered with small leaves and studded with tiny seeds.

The entire plant, stalk and branches, is cut within a few inches of the root and laid out in the sun to dry. The branches are then rubbed to separate the seeds, and these in turn are ground into a fine powder, which constitutes the drug. The drug has the power of producing sleep and producing pleasant and fantastic dreams. Continued use of hashish renders its devotees wild and reckless, and results in a complete wreck of their mental and physical constitution.

For this reason the Egyptian Government has prohibited the importation of the drug, and recently entered into a convention with Greece to prevent its exportation from there to Egypt, where the consumers of hashish are very numerous. The drug is practically never used in Greece, but is now exported to various ports in England, Austria, France, and Italy, and from there much, no doubt, ultimately finds its way to Egypt.

Mount Everest.

"Mount Everest" has not been universally accepted as the name of the world's highest mountain. It was bestowed in 1857 by the Royal Geographical Society in honor of Sir Geo. Everest, the surveyor-general, who organized the survey of India upon a scientific basis. The society overruled an objection that the Nepalese already called the mountain Devadhunga (God's Seat) and Bhairava Lamgar (the Terrible pass), it being doubtful whether these names referred to this particular mountain. On the continent of Europe many have persisted in calling it Dawriaankar, a title of the god Shiva the Destroyer and his wife. But this seems to be really another peak, and Col. Waddell has found by much inquiring no native name for Everest but "the White mountain," a vague term, just like the original Mont Blanc of the Alps.

The Armenians.

Armenia is a country of strong contrasts, of opposite extremes of heat and cold, light and shade, drought and moisture, and contains many mysteries awaiting solution. The ethnologist is still in doubt as to what branch of the great European family the Armenian people belong to. The philologist has not yet classified their language. The antiquarian knows next to nothing of their early history.

Great Find of Prehistoric Relics.

Miss Layard, an Ipswich, England, antiquary, has returned from Ireland with 800 flint knives, arrow-heads, scrapers, turtle-backs and beaver which she picked up on the shore of an Irish lough in the course of seven hours.

Walton's Will Sold.

A collector bought the official copy of Izaak Walton's will at Hodgson's Rooms in Chancery lane, London, recently for £180. It is engrossed in a law hand of the period on a sheet of parchment, twenty-nine by twenty inches, has attached the probate dated Feb. 4, 1683, signed by Thomas Welham, registrar, and bears the seal of the Court of Canterbury.

SOOTHING THE WAVES.

Oiling the Waters When the Seas Are Running High.

When the captain of a wave beaten ship pours oil upon the waters he does not empty a barrel of kerosene over the side. He has somebody stitch up three or four cotton bags, which he fills first with oakum and then with oil, usually equal parts of fish oil and kerosene. The bags are then tied tightly at the tops and pricked all over with a mail needle to permit the oil to exude and are hung from the boat davits and weather chains to drip their contents on the raging billows. The bags must not be allowed to get empty, but must be refilled every two hours. For six bags ten gallons of oil are used in thirty hours. Sometimes if it is very cold the oil congeals and will not run out through the holes fast enough, and the mouth of the bag is then loosened to let it escape in that way. Its effect is magical on a rough sea. A huge comber will arise, threatening to bury the laboring vessel under tons of water, but will strike a patch of oil so larger than a common dining table and subside in an instant into a smooth, round swell, which the ship rides like a cork.

The use of oil is also a valuable aid in wearing ship in a gale and high seas. A few gallons of paint oil over the lee quarter enable the vessel to perform the manoeuver in perfect safety without taking a drop of water on board. When a boat ships so much water that it is impossible to get the oil bags slung in position without running the risk of being swept overboard an ordinary bed sheet saturated with paint oil tied to a rope and allowed to float will soon calm the seas sufficiently to permit men to move about the decks safely. Paint oil is agreed to be the best to use, rape seed oil and porpoise oil rank next, but kerosene is not satisfactory unless mixed with some other oil.

THE SUMMIT OF FUJI.

When Morning Breaks Over the Very Top of Japan.

Suddenly a spark, a flame and then a burst of fire, and, lo and behold, the rosy morning is awake once more on Fuji's pearly crest while Japan, below, is yet enveloped in the slimy mists of night.

The pilgrims fall on their knees and bow their heads to the ground in adoration, and with much fingering of rosaries the plaintive cadence of their prayers rises like a lamentation to the heavens above.

At Benares, the sainted city of the Hindoos, as the sun rises each morning across the holy Ganges the prayers of the bathing multitude are as the roaring of the sea. But even this, one of the greatest and most stirring religious spectacles of the world, is not more picturesque than that little band of pilgrims 'twixt heaven and earth, high up in the blue profound, on the very top of Japan, kneeling in praise before the great orb which is the emblem of their empire.

Never to have seen sunrise from the summit of Fuji is never to have really seen Japan.

The kindly nature which made this lovely land has surpassed all its other efforts in the lavish profusion with which it has scattered its favors around the sacred mountain. Rippling rills and roaring rivers, dancing cascades and thundering waterfalls, feathery woods and deep forests there are on every side, but of all these glories the most enchanting are the lakes which lie embosomed like flashing jewels among the hills.

Of them all Shoji and Motosu are the most beautiful, the latter excelling in the exquisite sapphire blue of its waters and its dainty, delicate beauty all other lakes in Japan and challenging comparison with the fairest waters of the world.—Herbert G. Poating in Metropolitan Magazine.

Gestures.

"It will help actors in gesturing correctly," said a playwright, "to remember that all gesticulation is an inheritance from our simian ancestors. We show abhorrence best by the same movements with which we would repel a wet dog. We show affection by the movements with which we would receive a loved physical object. We move our hands from side to side to signify 'no' because that was the way our monkey ancestors avoided a proffered and undesirable morsel of food. We nod for 'yes' because that was the way our monkey forbears reached for an acceptable morsel."

GROWING EMPIRE.

Cession of Siamese Territory Adds Big Area to Greater Britain.

The negotiations which were commenced in 1907 and suspended last spring, between Great Britain and Siam for the cession to Great Britain of the Siamese States of Kelantan, Tringano, and Kedah, have been resumed, and an agreement on the subject has (Reuter's Agency learns) been practically reached. There is reason to believe that an Anglo-Siamese treaty by which, in return for certain advantages, Siam will renounce her suzerainty over the states in question in favor of Great Britain, is likely to be signed at Bangkok in the immediate future. The immediate effect of the conclusion of such a treaty will be the inclusion in the federated Malay States of an area of about 15,600 miles, or more than half the present area of the federated Malay States. The territory in question contains a large Mahometan population, amongst whom are a considerable number of British subjects, exceeding that of the federated Malay States themselves.

Mr. R. W. Duff, the managing director of an English company which holds, until 1940, extensive commercial, fiscal, and other rights in Kelantan, states, in regard to the above, that it is incorrect to assume that the cession of territory has been given as a quid pro quo for the relinquishment of British extra territorial rights in Siam proper, although it is quite possible that this question may also form part of the treaty. "It is much more likely," he added, "that advantages of a commercial nature have been granted to Siam in return. The proposed arrangement will strengthen the position of Great Britain in the Malay Peninsula, and will effectually prevent the possibility of the establishment of any important foreign interest which might lead to disputes in dependencies of Siam which are remote from effective control from Bangkok. From a strategic point it is valuable, as the federated Malay States railway system, which extends from Singapore to Penang, can now be extended considerably further northward.

A Famous Hunt.

The 42nd anniversary of that famous fox-hunt known as "the Waterloo run," from the fact that it had its inception at Waterloo Gorse, has just taken place in England. Col. Anstruther-Thomson—who hunted with 101 different packs—was then master of the Pytchley Hounds, and they covered 30 miles in three hours and 45 minutes—the first 21 miles occupied only one hour and 50 minutes—but subsequently a rather long check was experienced. The railway was crossed four times and the canal once, and fox, hounds, and followers negotiated rivers and brooks upon nine occasions, while main and other roads came within the scope of operations at no fewer than 26 different points. The master rode five horses, and for an hour and 45 minutes was alone with the hounds. Those who ran a portion of this remarkable chase included Capt. Clark, who was the only man that rode the same horse through, and Tom Firr, the most scientific huntsman that ever carried a horn. Hounds were stopped owing to darkness, and it was ten at night when they reached home.

The Queen's Technical Schools."

It is not generally known that the Queen conducts a school at Sandringham. After they leave the ordinary school the village girls and boys on the Sandringham estate are received into "The Queen's Technical Schools" and taught an industry which will stand them in good stead during the whole of their lives. The girls are taught needlework, and the boys cabinet making. With the former some very beautiful work is done, in some cases the material used being actually spun and woven in the school. Lace-making, drawn-thread work, and embroidery of all kinds is carried out. The boys produce chairs, tables, trays, bureaus—in fact, almost anything in the furniture way, and the workmanship is really excellent. Many pieces of furniture are made for the King and Queen themselves to give away as presents. Often the King's guests go to see the school, and leave their orders. On the pages of the order book are to be found the signatures of the German Emperor, the late King and Queen of Portugal, the King and Queen of Spain, and the Queen of Norway.—The Country Home.

Hard on the Bishop.

Of Dr. King, the Bishop of Lincoln, who entered on his eightieth year the other day, many curious stories are told, notwithstanding the placid and uneventful life that he has led. One day, and he tells the tale himself, he was sitting in a chair by the seashore, and on attempting to rise found that his legs were not so young as they were. While he was still struggling to gain an erect position a fisherman's little daughter came along and lent her aid. "Thank you, little girl," said the bishop, when safely on his feet. "Oh, it's nothing," said the girl, in reply; "I've be[illegible] father to get up many a time wi[illegible] he hasn't been near so sober as you."

White Strawberries.

A grower, of Berkeley, England, has, after twenty years of experimental work, produced two new strawberries, one of which is quite white. The fruit is studded with fine seeds upon the outside, as are ordinary strawberries. Otherwise it is totally different from them. The plant bears throughout the winter in a congenial climate, similar to that which exists in the south of England, and, when set in frames during the winter, will bear freely till Christmas. The berries are large and of excellent flavor, equalling in these respects the Paxton and Royal Sovereign.

They Find a Place in the Minds of Even Great Men.

A man more absolutely governed by pure reason than Lord Macaulay could not well be found. But in his diary he refers to an after dinner talk about the feeling which Johnson had of thinking oneself bound to touch a particular rail or post and to tread in the middle of a paving stone, and he adds, "I certainly have this very strongly." In one of his Hibbert lectures Max Muller said to the students: "Many of you, I suspect, carry a ha'penny with a hole in it for luck. I am not ashamed to own that I have done so myself for many years."

Charles Dickens refused to lie down unless his bed were placed due north and south. He gave notice of the rule before arriving at a friend's house or a hotel, but a compass was always handy in his baggage to make sure. Miss Justin McCarthy has told how Parnell gravely checked her stirring coffee "the wrong way" and insisted that she should take another cup. A gentleman of Portrush sent Lord Roberts an old horseshoe when things looked ill in South Africa. Gratefully acknowledging it, the general added that he would keep this horseshoe in company "with one I picked up the day I entered the Orange Free State and another I found at Paardeburg the day before General Cronje surrendered."—Pall Mall Gazette.

BLUE EYED BABIES.

They Are the Favorites For Adoption Out of Orphan Asylums.

"Every baby who expects to be adopted out of an orphan asylum ought to make it a point of being born with blue eyes," said an asylum director. "That precaution will insure him a maximum of home comforts with a minimum of endeavor. There is no doubt that in an institution of this kind blue eyed babies up for adoption are more popular than the dark eyed youngsters. The brown eyed, black eyed or gray eyed girl or boy may be just as pretty, just as amiable, just as likely to achieve future eminence as the blue eyed child, but it is hard to make benevolent auxiliaries of the stork believe so. In their opinion blue eyes indicate special virtues.

"'I know he will turn out to be an honest, reliable little fellow because he has such heavenly blue eyes,' is the way they explain their preference.

"So on the strength of these 'heavenly blue eyes' the baby is chosen. The youngster will no doubt do justice to his bringing up, but it is hard for the children with eyes of another color to be so discriminated against."

As Smart as His Boy.

When Sir William Gilbert was twenty-seven and was known to the world as a promising writer, his father, who was a retired naval surgeon, wrote a semi-metaphysical, semi-medical book entitled "Shirley Hall Asylum," his first book.

Edith A. Brown, when preparing a biography of the younger man, having heard that the son was the incentive from without which spurred into action the inherent but dormant literary talent of the father, asked if such was the fact.

"Yes," replied the author of the "Bab Ballads" and the wittiest librettos ever written, "I think the little success which had attended by humble efforts certainly influenced my father.

"You see," he added, with a suspicion of a smile, "my father never had an exalted idea of my ability. He thought if I could write anybody could, and forthwith he began."

Antiquity of Death Masks.

Although there is no mention of death masks in the works of Homer or in any of the later classics, modern explorers have satisfied themselves that in the early burials of all nations it was the custom to cover the heads and bodies of the dead with sheets of gold so pliable that they took the impress of the form, and not infrequently, when in the course of centuries the embalmed dead had shrivaled or fallen away, the gold retained the exact cast of the features. Schliemann found a number of bodies "covered with large masks of gold plate in repousse work," several of which have been reproduced by means of engraving in his "Mycenae," and he asserts that there can be no doubt whatever that each one of these represents the likeness of the deceased person whose face it covered.

Dickens Characters.

All those elements that disgust Mr. Pugh in Dickins, the clowning and caricature, the preposterous figures and the practical jokes, Mr. Pickwick getting into the wheelbarrow and Tony Weller hardly getting into his waistcoat—all this is simply the fits and laughter of the actual English people. One has only to go down the Battersea park road on a Saturday night to hear it.—G. K. Chesterton in London News.

Couldn't Feel Johnny.

Widow Jones—How would my little Johnny like a new papa? Johnny (aged five)—Oh, you needn't shove the responsibility on to me, ma! It isn't a new papa for me, but a new husband for yourself, that you are thinking of.

Our Helpful Maids.

Louise—I'm in an awful boat. After I started to bleach my hair I found I had only enough to do half of it, and Nelson is coming tonight. Julia—Never mind, dear. Let him sit on the porch side.—Harper's Bazar.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think! It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the 25c. box. Sold by all dealers.

Cosgrave's Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviab'e reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

An Ideal Sunday Newspaper

Recent issues of the Sunday Record-Herald remind one that Chicago may fairly claim to producing the best newspapers in the world, not excepting those of New York. The Sunday Record-Herald, in foreign news alone, has its own special cable service in addition to those of the New York Herald, World, Journal of Commerce and Associated Press. This is a fair sample of the completeness of the paper in every department.

Aside from the regular news features, there is something in the Sunday Record-Herald for every member of the family. The special articles by William E. Curtis and Walter Wellman are always interesting. The sporting section offers four whole pages of fresh and authentic news in every line of sport. The woman's section is filled with illustrated articles on the latest wrinkles in fashion and domestic science, with Marion Harland and Mme Qui Vive as regular contributors, and Dame Curtsey's "Novelties in Entertainment" as a valued feature. The dramatic page, written by James O'Donnell Bennett, is admittedly without an equal in the West. The array of splendid special articles by skilled writers, finely illustrated, also is typical of the high literary quality of the Record-Herald. In the way of humor there is the comic colored supplement for children, besides Richard F. Little's laughable articles for adults and S. E. Kiser's delightful "Alternating Currents" for everybody.

But the thing that lifts the Sunday Record-Herald most emphatically above all its rivals is its magazine section. There is nothing else that can touch this in American journalism. The Sunday Magazine of the Record-Herald is a real magazine, full of stories and articles by the most famous writers of our day. Illustrated by celebrated artists. In quality and beauty it compares favorably with the best monthlies. No wonder the Record-Herald is regarded as the ideal Sunday newspaper.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these nerve centres. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other disordered or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. Use Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

By-law No...

A BY-LAW to provide for borrowing the sum of $120,000 to pay the cost of construction of a concrete dam and other works for the improvement of the Waterworks system of the City of Peterborough.

Passed the day of 1909

WHEREAS the Peterborough Water Commissioners have represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough that it is necessary, in order to ensure a permanent, increased and satisfactory supply of water to the City for public and private use and for fire protection, that the present waterworks dam should be replaced by a new concrete dam and that a new pump house and more effective pumping plant, together with the other works and appliances required to control and develop the water power at the said dam and to supply water to the waterworks system of the said City should be constructed and installed, and it is estimated that the cost of same will be the sum of $120,000 and the said Water Commissioners have applied to the Council for the said sum for such purposes.

AND WHEREAS it is desirable in the public interest to construct and instal such works and appliances and to pass this Bylaw, to be submitted to the votes of the duly qualified electors, to authorise the borrowing of the said sum for the purposes aforesaid, which sum of $120,000 is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this Bylaw.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $120,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount, such debentures to be a special charge on the waterworks, and the lands used therewith and the revenues arising therefrom and also charged on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised Assessment Roll, being the roll prepared in the year 1908, for the year 1909, is the sum of $8,426,778 and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates, but including the debt of $312,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks, is the sum of $870,381.98 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $5100 to be raised annually for a period of thirty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this Bylaw to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $2,324.56 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at maturity thereof—such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $7,424.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This Bylaw shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $120,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust, and to be made payable within thirty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough.

3. The said waterworks and lands shall be specially charged with the repayment of the said sum hereby authorized to be borrowed and the debentures to be issued therefor and the holders of such debentures shall have a preferential charge on the said waterworks and lands and the revenues arising therefrom, after providing for the payment of the expenses attendant upon the operation and maintenance of the said waterworks and the interest and sinking fund in respect to debentures already issued for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks system, for securing the payment of the said debentures and the interest thereon and the said debentures and interest shall also be a charge upon the whole rateable property of the municipality.

4. Subject to the provisions of subsection 2 of this section there shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the Municipality, the sum of $5,100 for payment of the interest on the said debt, and the sum of $2,324.56 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof making together the sum of $7,424.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

(2) Provided however that the revenues arising from the said waterworks shall, after payment of the expenses of operating and maintaining the said waterworks and the payment of the interest and sinking fund in respect to debentures heretofore issued for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks system, be applied towards payment of the annual interest and sinking fund on the debentures to be issued hereunder and the Council of the said City shall only be required to raise in each year during the currency of the debentures to be issued hereunder a sum sufficient with the moneys arising and available from such revenue to make up the said annual sum of $7,424.56 required for payment of the interest and sinking fund of the debentures to be issued hereunder.

5. As the proposed expenditure upon the objects for which the debt to be created by this Bylaw is estimated to extend over more than one year and it is undesirable to have large portions of the money on hand unused and uninvested it would in the opinion of the Council be to the advantage of the Municipality to issued in instalments and it is therefore hereby provided that said debentures may be issued in instalments of such amounts (not exceeding in the aggregate the total amount for which provision is made by this Bylaw) and at such times, as the exigency of the case demands, but so that the whole shall be issued within five years and the first instalment within two years after the passing of this Bylaw and the proceeds of the said debentures when sold or a sufficient part thereof for that purpose shall be paid over as required to the Peterborough Water Commissioners, to be applied in payment of the amount expended in the construction of such new dam, pump house and pumping plant and the other works and appliances constructed and installed to control and develop the water power at the said dam and to supply water to the water works system of the city.

6. For the purpose of taking the votes of the duly qualified electors on this bylaw the following adjoining Polling Subdivisions shall be united namely;—Polling Subdivisions Numbers 1 and 2; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 4, 5 and 6; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 7 and 8; Polling Subdivisions numbers 10 and 11 and Polling Subdivisions numbers 13 and 14.

7. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough qualified to vote upon Bylaws for creating debts shall be taken upon this Bylaw on the 30th day of March, 1909, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the forenoon and closing at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at the following places and before the following Deputy Returning Officers, with the following Poll Clerks, that is to say;—

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS 1 and 2—Place, B. McGill's grocery, Cor. Aylmer and Lake streets. Deputy Returning Officer, Josiah Robertson. Poll Clerk, W. Van Every.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NO 3—Place, L. Spry's, 210 Stewart street. Deputy Returning Officer, F. J. A. Hall. Poll Clerk, John Comstock.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 4, 5 and 6—Place, The City Council Chambers. Deputy Returning Officer, Angus McIntosh. Poll Clerk, J. P. Bryson.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 7 and 8—Place, A. J. Warne's, 366 Charlotte street. Deputy Returning Officer, J. M. Greene. Poll Clerk, Henry Greene.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NO. 9—Place, N. Routley's, 302 Brock street. Deputy Returning Officer, John Sawers. Poll Clerk, N. Routley.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 10 and 11—Place, Mrs. Mann's store, 601 George street. Deputy Returning Officer, A. Sawers. Poll Clerk, G. B. Bowpon.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NO. 12—Place, Mrs. Wm. Lee's shop, Smith street. Deputy Returning Officer, T. W. Robinson. Poll Clerk, D. Kennedy.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 13 and 14—Place, the former Village Hall. Deputy Returning Officer, Robert Hamilton. Poll Clerk, James McDonald.

8. The 31st day of March, 1909 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where, the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the Bylaw.

9. The 29th day of March, 1909, at the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the bylaw respectively.

Mayor.

Clerk.

NOTICE.

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed Bylaw which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in The Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the third day of March, 1909, and that at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that a bylaw was passed by the council of the City of Peterborough on the first day of March, A.D., 1909, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $10,000 for the purpose of paying for permanent improvements to the Collegiate Institute of the City of Peterborough.

And that a bylaw was passed by the said council on the said first day of March, A.D., 1909, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $4,000 for the purpose of paying for permanent improvements to Public Schools in the City of Peterborough.

And that such bylaws were registered in the Registry Office of the County of Peterborough at Peterborough on the tenth day of March, A.D., 1909.

Any motion to quash or set aside the bylaws or either of them or any part of either of them, must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice, and cannot be made thereafter.

Had Head Severely Cut

Mr. Austin a military tailor from Toronto, met with a painful accident at Central Park yesterday about 9 o'clock. He was crossing the park to the drill hall where a meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment was held last night, when he slipped and fell, owing to the treacherous footing, and had the back of his head severely cut. The blood flowed from the injury and Mr. Austin was insensible for a few minutes. A passer by assisted the injured man to the drill hall. Lieut.-Col. Miller and Capt. McWilliams took him to Dr. MacPherson's surgery, where his injuries were attended to.

Power Committee is Preparing Information for the Ratepayers

The Special Power Committee has decided to recommend the City Council to submit a bylaw to the people authorizing the expenditure of $15,000 for power development at the new water works dam. This sum is intended to pay for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house. The money for the purchase of the machinery and delivering the power will be left over until some future date.

The Power Committee has prepared a letter giving the ratepayers all the information available on the power proposition. This letter will be published in all the three papers and it will also be gotten out in circular form and delivered to every house in the city. Thus it will be seen that the Power Committee proposes to give to the ratepayers every bit of information they possess on the subject and the ratepayers will be asked to support the bylaw.

No Trace of Revolver, Sewer was Examined

Hamilton, March 17.—Under the supervision of Detectives Bleakley and Coulter the sewer leading from Herkimer street into the Kinrade house was opened and the search for the revolver begun the first thing this morning, the search, as already indicated being instituted on the theory that the murderer may have taken this means of disposing of his weapon. This theory, it is realized, seems rather far-fetched, but it is so important to clear up the mystery that the revolver should be found that even this vague chance is being followed.

Over half the sewer had been examined when the workmen quit at noon, and no trace of the weapon or cartridges was found.

George Lynch-Staunton, who has been engaged by the Kinrade family to represent them at the inquest, and Thomas Hobson, the family lawyer, were on the scene early. They waited around for an hour or more, making an examination of the house and jotting down notes which are probably intended for use at the inquest. They left a representative there to watch the work.

The story told by Miss Isaac, of St. Catharines, daughter of a Methodist minister there, about the conversation with a strange man in the train a few days before the murder, is attracting some attention, though the information contained in her statement is so vague that not much is hoped from it.

She did not tell the story outside of her family until late last week. It was then communicated to the Hamilton officers on the case, and on Sunday Detective Miller went to St. Catharines to interview her.

She says she was traveling to St. George by way of Hamilton, and owing to the crowded condition of the train was obliged to sit beside a stranger man.

He entered into conversation with her and made a remark which she thinks is significant, to the effect that where he came from they would shoot a girl who went back on a man, or something to that effect. He said was going to Hamilton.

Miss Isaac is not sure of the date. She made the trip to St. George once every week on Mondays. This would be either Feb. 15 or Feb. 22. She thinks and is inclined to fix the date as Feb. 15, doing this by her recollection of the train crew on that date, and the known facts of the days the different train crews make their runs. As the murder took place on Feb. 25 this would be ten days before the tragedy.

Miss Isaac is exceedingly nervous about the affair. She dreads publicity in the belief that the man she saw was the murderer, and that if he learns that she has told the story, some harm will come to her.

She thinks he wore a grey overcoat. This does not coincide with any description of the murderer the police have.

The arrival of such a man in Hamilton some days before the murder might explain the stories of a strange man loitering about the Kinrade home as told by members of the family at the inquest.

Members of the Kinrade family have apparently been advised by their lawyer not to talk to the newspapers, every attempt to interview them today meeting with the reply; "See Mr. Staunton." When Mr. Staunton was seen he refused to discuss the case, but said he might make a statement tomorrow.

Famished Wolf Team Killed Driver's Child

Saskatoon, March 17.—A weird tale of the great lone north land is brought to Saskatoon by Fred Allingham and two companions, James and Mack J. Curtin of this city, who have been spending the winter around Moose Lake, north-west of the Pass. According to Allingham's informants, a trapper had secured a number of young timber wolves, which he trained for driving as they developed, the animals having remarkable endurance and speed. One occasion the trapper had been away on a long journey and was finishing up a hard day, in which the animals had not received any food, as is the way in treating dog teams while traveling.

As the driver and the team approached the shanty that was their home his little three-year-old child ran out to meet them, and as the famished animals reached her they jumped on her and in a flash she was dead, before the father could raise a hand. Seizing a sharp axe from his "boat," the trapper went at the wild creatures and never stopped until he had killed the entire lot, numbering five.

Fred Simpson Barred from Great Marathon Derby

Tom Longboat, the Indian.
St. Yves, the Frenchman.
Alf. Shrubb, the Englishman.
J. J. Hayes, the Yankee.
Dorando Pieri, the Italian.

These are the entries in the Marathon Derby at the Polo grounds, New York, on April 2.

Marathon Derby!

Why call it the Marathon Derby when good men are left out! Why not let Matt Maloney, the conqueror of Pat White, the Irishman, and Pat White in!

Why not give John Svanberg, the Swede, a chance!

And how about Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Thunderbolt, who is to run Alf. Shrubb at the Armories Saturday night!

Irrespective of the result of Saturday night's race, Simpson deserves a chance at the Marathon distance.

He beat Longboat in the English Marathon, and aroused the tape seventh, and finished as strong as a horse. He is a grand distance runner, and if he entered there would be a whole lot of Canadian money wagered that Canada would win on her team of Indians.

As it stands now, the Land of the Maple has to depend on "the daddy of them all," with only two weeks to get into condition.

"Why is Simpson barred?" Tom Eck was asked today.

"I don't know," was the reply. "They simply won't let him start. I think they really are afraid of him. They know how good he is at the distance."

The dangerous man in the Marathon Derby is the Italian Dorando.

Shrubb is a whirlwind, and many possibly bang on the full distance outdoors, but if Dorando steps along the way he did at the Garden Monday night Shrubb won't hold him.

Longboat in shape will run over them in 2.48 time, but can the Onondaga marvel get into condition for a 2.48 Marathon journey in two weeks. True, his last-up gave him strength and ginger, but how about speed and reserve for such a grueling as Dorando's recent effort promises the man who heads him.

Tom Longboat arrived in town last night, and announced his intention of training under Tom Eck's supervision along with Fred Simpson. If Longboat will obey Eck implicitly until April 2 he will be in as good condition as mortal man could get him in the time at his disposal.

Dorando's remarkable running on Monday night when he broke Hayes' heart with terrific pace-making, was the talk of New York. It was the prevailing opinion that Dorando never ran a better Marathon race in his life, and that if Longboat or Shrubb had been his competitor instead of Hayes the Italian would have been victorious just the same. After running the first seventeen miles in faster time than was ever hung up for this distance in a Marathon, either in or outdoors, few of the athletic sharps at the tracks do believed that Dorando could stick the rest of the journey without his customary breakdown. But when the Italian ran the last mile and a half as fast as he did the first five laps of the first mile the wiseacres threw up their hands.

Lost a Wheel

The Grand Trunk mail train from Toronto, due here about nine o'clock was last night delayed for two hours. The train was just a few miles the other side of Lindsay, when a wheel came off the engine. The train was immediately stopped, but it was two hours before another engine could be secured to bring the train through.

Power Committee will Submit $15,000 By-Law on March 30th

The Water Commissioners Refused to Assume the Responsibility, but if the Scheme is Adopted by the People They Will Carry It Out

The Water Commissioners refused to take over the power proposition the Power Committee of the City Council has in connection with the development of the surplus water at the proposed new water works dam. The commissioners stated that it was not their scheme, that they did not and do not recommend it to the council and that they wish it distinctly understood that the $15,000 bylaw has absolutely nothing to do with their bylaw for $120,000 for a new dam. The two bylaws are separate an dunder the control of two distinct bodies.

Such were the statements of the Water Commissioners when they were asked at the meeting of the Power Committee to assume the responsibility of submitting the bylaw for $15,000 for the power house at the new dam. The commissioners, however, also stated that their two outside engineers had estimated the amount of electrical power that could be developed and also estimated the cost of the power house, sluice ways, wheel pits. The commissioners did not think the council would go far wrong by submitting the bylaw. They stated that it would be a crime to allow 600 or 800 horse power go to waste.

The Special Power Committee then decided to go ahead with the bylaw and have it submitted on March 30th, with the water works bylaw.

Chairman Ald. McIntyre stated that the object of the meeting was to discuss the power by-law. The committee found that there was a division of opinion as to the amount of information available.

Mr. T. F. Matthews stated that he considered the Power Committee was at fault. There had been ample time from the time the Water Commissioners submitted their report to secure all the information on the point desired. The commissioners had no information and he did not know how they could help the council.

Ald. McIntyre asked if the commissioners would sanction the bylaw if the committee submitted it.

Mr. Moore replied that the commissioners would sanction nothing.

The commissioners also stated that the people should have more information. The commission has no more information. All they know is the cost of the power house foundation and flume.

Mr. Matthews stated that he did not recommend the submission of the bylaw at the present time. He said the power house could be built more economically now. Had the commissioners had their way they would not have the power bylaw submitted at the same time as the water works dam bylaw.

Ald. Hicks still maintained that the council should have more information.

Ald. Gillespie stated that he thought the council would not be far out by building the power house now and take a chance on securing the machinery and putting up the poll line at a reasonable cost.

Mr. Moore stated that it would be better to submit the power bylaw later on as there would be plenty of time to do so. By submitting the two bylaws together both may be defeated while if submitted at different times both would probably be carried. The power house however could be built somewhat cheaper when the dam is built than later on.

Ald. Morrow stated that the committee had prepared a circular which they intended to have printed and placed in each house and there was some on the committee who wanted the commissioners to sanction it. To have the committee recommend the circulation of the circular without the commissioners the committee would not be unanimous.

City Clerk Armstrong was then asked to read the circulars for the benefit of the commissioners.

Mr. Moore stated that he wanted it distinctly understood that the two bylaws were controlled by two separate bodies.

Ald. Hicks said he would like to see the water works dam bylaw go on now and the commissioners make provision for the construction of the power house at a later date. Then the council could get the information required and submit the bylaw in January and then hand it over to the commissioners. He wanted the responsibility put up to the commissioners if the power bylaw was submitted now. He said he had not sufficient information at the present time.

The commissioners said the city had all the information they had secured.

Mr. Matthews said that the power bylaw was simply a matter for the council to consider.

Ald. Gillespie said that personally he was quite prepared to go on with the power bylaw now with what information they had, and was convinced that the people would support it.

After there was considerable more discussion, Chairman McIntyre said, "I suppose then that the commissioners are now washing their hands of the whole thing?"

The commissioners said they did.

Young Men Raised Big Racket on Aylmer St.

A bad gang got busy about midnight last night on Aylmer street, and raised a racket which aroused the whole neighborhood. There were seven young fellows who had been imbibing too freely in "farmers' joy," got busy, and raised a particular storm. They danced a jig on the verandah in front of Mr. Morphet's home and on the adjoining verandah and also kicked the door and raised a big fuss. From there they travelled north to the boarding house on the corner of Aylmer and Simcoe streets where they broke one of the windows and gave the occupants of the house a bad scare.

The double brick house owned by Mr. Lundy, the gang seemed to have free access to for they entered and re-entered several times between 11 and 12 o'clock, and seemed to be their headquarters. The firemen doing watch duty at the fire hall had watched the performances until it got too bad and then the police were telephoned for. The officers of the law gathered on the scene, but at the same time the gang dispersed and disappeared. It is stated, however, that the police know some of the young men and they will look further into the case.

Hartley Tells of His Experiences in That Awful New York Grind

Toronto, March 17.—David Hartley, the famous little pedestrian of Peterborough, strolled into the News office yesterday afternoon while on his way back from New York City, and told of his experiences there in the big six-day go-as-you-please race held in Madison Square Garden last week.

The little man of iron was not yet entirely over the effects of the gruelling contest, but he stood the test better than many a younger man; in fact he came through the ordeal in fairly good shape. This is all the more remarkable as he was the oldest man entered—he has turned fifty-six years of age—and for four days of the six he was doing practically two men's work. He was struggling along single handed against teams of two men, and that he finished in last place was no disgrace. But if he had had any sort of a partner, he would have been up among the leaders. He covered exactly 420 miles in the six days. He hoofed every inch of this distance. He was paired up with first one and then another contestant during the early stages of the race, but the distance gained by these men was all deducted.

MIGHT HAVE COME SECOND.

The winners, Ciliot and Orphee, went 732 miles and six laps between them; and Hartley figures it out that with a mate he could have finished at least second. Fred Davis, the Hamilton Indian, captured second place. He, too, had lots of hard luck, but at last found a partner, a Greek, who stuck to him.

"That is probably the last six-day go-as-you-please that will ever be pulled off in New York City," said Hartley. "These events are far from being as popular as they were twenty years ago, and as a direct result, the box office suffered.

"I was lucky to get my expense money. All the men will get their money alright, but the promoters are

Miss Florence Kinrade Dined on a Warship with the Robinsons

Portsmouth, Va., March 17.—Florence Kinrade did, as stated at the inquest in Hamilton, have dinner on a warship. The ship was the Arkansas, now in reserve at the Norfolk navy yard, those entertaining her being William T. Robinson and his wife, and others. Robinson is known as a warrant machinist, and is in reality acting chief engineer while the ship is in reserve. Mr. Robinson was interviewed on the Arkansas by a press representative, and said; "My wife was living in the Lafayette Hotel for five weeks last fall, while Miss Kinrade was there. She became intimate with her and was impressed with the fact she was so much better than women who usually go on the vaudeville stage, and appeared to be a very nice girl. I met her at the hotel very often myself with my wife in the parlor.

"I am very fond of music, and used to like to hear Miss Kinrade sing. Sometimes I would have my wife come and visit me and have dinner on the ship here, and once I invited Miss Kinrade to come too, and also a young German musician, who was playing at the Orpheum theater, whom I liked because of his musical tendency. He and Miss Kinrade were in no sense attached; in fact she said very little to him. We went off and smoked together, and they two sat and chatted. The second time Miss Kinrade was here she came with my wife and Mr. and Mrs. Butler. When the captain is off the ship I or one of the other officers is in charge, and on both occasions when she was here I happened to be the officer in charge; that is probably the way she made the mistake in saying she dined with a captain. She knew though that I was not the captain or the commander of the ship, because he was just going off once when she came, and I introduced her to him. I had a very high respect for Miss Kinrade.

INVITED BAUM, TOO.

"She was a very nervous girl. I remember also when my wife was slightly indisposed she trembled like a leaf. She said scarcely anything about herself, or what she had been doing before, so far as I know. I don't remember of her ever mentioning Miss Elliott or Col. Warburton, or how she happened to be in the south.

LIKE A MOTHER TO HER.

"My wife was very anxious to get her into the Baptist church choir, where there was an opening, and was disappointed when she did not get the position. We are both about middle age, and my wife was really more like a mother to her than a companion. Miss Kinrade used to go to church sometimes with Baum, and he used to come home from the theater with her."

Captain Dornbagh of the Arkansas, was also interviewed, and said that he never knew Miss Kinrade or the Butlers. He had been in command of the vessel since August, 1907, and was unmarried, and had never invited any ladies to dine with him on the ship. He had seen a small party coming to see Robinson, however.

Mr. Robinson said that his wife knew that Miss Kinrade was engaged to a young preacher in Canada, and after she went back she was going to write to her to visit her on her Honeymoon trip. Mrs. Robinson is not living at Portsmouth now.

"True Irish Hearts" was Greeted by Big Audience

The Grand Opera House had one of the record houses of its history last night for the production of "True Irish Hearts," by the dramatic section of St. Peter's T.A.S., and the the large audience was thoroughly appreciative of the excellent production of the romantic Irish comedy drama. The play is an interesting one and a pretty story is told in its presentation. Every member of the company did excellent work showing the ability of the cast and the splendid and thorough manner in which rehearsals have been conducted under the capable direction of Mr. George Lynch.

During the evening several vocal numbers were introduced by Miss Lavina Halldhan and Mr. George Lynch, and were greatly appreciated by the audience. Mr. Sam Hoolhan's step dancing speciality also met with a cordial reception.

The stage settings were very pretty and well arranged and appropriate, and the presentation was a thoroughly successful one in every respect.

The play was almost entirely reconstructed from the original book by Mr. George Lynch, who exhibited much ability in substituting new characters and doing away with many that were in the original cast. The introducing of Danny, which was taken by little Joe Clancy, a lad of eight years, who was brought out in the leading parts, especially so in the last act, was a strong feature.

Miss Maggie Doherty most efficiently acted as musical director.

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

The cast of characters was as follows;

Larry Lanagan—George Lynch.
George Wolfe—Fred Derocher.
Batt Mooney—James O'Brien.
Miles O'Connor—John Gorham.
Dennis Doyle—Sam Hoolham.
Sheriff Burke—Claude Brady.
Miss Rose O'Neal—Miss Fanny Holmes
Danny—MasterJoe Clancy.
Mrs. Brady—Miss Helen Kane.
Kitty Brady—Miss Lavina Hallihan.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

Report was Not Ready

The Building Committee of the Murray street Baptist church met last night and prepared their report on the proposed new church. It was expected that the committee would have had everything completed but this will not be for a day or two yet. The congregation will meet on Wednesday night, March 31st.

BOWLING

The double-header to have been played in the P.B.C. tournament did not come off last night on account of most of the boys being at the production of "True Irish Hearts." There was, however, some very fancy bowling done and a new high score for the week was established by Martin, who made 231. Sutherland also made 225 which was two pins better than his previous high score.

Croup positively stopped in 20 minutes, with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One dose alone will surely prove this truth. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—25c. Sold by all dealers.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for $5 (the cost of my postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. B CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

Slowly Dying

Thousands are slowly dying from catarrh, but don't know their danger.

A CASE IN POINT.

Mr. Ulric Berault, a young gentleman who has lived for years in Sweetsburg, Quebec, inherited Catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Berault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

"Every organ of my body seemed affected and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone, and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

"Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continually, and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Every one in town knows I was just about dead with Catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

(Signed) Ulric Berault."

Catarrhozone beyond question is the proper remedy for catarrhal and bronchial troubles. The medicated air goes all through the air passages of the head, throat and lungs. It kills the germs, heals the sore spots, allays irritation and keeps the breath pure.

Headache, tired feeling across the eyes, nausea, all these well-known disagreeable symptoms are overcome by the medicated air of Catarrhozone.

Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler drive all the poisonous secretions of catarrh from the blood. One taken after each meal creates new appetite and digestion, strengthens the stomach, revitalizes and invigorates the entire system.

Catarrhozone is quite unsurpassed as a cure for Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis and Asthma, and for coughs and colds has no equal.

Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00; trial size 50 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

READING CAMP ASSOCIATION

The eighth annual report of the Reading Camp Association brings home to every public-spirited Canadian at least three things; First, the tremendous value to the country of the work done by the quarter of a million frontiersmen who live for six, eight and sometimes ten months in a camp in which no provision is made for the higher decencies and refinements of civilized life; second, the utter absence on the part of Church and State of any concerted effort to provide for the needs of these men, and third, the proved worth of the labors of the Reading Camp Association.

The past year has been the best in the history of the association. It has made many new friends, some of them in the best business circles of the country. Specially worthy of note is a letter from Mr. Charles M. Hays of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, giving the association its hearty endorsement after careful inquiry into its work in the construction camps of the road.

The reports from the instructors in the camps are eminently satisfactory. Not only have the frontiersmen been provided with camps where they might read and write and keep in touch with some of the refinements of life generally, but large numbers of foreigners from many countries have been taught the rudiments of the English language and been offered the hand of disinterested friendship in the new country where they are to make a home. One cannot but feel, as he reads the reports, the vast possibilities of work like this, if funds were forthcoming for its wide extension. Canada is confronted with the problem of assimilating its foreign population and the Reading Camp Association is showing us one way in which it may be done.

It is a good sign for the future of the country that the Reading Camp Association can attract to its work so many stalwart young students from the schools and colleges. They must have a rare combination of brawn and brain and grit and warm-hearted humanity if they are to succeed, and yet year after year the association secures from twenty to thirty men for its work. All in all the eighth annual report justifies us in commending the association to the general public as a sound, manly and well-conducted piece of Canadian

By-law No...

A BY-LAW to authorize the borrowing of the sum of $15,000 to pay the cost of developing power at the Waterworks Dam.

Passed the day of 1909.

WHEREAS the Corporation of the City of Peterborough is the owner of a water power and dam and the land connected therewith, which was acquired and is used for the purpose of supplying the City of Peterborough with water for all purposes and it is intended to substitute for the present dam, a new concrete dam in the same locality, for the more effective control of the waters of the River Otonabee, from which the water supply of the city is derived, and it has been ascertained that the water power to be developed at the said new dam will be more than sufficient for the purposes of the Peterborough Water Commissioners and it is desirable to provide for the use of such additional water power to generate electrical power or energy for transmission to the City of Peterborough and for this purpose, at the same time as the said new dam is being constructed, to put in the foundations for and construct the power house, forebay, wheel pits, tail races and other works necessary for the development and use of such additional water power.

AND WHEREAS it has been estimated that the cost of said works will be the sum of $15,000 and it is desirable to pass this bylaw, to be submitted to the votes of the duly qualified electors, to authorize the borrowing of the said sum for the purposes aforesaid, which sum of $15,000 is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this bylaw.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $15,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll being the roll prepared in the year 1908 for the year 1909 is the sum of $8,426,778 and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates but including the debt of $312,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks is the sum of $870,331.98 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $637.50 to be raised annually for a period of twenty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this Bylaw to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $520.62 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at the maturity thereof—such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $1,167.92 to be raised annually as aforesaid by special rate on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS;—

1. This Bylaw shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2 It shall be lawful for the Council of the said City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $15,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough, and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust and to be made payable within twenty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough.

3. There shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the Municipality, the sum of $637.50 for payment of the interest on the said debt and the sum of $520.42 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof, making together the sum of $1,167.92 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

4. The proceeds of the said debentures when sold shall be applied for the purposes above mentioned.

5. For the purpose of taking the votes of the duly qualified electors on this Bylaw the following adjoining Polling Subdivisions shall be united, namely;—Polling Subdivisions Numbers 1 and 2, Polling Subdivisions Numbers 4, 5 and 6; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 7 and 8; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 10 and 11 and Polling Subdivisions Numbers 13 and 14.

6. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough qualified to vote upon Bylaws for creating debts shall be taken upon this Bylaw on the 30th day of March, 1909, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the forenoon and closing at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at the following places and before the following Deputy Returning Officers, with the following Poll Clerks, that is to say;—

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 1 and 2—Place, B. McGill's grocery, Cor. Aylmer and Lake streets. Deputy Returning Officer, Josiah Robertson. Poll Clerk, W. Van Every.

Bank Manager was Transferred

Mr. W. T. C. Morson, the popular manager of the Bank of Commerce, who has been in Lindsay since the bank first opened up for business, about two and a half years ago, received a message from the head office on Friday last to the effect that he had been transferred to Seaforth to take charge of the bank in that town.

Mr. Morson came here from Lunenburg, N.S., He has made many friends during that time who will regret very much to hear of his departure from town. Mr. Morson was very popular in social and sporting circles and was a prominent member of the curling and golf clubs. He leaves tonight for his new home in Seaforth and carries with him the best wishes of a very large circle of friends who wish him every success in his new home.

Mrs. Morson and family will remain in town for a few weeks. Mr. Morson's position is being filled temporarily by Mr. W. E. Griffith of Belleville.—Watchman Warder.

THE KEY OF TEBALDO

Curious Messenger of Death Invented by an Italian.

TRAGIC LEGEND OF VENICE.

Unique Weapon With Which the Man of Mystery and Murder Sought to Slay His Way to the Hand of the Woman He Loved.

The chronicles of Venice tell that in the earlier part of the seventeenth century a certain stranger, a man of dark and sinister aspect, arrived in the city. His name was Tebaldo. He appears to have been a man of unruly passions, of great intellectual power, but one whose talents found their chief outlet in crime.

One day he observed a beautiful girl leaving church, attended in a manner which showed she belonged to a family of high degree. She was, in fact, the daughter of an ancient and noble house. He fell violently in love with her. Though far removed from him in station, his blind passion took no count of this fact, and he determined to sue for her hand.

There proved to be, however, a more insuperable obstacle to his suit. The girl was already betrothed to another, a young nobleman of almost equal rank and fortune. The knowledge did not deter Tebaldo, who boldly presented himself before the girl's parents in the capacity of a suitor for her hand. As might have been expected, he met with a curt and unceremonious rebuff.

The repulse rankled in his mind. Enraged beyond measure, he shut himself up in his own house and there secretly studied a means of revenge. Profoundly skilled in the mechanical arts, he allowed himself no rest until he had invented a most formidable and death dealing weapon. This was a large key, the handle of which was so constructed that it could be turned at will. When it was thus turned a secret spring was disclosed, which, on being pressed, launched from the key bead a fine needle or lancet. The latter was of such delicate construction that it penetrated the body of the victim and buried itself deep in the flesh without leaving any external trace.

The marriage of the betrothed couple was fixed to take place in the principal church in Venice on a certain day. Before the ceremony Tebaldo, cunningly disguised, stationed himself at the church door armed with his diabolical weapon. As the bridegroom was about to enter the building the concealed watcher pressed the spring and sent the deadly steel lancet into the breast of his victim. The young nobleman had no suspicion of injury at the moment. In the midst of the ceremony, however, he was seized with a sharp spasm of pain and sank fainting on the steps of the altar. He was hurriedly conveyed to his home, where the leading Venice physicians were summoned to attend him. In spite of their unremitting efforts he sank and died, nor were they able to discover the nature of the mysterious and fatal seizure.

With the removal of his rival, Tebaldo once more presented himself before the girl's parents and renewed his request for her hand. Their refusal to listen to him sealed their doom. In what manner he accomplished it is not known, but within a few days both had been done to death in the same sudden and mysterious fashion.

The exalted rank of the victims created a profound sensation, and when, on examination of the bodies, a fine steel instrument was found in the flesh terror became universal. The citizens feared for their lives. The utmost vigilance was exercised on the part of the authorities, but as yet no suspicion fell upon Tebaldo.

The bereaved girl retired to a convent, where she passed the first months of mourning in sorrowful seclusion. Tebaldo, however, sought her out in her retreat and begged to speak to her through the grating.

His dark, evil face had always been displeasing to her, but since the death of her betrothed and parents it had become repulsive. When, therefore, in the course of the interview he pressed her to fly with him he met with an instant and indignant refusal. Her scorn stung him to the quick. Beside himself with rage, he brought his deadly weapon once more into play and succeeded in wounding the girl through the grating, the obscurity of the place preventing his action from being observed.

On her return to her room the girl felt a sharp pain in her breast. Examination of the spot showed that it was dotted with a single drop of blood. Physicians were hastily summoned. Taught by past experience, they wasted no time in vain conjecture, but cut into the flesh and extracted the slender steel, thus saving the girl's life.

The dastardly attempt occasioned a public outcry. The visit of Tebaldo to the convent became known and caused suspicion to turn upon him. The emissaries of the law descended suddenly upon him, his house was searched, and there the abominable invention was discovered. Swift justice followed, and he ended his days upon the scaffold.

The key is still preserved in the arsenal at Venice.—Chambers' Journal.

OUT OF THE PAST.

Memories of Charles Dickens Recalled at Anniversary.

The Dickens Fellowship celebrated the 97th anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens at Essex Hall, in London, a few days ago. Sir John Hare, who presided in the place of Mr. Henry Dickens, K.C., who was absent on account of professional duties, paid an eloquent tribute to "the great master of love and fellowship," and said that the influence of Dickens in the cause of humanity had made hundreds of thousands of the poor and oppressed bless his name. Great soldiers and statesmen died and were forgotten, but Dickens had attained immortality, and his work and teachings would endure. Sir Wm. Treloar made a breezy and characteristic speech. Proclaiming himself as a great lover of Dickens, he said that when he was a young married man 40 years ago he used to read the works of Charles Dickens to his wife, and they have laughed and cried together over those books, over and over again. Often they used to go and hear Dickens read passages from his own books, and they would wait for an hour or more outside the hall in order to get a seat. "My wife," said Sir William Treloar, "used to pass the time by knitting—she used to knit my socks.

"I love Dickens all through," said Sir William; "but best of all I love his humor. Bless my soul, Sir John, he could even make fun of a Lord Mayor—and so can I! While I was Lord Mayor I met some of Dickens' characters at the Mansion House. I often met Mr. Stiggins there, and sometimes there was a Pecksniff, and now and again a Chadband. Even Mr. Micawber was to be found—I have done a little bit in that way myself, for a Lord Mayor should have a touch of Micawber and a spice of Mark Tapley." While holding that office he had the pleasure of kissing a little Dickens girl, aged 3, and he had just heard from Mrs. Dickens that when she went home she said, "I have been kissed by the Lord Mayor's Show." That was not surprising. When he first rode in the golden coach he felt uncommonly like the Lord Mayor's Show, especially when he heard the admiring comments of the people. "E fancies 'iself, don't 'e?" said one lady. It had been pleasant to live in the Mansion House, and to hob-nob with kings and potentates who had been intimate with him. But he had met one or two of them since in Pall Mall, and somehow or other they did not seem to know him.

Sir Wm. Treloar showed that he had read Dickens to some purpose, for he proved himself to have the highest sense of humor—the gift of laughing at oneself. There were several members of the Dickens family present, and Miss Elaine Dickens, a handsome girl with a glint of merriment in her eyes that was perhaps inherited from her illustrious grandfather, played the violin charmingly

Fair Versus Foul.

There is a good football story told of the Lyttelton family, which numbers amongst its members such famous men as the Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, late Secretary for the Colonies, the Rev. and Hon. Edward Lyttelton, headmaster of Eton, and Gen. Sir Neville Lyttelton.

As is well known, the Lytteltons were renowned alike on the cricket and football fields, as well as in the larger world, and in the old days the Lytteltons could put a family eleven into the football field—and a very formidable side, too.

On one occasion, then, these Lytteltons were playing against a team of professionals in the Midlands. The latter, finding themselves outplayed, began to employ very dangerous and foul tactics against the amateurs; but they quickly found their mistake, and the football ground soon resembled a miniature battlefield, the professionals playing the part of the wounded. For the Lytteltons opposed the unfair tactics indulged in by the professionals with some fair and square charging; and, being all "whipcord and steel," they quickly convinced their opponents that football played on strictly fair lines was the healthier pastime, and, indeed, might save doctors' bills.

Emigrating to New Zealand.

New Zealand, for its native people, is all right, but New Zealand for a London working man is—well, rotten. In the first place, an emigrant settling in New Zealand must be fully and decisively prepared to rough it to the last heart-beat, until he gets a footing and a thorough insight into the working laws of this country. If he is not financially "flush," and commences, as soon as he lands, to put on airs and side, and begins that idiotic "haw-hawing," he would have been better at home, because we have enough of that kind of people here already, and a "new chum" with a "Just-out-from-the-Old-Country, don't-cher-know" drawl is truly a pitiable object among the working classes of New Zealand.—New Zealander, in The Captain.

Tolpuddle Martyrs.

It is proposed to commemorate the "Tolpuddle Martyrs," at Tolpuddle, in Dorsetshire, England. The martyrs were transported for seven years in 1834, because they formed a friendly society in order to raise their wages above the local standard rate of 7s. a week. They were released three years later, the conscience of the country having been roused against the twisting of the charge of "mutiny and conspiracy" to fit their crime. Now they are to be commemorated as the first trade union martyrs, and there should be little difficulty in raising $35,000 to establish model cottage homes for aged laborers, a scholarship tenable at Ruskin College, Oxford—both for Tolpuddle people—and a monument in the village itself.

Carving In Coal.

Remarkable carving work in coal is being done by a resident at Newbald, near Burton, England, who says he has discovered a secret process for polishing his productions. At a local bazaar he exhibited a cabinet of coal work containing a model suite of furniture, salt-cellars, pipes, and black rings set with stones.

EDIBLE BIRDS' NESTS.

Borneo Delicacy Is a Highly Prized Dish Among Wealthy Chinese.

The cold weather in China has caused a great increase in the demand for salted and dried fish from Borneo's eastern port. This year the demand considerably exceeds the supply. The steamers between Hong Kong and Sandakan are loaded down to the last ton with cases of this valuable export.

Amongst the wealthier Chinese the Borneo "edible birds-nest" forms a table delicacy that is also peculiarly acceptable in winter. Prices frequently exceeding $10 a pound are being paid by exporters of these nests, the white variety being the most sought after. It is true that now and then fancy prices are paid for the red nests, but these are of peculiar flavor, being used chiefly as an "appetiser" to be taken before a meal. The black variety is the cheapest, the color being only due to little black feathers, which are always removed before cooking.

These edible birds-nests are found sticking to the walls of caves in the neighborhood of the sea and certain rivers, notably the Kinabatangan. They are much the size and shape of an English native oyster shell, and are made of a gummy secretion that certain swallows, or martins, exude from their beaks, and nothing else. The Europeans in Borneo are fully acquainted with the delicious consistency that is imparted to a soup when a few nests are added, and the doctors frequently take advantage of their great nutritive qualities when seeking to strengthen a convalescent.

George Bernard Shaw as an M. P.

One would give much to have that cold and searching intellect of Mr. George Bernard Shaw, for example, brought to bear on the life of Parliament. He has just that dry light that we lack. And he is unquestionably the first debater of his time. He has every weapon at instant service. His wit lies at the tip of his tongue. He sees the whole lie of a country at a glance, and leaps to the weak place in the defence instantly. When he and Mr. Wells fought for the soul of the Fabian Society, he pinned him on one unimportant clause in his indictment on which Mr. Wells was wrong, and from that one point of secured the surrender of Mr. Well's whole case. He is the best exemplar of his own theory about the Irish and the English. The common view is that the English are the practical hard-headed people, and that the Irish are the sentimentalists and dreamers. On the contrary, he says it is the English who live in a world of illusions, and the Irish who live in a world of lucid facts, and he takes the sentimental Nelson and the unromantic Wellington as the types to prove his case. It is all a matter of climate. The London fog is to him the symbol of the London mind. To Mr. Chesterton it is a cloak of mystery and romance. He loves the fog and has sung songs in its praise. Mr. Shaw hates the fog as the product of our dirty and wasteful ways. In his own way, Mr. Wells is a typical Cockney, with all the unrest and curiosity of the urban mind, but, on the other hand, with as little sentiment as Mr. Shaw himself.

Huge Salaries.

Richard Burbage, who was considered the best as well as the most popular actor of his day, received a regular salary of £130 a year (equal in our money to £1,040), besides shares in the theatre which brought in a large sum. The traveling actors, from whom the highwayman, Gamaliel Ratsey, extorted a free performance in 1604, were "men with the certainty of a rich competency in prospect." An efficient actor received in 1635 as large a regular salary as £180, of which sum £1,440 is the modern equivalent. The lowest known valuation set an actor's wages, says a writer in The Strand, was 3s. a day, or in modern money, about £360 a year. Shakespeare's emoluments as an actor before 1599 are not likely to have fallen below £800 in our money; while the remuneration due to performances at Court or in noblemen's houses, if the accounts of 1594 be accepted as the basis of reckoning, added some £120. Actresses did not appear until about 1662, female parts being previously taken by boys. Among the very earliest were Mistress Nell Gwynne, of the King's Playhouse, and Mistress Knip. Both from having been "orange-girls," earning a precarious existence about the theatre, were raised to the affluence of 20s. a performance—about £4 in present value.

Why Are English People Dull.

The cause of shyness is the fear of showing to others what we feel. I think to hide our feelings is a national fault. We often speak of the Irish and the French as not being sincere, simply because they are apt to be expansive. I do not see that you are more sincere by hiding what you feel than by showing it. The thing that we most dread of all others is that if we hide our sentiments too much we often produce atrophy of them. There is nothing more deadalive than that absence of feeling in our manner. Some say it comes from shyness. I believe it comes from the convictions that reserve is the proper attitude. We do not think that our neighbor has a right to know what we feel, and so we hide completely our sentiments. The dullness that we feel in going into society would vanish if we could only think that the people about us say simply what they really think about things.—Alice Corkran in The Girl's Realm.

The Good Old Days.

A Leicester man, who is believed to be 103 years of age, remembers taking service with a Spalding farmer for 4d. a day and a little milk in the mornings, sometimes paying out of his wages 8d. a week for his lodgings elsewhere, and finding his food and clothes. He says the poor of these days did not eat so much as they do now. He had bought tea in London at 14s. a pound.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think! It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Sheop's Little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the 25c. box. Sold by all dealers.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

Weary; Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the busiest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well I struggled against growing page, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned off the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvellous, I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

Anxious for a Match

Mr. Harry Neil, Ashburnham, has received a communication from the Keene Gun Club, who are anxious to arrange a shooting match with the Peterborough Gun Club. However, it is believed that such an organization in this city had disbanded some time ago, but a number of the old members are still here and possibly a match could be arranged. Mr. Neil would like to hear from them as soon as possible in order that he may reply to Keene's challenge.

Miss T.P. Moore Promoted

The many friends of Miss H. P. Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Moore, Aylmer street, will be pleased to learn of her promotion as stenographer-in-chief of the License Branch, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Owing to the prolonged illness of the former stenographer, Mr. Crosby, who held the position so efficiently for fifteen years or more Miss Moore has been doing the work for the last year or over. She has proved herself so worthy and capable that she has been duly appointed to the position, Mr. Crosby having handed in his resignation.

Celebrated the 25th Anniversary

A pleasing event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stanley, Stewart street, Tuesday night, when they celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage by a silver wedding. Some twenty-five guests were present and the evening was a most enjoyable one, the time being spent in games and music, while refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, who were married in Yorkshire, England, on March 16, 1884, were warmly congratulated by their friends, while letters were received from many of their former acquaintances in England. Mr. Stanley is the steward of the Peterborough Club.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful. Sold by all dealers.

Hartley's Experiences

way out of pocket. They came to me on the Thursday and told me if I finished they would give me my expenses, and they kept their word. They treated us fine, too, even though the affair was a failure. I guess they will be at least $30,000 in the hole, when they come to balance up.

SPARED NO EXPENSE.

"You see they sent men all over to get the runners. The promoters sent to France, Italy, Germany, Canada—in fact in every corner of the globe. After the contestants arrived they were paired up by the management if any were alone. The most of them arrived three weeks or a month before the race to train. They had quarters at Coney Island, and all their expenses were paid during that time. Then during the race they had a first-class restaurant fitted up, right in the Gardens, where the contestants could eat all and anything they wanted. All this counts up, so you see how soon the figures began to climb. Along towards the end of the race it was almost necessary to have two trainers for each man. The promoters paid for all this, too.

"I arrived in New York just two hours before the race began and I didn't get a chance to snatch a bit of rest before I started out. When I began to look for my partner, Anthony Higgins of Montreal, I found that he had not shown up, so I got hold of someone else and we jogged along for a day, taking turns at the grind. He soon gave up as did another young fellow who took cramps.

DAVE DIDN'T RUN.

"Then I kept on alone, going for stretches of five and six hours at a good steady pace. I didn't run any although some trotted for a few miles now and again. I was waiting all the time for some one to drop out, but no one was good enough so they told me to keep on alone to the finish.

"The last day of the race there were many pitiable yet laughable scenes. None of the men could sleep much with all the excitement and noise going on and the strain began to tell heavily on them towards the last. One or two almost went crazy. One poor fellow marked out a narrow path in the track and if any of the others stepped on that strip, he would go wild. He often went to the referee about it.

"Then another contestant imagined his competitors were pouring sawdust down his back. There was nothing there but he went to the referee and showed him all the imaginary sawdust. There was one Jew who was struggling along trying to fight against the stiffness which was gradually overcoming him. He would plod on a few steps and then raise his arms over his head, after which he would throw himself forward for a few more feet. Such scenes were awful.

HE GOT DONATION.

"At times the fainting men made one think it was a battlefield, but this was what the crowd wanted. Once in a while rich ladies handed me bills while I was going around. The New Yorkers seemed to take a fancy to me as I was so old and I made quite a lot on these contributions.

"Nearly every one collapsed after the ordeal was over. I lost over 15 lbs. through the race, but I will soon regain this.

"By the way I stayed over to see Svanberg, the Swede, race Pat White of Dublin, in a ten-mile jaunt. They raced on the same track which was about twelve feet wide, I believe White spiked the Swede in the final sprint, as the latter fell when just about 200 yards from the finish and when he came in his leg was bleeding badly."

Hartley's feet are in pretty good condition considered what he has gone through. Yesterday he was still wearing moccasins to ease them.

An Ideal Sunday Newspaper

Recent issues of the Sunday Record-Herald remind one that Chicago may fairly claim to producing the best newspapers in the world, not excepting those of New York. The Sunday Record-Herald, in foreign news alone, has its own special cable service in addition to those of the New York Herald, World, Journal of Commerce and Associated Press. This is a fair sample of the completeness of the paper in every department.

Aside from the regular news features, there is something in the Sunday Record-Herald for every member of the family. The special articles by William E. Curtis and Walter Wellman are always interesting. The sporting section offers four whole pages of fresh and authentic news in every line of sport. The woman's section is filled with illustrated articles on the latest wrinkles in fashion and domestic science, with Marion Harland and Mme Qui Vive as regular contributors, and Dame Curtsey's "Novelties in Entertainment" as a valued feature. The dramatic page, written by James O'Donnell Bennett, is admittedly without an equal in the West. The array of splendid special articles by skilled writers, finely illustrated, also is typical of the high literary quality of the Record-Herald. In the way of humor there is the comic colored supplement for children, besides Richard H. Little's laughable articles for adults and S. E. Kiser's delightful "Alternating Currents" for everybody.

But the thing that lifts the Sunday Record-Herald most emphatically above all its rivals is its magazine section. There is nothing else that can touch this in American journalism. The Sunday Magazine of the Record-Herald is a real magazine, full of stories and articles by the most famous writers of our day, illustrated by celebrated artists. In quality and beauty it compares favorably with the best monthlies. No wonder the Record-Herald is regarded as the ideal Sunday newspaper.

Neglected Scald Caused Months of Agony

Spent Dollars in vain, but Zam-Buk Cured Her.

Following we give the testimony of a lady who if she had known of Zam-Buk earlier would have been saved nine weeks of agony;

Mrs. Frederick Bryant, of 169 Railway avenue, Stratford, Ont., says;—"I scalded my foot while preparing supper. Next day the skin came off and my foot was in a serious condition. I could not wear my shoes and had to lay up for nine weeks. During this time I had used dozens of salves but none did any good, in fact the wound developed into a running sore. I got no rest day or night from the pain. At this point a supply of Zam-Buk was obtained and a few applications had immediate effect in soothing the pain and irritation. A small supply proved sufficient to heal the scald, although I had spent dollars in other remedies. New skin has now formed nicely over the open sore.

"Zam-Buk is the most wonderful and effective remedy I have used, and I advise others to use it."

Zam-Buk is equally effective in curing burns. Mr. Geo. Gilmore, caretaker of the E. Clements Block, Winnipeg, testifies as follows;—"I had a series of bad burns while attending to the large furnace which heats the buildings. One burn on my wrist was particularly bad and gave me great pain. I applied some Zam-Buk, and in forty-eight hours all that remained of the burn was a slight scar. Zam-Buk seemed to take the pain away like magic. It is a splendid balm to keep handy. Its healing powers being simply marvellous."

There is nothing to equal Zam-Buk as a family balm. Its uses are so wide. It has been proved a sure cure for eczema, ring-worm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, bad leg, suppurating wounds, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases. Rubbed well into the part affected it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will simply drive the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, no sirree, but one that will drive every trace of Rheumatism back to their native hell, and keep it there. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and purge of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Already I have cured all sizable cases of this prevalent, fiercely cruel Rheumatism; but now, at last, it will surely cure all curable cases of this most distressing disease. Those needless pains, those much dreaded diseases. Those needless pains, those weaken, found in Rheumatic Blood cease to disorder and pass away under the action of this remedy as fast as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wrecking forces pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We will, and in confidence recommend

Good Coal for Locomotives for Domestic Use for Manufacturers for Blacksmiths On the G. T. P. In the Centre of New Brunswick Nearest Canadian Coal to Montreal Waterway to Coast Stock $10.00 A Share Speak Quick And Be In It Don't Miss This Opportunity Act Today

Extensive Deposits of Coal and Iron have been known for a long time to be present in New Brunswick.

Only recently has it been proved that these deposits are very rich and can be so easily and cheaply worked as to be immensely valuable.

The Iron deposits in New Brunswick about to be opened up are said to be the largest and richest in Canada.

The Coal Deposits in New Brunswick now being developed by the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Ltd., are also proving to be very rich, extensive and valuable.

The Winter Port Coal Mines are within easy reach of the Immense Iron Mines now being opened up.

The Coal Lands of the Winter Port Coal Mining Co., were originally selected by experts for a company that intended using the Coal in the manufacture of Iron and Steel, for which purposes it has been found to be very suitable.

The Winter Port Coal Mines have for some time been turning out Coal which has proved to be a good locomotive coal. It has been used by the I.C.R. and other railroads.

Winter Port Coal is also a steaming Coal of high grade for manufacturers' use. Enthusiastic testimonials from St. John manufacturers who have been using it can be furnished.

Winter Port Coal is also becoming popular in St. John as a house coal for domestic purposes, burning well in cooking stoves, ranges, round stoves and open grates.

Winter Port Coal suits many blacksmiths as well as the famous American Georges Creek Cumberland Blacksmith Coal.

The demand for Winter Port Coal for Railway use, for Manufacturers' use, and Domestic use, is increasing so rapidly that the Company find it necessary to provide further facilities to increase their output at once.

The opening of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which passes through these New Brunswick coal fields, provides another immense and profitable market for this coal.

The Winter Port Coal Mines are now provided with double railway sidings to the two shafts in operation turning out coal.

The Mines are situated near the shore of Grand Lake having almost every important center of population in the province within a radius of sixty miles.

The mines now have rail connection with the New Brunswick Coal & Railway Line, the Intercolonial Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Canadian Pacific have expressed their intention of extending its Gibson branch from Fredericton to the Coal Mines in the near future, as the development warrants.

From the Winter Port Mines it is only a short distance to the great Iron deposits; 25 miles to Fredericton; 55 miles to St. John; 60 miles to Moncton; 450 miles to Quebec by the G.T.P.; 482 miles to Montreal by the C.P.R. This is several hundred miles nearer Quebec and Montreal than most of the Nova Scotia mines. For local distribution the position is also unexcelled.

The St. John River provides a waterway by which Winter Port Coal can be carried to St. John and Fredericton for 15c to 25c per ton. Winter Port Coal can also be carried cheaply by this waterway to points in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia on the Bay of Fundy, and to the coal consuming districts of Maine and Massachusetts.

For Quebec and Montreal trade the short rail haul is most advantageous and being able to deliver coal on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway these mines will prove the most convenient eastern coaling facility for this Great Transcontinental Railroad.

The site of the Winter Port Coal Mining Co.'s property on the shores of Grand Lake with abundance of cheap fuel for producing electric power at the pit's mouth, according to Edison's idea, is one of the most advantageous sites in New Brunswick for the establishment of manufacturing industries, and a rapid development of the Company's Townsite is looked for on the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The Company's Harbor Entrance and Berths on the Grand Lake shore have already been dredged to provide sufficient depth of water for vessels navigating the St. John River and Grand Lake.

This opportunity to develop a large and profitable Coal Mining Business with a ridiculously small amount of capital is an unique one.

No immense outlay for plant and equipment is necessary at the Winter Port Mines.

Skilled labor is not required. Any man who can use a pick and shovel can dig the coal at Winter Port Mines.

No expensive pumping outfit is needed, as the mines have natural drainage.

No costly ventilating machinery and appliances are necessary because natural ventilation is sufficient. No explosive gases are encountered.

Deep and costly shafts are unnecessary, as the coal is so near the surface.

No immense hoisting engines and boilers are needed, because inexpensive and portable outfits hoist the coal.

The miners dig the coal and wheel it to the platform of the hoist for about 90c per ton.

The other expenses are small, and many of them will be lessened on the increased output.

The output will be increased rapidly, as the coal lies so that it is immediately available for mining, without the slow and costly development work incident to the opening of other coal fields.

Some of the stock has been sold to manufacturers in St. John, who are using the coal.

Other purchasers of the stock reside in different parts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and in Ottawa.

The Winter Port Coal Co., Ltd., Incorporated, is capitalized at $900,000, divided into shares of $10 each.

They are offering the balance of the unsold treasury stock for sale, at par value at $10 per share.

AS THERE IS SUCH A SMALL AMOUNT OF STOCK TO SELL AND SUCH AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A RAPID INCREASE IN VALUES, it is expected that this stock will be very quickly taken up. Therefore please send in your subscription promptly.

Make all cheques payable to: THE BANK OF BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, St. John, N.B., credit The Winter Port Coal Mining Co., Limited

The Stock is all Common Stock, $10 per share so that every one has an equal chance at the profits according to the number of shares held.

Clerk.

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 8th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplies by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. R. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway.

Reasons for Ratepayers to Support Power By-Law

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—We wish on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the By-law to authorize the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter of providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the waterworks property, asked the council to submit a By-law to the electors for that purpose, which the council has done. At the same time the commissioners informed the council that when the new dam is completed there will be 1200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the waterworks department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of building the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when that work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to instal the electrical machinery. That would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the By-law which is now submitted to the electors. But when the unwatering is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the By-law. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the waterworks department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 500 horse power still available. If a market for that power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another By-law could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work, the city will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the committee and the council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the By-law authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the By-law.

Yours respectfully,

H. RUSH,
Mayor.

A. A. McINTYRE,
Chairman Power Committee.

Twelve Men Confess to the Murdering of Miss Ethel Kinrade

Detectives Have Received a Dozen Communications from Crazed or Jocular Persons—Do Not Take It Seriously as It is Scheme to Mystify Detectives

Hamilton, March 18.—"Dear Sir: You needn't bother looking any more for the murderer of Ethel Kinrade. I done it, and you can't catch me. I fired eight shots at her and got away."

This is the startling letter received by Detective Miller, of the Provincial force, who has charge of the investigation into the murder of Ethel Kinrade. There is no signature to the letter, and it is post-marked Montreal, so if the officers were inclined to take the matter seriously, they would have some difficulty in locating the writer.

But, of course, they do not take it seriously for one very good reason that this is the twelfth letter confessing to the murder of Ethel Kinrade which has been received by those working on the case at Hamilton. All of these letters have been anonymous and have come from as many different points in Canada and the United States. There is one postmarked Toronto, one from Detroit, one from Buffalo, one from New York, and others from smaller places. This constitutes one of the most curious features to date of the great mystery tragedy of February, the 25th. In indicates in some measure the hold the murder has taken on the public mind.

The receipt of these letters helps to lighten the leisure hours of the detectives and others who are working on the case, relieving the tension under which they are working in their so far vain attempts to unravel the mystery.

TO MYSTIFY DETECTIVES.

It is little use speculating as to the identity of the writers of the letters. They are probably a little out of their minds, or it may be that the letters are in some cases sent with the deliberate purpose of mystifying the Crown officers. There are some people who always want to mystify detectives. If there is any such object it is unsuccessful, because they are simply ignored, so far as having any possible bearing on the case is concerned.

In line with this feature of the case is the vast number of letters which are being sent to the Crown officers offering suggestions, theories, and solutions of the case. These are pouring in from all sorts and conditions of men and women. There are not less than a dozen of them every morning, and sometimes a great many more. They are coming from all over the country, indicating again, if any further indication were necessary, the very widespread interest in the case, some of the suggestions as to where evidence might be found are good, but in every case they had already been acted upon. Others are simply foolish. As to the theories, nearly every writer has a new one. One Toronto correspondent illustrated his suggestions with sketches, and after he had indicated his mind on the subject ended up with one suggestive phrase; "You are to blow." The writing in this and in many others was so illiterate as to be almost unintelligible.

Another interesting feature is that several clairvoyants have written to the Crown officers asking to be put on the case, and giving assurances that they could clear it up immediately. There are several reports of private individuals having already consulted these seers.

Man and His Two Children Were Suffocated by Gas

PLACE.
3 Rideau avenue, Toronto.

DEAD.
Samuel Tanner, aged 45.
Sarah Tanner, aged 10.
Robert Tanner, aged 8.

CAUSE.
Suffocation by gas.

Toronto, March 18.—A little family of three, two young children and their father, succumbed to the fumes of illuminating gas some time during the night, and their bodies, in one bed, were found about 6.45 this morning by occupants of the house.

The family was composed of Samuel Tanner, the father, aged 45; Sarah, his daughter, aged ten; and Robert, his son, aged eight. They lived with a nephew, John Tanner, at 3 Rideau avenue, a little street running off Lansdowne avenue, and the gruesome discovery was made by John Tanner when he went to call his uncle shortly after six o'clock. Samuel Tanner lay on the outside of the bed, with his face towards the door. Next to him was Robert, lying well up on his pillow, also slightly facing the door. On the other side, cuddled into the blankets and pillow so snugly that her face could hardly be discerned, lay Sarah.

DEATH CAME EASILY.

Death had come upon them in their sleep. So peacefully did the trio lay that had it not been for the half opened eyes and the blushing pallor of the countenances as revealed by the sunlight which streamed in the little window that faced the east, they might indeed have seemingly been still asleep.

Samuel Tanner was a widower, the mother of Sarah and Robert having died in Ireland over a year ago. John Tanner wrote to his uncle last November and dilated upon the advantages of Canada, and especially Toronto. Samuel left his employment there and came to Toronto, and has lived with his nephew ever since.

Work will be Started on New Line During the Coming Summer

A Toronto despatch says;—"Electricity is sure to become a great factor in the motive power question and as it becomes more practical developments will follow which will go a very long way, indeed, towards the solution of the dangerous problem," said Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in an interview in his private car at the Union station last night. The president went on to say that at present the white coal as a generator of power is impracticable because there was no way of storing it.

The president went on chatting of wrecks and their causes. "If the men would only carry out the simple rules laid down for them by the company there would be a great falling off in the number of wrecks," said he. "We are adopting every reasonable mechanical device that will aid in the prevention of accidents. As soon as a stretch of road justifies double-tracking or carries sufficient traffic to install the block system it is done immediately."

The president stated that this year would see much more construction than was done last year. The link between Peterborough and Victoria Harbor will be completed, but scarcely in time to aid in the transportation of grain from the west. When this branch is finished it will be a boon to the shippers as it will greatly shorten the distance between Georgian Bay and Montreal.

Auburn Dam Offer to the City is Withdrawn

The city will not buy the water power at the Auburn dam. It is too late now as the option has expired and Mr. Kendry has withdrawn his offer. The power committee had an option on the dam and water power, and all the machinery that goes with it. Mr. Kendry has had offers from other parties and he was not particular whether he sold it to the city or not. But to be fair and to give the city the first opportunity he extended the time of the option upon request. That time has now expired and the chairman of the Power Committee was yesterday notified that the offer was withdrawn. The result is that Peterborough will have to look elsewhere for electric power for municipal development. All that is available in the city is the waterworks dam.

SIR THOMAS SHAUGHNESSY,

President of The Canadian Pacific Railway

Who stated yesterday that the link between Peterborough and Victoria Harbor would be completed this year.

The Winter Port Coal Co. Ltd.

Coal is the greatest fuel and one one of the greatest power producers in the world. The demand is perpetual and in Canada it is rapidly increasing. In fact the output of the Canadian mines at present is not nearly up to the demand. The companies are all filled up with orders and the Winter Port Coal Co., Ltd., of St. John, N. B., is so rushed that they can no longer handle their business with the present facilities. It has therefore been decided to increase the facilities and to do so are offering to the public an opportunity to purchase their stock at par value. The company is capitalized at $90,000 and as a large portion of this has already been taken up there is not a great deal left but while it lasts it will be sold at $10 per share. The market for the Winter Port Coal is now very large and it is rapidly expanding. The Winter Port Coal is an excellent locomotive coal and manufacturers' coal, while in New Brunswick it is growing in popularity as a domestic fuel and is even used largely by blacksmiths. There is no fear of a superior article being discovered and its close proximity to the Maritime Provinces and Montreal is bound to make it the leading coal in that part of the country while the C.P.R., G.T.R., and I.C.R. are using large quantities and will use much larger as soon as the company can supply it. Look up the Winter Port Coal Co's advertisement in another column of this issue and you will be at once impressed with the proposition.

Neighbors of Kinrades Saw Man in the Alley, Appeared Frightened

Hamilton, March 18.—Much interest attaches to the evidence which will be given in the Kinrade case tomorrow night by two new witnesses. Another new development, the statement of neighbors of the Kinrades, that they saw a man, seemingly a fugitive, passing down a nearby alleyway on the afternoon of the murder of Ethel Kinrade, seems also to have a most important bearing on the case.

To deal with the story of the two new witnesses first; Miss McLellan, 94 Herkimer street, will swear positively that between 3 o'clock and 3.30 on the afternoon of the murder she saw Mrs. Kinrade going past her house on her way down town.

Mrs. Rudd, 78 Charles street, will swear that at exactly 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the murder she saw Ethel Kinrade, dressed in a blue suit, walking south towards her own home along Charles street.

EXACTLY THREE O'CLOCK.

Mrs. Rudd is positive as to her identification of Miss Kinrade. To a News reporter this morning she said; "I have known the family to see them for years, and I know the girls apart well.

NEIGHBORS SAW A MAN.

The other story referred to has all the appearance of having an important bearing on the case.

Herkimer street runs east and west. The next street south of Herkimer toward the mountain is Markland street. Between Herkimer and Markland streets is an alleyway along which the garbage wagon runs to collect the waste from the various houses facing on the two streets. The first street west of the Kinrade home running north and south is Caroline. The next is Hess.

Between Caroline and Hess on Markland street live Mrs. Cassels, 162 Markland; Mrs. King, 164 Markland, and Mrs. Taylor, 166 Markland. They are about half-way in their block on Markland street as the Kinrades are in their block on Herkimer street.

The lane or alley way, it will be seen, forms a straight connection between the Kinrade backyard and the backyard of Mrs. Cassels, Mrs. King or Mrs. Taylor, and the distance altogether is about a block.

Mrs. Cassels states that on the afternoon of the murder, just before four o'clock, she was upstairs in her room, and saw a man come up through her alleyway, as though he had come through her back yard from the lane, pause a moment, and turn east. That is all she saw, and all she noticed about the man was that he had no overcoat on.

SAYS HE LOOKED FRIGHTENED

Mrs. Taylor, 166, here takes up the story.

"I saw him just as he got to the alleyway leading back between my house an dMrs. King's at 166," she said. "He stopped a minute, took a quick look around, and then dived down into the alleyway. He looked so strange and frightened that I was afraid to go to the door, but didn't go down. He looked to me just as though he thought somebody was after him."

According to Mrs. Taylor, the man was shabbily dressed.

Mrs. King's story is the most interesting of all, however.

"It seems strange that this has not been investigated before," she said to the reporter when he asked her about her story. "I don't want to get mixed up in it, but I think it should have been looked into."

First Mrs. King took the reporter and showed him the position of no windows from which she saw what she relates. The bedroom window looks into the alleyway between her house and Mrs. Taylor's; the kitchen window looks over a high board fence into the Taylor's back yard.

MEDIUM HEIGHT AND FAIR

Over this fence can be seen Mrs. Taylor's back door, but not the steps leading up to the door.

"I was in the bedroom hanging up the curtains," said Mrs. King, "when a man ran in from the front down the alleyway and went through the gate. He was medium height, fair complexion, and looked as if he might have sandy hair, though I couldn't see it for his cap. He had no overcoat on, nothing but ordinary clothes, and he had no mitts, for I noticed his hands particularly. The sleeves of the coat seemed to be too short.

"What first drew my attention to him was the way he ran in, and his scared, frightened appearance. He went through the gate into Mrs. Taylor's back yard and ran up the steps. I went into the kitchen to see if I could see him from there. The fence was in the way, but I saw him run up to the door and knock three times in rapid succession, then try the door.

TOOK SOMETHING FROM POCKET

"He apparently could not get it open. The next thing he did was to run down to the bottom of the steps and take something out of his pocket and lay it down there. Then he took a quick look at my window and at Mrs. Taylor's window and put his hand in his pocket and pulled it out two or three times.

"Then he seemed to pick up whatever he had put there and went out through the alleyway.

"I stood there a minute or two wondering if he would come to my door. Then I went to my bedroom window and called across to Mrs. Taylor, and asked her if she had seen the man. She said she had, and he had looked so strange and frightened that she had been afraid to go to the door. I told her what I had seen. A little later we heard of the murder, and I said; "I bet that was the man who was here."

Croup positively stopped in 20 minutes, with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One test alone will surely prove this truth. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—50c. Sold by all dealers.

James Baum Admits that Florence Kinrade was at Savannah

Portsmouth, Va., March 18.—The Col. Warburton referred to by Miss Florence Kinrade in her evidence seems to be unknown in Norfolk. There is no man by that name around this part of the country, according to prominent military men who were seen by a press representative, and they know of no Col. Warburton who had been visiting Norfolk last year. Inquiries at the clubs and leading hots were equally fruitless. James Baum now admits that he knew that Miss Kinrade was down at Savannah, and stated that he remembers asking her if she didn't think that a fine country. He had been there some years ago.

"I'm anxious to learn what they are going to do on Friday night," he said, referring to the inquest which was adjourned until that time. The same feeling is evident among all who knew Miss Kinrade here.

LIVED AN OPEN LIFE.

"If there is anything in Miss Kinrade's life that she is trying to conceal, it must have occurred before she came to Portsmouth," said Mrs Codd, the housekeeper at the Lafayette Hotel, this morning. "From what I saw of her, while she stayed here last fall, she seemed to be a sweet, refined girl. I did not get intimate with her, but I used to meet her in the parlor quite often, and she was very entertaining, because she had such a lovely voice. She was very quiet and reserved, though, and when with me she never opened out in conversation, and said nothing about herself or her family. Of course I did not ask her about such things."

"Did you ever see a pistol in her possession?" Mrs. Codd was asked.

"No, I never did."

"Do you think she had any intention of returning to Portsmouth?"

"No, I'm satisfied she was leaving for good."

"There were many people here who admired her," Mrs. Codd added, "but she never seemed to care anything about that. She was a frail sort of a girl, though not exactly of a nervous nature. I remembered once she was ill with a bad headache, and was unable to sing at the theater that night.

HEARD WARBURTON'S NAME.

Unmistakably perturbed was Florence Kinrade on one occasion during her Orpheum theater engagement, when a member of the company in which she was appearing gold hold of the name of Cecil W. Warburton and mentioned it in her presence. This seemed to strike Miss Kinrade with startling suddenness, and she made an abrupt demand for knowledge as to where the name from. As a matter of fact, the name fell into the hands of a local newspaper man several months ago, and he gave it to a male member of the Orpheum Company or casually mentioned it to him. When Miss Kinrade heard it she was really excited, evincing an insatiable desire to learn from whence it came. This information, was, however, withheld from her, but she was unceasing in her efforts to learn the source.

Connal and Ferguson Skips in the Finals of the Primary Contest

The primary in the club bonspiel will be wound up tonight when Skips Jas. Connal and W. G. Ferguson will try conclusions. This promises to be the greatest game of the season. The skips are two of the best in the club and their rinks are well balanced and are steady players. Upon the result depends the winner of the great prize.

The semi-finals were played last night and drew quite a crowd of interested spectators. The results were as follows;

Johnston	Moore
Cameron	Brownscombe
Denham	McDermid
Connal—15	Thompson—9
Craig	Eastwood
Austin	Meanie
Baptie	Bowes
Ferguson—10	Fitzgerald—8

CONSOLATION.

Yesterday afternoon five games were played in the club's bonspiel. Messrs. Ray and Davidson played their primary game with the result that the veteran curler went down to defeat. Davidson's rink has been out of commission for a couple of days and W. J. Thompson has been successfully skipping his rink.

Four games were played in the consolation and created much interest. The results were;

CONSOLATION.

Read—9	Fraser—8
Matthews—13	Hall—11
Hicks—20	McCullough—9
Ray—10	Dr. Greer—7

PRIMARY

Ray—8	Davidson—13

EVENING GAMES.

Three games in the Consolation were played last night, with the result that three skips were put out of the contest for the second prize. W. E. Talbot gave A. Moore one of the worst trimmings of the season. The score was 21—3. After the first few ends the vanquished skip was unable to find the rings. The scores were as follows—

Wade	Dobbin
Hall	Rush
Dentinson	Merrit
Matthews—6	Dr. Eastwood—13
Jubilitt	Collier
Dodds	Hall

Muirland	Bradburn
Moore—3	Talbot—21
Denne	Adamson
Taber	Walker
Hall	Baptie
Neill—9	Burnham—15

The Prize List was Revised

The prize list for Peterborough's big agricultural exhibition has been revised and will soon be ready for the printers. Committees were appointed some time ago to go over every class in the list and prepare any changes necessary or advisable. These committees completed their work and reported to the society yesterday afternoon. In some of the classes the prizes have been increased, and quite a number of changes have been increased and quite a number of changes have been made, so that the list should be more popular this year than ever.

A Drunk Caused Some Trouble

A little excitement was created at the G.T.R. station last night, when a man under the influence "Nature's remedy," became excited. The gentleman in question was wandering about without paying any particular attention to where he was going. A train was coming in and the fellow was walking directly for the front of the engine when the baggageman grabbed him and pulled him back. This made the fellow angry and he undertook to chastise the official and a lively scruffle ensued with the result that the baggageman got the decision, and his opponent was taken into the waiting room to cool down. In the meantime the police were telephoned for and the force was gathered together and went down, followed by a big crowd of men and boys, while the ladies on the street gathered in groups and discussed the probable arrest of the Kinrade murderer. The curious ones however, were disappointed as by the time they got to the station the excitement was all over.

LUNG TROUBLE

PROMPTLY RELIEVED AND PERMANENTLY CURED BY INHALING CATARRHOZONE.

Mrs. Ray Brown, of Tenecape, N. S., was cured by Catarrhozone of lung trouble and Catarrh after hundreds of other remedies failed.

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but, after resorting without benefit to poultices and numerous other remedies, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown. "Five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler the local symptoms such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets, which are taken after each meal, purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

Complete outfit costs $1; small size, 50c. At druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

PROTECTION IN GREAT BRITAIN

Mr. Balfour's declaration that protection is "the first plank in the Unionist platform, and the first matter to which any Unionist Government must address itself makes it quite clear that the issue in which parties divided in Canada in 1878 is the issue on which parties will divide in Great Britain in the next general election in that country.

While it is undoubtedly the fact that protectionist sentiment has been gaining ground of late in the Mother Country, it is not at all certain that the Conservative party will be able to win on that cry. It will all depend on the Liberals. If Liberals have the courage to follow the lead of Lloyd-George and Churchill and present as an alternative to a tax on food, a sweeping measure for the taxation of land, there can be little doubt as to what the decision will be.

So far as Canada is concerned, there may be a doubt as to where our interests would lie in such a contest. Canadian cattle landing at British ports are already subjected to restrictions, which are more injurious to the trade than a moderate tariff would be. If a general protective policy is adopted by the Old Land, that policy might eventually be applied to the relief of the British landowners against the competition of colonial producers of foodstuffs, as well as to the relief of the British manufacturer against foreign competition in steel and boots and shoes. The British protectionist would not be any more likely to offer real preference to the colonies than colonial protectionists are to permit the British woollen manufacturer easy access to the markets of Canada.

By-law No...

A BY-LAW to authorize the borrowing of the sum of $15,000 to pay the cost of developing power at the Waterworks Dam.

Passed the day of 1909.

WHEREAS the Corporation of the City of Peterborough is the owner of a water power and dam and the land connected therewith, which was acquired and is used for the purpose of supplying the City of Peterborough with water for all purposes and it is intended to substitute for the present dam, a new concrete dam in the same locality, for the more effective control of the waters of the River Otonabee, from which the water supply of the city is derived, and it has been ascertained that the water power to be developed at the said new dam will be more than sufficient for the purposes of the Peterborough Water Commissioners and it is desirable to provide for the use of such additional water power to generate electrical power or energy for transmission to the City of Peterborough and for this purpose, at the same time as the said new dam is being constructed, to put in the foundations for and construct the power house, forebay, wheel pits, tail races and other works necessary for the development and use of such additional water power.

AND WHEREAS it has been estimated that the cost of said works will be the sum of $15,000 and it is desirable to pass this bylaw, to be submitted to the votes of the duly qualified electors, to authorize the borrowing of the said sum for the purposes aforesaid, which sum of $15,000 is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this bylaw.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $15,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll being the roll prepared in the year 1908 for the year 1909 is the sum of $8,426,778 and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates but including the debt of $312,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks is the sum of $870,331 98 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $637.50 to be raised annually for a period of twenty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this Bylaw to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $530.42 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at the maturity thereof—such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $1,167.92 to be raised annually as aforesaid by special rate on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS;—

1. This Bylaw shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2 It shall be lawful for the Council of the said City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $15,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough, and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust and to be made payable within twenty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough.

3. There shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the Municipality, the sum of $637.50 for payment of the interest on the said debt and the sum of $530.42 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof, making together the sum of $1,167.92 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

4. The proceeds of the said debentures when sold shall be applied for the purposes above mentioned.

5. For the purpose of taking the votes of the duly qualified electors on this Bylaw the following subdivisions Polling Subdivisions shall be united, namely;—Polling Subdivisions Numbers 1 and 2; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 4, 5 and 6; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 7 and 8; Polling Subdivisions Numbers 10 and 11 and Polling Subdivisions Numbers 13 and 14.

6. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough qualified to vote upon Bylaws for creating debts shall be taken upon this Bylaw on the 29th day of March, 1909, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the forenoon and closing at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at the following places and before the following Deputy Returning Officers, with the following Poll Clerks, that is to say:—

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 1 and 2—Place, R. McGill's grocery, Cor. Aylmer and Lake streets. Deputy Returning Officer, Josiah Robertson. Poll Clerk, W. Van Every.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NO. 3—Place, L. Spry's, 210 Stewart street. Deputy Returning Officer, F. J. A. Hall. Poll Clerk, John Comstock.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 4, 5 and 6—Place, The City Council Chambers. Deputy Returning Officer, Angus McIntosh. Poll Clerk, J. P. Bryson.

POLLING SUBDIVISION NOS. 7 and 8—Place, A. J. Warne's, 326 Charlotte street. Deputy Returning Officer, J. M. Greene. Poll Clerk, Henry Greene.

New Store to be Erected

It is learned that a new building will be erected during the coming summer at the corner of Sherbrooke and George street, on the location of the old fire scorched store that has been at last almost obliterated. The statements regarding the matter are to the effect that Mr. J. E. Brooks, who owns the property, intends to tear down the blackened walls and erect a building which will comprise three stores. One of them will be for a grocery business and another may be used as a butcher shop. It is not known what will be done with the other. It is stated that the contract has already been let, and that the work will be begun with the opening of the fine weather.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, coaxing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless—that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

ONE HAT, ONE LIFE.

In Papua the Fashions Last a Person's Lifetime.

Papua is fast altering, in these days of settlement and plantation, which bid fair to make of Australia's wonderful South Sea colony a rival to Borneo or the Malay States—especially as the rich and valuable Papuan lands are being offered practically without rent to any one who has capital enough to work them. But still there is much of the country unknown, and a great deal that is remarkable for the quaintest of savage customs. Guama, in Western Papua, has a tribe of natives who live and die in their hats and in little else. These hats are of plaited fibre, very large, conical shaped, and much resembling the Chinaman's headgear on the well-known willow pattern plate of the nursery. They are securely fastened to the head with masses of thick, stiff clay, and (so far as is known) are never removed at all. Strange to say, the sex that clings so obstinately to the matinee hat in civilised lands is not the one that decorates itself with the permanent hat of Gaima, the men reserving this distinction to themselves.

The enormous rivers watering the rich lands of Papua are very swift, and even the amphibious native at times finds it hard to cross safely. A curious sight was seen recently by a magistrate on patrol duty. Five men carrying large wooden warrior shields wished to cross a very wide and rapid river in high flood, a stream that no white man would have ventured into. The ingenious Papuans put all their goods on a raft, flung their shields in the stream, and bestriding the shields like mermen riding on dolphins, worked their way across the torrent with powerful strokes of the legs, driving the raft, the goods, and the Government official in front of them. The Papuan does not stop at devices as simple as this. In many parts of the country he builds excellent suspension bridges of strong fibrous creeper, hundreds of feet long, and spans great rivers and gorges by their means. White carpenters are now at work in the districts round the capital, Port Moresby, bridging the rivers that lie close to the important rubber and coffee plantations with the ordinary material of civilization, but the Papuan, looking on at these new-fashioned ideas, declines scornfully to learn from them, and returns contentedly to his ancient engineering of "bushrope" and stick.

Sang With Patti.

In a small top back room over a newspaper shop in Charlotte street, Pittaroy Square, lives an old operatic singer who more than once has sung with Mme. Patti at Covent Garden, London.

A quarter of a century ago Signor Ria was frequently seen in many leading operatic roles, but of late years things have been going from bad to worse with the old man, and much against his pride he recently wrote to August van Biene, of "Broken Melody" fame, asking for assistance in his distress.

The old man a few days ago, speaking with difficulty, told of the result of his appeal, an appeal which Mrs. van Biene described as "heartbreaking."

"Until Wednesday," he said, "I hadn't any fire this winter, but he (Mr. van Biene) and his wife came as angels and he said: How are you, old friend?' The fire you see in the grate was given by them.

"I am now 64 years old," he went on, "and when I was a boy of 16 I fought with Garibaldi. I started life as a journalist, but used to sing at benefit concerts, and made my debut at Assisee in 'Favorita.'"

This year Signor Ria has had only four engagements—to sing at "smoking" concerts.

The G.O.M. of Art.

A wonderful Punch record is that held by Sir John Tenniel, the famous cartoonist, who, on the 26th of February, entered upon his ninetieth year. For over forty years his cartoons appeared week after week in Punch. Indeed, so regular was their appearance that during the whole of this long period Punch only appeared thirteen times without a cartoon bearing the well-known monogram. "I got my subject on Wednesday night," once said Sir John, when describing his work, "thought it out carefully on Thursday and made a rough sketch; on Friday morning I began, and stuck to it all day with my nose well down on the block. The following night the block was finished, and by Monday evening I received an advance copy of the following Wednesday's paper. But I never had the courage to open the packet. I always left it to my sister. Then I would take a glance at the cartoon and receive my weekly pang." To-day, sad to relate, the famous cartoonist is quite blind. In his own words—"My sole occupation now is resting."

Wireless Telegraphy.

It is a somewhat curious fact, perhaps, that as a boy Mr. Marconi, the value of whose system of wireless telegraphy has been so strikingly demonstrated by the saving of the passengers of the ill-fated Republic, showed little signs of cleverness. One of his teachers, in fact, once said of him that he could never learn anything by heart. Nevertheless, he was only twenty-one when he began to startle the world with his demonstrations of wireless telegraphy. In spite of his fame, Marconi is one of the most unassuming of men, and hates demonstrations. He was once recognised while walking in Rome. Immediately a cheering crowd assembled. Marconi bolted into what he thought was an empty carriage. But it contained a lady who was too frightened to expostulate. The inventor quickly made his apologies, and the lady allowed him to remain until they were free of the crowd.

FAVORS IMPERIAL SHOP

LONDON PAPER ARGUES FOR A COLONIAL STORE.

Declares That if Various Exhibitions Now Showing in the Metropolis Were Combined Into One Big Central Mart Where Londoners Might Secure Goods a Demand for British Products Would Be Fostered.

Canadian apples, Queensland pines, South African mealies, and a hundred other Colonial products have been duly shown at exhibitions and praised in the newspapers for some years past; but their import is increasing comparatively slowly, and very few people make use of them for household purposes in preference to American and foreign products.

Why is this?

The various Colonies have their agents-general, their more or less palatial offices, and their more or less Colonial staffs of assistants. Well and good. But it might be better.

No Colony has a shop in a great public thoroughfare where their products are well displayed, cheaply priced, and available for one and all to buy, try, and come again.

The representative of an important Colony who was courteously approached the other day on the subject of opening such a shop was mildly indignant at the suggestion, and "did not think that it would be consonant with the dignity of a self-governing Colony to run a retail shop in London." This is frankly ridiculous. No trade is undignified—if it be worthily carried on.

There are at least half a dozen Colonial shows or museums permanently open in London, all excellently arranged and displaying the different products of the Colony to the best advantage. One is tempted by the cases of jams, honey, turtle, fruit, meat, and a hundred and one other things, tasty, useful, cheap, well packed, and thoroughly available for general domestic use. But go into any big shop in London or the country and ask for any one article of Colonial produce, and the chances are a hundred to one, or more, that you will not get it.

The Colonial representatives, good-worthy, estimable men one and all, fight shy of the retail trade, or else have no power to push the goods which they show and recommend. Their exhibitions, therefore, from a trading point of view, defeat their own ends. One's mouth waters at the delicacies displayed; and one then finds that there is no chance of being protectively patriotic, and spending hard cash on Colonial products.

A grocer's shop in the West End of London, which makes a speciality of American products, has been doing an increasingly roaring trade for years past; and not with Americans alone, for English folk fully recognise the merits of the goods. Many housekeepers buy there regularly, and the co-operative stores have been obliged, in self-defence, to stock some of the leading lines.

The Colonies, therefore, must start their own shops, in London first, and then in the more important provincial towns, or, what would be the ideal plan, they should combine (if for once agreement were pleasantly possible) and open a large Colonial market right in the heart of London, where every Colonial product would be on sale, and were one might buy dugong and beche-de-mer from Queensland; honey, mutton, and butter from other parts of Australia; apples, maple sugar, and fish from Canada; jams, pines, sugar, and tea from Natal; mebos, snock, and van der Hum from the Cape; mealies and tobacco from the Transvaal; cod from British Columbia; rum from Jamaica—and so on, right through the whole gamut of Colonial produce.

Colonial marketing might easily become the fashion, and with a modicum of prophetic vision one can see the great glass-roofed arcade, divided into different sections, each bearing the name of a Colony, and in each section two to a dozen stalls piled up with goods—tinned, fresh, dried, preserved, frozen, chilled, and otherwise tempting, cheap, and all grown within the Empire.

This is not a fanciful dream; it is perfectly feasible, and a realisable commercial possibility. A little initiative, a little push, a little capital, and a deal of patriotism—that is all that is required.

There need be no fear of such a mart competing with home produce. Nothing of the sort would be likely to occur. Most of the goods are not growable at home, and those that are—mutton, apples, and such like—are already on the market, and supply a real and insistent demand.

Further developments or elaboration of the Colonial market might take the shape of expert demonstrations of how to cook some of the lesser-known products. Mealies, or green corn, or maize (as we call it) is one of the finest and most nutritious of food-stuffs in the world. Hundreds of thousands, possibly millions of our fellow-subjects live practically wholly upon it. It is purely farinaceous, and it can be cooked in fifty different ways. It is healthy, cheap, and digestible. As yet we look upon it as a luxury. At a fashionable restaurant a shilling is the charge for a single cob. This is absurd. At a penny a cob there would be a handsome profit.

The financing of an undertaking of this nature should entail no difficulty, as it need involve no very large amount if conducted strictly on a commercial basis. Our Colonial cousins are credited with being tolerably hard-headed in business matters; and if their not so very divergent interests could be assimilated, while retaining their individual independence, the result would be remarkable and success assured.

A MAD SIGNALMAN.

British Sailor Goes Crazy and Causes Trouble.

A few days ago news leaked out of a strange incident which caused much mystification among the vessels of the Channel Fleet during the recent visit to Torbay.

During the week-end a signalman on board the third-class cruiser Diamond suddenly went mad. He sent all sorts of queer and incomprehensible message from the ship to other vessels in the fleet. The climax was reached when the demented signalman threw overboard the lead casket holding the book containing the confidential signalling code. He was at once placed under arrest.

In the usual course the fleet took its departure from Torbay to Portland, but the Diamond remained behind to look for the lost book, the recovery of which was a matter of much importance. With the Diamond remained the battleship Swiftsure. Although a heavy sea was running in the bay, divers from the two ships were down all day on Sunday searching for the missing box, but without result.

On the following Monday the Commonwealth steamed round to Torbay, with divers collected from other ships of the fleet, and operations were resumed on a large scale. These were under the direction of Commander Carver, of the Swiftsure, who himself went down in diving gear. Towards evening the missing box was found in seven fathoms of water by Torpedo-Instructor Dawe.

Like all receptacles in which confidential codes are kept, the box is weighted with lead and perforated with holes to ensure its sinking on being thrown overboard, the final directions to the captain if a ship is taken in action being to throw the signal book and code into the sea.

The signal book was of such an important character that if it had been lost the whole signalling code of the navy would have had to be recast.

Neptune's Mail.

As far back as the reign of Queen Elizabeth there was a crown official known as the "Uncorker of Queen Bottles," whose duty it was to open all sealed bottles cast up by the sea and examine the contents. The official "Uncorker" contined to flourish down to the reign of George III. when the position was abolished. Neptune's mail cannot be said to be a quick method of communication. In July, 1887, while cruising in his yacht, the present Prince of Monaco threw a bottle overboard in mid-Atlantic. It was not recovered until seven years later, when it was picked up on the beach of San Salvador in the Bahamas. In point of time it was one of the longest bottle drifts on record, but it has been eclipsed by the bottle which was found recently on the beach near Carmathen. The latter contained a message, dated as far back as March 13, 1888, which stated that the steamship Brunswick was sinking off Cape Horn. It was the first intimation to reach England regarding the fate of the long-missing vessel, and it is curious that it should have been cast on shore in Great Britain, after drifting all the way from the Horn. In another case a bottle which was thrown over board in 1837 by an American captain was not recovered until twenty-one years later, when it was picked up on the coast of Ireland.—English Illustrated.

Lord Curzon's Misfortune.

The ex-Viceroy of India seems to have had his full share of mishaps. A thief has just secured a nice little haul of silver belonging to his lordship; a short time ago he was in a nasty motor-car accident, and prior to that had a cycling mishap. He had cycled down to the House of Commons early in the forenoon to get his letters, and was coming away again when, in Palace Yard, he very nearly came into collision with an elderly and consequential member of the House, who did not recognise him in his tweed suit and billycock hat. Accordingly the pompous legislator rated him soundly on his carelessness, said that men of his class should not be admitted within Palace Yard, and told him he might be very thankful that his arrest had not been ordered. Lord Curzon's reply is not recorded. Lord Curzon attributes his success in life to his love of order. He is certainly one of the most methodical of men, and it was said of him when in India that he could place his hand on any paper in his possession relating to India that he wanted.

Tinworth's Pulpit.

Though it is true that a stream cannot rise above the spring, yet genius is always greater than personality, and George Tinworth, humble-minded, simple, a man of the people, would be the first to acknowledge that his gift was from above. A clergyman who visited Tinworth in his workshop was much struck with a pulpit in Doulton ware which he had designed and decorated. On one of the doors he had modeled a bird's nest, and under it had written, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head." The clergyman asked him why he had put that on a pulpit. "It is for the bishops and canons to see," he said, "when they go into the pulpit in their fine robes." Years afterwards the clergyman came again and reminded him of it. Since they had met, the clergyman had risen to be Archbishop of Canterbury. It was Dr. Benson.

One Against the Judge.

One of Mr. Bigham's retorts is almost historic. A certain judge was distinguished amongst other things for his unpunctuality, and one day kept Mr. Bigham—then one of the busiest advocates of the day—waiting for twenty-five minutes. Having a second case to attend to in another court, he went to see how it was getting on, and while he was gone the unpunctual judge arrived. "I have waited five minutes for you, Mr. Bigham," he exclaimed, impatiently, when the busy counsel returned. "My lord," was the bold retort, "I waited five times as long for you."

Have you a pain—at any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think! It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's Little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the 25c. box. Sold by all dealers.

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely dragged her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Waimere, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleansing, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. The subject will be announced later.

Sprained Her Wrist

While returning from the city the other evening between five and six o'clock Mrs. Samuel Bredin, whose residence is on Rogers street, north, met with a painful accident, and as a result will be considerably inconvenienced. She was going up the mill hill on Hunter street, when, owing to the slippery condition of the sidewalk she fell, and in so doing badly sprained her right wrist. She was taken into the Ashburn drug store, where her injury was attended to after she was able to go home.

We have been informed that the citizens of Peterborough are buying all the revolvers the hardware stores have in stock. Judging by the reports of the Charity Board, we have come to the conclusion that the weapons must be for the city fathers. The people of this little hamlet are not so timid as their city friends and therefore are investing their money in stocks and bonds. We suppose that if any tramp calls in our town he will be immediately put either in the stocks or bonds.

The Skaters' Assembly on the eve of St. Patrick's Day, was a decided success. There was a large crowd and everyone reported a fine time.

The building trade of the village is reported to be extra good for the coming season. There are a large number of new houses to be erected.

Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' Met

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' church was held yesterday afternoon and proved very successful. A large number of the ladies were present and the reports of the various branches of the society were read and adopted. The past year has been a most successful one. A great deal of work was accomplished, and a large sum of money was raised.

One of the most interesting events of the meeting was the presentation to Mrs. Wm. Best of a life-membership certificate pin. Mrs. Best is one of the oldest members of the auxiliary, and she has always been a most active worker. The address was read by Mrs. Gilbert, and the presentation was made by Mrs. Thomas Hooper.

An interesting address was delivered by the rector, Rev. H. R. Trumpour.

The following officers were then elected;—

Hon. President—Miss Chamberlain.
President—Mrs. T. Hooper.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

HOW COLDS ARE CONTRACTED

ALWAYS RESULT OF UNDUE EXPOSURE.

Rapid Cooling of the Surface of the Body Brings About the Common Ailments of Mankind.

An acute catarrh, that is a cold, is always the result of undue exposure to low temperatures. The rapid cooling of the surface, when not balanced by proper reaction, produces congestion and inflammation of the nasal and bronchial membranes. Obviously such an ailment is not communicable, in the ordinary sense from one individual to another. As the slightest "cold" predisposes the individual to attacks of the most severe and dangerous catarrhal affections, the necessity for quick cure need not be enforced. These facts emphasize the necessity of extra precautionary measures against the ordinary cold. Everyone cannot change his climate at will but may make the most of what he has at home, viz., take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. It not only cures a cold quickly but counteracts any tendency of the cold to result in pneumonia. This fact has been fully proven during the epidemics of colds and grip of the past few years. No case of either of these diseases having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used has ever been reported to the manufacturers, and thousands of bottles of it are sold every day, which shows conclusively that it is not only the best and quickest cure for colds, but a certain preventive of that dangerous disease, pneumonia.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that a bylaw was passed by the council of the City of Peterborough on the first day of March, A.D., 1909, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $16,000 for the purpose of paying for permanent improvements to the Collegiate Institute of the City of Peterborough.

And that a bylaw was passed by the said council on the said first day of March, A.D., 1909, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $4,000 for the purpose of paying for permanent improvements to Public Schools in the City of Peterborough.

And that such bylaws were registered in the Registry Office of the County of Peterborough at Peterborough on the tenth day of March, A.D., 1909.

Any motion to quash or set aside the bylaws or either of them or any part of either of them, must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice, and cannot be made thereafter.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling; more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it enlarges and, gives heart help. If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Good Coal for Locomotives for Domestic Use for Manufacturers for Blacksmiths On the G. T. P. In the Centre of New Brunswick Nearest Canadian Coal to Montreal Waterway to Coast Stock $10.00 A Share Speak Quick And Be In It Don't Miss This Opportunity Act Today

Extensive Deposits of Coal and Iron have been known for a long time to be present in New Brunswick.

Only recently has it been proved that these deposits are very rich and can be so easily and cheaply worked as to be immensely valuable.

The Iron deposits in New Brunswick about to be opened up are said to be the largest and richest in Canada.

The Coal Deposits in New Brunswick now being developed by the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Ltd., are also proving to be very rich, extensive and valuable.

The Winter Port Coal Mines are within easy reach of the immense Iron Mines now being opened up.

The Coal Lands of the Winter Port Coal Mining Co., were originally selected by experts for a company that intended using the Coal in the manufacture of Iron and Steel, for which purposes it has been found to be very suitable.

The Winter Port Coal Mines have for some time been turning out Coal which has proved to be a good locomotive coal. It has been used by the I.C.R. and other railroads.

Winter Port Coal is also a steaming Coal of high grade for manufacturers' use. Enthusiastic testimonials from St. John manufacturers who have been using it can be furnished.

Winter Port Coal is also becoming popular in St. John as a house coal for domestic purposes, burning well in cooking stoves, ranges, round stoves and open grates.

Winter Port Coal suits many blacksmiths as well as the famous American Georges Creek Cumberland Blacksmith Coal.

The demand for Winter Port Coal for Railway use, for Manufacturers' use, and Domestic use, is increasing so rapidly that the Company find it necessary to provide further facilities to increase their output at once.

The opening of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which passes through these New Brunswick coal fields, provides another immense and profitable market for this coal.

The Winter Port Coal Mines are now provided with double railway sidings to the two shafts in operation turning out coal.

The Mines are situated near the shore of Grand Lake having almost every important center of population in the province within a radius of sixty miles.

The mines now have rail connection with the New Brunswick Coal & Railway Line, the Intercolonial Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Canadian Pacific have expressed their intention of extending its Gibson branch from Fredericton to The Coal Mines in the near future, as the development warrants.

From the Winter Port Mines it is only a short distance to the great Iron deposits; 25 miles to Fredericton; 55 miles to St. John; 60 miles to Moncton; 450 miles to Quebec by the G.T.P.; 482 miles to Montreal by the C.P.R. This is several hundred miles nearer Quebec and Montreal than most of the Nova Scotia mines. For local distribution the position is also unexcelled.

The St. John River provides a waterway by which Winter Port Coal can be carried to St. John and Fredericton for 15c to 25c per ton. Winter Port Coal can also be carried cheaply by this waterway to points in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia on the Bay of Fundy, and to the coal consuming districts of Maine and Massachusetts.

For Quebec and Montreal trade the short rail haul is most advantageous and being able to deliver coal on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway these mines will prove the most convenient eastern coaling facility for this Great Transcontinental Railroad.

The site of the Winter Port Coal Mining Co.'s property on the shores of Grand Lake with abundance of cheap fuel for producing electric power at the pit's mouth, according to Edison's idea, is one of the most advantageous sites in New Brunswick for the establishment of manufacturing industries, and a rapid development of the Company's Townsite is looked for on the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The Company's Harbor Entrance and Berths on the Grand Lake shore have already been dredged to provide sufficient depth of water for vessels navigating the St. John River and Grand Lake.

This opportunity to develop a large and profitable Coal Mining Business with a ridiculously small amount of capital is an unique one.

No immense outlay for plant and equipment is necessary at the Winter Port Mines.

Skilled labor is not required. Any man who can use a pick and shovel can dig the coal at Winter Port Mines.

No expensive pumping outfit is needed, as the mines have natural drainage.

No costly ventilating machinery and appliances are necessary because natural ventilation is sufficient. No explosive gases are encountered.

Deep and costly shafts are unnecessary, as the coal is so near the surface.

No immense hoisting engines and boilers are needed, because inexpensive and portable outfits hoist the coal.

The miners dig the coal and wheel it to the platform of the hoist for about 90c per ton.

The other expenses are small, and many of them will be lessened on the increased output.

The output will be increased rapidly, as the coal lies so that it is immediately available for mining, without the slow and costly development work incident to the opening of other coal fields.

Some of the stock has been sold to manufacturers in St. John, who are using the coal.

Other purchasers of the stock reside in different parts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and in Ottawa.

The Winter Port Coal Co., Ltd., Incorporated, is capitalized at $500,000, divided into shares of $10 each.

They are offering the balance of the unsold treasury stock for sale, at par value at $10 per share.

AS THERE IS SUCH A SMALL AMOUNT OF STOCK TO SELL AND SUCH AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A RAPID INCREASE IN VALUES, it is expected that this stock will be very quickly taken up. Therefore please send in your subscription promptly.

Make all cheques payable to: THE BANK OF BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, St. John, N.B., credit The Winter Port Coal Mining Co., Limited.

The Stock is all Common Stock, $10 per share so that every one has an equal chance at the profits according to the number of shares held.

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 8th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplies by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. R. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway,
Dated at Ottawa, 6th March, 1909.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the commissioners will not be paid for it.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN CASEY.

The death occurred Wednesday of Florence Armstrong, wife of Mr. John Casey. The deceased lady, who was thirty-seven years of age, had been ailing for a long time, but an attack of pneumonia hastened her death. Besides her husband, two daughters, Katherine and Irene, are left to mourn her loss. The funeral will take place from her late residence, 291 Aylmer street, this morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

JAMES SCOTT.

The death occurred Wednesday of James Scott at the House of Providence. The deceased was only four years of age and had been suffering for some time with congestion of the lungs. The funeral will take place today from the House of Providence.

Stallion Show in April

A new feature in connection with the Peterborough Agricultural Society will be a stallion show. The society decided upon this at their meeting yesterday afternoon. There are quite a number of good stallions in the neighborhood and it is probable that they will all be on exhibition. The show will be held on Saturday, April 17th, on the Market Square. This is at the opening of the season when the horses are in their best condition. There will no doubt be much interest taken in the show.

Request a Boat Placed on the Lakefield-Stony Lake Route in Summer

A few days ago a prominent citizen who spends his summers at Stony Lake, stated to The Times that it would be thought, be a good thing if the Otonabee Navigation Company would place one of its best steamers on the run from Lakefield to Stony Lake points and connect with the morning and evening G.T.R. trains. This would prevent overcrowding the boats and also afford more comfort to passengers than the present service is able to give.

A Times representative interviewed Mr. Phelan, general manager of the Otonabee Navigation Company in reference to the matter and was informed that the company was now considering the advisability of doing this. He added that they had been approached y several cottagers with a similar request, but he felt the service at present afforded by Mr. Young was, in general, satisfactory. It is not the intention of the Otonabee Navigation Company to trespass on the grounds of any other steamboat men. The best results can only be obtained by harmonious action of both navigation companies.

Ratepayer Writes on the Water Works Dam By-Law

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—In reading the few comments on the present bylaw now before the ratepayers for a new water works dam for water and power, Mr. Moldrum's remarks to Ald. Bradburn at the Board of Trade meeting, evidently, expressed the opinion of a large number of citizens; That the aldermen were not sincere or in earnest in the taking hold of a power scheme in the interests of the city. Last year nothing tangible was done. This year a lot of lines and feathers ending in a fizzle. Mr. McWilliams' estimate of the last year's mayor and council's capabilities as being along the line of increasing taxes and overdrafts and doing nothing is not a mile from the bull's eye, Mr. Kendry has evidently come to the same conclusion. That, the present year's council are built along the same lines. Their mind running along statistical information for future reference, passing compliments to each other, but business takes too much power and energy, especially along Auburn dam, lines of thought, too watery a proposition to tackle. (The only power proposition the town has any chance of getting).

Playing into the hands of the present power companies. Take a little history. Some years ago the city could have got the Dickson Company's power for $150,000, but through the lack of support it fell through, then after the fire had cleared the raceway of all the factories on it, the Quaker Oats Co. bought it for $100,000, and built a new dam and power house costing, report says, $190,000 Many people even today think the city should have owned that power. I think otherwise. It was a god-send when the Quaker Oats Co., bought it and made their investment which is a credit to them and a good thing for the city.

But the Auburn dam should belong to the city. The city could develop almost if not altogether as much power at the Auburn dam as there is now at the Dickson dam, and at less than half the expenses. The city should own the two dams. The water works they now own, but if there was a controlling mind in the council they would have taken hold of this matter in a business way and get the very best engineer that was to be had to report on both propositions and lay the whole matter before the people—a comprehensive scheme including water works and electric power. I will not go into details now of how this can be done, but in some future letter will deal with them, but now take up the water works dam proposition. This dam was built about the same time as the government dams above on the river. These dams are as solid, so the engineers say, as they day they were built. They are of as much importance as the water works, built by contract and did not cost half the money that the water works dam did, but the water commissioners seem to have got cold feet, or water on the brain, nightmare of bursting dams, destruction, and rushing waters. This is a malady that develops in municipal officers under certain hot house mutual admiration, "didn't we do it" conditions, but to the good people of Peterborough I want to say it is not a serious malady, it is a swelling of the head that is easily reduced (withhold the money until you have the information necessary to note intelligently). The commissioners are good fellows, good citizens and, quite capable of financing the water works, so long, gentlemen, as the citizens of this little burg pay up the little water bills that come in every three months from Treasurer Adams' office. But reverting to the water works dam. We were always given to understand that ten feet was the best available head at the water works dam. In looking up the original reports when building, and the suit with Irwin following, eight to ten feet was all that could be depended on without any change. So far as the citizens are aware, Chairman Matthews says this has grown to a 12 foot head. This is such a new kind of development that water power owners are crazy to get the patent right on it. Culverwell would give a good deal to get it for Buckhorn. The Otonabee Power Company would be tickled to death to grow two feet more head on dam 5, even the Quaker Oats Company would have been glad to pay for two feet extra on their dam this past winter.

The same engineer who reports this, built the dam and now condemns it as unsafe, and says it has grown two feet in height, and a new dam es essential. The government engineers have not condemned the other dams on the river. If Engineer Kennedy built a properly constructed dam at the water works in the first place then the commissioners have as much need of a new dam as a wagon has for a fifth wheel. If he did not then good common horse sense would have suggested an independent engineer's report on the same, not to employ the same man to inspect his own work. Methinks I hear the commissioners in their innocence singing that old saw, enanged to suit the occasion. "Little drops of water, little grains of sand make a mighty river, but a very poor dam." The, bait held out, that it will not increase our taxes is the poorest argument in face of the fact that the commissioners are putting what is equal to a second mortgage on the water works property as security for the payment of $120,000 asked for in the bylaw. We have not paid for the original cost yet as the interest and sinking fund is being paid out of our taxes ever year, and this is the easy way the commissioners have of putting it,—we will pay it out of surplus earnings of the water—goddrates during our life time. The by to any further reduction in water commissioners are legislating for the future generations. They are built on concrete lines and, if you will pay your water rated like good little men we will give you good Otonabee water, hemmed in by a new concrete dam, and incidentally rip up Messrs. Bradburn and McIntyre's power scheme of electric power at Auburn. The old bug bear, of the Underwriters' Association, demanding it, has done service so long that it ought to dam the weaver who made it. The Underwriters' Association is composed of intelligent men and will no, ask or expect any municipality to rush into an expenditure of $120,000 without due consideration, and the very best experts' advice as the best informed men on the river with years of experience which has cost them thousands of dollars to gain, say that Kennedy's report is misleading, and Mr. Holgate or some other independent engineer should be called in to report before a vote is taken on such a large expenditure of money. Ratepayers, or rather, water users. The chairman says it is up to you. If you can stand it, the rest of us will have to.

Yours truly,

RATEPAYER.

KINRADE INQUEST ADJOURNED UNTIL THURSDAY, APRIL 26

Some New Evidence Produced but It Was of a Contradictory Nature—Crown Has Wind of Some Important Evidence which will Take Some Time to Bring Forward

(Special to The Times.)

Hamilton, March 20.—An adjournment of the Kinrade inquest to Thursday, April 25, was the real surprise sprung at the inquiry in No. 3 police station here tonight. The hearing of the evidence ended at ten o'clock, but shortly afterwards the Crown examiner announced that the evidence to be brought forward would necessitate considerable delay.

It is understood that the Crown has wind of very importance evidence under investigation. Should it be found compicent to complete the enquiry in hand the inquest may be resumed earlier.

The medical evidence was the important feature in the proceeding tonight. Dr. Edgar submitted his evidence in a clear and direct manner and Dr. Bahe, who was present at the autopsy swore in a sentence to his colleague's accuracy.

Their evidence went to show that the murdered girl lived for at least ten minutes and perhaps more than 15 minutes from the time she was shot in the head. It would take 15 minutes for the minimum quantity of blood, estimated to have flowed on the carpet and soaked into the girl's hair from the scalp wound. This was carefully estimated by the medical men on results of standard experiments. Had the victim been dead there would have been no bleeding afterwards. The wounds on the breast were made at least fifteen minutes after those in the head. One bullet entered the heart and this bullet has not been found, it probably being carried into one of the large arteries.

The heart was contracted and was as hard as a stone. The burning of the clothing indicated the proximity of the revolver to within a foot of the victim. The bullets were found to be 32 calibre and about half an inch long. There were eight wounds, the result of different shots fired in the body and five bullets were located.

Other witnesses were called in connection with the story told by the family of the dead girl, although the new evidence was contradictory in detail of nearly all the previous testimony of the family.

Mrs. Clara Rudd and Chas. Hossack fairly contradicted each other on the color of the costume they believed to have been worn by the person they saw during the afternoon of the murder, and who they swore was Ethel Kinrade. Mr. Hossack said the dress was brown, while Mrs. Rudd said it was blue. As a matter of fact Ethel was wearing a blue dress that afternoon.

Other evidence was given in regard to neighbors seeing a strange man about the house that day. This was in support of the tramp theory. Street railway men testified in regard to seeing Florence run across the street. One conductor also said that Mrs. Kinrade was a passenger on his car and that he said to her that there had been a shooting affray. Upon which information she alighted from the car, and ran to the house.

Mrs. King repeated her story as published today of seeing the frightened stranger in the alley at her place at about the time of the murder.

The court room was crowded more than ever tonight, but the disturbance was less and a noticeable improvement was effected by using gas mantles for illumination.

Standing prominently in the front ranks of the crowd was Earl Kinrade, the younger brother of the deceased. His bright red hair and pallid face were strikingly conspicuous.

Mr. Lynch Staunton, K.C., was present as counsel for the family and freely explained to the reporters how the evidence of tonight tallied with that of the members of the family.

So far as public interest in the proceedings is concerned their curiosity has only been wetted by the inquest thus far. The police court room was filled with glass holder some time before seven o'clock, and a half hour later all the available space was taken up. It appeared that passes were issued far in excess of the accommodation thus permitting very little standing room.

W. G. Ferguson Won Club Bonspiel Primary

Mr. W. G. Ferguson, the veteran skip and one of the oldest curlers in the Peterborough Club, last night demonstrated that he is still the daddy of them all, by winning the finals in the club bonspiel against Skip Jas. Connal. The primary contest was finished last night after a week's good sport and excitement. Every afternoon and evening there has been a big bunch of curlers at the rink and the unanimous opinion is that the bonspiel has been the best sport yet, and it was a fitting close for a most successful season in the new rink.

The final game was one of the hardest fought battles of the season. There were two of the best skips in the city pitted against each other and it required all their skill and all their knowledge of the fine points of the game. From start to finish it was a battle and the looser had a chance to win until the last two stones were played. The score was very close all the way through, but Mr. Ferguson took the last four ends and made the score; Ferguson 21, Connal 7.

The ice was very changeable. At the beginning the stones slid easily, but with the large number of spectators on the rink, the ice became gradually more stick until near the end it took a lot of steam to get the stones into the rings. This made it very hard for the skips as well as for the players. Even at that there was several very brilliant shots made, and the onlookers watched the players with admiration.

Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada

The results for 1908 set forth by the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada show that this world-wide organization continues to be prosperous and progressive. Increases are shown in all important items dealing with magnitude of business and financial strength, and the policyholders know that their interests are most thoroughly protected. Ever since its organization the Sun Life has moved steadily forward, as may readily be seen by the following tabulation exhibiting its growth by five-year periods for the past quarter of a century;

Year.	Income.	Assets.	Insurance In Force.
1883	$ 274,866	$ 735,940	$ 6,779,564
1888	375,674	1,536,816	11,931,316
1893	1,240,668	4,091,737	31,190,5
1898	2,827,914	9,231,912	49,693,406
1903	3,986,549	15,806,726	75,681,189
1908	6,949,692	29,286,926	119,517,741

Last year the Sun Life issued new business amounting to $19,783,671, an increase over 1907 of $1,901,878; it increased its total income by $709,314 to $6,949,692; added to its assets $2,760,930, making a total now held and securely invested of $29,286,926, while its insurance outstanding of $119,517,741 shows a gain of $6,392,847. Payments to policyholders in 1908 amounted to $2,929,268, of which $361,471 was in the form of dividends. On the financial side, the company is particularly strong, as it values its contracts on a much more stringent basis than is required by law, yet its surplus is $2,286,394, indicating a gain for the year of $549,493. If the company adhered strictly to the requirements of the Dominion Government it would show a surplus of $4,118,492. By adopting a more stringent basis of reserve, the absolute safety of its contracts is assured for the future. Under the able management of President Robertson Macaulay, and the managing director T. B. Macaulay—both of whom occupy high position in the life insurance world—the Sun Life of Canada will continue to be prosperous and progressive.

The Manager for Central Ontario, Mr. W. B. Hall, is one of the best known men in the city and takes a very active interest in municipal life. He is an active member of the Nicholls Hospital Board, a member of the Board of Water Commissioners, a member of the Public Library Board and has served on the Board of Education for over 21 years. As the standing of a Life Company in any community depends largely on the standing of its representative, one need not be surprised at the splendid position held by the Sun Life of Canada in Peterborough.

Comparing the Sun Life with all its Canadian competitors—it stands first in the amount of business written during the past year. First in the total business in force—First in the amount of profits paid during the year 1908, and First in the total net profits on hand available for distribution among its policyholders. This is a proud position for any company to hold and in the truest sense the Sun deserves its present wonderful popularity. It has a friend wherever it has a policy holder.

City Solicitor Advise the Finance Committee re City Trust Demand

The Finance Committee has decided to drop negotiations with the City Trust Commission for a reduction in their demand. This act was taken upon the advice of the city solicitor who, after going carefully over the act found that there was legal doubt as to the commissioners' authority to use its surplus funds for the purpose intended.

A letter was read from City Solicitor H. D. Hall, giving an opinion as to whether it was legal for the Peterborough City Trust to comply with the request of the council to reduce their demand for this year by $8,500.

It will be remembered that the Finance Committee asked the city solicitor to give his opinion as to the legality of the City Trust Commission reducing its demand upon the City Council. The committee had understood from the city solicitor, at their previous meeting that it was legal and that the commissioners would be acting properly by complying with the committee's desire. Hence the committee's request of the City Trust Commission.

Upon going more fully into the provisions of the Special Act of 1908, incorporating the City Trust Commission the solicitor finds that it would not legally be safe for the transaction to be carried out.

The solicitor wrote a long letter to the committee and the last part of it is quoted below, and will give the points upon which he bases his opinion;—

Section 20 of the Special Act passed at last session directs the commissioners to apply the rents and profits derived from all real estate and the interest on the railway mortgage (after paying the expenses of the commission) towards payment of the interest and sinking funds of general city debentures, so that it is clear that receipts from this source received since the 24th of April, 1908, can be used for this purpose.

Section 22 of this act directs the commissioners to pay all moneys received on account of the principal money due on this mortgage among other things in the reduction of the debenture debt of the city or in payment of the sinking funds in respect of such debt, at the request of the council exercised by bylaw passed by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the council. This, it appears to me requires the commissioners if duly authorized by the council, to apply any principal received by them on account of the railway mortgage since the 24th of April, 1908, in each one of the ways mentioned in this section, but whether the council has power to require payment of principal received by the commissioners prior to the 24th April, 1908, is not at all clear, and I think it is so doubtful, in view of the previous dealing of the commissioners an dthe council and the resolutions passed by them and the provisions of bylaw No. 361, and the Act confirming it and the fact that it was vested in the commissioners by the special act was the principal and interest due or to mature on the railway mortgage, which I take to mean unpaid on the 24th of April, 1908, and not the money previously received by them. That I cannot report that the commissioners can safely reduce their demand by applying the money received from the railway prior to the 24th April, 1908, on account of principal. This construction depends on what is meant by "paid" in sec. 22 in this clause, "all moneys paid on the principal due on the mortgage in section 17 mentioned." This might mean heretofore paid or hereafter paid, but as it says all moneys paid on account of the principal money due. I think it means paid after the passing of the act, as moneys paid before that were not due when the act was passed and the mortgage became vested under the act in the commissioners.

Tax Rate to Remain at 19 1-2 Mills, Say Members of Finance Committee

If the recommendation of the Finance Committee is adopted by the council the tax rate for 1909 will remain at 19 1-2 mills. The loss of the $2500 from the City Trust Commissioners will only mean that the appropriations to the various committees will be put back to the original amount and the aldermen will be called upon to practice the most rigid kind of economy.

The matter was taken up by the Finance Committee yesterday afternoon and it was felt the tthe people were now prepared for a 19 1-2 mill rate and it would not be wise to increase it again. A jump of two mills is a lot considering the scarcity of money among the average taxpayers.

The main question before the committee was what was to be done with the rate. What would the committee do? Make a recommendation to the council, or leave the whole thing to the council to decide. Would it be well to raise the rate or leave it at 19 1-2 mills and put the estimates back to where they were, or should the rate be increased to 20 mills? The latter rate would practically clear off the whole of last year's deficit, while the 19 1-2 mills will only pay off half of it.

The mayor expressed his idea as being that the rate should be made 20 mills and clean up the whole thing this year.

The chairman, Ald. Morrow, and Ald. Bradburn, stated that they would like, if possible, to keep the rate at 19 1-2 mills.

Ald. Bradburn moved and Ald. Phelan seconded that this committee recommend that the bylaw fixing the rate at 19 1-2 mills as passed at the last meeting be amended as far as the appropriations were concerned and that the rate remain the same.

This means that half of last year's overdraft would be carried over until next year and the appropriations to the various committees will be put back to the original amounts. It was felt that the people were prepared to pay a 19 1-2 mill rate and that it would be unwise to to increase it at this time.

Ald. Gillespie was inclined to favor a 20-mill rate.

The motion carried.

Simpson will Hang Close to Shrubb

Toronto, March 19.—The Garrison Athletic Club today took possession of the Armories, for the purpose of preparing the place to receive the record crowd that seems assured for the 12-mile race Saturday night between Fred Simpson and Alfred Shrubb. Additional seating capacity is being put in and work was commenced upon the clay track which Shrubb demanded. Tonight the militia men who will act as ushers will be drilled into their duties. The reserved seat plan is pretty well sold out and there is a big demand for admission tickets, but they will not be sold until the night of the race. The race will be started at 8.45. Both runners are resting completely today.

If the runners work as they say they will, the race will be a nice contest.

"I'm going to run the first mile around 4.45 or 4.50," said Shrubb, and follow on with three other good fast miles, gain all I can and then hammer along to the finish. About 1.05 will win this race."

"I'll send Simpson out to hold Shrubb if he can, no matter how fast the early pace is," says Tom Eck, "but if I find it is hurting him I'll pull him back and race him along on a 5.20 clip. A 5.20 average will win this race nicely."

Flanagan Behind the Semi-Pro. League

Toronto March 19.—Tom Flanagan today announced that he had about completed arrangements for a semi-professional baseball league in Ontario.

The prospective towns and cities are; Hamilton, Toronto, London, Brantford, Peterborough, Woodstock.

The only restriction is that all players must be Canadian born," said Tom Flanagan. "The Toronto team will play at the new east end athletic field."

Early Morning Blaze

At three o'clock this morning the brigade responded promptly to an alarm sent in by P. C. Meagher from box 21, to extinguish a fire in shed in the rear of Comstock's undertaking establishment. The shed was devoured by the flames, but the adjoining house was saved although considerable damage was done to the contents by water and smoke. Some delay was caused by the firemen being handicapped by a frozen hydrant.

PIANO TUNING.

Messrs R. F. Wilkes & Co., of Toronto, have made arrangements whereby they will take over the piano tuning business of the late George Gumpricht. This firm makes piano tuning their specialty and have experts on their staff. For the next two weeks Mr. W. A. Gooch will be in the city and will give prompt attention to all orders. After that date Peterborough will be visited regularly and orders may be sent direct to the firm in Toronto, or be left at the Times office, and they will be promptly looked after. For full particulars see their adv. in another column of this issue.

SUCCESSFULLY RESCUED

Mr. Barry Gibson, of Kingston, was rescued from an enemy that had relentlessly pursued him for years.

Mr. Gibson was born and brought up in Kingston. By profession he is a school teacher. He received his training in Queen's University, where he took a course in arts and medicine that well befits him to talk on almost any subject.

The enemy that for 25 years relentlessly pursued Mr. Gibson is a menace to our entire population—it is the demon, Catarrh.

Mr. Gibson says:—"For years I was never free from Catarrh of the nose and throat. It bothered me winter and summer and kept me so continually coughing and hawking that I found it a great impediment to the proper performance of my duties at school. I used every available means of obtaining a cure, took bottle after bottle of medicine prescribed by local doctors, but never got more than temporary relief. I consulted a well-known specialist in the States. But after spending a considerable amount of money with him to no advantage, was forced to look elsewhere for relief, which I first received from Catarrhozone.

I consider Catarrhozone a genuine cure for Catarrh. It drove that loathsome disease completely out of my system, and today I am as well as if I never knew what the word Catarrh implied."

A straightforward proof of cure, coming from a well-known gentleman like Mr. Gibson carries conviction of the fact with it that Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it. As a cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis it positively has no equal. All druggists, price $1; small size, 50 cents. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE BIBLE IN THE UNIVERSITY

The controversy over the higher criticism has now extended from the Methodist churches to the University of Toronto. When a charge of heretical teaching is made in a particular denomination there is a disposition to warn off the general public as trespassers. It is the business of the Methodists, or the Presbyterians, or the Baptists, it is said, and nobody else has a right to interfere. University College is a public and a non-sectarian body, and here the attempt to close off the discussion is made in another way. The University College it is contended, is precluded by its charter from teaching theology. Hence the Bible must not be taught even in its historical and literary aspects, because in teaching the history and literature of the Bible it is impossible or difficult for the lecturer to avoid indicating his views on the higher criticism or some other question of theology. Legally this view may possibly be maintained. Looking at the subject more broadly, it looks as if the attempt is being made to bar the progress of free inquiry at every point. The ministers of the various churches and the professors of the theological colleges must not talk freely for fear of a charge of heresy. The professors of the non-sectarian college must keep away from the Bible lest they should trespass on the field of theology.

It is very doubtful whether such a position can be permanently maintained. How can history be studied if the history of Babylonia and Assyria and Egypt is to be excluded from the course upon the ground that these nations and empires are mentioned in the Bible? Is the teaching of history to go back only to the point where the Bible record ends, or is it to be confined to those races whose early history the Bible does not narrate or trace? It is obvious that if the restriction is generally applied, it must greatly narrow the teaching, not only of history, but of philosophy and natural science. A university takes all knowledge to be its province. It it does not do that, if it is warned away from certain fields of inquiry because they are regarded as dangerous, if it is not allowed to pursue truth fearlessly, it will hardly deserve the name of a university. It will become merely a collection of colleges for the training of experts in the applied sciences, and for the handing down of certain traditions from one generation of scholars to another.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think. It matters not whether it be stomach pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the box. Sold by all dealers.

Summary of the far Balkan Situation

It is not difficult to misunderstand, or to misunderstand the situation of affairs in the north-western part of the Balkan Peninsula, if the observer is minded so to. But neither is it, nor should it be difficult to take an accurate view of it. The statement from a Paris correspondent has been demonstrated by press despatches on every succeeding day to have been exactly true in detail, and its equal truth in spirit and in general is not to be impugned by subsequent interested inventions in other quarters. The simple fact is that the attitude of the Servian government is and has not been vacillating and shifty, but constant and consistent, and not warlike, but peaceful. Of course, there may have been utterances in Servia of a different character; but it is necessary to discriminate between irresponsible and unofficial individual fulminations, such as are sometimes made in a land of free speech, and the authoritative voice of the responsible government.

As for Austria-Hungary, or more properly, Austria alone, her attitude also is consistent, with the consistency of the opportunist, but we can scarcely esteem it as peaceful. It would be ungracious, and since we cannot infallibly read minds and their motives it would perhaps be unwarrantable, to say that her policy is intentionally provocative of war. But at least it must be said that if it were meant to be warlike it could scarcely be better designed to fulfil that purpose than it is at present. Certainly an assumption by Austria that she could recognize no right of other powers to take cognizance of relations between herself and Servia would be the reverse of reasonable or conciliatory. Nor are the domestic affairs of Austria such as to indicate that her policy is peace. Five Czechish members of parliament and eight newspaper editors have been arbitrarily arrested and imprisoned for no apparent cause except their criticism of the government's policy in the Balkans; relations between Slavs and Germans are more strained than ever, while the economic condition of the people is most distressing. From one point of view, of course, such conditions might be regarded as depreciatory of war. But from a much more generally accepted point of view, at least in Europe, they suggest the desirability of seeking a foreign war, in the enthusiasm of which domestic feuds may be forgotten and domestic distress may for the time either be allayed or overlooked.

It was a fine display of reasonableness and magnanimity, not to say of self-sacrifice in the interest of peace, for Servia to renounce her just claims to territorial compensation for Austria-Hungary's seizure of potentially Servian lands, and to declare her readiness to acquiesce in the Dual Realm's aggrandizement, provided only that her own economical and commercial independence should be perpetually guaranteed, and in making that declaration the government at Belgrade acted with discretion and wisdom such as must commend it to the world. Surely Austria-Hungary should have made haste to meet Servia half way with an equally direct and unequivocal declaration in favor of the strongest possible international guarantee to the effect desired by Servia, since that is something to which Servia would naturally have been entitled in any case, even had Austria-Hungary not seized Bosnia, while, of course, since that seizure there is an additional reason for granting it as evidence that there is no intention of following the absorption of the provinces with actual aggressions upon the integrity of Servia. We must hope, then, in spite of sound and fury at Vienna, that counsels of moderation, justice and peace will prevail at the Hapsburg court, and that a wanton war for sordid aims will not be forced upon Southeastern Europe, with the incalculable danger of its extending to other parts of the continent.

Big Rush of Settlers Expected this Year

"The influx of settlers into Manitoba is expected to this year surpass that of any previous year for some time back," said Mr. James Hartney, local immigration agent for the Manitoba Government, to a reporter, and he added that the settlement statistics for next year would far exceed those of any year in the history of the Province.

This is due to the opening up for settlement of many thousands of acres of valuable homesteading lands.

The third settlers' excursion of this year left the Union Station, and the settlers taken out numbered 339. They were accompanied by one hundred carloads of households effects and farming implements. A goodly share of these will detrain in the Prairie Province. The two previous excursions have also been exceptionally large for the early part of the year.

20,000,000 ACRES YET YET

"Most people have an erroneous idea that all the good land in Manitoba has been settled," said Mr. Hartney. "This is not the case. We have 25,000,000 acres of arable land in the Province of Manitoba, and only 5,000,000 acres was under cultivation last year. And from that small portion over 113,000,000 bushels of all grains were harvested. Manitoba is the only country in the world, of which such a statement could be made. It is the greatest farming country in the world."

The settlers who left the Union Station yesterday were farmers from different parts of Ontario. The figures quoted do not include any immigrants. The influx from the United States also continues to increase enormously.

THE NEWLY-OPENED LAND

The newly-opened lands are situated in different parts of the Province. Two large areas are in the southeast, one east of Winnipeg, between the C.P.R. and C.N.R. lines, and another between Lakes Manitoba and Winnipeg. Some of the best land in the Province has also been opened up in the northwest section.

"The value of cleared land is steadily increasing," said Mr. Hartney, "Only a few days ago a section of 640 acres near Carberry was sold for $35,000. This land was four miles from a railway, but the fact that the purchaser was an old settler who knew the country shows that the land was worth the money."

The railway extensions now being made or under consideration are adding to the value of the land, and will place the newly opened up homestead lands in better communication with the more thick population localities, and will also be an added inducement to settlers.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, once nervous exhaustion, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use a well

Good Coal for Locomotives for Domestic Use for Manufacturers for Blacksmiths On the G. T. P. In the Centre of New Brunswick Nearest Canadian Coal to Montreal Waterway to Coast Stock $10.00 A Share Speak Quick And Be In It Don't Miss This Opportunity Act Today

Extensive Deposits of Coal and Iron have been known for a long time to be present in New Brunswick.

Only recently has it been proved that these deposits are very rich and can be so easily and cheaply worked as to be immensely valuable.

The Iron deposits in New Brunswick about to be opened up are said to be the largest and richest in Canada.

The Coal Deposits in New Brunswick now being developed by the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Ltd., are also proving to be very rich, extensive and valuable.

The Winter Port Coal Mines are within easy reach of the Immense Iron Mines now being opened up.

The Coal Lands of the Winter Port Coal Mining Co., were originally selected by experts for a company that intended using the Coal in the manufacture of Iron and Steel, for which purposes it has been found to be very suitable.

The Winter Port Coal Mines have for some time been turning out Coal which has proved to be a good locomotive coal. It has been used by the I.C.R. and other railroads.

Winter Port Coal is also a steaming Coal of high grade for manufacturers' use. Enthusiastic testimonials from St. John manufacturers who have been using it can be furnished.

Winter Port Coal is also becoming popular in St. John as a house coal for domestic purposes, burning well in cooking stoves, ranges, round stoves and open grates.

Winter Port Coal suits many blacksmiths as well as the famous American Georges Creek Cumberland Blacksmith Coal.

The demand for Winter Port Coal for Railway use, for Manufacturers' use, and Domestic use, is increasing so rapidly that the Company find it necessary to provide further facilities to increase their output at once.

The opening of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which passes through these New Brunswick coal fields, provides another immense and profitable market for this coal.

The Winter Port Coal Mines are now provided with double railway sidings to the two shafts in operation turning out coal.

The Mines are situated near the shore of Grand Lake having almost every important center of population in the province within a radius of sixty miles.

The mines now have rail connection with the New Brunswick Coal & Railway Line, the Intercolonial Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Canadian Pacific have expressed their intention of extending its Gibson branch from Fredericton to the Coal Mines in the near future, as the development warrants.

From the Winter Port Mines it is only a short distance to the great Iron deposits; 25 miles to Fredericton; 55 miles to St. John; 60 miles to Moncton; 450 miles to Quebec by the G.T.P.; 482 miles to Montreal by the C.P.R. This is several hundred miles nearer Quebec and Montreal than most of the Nova Scotia mines. For local distribution the position is also unexcelled.

The St. John River provides a waterway by which Winter Port Coal can be carried to St. John and Fredericton for 15c to 25c per ton. Winter Port Coal can also be carried cheaply by this waterway to points in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia on the Bay of Fundy, and to the coal consuming districts of Maine and Massachusetts.

For Quebec and Montreal trade the short rail haul is most advantageous and being able to deliver coal on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway these mines will prove the most convenient eastern coaling facility for this Great Transcontinental Railroad.

The site of the Winter Port Coal Mining Co.'s property on the shores of Grand Lake with abundance of cheap fuel for producing electric power at the pit's mouth, according to Edison's idea, is one of the most advantageous sites in New Brunswick for the establishment of manufacturing industries, and a rapid development of the Company's Townsite is looked for on the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The Company's Harbor Entrance and Berths on the Grand Lake shore have already been dredged to provide sufficient depth of water for vessels navigating the St. John River and Grand Lake.

This opportunity to develop a large and profitable Coal Mining Business with a ridiculously small amount of capital is an unique one.

No immense outlay for plant and equipment is necessary at the Winter Port Mines.

Skilled labor is not required. Any man who can use a pick and shovel can dig the coal at Winter Port Mines.

No expensive pumping outfit is needed, as the mines have natural drainage.

No costly ventilating machinery and appliances are necessary because natural ventilation is sufficient. No explosive gases are encountered.

Deep and costly shafts are unnecessary, as the coal is so near the surface.

No immense hoisting engines and boilers are needed, because inexpensive and portable outfits hoist the coal.

The miners dig the coal and wheel it to the platform of the hoist for about 90c per ton.

The other expenses are small, and many of them will be lessened on the increased output.

The output will be increased rapidly, as the coal lies so that it is immediately available for mining, without the slow and costly development work incident to the opening of other coal fields.

Some of the stock has been sold to manufacturers in St. John, who are using the coal.

Other purchasers of the stock reside in different parts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and in Ottawa.

The Winter Port Coal Co., Ltd., Incorporated, is capitalized at $60,000, divided into shares of $10 each.

They are offering the balance of the unsold treasury stock for sale, at par value at $10 per share.

AS THERE IS SUCH A SMALL AMOUNT OF STOCK TO SELL AND SUCH AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A RAPID INCREASE IN VALUES, it is expected that this stock will be very quickly taken up. Therefore please send in your subscription promptly.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

FACTS ABOUT THE CROUP

THE FIRST SYMPTOMS AND TREATMENT.

Some Interesting Information for Young Mothers---How to Guard Against the Disease.

The great danger from croup is fully realized by most mothers of young children. There are many, however, who do not know that an attack of croup may be prevented by proper treatment as soon as the first symptoms appear. The first indication of an attack of croup is hoarseness. The child becomes quite hoarse; this is followed by a rough cough that has something of a metallic sound and has been compared to the crowing of a cock. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to the printed directions with each bottle as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, and it will prevent the attack. It is, in fact, a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail, but it is better and safer to give the remedy before the attack of croup is fully developed. It then saves suffering for the child and anxiety for its parents. There is no danger in giving this remedy freely, as it contains no opium or other narcotic. It is the standby and sole reliance in many thousands of homes and never disappoints those who depend upon it. There are women who took this remedy in childhood, now giving it to their grandchildren, and with the same uniform success. It always cures and is pleasant to take.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

EDIBLE BIRDS' NESTS.

Borneo Delicacy Is a Highly Prized Dish Among Wealthy Chinese.

The cold weather in China has caused a great increase in the demand for salted and dried fish from Borneo's eastern port. This year the demand considerably exceeds the supply. The steamers between Hong Kong and Sandakan are loaded down to the last ton with cases of this valuable export.

Amongst the wealthier Chinese the Borneo "edible birds-nest" forms a table delicacy that is also peculiarly acceptable in winter. Prices frequently exceeding $10 a pound are being paid by exporters of these nests, the white variety being the most sought after. It is true that now and then fancy prices are paid for the red nests, but these are of peculiar flavor, being used chiefly as an "appetiser" to be taken before a meal. The black variety is the cheapest, the color being only due to little black feathers, which are always removed before cooking.

These edible birds-nests are found sticking to the walls of caves in the neighborhood of the sea and certain rivers, notably the Kinabatangan. They are much the size and shape of an English native oyster shell, and are made of a gummy secretion that certain swallows, or martins, exude from their beaks, and nothing else. The Europeans in Borneo are fully acquainted with the delicious consistency that is imparted to a soup when a few nests are added, and the doctors frequently take advantage of their great nutritive qualities when seeking to strengthen a convalescent.

George Bernard Shaw as an M. P.

One would give much to have that cold and searching intellect of Mr. George Bernard Shaw, for example, brought to bear on the life of Parliament. He has just that dry light that we lack. And he is unquestionably the first debater of his time. He has every weapon at instant service. His wit lies at the tip of his tongue. He sees the whole lie of a country at a glance, and leaps to the weak place in the defence instantly. When he and Mr. Wells fought for the soul of the Fabian Society, he pinned him on one unimportant clause in his indictment on which Mr. Wells was wrong, and from that one point of secured the surrender of Mr. Well's whole case. He is the best exemplar of his own theory about the Irish and the English. The common view is that the English are the practical hard-headed people, and that the Irish are the sentimentalists and dreamers. On the contrary, he says it is the English who live in a world of illusions, and the Irish who live in a world of lucid facts, and he takes the sentimental Nelson and the unromantic Wellington as the types to prove his case. It is all a matter of climate. The London fog is to him the symbol of the London mind. To Mr. Chesterton it is a cloak of mystery and romance. He loves the fog and has sung songs in its praise. Mr. Shaw hates the fog as the product of our dirty and wasteful ways. In his own way, Mr. Wells is a typical Cockney, with all the unrest and curiosity of the urban mind, but, on the other hand, with as little sentiment as Mr. Shaw himself.

Huge Salaries.

Richard Burbage, who was considered the best as well as the most popular actor of his day, received a regular salary of £130 a year (equal in our money to £1,040), besides shares in the theatre which brought in a large sum. The traveling actors, from whom the highwayman, Gamaliel Ratsey, extorted a free performance in 1604, were "men with the certainty of a rich competency in prospect." An efficient actor received in 1635 as large a regular salary as £180, of which sum £1,440 is the modern equivalent. The lowest known valuation set an actor's wages, says a writer in The Strand, was 3s. a day, or in modern money about £360 a year. Shakespeare's emoluments as an actor before 1599 are not likely to have fallen below £800 in our money; while the remuneration due to performances at Court or in noblemen's houses, if the accounts of 1594 be accepted as the basis of reckoning, added some £190. Actresses did not appear until about 1662, female parts being previously taken by boys. Among the very earliest were Mistress Nell Gwynne, of the King's Playhouse, and Mistress Knip. Both, from having been "orange-girls," earning a precarious existence about the theatre, were raised to the affluence of 20s. a performance—about £4 in present value.

Why Are English People Dull.

The cause of shyness is the fear of showing to others what we feel. I think to hide our feelings is a national fault. We often speak of the Irish and the French as not being sincere, simply because they are apt to be expansive. I do not see that you are more sincere by hiding what you feel than by showing it. The thing that we most dread of all others is that if we hide our sentiments too much we often produce atrophy of them. There is nothing more dead-alive than that absence of feeling in our manner. Some say it comes from shyness. I believe it comes from the convictions that reserve is the proper attitude. We do not think that our neighbor has a right to know what we feel, and so we hide completely our sentiments. The dullness that we feel in going into society would vanish if we could only think that the people about us say simply what they really think about things.—Alice Corkran in The Girl's Realm.

The Good Old Days.

A Leicester man, who is believed to be 103 years of age, remembers taking service with a Spalding farmer for 4d. a day and a little milk in the mornings, sometimes paying out of his wages 6d. a week for his lodgings elsewhere, and finding his food and clothes. He says the poor of those days did not eat so much as they do now. He had bought tea in London at 14s. a pound.

A Sponge That Works.

"Here is a clever notion—a fog bell," said an old New England fisherman.

On a bleak, gray afternoon they stood at the seashore—the old man and his city cousin from Boston. A great bell hung from a scaffold, and under a metal cover hung a great sponge.

"This here machinery is wound up regular," the fisherman explained, "and this here sponge is kept under cover so as the rain can't get at it. In dry weather, natch'rally, the sponge is dry and light; in foggy, though, it gets heavy with fog natch'rations, just heavy enough for to press down the lever that starts the machinery a-going. Then, ding-dong, ding-dong, sounds the bell in the fog, savin' many a fisherman from wreck on this rock bound coast."—Exchange.

A Persistent Hen.

Ever hear about our little red hen? Well, sir, she was on the set for keeps. Couldn't keep her off. Old doorknobs, soda bottles, lamp chimneys, match safes—anything was good enough for her. Finally I put her on three mud turtles, and I hope to die if she didn't hatch out alligators—yes, sir, three of 'em! One of 'em ate her up, and when we opened him there was the hen settin' on his back teeth, and they'd swelled up so they choked him to death.—Exchange.

Unreasonable.

"My husband is so very unreasonable."

"Most husbands are. What did yours do?"

"He fixed a fishhook in one of his pockets because he pretended to suppose that I robbed him at night, and then he blamed me because he forgot it was there."

Coarsely Defined.

"What is the distinguishing quality of the problem play?"

"It makes you think. The first half keeps you wondering what the question is, and the second half keeps you guessing what's the answer."

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could ave been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore, —that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droop.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton-ton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot, at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints lack of apetite, and loss of sleep. Reach the cause. Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 25c. at all dealers.

OBITUARY

E. S. NEILL.

Mr. Robt. Neill of this city, has been called to Brantford by the sad intelligence of the death of his brother, Mr. E. S. Neill of that city. The late Mr. Neill has been ill for some time. He was unmarried.

The body will be brought to Peterborough for interment and the funeral will take place to the Little Lake cemetery on Saturday morning, the 21st inst., on the arrival of the 11.26 C.P.R. express.

DIED AT MARKHAM.

Mr. J. J. McCrea has returned home from Markham, where he was called by the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Thomas Raney, who passed away last Friday after a short illness. Mr. Raney was fifty-nine years of age, and was held in the highest esteem by a large number of friends. The funeral took place on Monday. Mr. Raney was a brother of Mrs. McCrea.

Demanding Damages

The outcome of the abrupt conclusion of the play "Come Back to Erin" is a suit for $500 damages against J. J. Turner and Sons, preferred by the company through the manager, Mr. Brady. An effort will be made to have this tried in the High Court, and if such is the case, it will be brought up at the Assizes. The management of the Grand have a charge against the company for $53 for the loss they sustained in the discontinuation of the play. This was brought up at the Division Court yesterday morning before Magistrate Dumble in in the absence of Judge Weller, but the case was remanded.

Mr. Fred Clark, of the Crown Hotel, has returned from a business trip to Toronto.

Miss M. G. Hefferman of Norwood returned home yesterday after spending a week with friends in the city.

Mr. A. J. Boswell, route agent of the Dominion Express Co., was on a visit to the local office yesterday.

Miss Clara Adams of Campbellford who has been visiting her sister Mrs. Geo. McCartney, 284 Stewart street, has returned home.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy, who is at St. Joseph's Hospital, is progressing favorably, although not yet able to see visitors.

Edna May Tamblyn, daughter of Mr. F. M. Tamblyn, was married on Friday to Mr. Charles E. Anderson of Peterborough. They will reside in Hamilton, Ont.—Port Hoe Times.

Mr. Thomas Barrie left last night on a business trip to Western Canada. He intends going as far as Edmonton, Alta., and will buy furs in their raw state, for next season's trade.

The numerous friends of Mr. Norman Joliffe, an old Peterborough boy will be glad to learn that his splendid baritone voice and cultured musical ability are bringing him both profit and glory. He has recently been appointed leader of the musical service of the Church of the Puritans church, Fifth avenue, New York, one of the leading Presbyterian churches of that city. It is understood that this fine recognition of his musical abilities is accompanied with a corresponding salary. The Times congratulations will be joined in by a large circle of friends and admirers in this city and district.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

Judge Weller Has Been Ill

Owing to the illness of Judge Weller, which confined him to the house, the judgment on the Douro election protest was not given yesterday. He stated at the conclusion of the hearing that he would take two weeks to consider the evidence on the one charge, and would then deliver his decision. From the many enquires made yesterday, there is apparently much interest centered in the outcome. The counsel for both parties were seen yesterday and stated that they did not know when the judge would give his decision, and that the time at present was very indefinite.

A Big Addition at South Beach

Mr. W. E. Brooks of South Beach, was in the city yesterday. He stated to The Times that he anticipated a greatly increased tourist traffic up the lakes this summer and that he was preparing for it. The improved facilities for reaching the Kawartha Lakes afforded by the Otonabee Navigation Co., whose boats run in all directions, will have the effect of increasing business at the summer hotels and boarding houses.

Mr. Brooks has just added a new wing 30x70 feet to the South Beach Hotel. This will give 14 more bedrooms and a dining room, 30x70 feet. The hotel now has 34 bed rooms, with 14 additional in the cottage adjoining.

South Beach has long been regarded as one of Nature's beauty spots and is one of the most charming summer resorts on the inland lakes. Mr. Brooks is also an ideal host and looks after the interests of his guests in a way which wins him friends and is bound to increase his business.

Convinced

Woman's Interesting Experience

A Md. woman tells how she was convinced in regard to a matter of vital importance. She says:

"Before I used Grape-Nuts I was almost a physical wreck. I suffered untold agonies from indigestion, could not sleep at night, was on the verge of nervous prostration.

"I finally purchased a pkg. of Grape-Nuts, and the one pkg. convinced me it was just what I needed. I gradually grew better as I continued to eat the food and my ills vanished.

"I can now sleep soundly every night, going to sleep as soon as I retire. I never have dyspepsia any more.

"Too much cannot be said in favor of Grape-Nuts as a brain food for school children—makes them rosy and active.

"It is just the kind of food one needs for that tired feeling, and produces a reserve force and energy which lasts."

Change in the Tax Slip

Some time ago Ald. Bradburn moved in council that the amount of money raised by taxes be credited to the different purposes on the tax slips which are sent to the ratepayers. The object of this was to show the citizens what was done with their money, and also to protect the council from a large portion of the blame for the increase in the rate. The Board of Education use about half the total taxes collected, a fact which is not generally considered by the taxpayer.

This has been found to be a bigger job than was at first expected as the amounts come out in decimals so a substitute however, the Finance Committee passed the following resolution;—

It was moved by Aldermen Bradburn and Gillespie, that this committee find that the bylaw be further amended by repealing the clause which required the taxes for the city, public school, collegiate institute and separate schools to be set out separately, and that it be provided that as an illustration there be printed on each tax bill the amount of taxes payable on each $1000 of assessment for general city purposes and for school purposes—carried.

On motion it was moved that a by-law be prepared for issuing debentures to pay for the crossings constructed during the latter part of 1907 and 1908 that did not come under the heading of local improvements.

Broke Both Arms

On February 23rd. Mr. William Gillin of Peterborough, who was employed at the tannery here, fell and broke his arm. After having it mended he went to Peterborough for a rest, and when he returned to work on Tuesday he had the misfortune to fall heavily on the hand of the other arm and sustained a Colles' fracture which will lay him up for another three or four weeks.—Hastings Star.

Reasons for Ratepayers to Support Power By-Law

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—We wish on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the By-law to authorise the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter of providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the waterworks property, asked the council to submit a By-law to the electors for that purpose, which the council has done. At the same time the commissioners informed the council that when the new dam is completed there will be 1200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the waterworks department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of building the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when that work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to instal the electrical machinery. That would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the Bylaw which is now submitted to the electors. But when the unwatering is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the Bylaw. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the waterworks department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 600 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another Bylaw could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work, the city will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the committee and the council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the Bylaw authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the Bylaw.

Yours respectfully,

H. RUSH, Mayor.

A. A. McINTYRE, Chairman Power Committee.

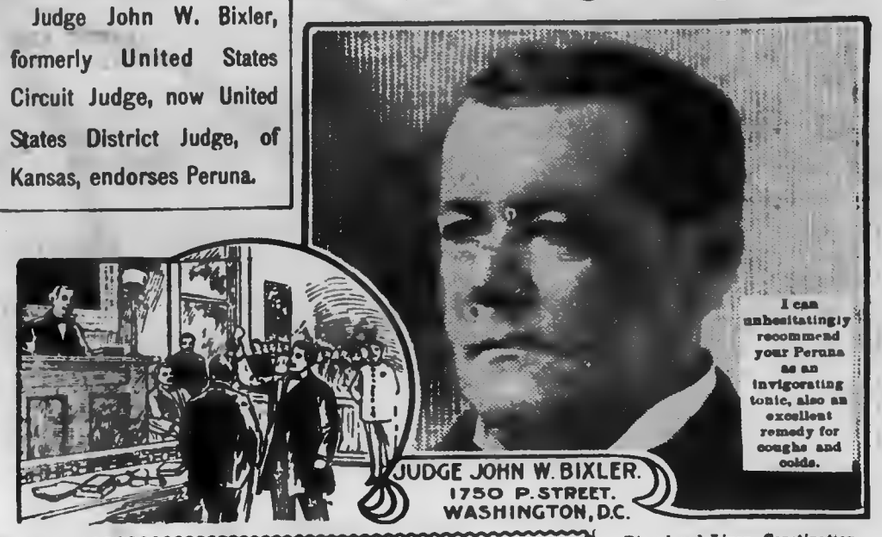
DISTRICT JUDGE U. S. COURT

Recommends Pe-ru-na as an Invigorating Tonic.

Judge John W. Bixler, formerly United States Circuit Judge, now United States District Judge, of Kansas, endorses Peruna.



JUDGE JOHN W. BIXLER. 1750 P. STREET. WASHINGTON, D.C.

I can unhesitatingly recommend your Peruna as an invigorating tonic, also an excellent remedy for coughs and colds.

Pe-ru-na Testimonials.

When any man or woman, out of pure gratitude, writes us a letter, commenting upon the benefits he has received from the use of Peruna, when he does this without any solicitation or remuneration of any sort, and furnishes us a recent photograph, so that his identity and responsibility in the matter is beyond question, then do we consider a testimonial available for our advertising purposes.

We are at the present time publishing many hundreds of testimonials. We give the name and address in full of each one of these people.

We have no use for, nor would we publish for any sum of money, a fraudulent testimonial. To do such a thing would be dishonorable from a moral standpoint, and commercial suicide from a business standpoint.

Tonic and Appetizer.

W. H. Parsons is ex-State Senator and ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, also Brigadier General in Confederate Army. In a recent letter from 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D.C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials of the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip, with which I have been affected for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week. It is especially good in toning up the stomach, and has a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry, in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Appetite and Digestion Poor.

Mr. Charles Schwehs, Lexington, Texas, writes:

"I suffered from catarrh of the liver. What I ate disagreed with me. I was weak and feverish. I slept very poorly, had rush of blood to the head. I was very despondent, and took no pleasure in anything. My appetite was changeable, digestion poor.

"Your medicine made me well again, for which I express to you my heartfelt thanks. I firmly believe that for all who suffer in like manner it would have the same good effect."

Disordered Liver, Constipation.

Mr. W. O. Clement, Assistant Manager "Rome Georgian," Rome, Ga., writes: "It affords me pleasure to voluntarily testify to the true merits of your wonderful Peruna.

"I have for several years been suffering from disordered liver and chronic constipation, for which I had tried a great many remedies, but none did me any good. My whole system was so thoroughly overcome that I was easy to catch cold and the consequence was that a chronic case of catarrh was fast developing.

"I have been taking Peruna for six weeks and am happy to say that it has had the desired effect. My liver is in good condition, constipation disappeared, and I no longer feel any of the symptoms of catarrh.

"In truth I am now in better health and feel stronger than I have for several years and it is all due to the wonderful effects of Peruna."

Systemic Catarrh.

Mr. Moses F. Merrill, Route 8, Columbus, Kansas, writes:

"The improvement in my health has been wonderful. My bowels are regular as clock-work. I can now eat like other people and my victuals digest completely. I think I am cured of systemic catarrh.

"It has been a hard fight, but I came out victor. Many thanks for your kind counsel and management."

Guthrie's Grocery Store Destroyed by Fire Sunday Morning

Defective wiring was the cause of a bad fire in Mr. S. J. Guthries grocery store at the corner of Water and Smith streets, about a quarter to three o'clock Sunday morning. The fire started near the front of the store on the ceiling and evidently caught onto the curtains which dropped to the floor and allowed the flames to spread among the goods under the counter and on the shelves. A couple of young fellows driving home to Lakefield, saw the blaze, and they at once aroused the family which were sleeping upstairs. Mr. David Fleming, a boarder and the Lakefield boys hurried to box 45, and sent in the alarm and then went back and got the family out. Besides Mr. Fleming, Mrs. Guthrie and three small children were in the house, but they all got out safely. The brigade was only about three minutes in getting to the fire, but even then the flames were roaring like a furnace and so great was the heat that the plate glass windows were broken. This allowed the strong west wind to fan the flames and make the fire worse. The brigade, however, did excellent work and confined the fire to the store. A couple of times the flames got in between the ceiling and upstairs floor, but were stopped there. The new men fought well and the chief is particularly well pleased with their work.

The stock is a complete loss and the damage is estimated at between $800 and $900. The building is owned by the Misses Griffith, but the damage to it was not very extensive. No damage was done to the household goods upstairs.

At the time Mr. Guthrie was out in the country on business and he was sent for, arriving in the city Sunday afternoon.

Fire Department was Called to Stop Fight

It is seldom that the fire department is called upon to stop a fight, but such was the case Saturday night. It seems that a small party of young fellows who had been hypnotized by "Oh be joyful liquid," went to the Chinese restaurant at the corner of George and King streets. They had a new bottle of corn juice with them and intended to pull the cork and partake of the contents as a side dish with pork and beans and steak and onions. For some reason they quarreled with the Chinaman and the celestial got the worst of the argument. From appearances one would judge he had been rather roughly handled. His vest was torn off, his shirt was in rags, his pig-tail has been tampered with and his mental equilibrium was badly dishevelled. As a last resort the unfortunate proprietor rush ed to the telephone and called up the police station. One of the officers answered the call and he heard an excited voice cry "Fire, fire, at corner King and George streets." Thinking the Chinaman had need of a superabundance of local option the policeman sent an alarm of fire to the fire hall. The brigade turned out and were on the scene in less time than it takes to tell it, but they were unable to locate any blaze, but upon enquiry of the Chinaman, learned that it was a fight and that the police were wanted. In the meantime the disturbers of the peace had decamped and all was quiet again except the celestial who was dancing a war dance and calling upon all his heathen gods for vengeance.

The boys in their hurry to get out left the full bottle of choice whiskey on the table for the chief of the fire department and along side the fire water was the compliments of the season. But since the chief has climbed upon the water wagon the inspiring liquid was of no use to him so he left it with the Chinaman to console himself for his loss. It is understood, however, that the owners of the bottle may have same by calling at the restaurant and proving their property.

Peterborough Boy is Connected with a Big Summer Resort in Troy

The Editor of The Times has received an invitation from Mr. W. C. Fleming, secretary-treasurer of the Mohawk Park Company of Troy, N. Y., to spend a couple of days this summer as a guest of their company. Mr. Fleming is an old Peterborough boy and he has met with some success in his adopted home. He would be glad to welcome any of the Peterborough people to Mohawk Park this summer. In connection with that popular summer resort the Evening Standard of Troy, N.Y., says:

"During the past few years numerous parks and pleasure resorts have sprung up in the vicinity of Troy and each one carries with it some added attraction which the amusement lovers of Troy are looking for.

"On Wednesday, May 26, the New Mohawk Pines, situated on the line between Troy and Cohoes, will be formally opened. This park undoubtedly will surpass all other resorts in this locality for pleasure, rest and comfort. It is delightfully situated, the soft breeze from the Hudson, the tall, stately whispering pines and its delightful environment make this spot an ideal one for its purpose. The facilities for reaching these are most convenient. Any car from Cohoes, Troy and Watervliet will transfer to the place. The Delaware and Hudson Railway Company has already erected a temporary station there for the accommodation of the crowds.

"The park comprises 65 acres, all of which is shaded by the pines. A new athletic field is being constructed. This field will consist of a baseball diamond, running track and tennis court. The principal feature of the park is that no admission fee will be charged. The other attractions, which are new and novel, are the "Circle Dip Coaster," a pastime which has never been seen in Troy, although many parks have had a miniature one; "Shoot the Shoots," the device that made Luna Park famous; the "Jollier Tub Run," which will be the best attraction in the park. The run is a long one and most exhilirating. The other attractions are the Human Laundry, Merry-go-Round, Air theater, House-up-side-down, dancing pavilion, Pennville, Tally-Ho swings, Ferris Wheel, Brainstorm, box ball, billiard rooms, and a mammoth band shed will be built. A large hippodrome is being constructed for the out-of-door attractions, which will consist of the best acts obtainable. Messrs. Fleming and Wilson, managers of the park, are sparing no expense to make this park the best in the state, and everybody, whether unescorted or not will receive every possible courtesy.

"On Monday, May 31, a mammoth benefit and field day will be held at the park for the benefit of the new Maternity hospital. Other field days will be held there as the season progresses for which large and expensive vaudeville acts and concessions have been secured."

Today we will sell 25 envelopes and 25 sheets of good writing paper to match for 9 cents. Times Bookstore.

Fred Simpson Went Down to Defeat Before the Little Englishman

Time for 12 Miles was, Shrubb One Hour, Six Minutes and Thirty Three Seconds, Simpson, One Hour, Ten Minutes and Seventeen Seconds—5,000 People Saw Race

(Special to The Times.)

Toronto, March 21.—Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Indian from Hiawatha, ran his first professional race here last night against Alfred Shrubb, the wonderful little English distance runner, and lost by six laps. Shrubb's time for the 12 miles was 1.06.38, while Simpson's time was 1.10.17, or nearly four minutes slower.

The race was started by General Cruton at nine o'clock and was witnessed by 5000 spectators. The track at the armories was in good shape and the arrangements made by the Grenadiers were the very best.

The little Englishman came out at 8.40 for a fast spin of five laps. He was followed ten minutes later by the Peterborough Indian. Between times was Longboat was introduced and challenged the winner to 15 miles. All the runners were given a warm reception.

When the race started Shrubb wore a cherry sweater with the Union Jack on the breast, while Simpson wore Cambridge blue with white figures. Shrubb drew the pole, and at the pistol fire he shot out in front to show up the ex-amateur. He started at a 5-minute clip and kept up so steadily that he gained 20 yards in the first lap. At the end of the first mile Shrubb was 3-4 of a lap ahead, and at 1 1-4 miles he lapped his adversary. Time for the first mile, Shrubb 4.49, Simpson 5.11 1-2. This was second only to the first mile of the Shrubb-Dorando race in Buffalo, proving the fastest of the twelve on this specially prepared track.

After this the pace was slackened for nearly a mile, with Shrubb jogging along comfortably behind the long-gaited Indian. On the last lap of the second mile Shrubb passed the Ojibway again and started out to make his lead two laps. Shrubb 10.12 2-5. Simpson 10.45. This shows the perceptable slowing up of the Marathoners.

At 2 1-2 miles Shrubb was 1 1-4 laps ahead, and the race looked like a joke so far as the Indian was concerned. The time for three miles was, Shrubb 15.31, and Simpson 16.25. This was 21 seconds faster than Shrubb's time against Longboat in New York. At 3 1-2 miles Shrubb was 2 laps ahead and again looping behind Simpson. The judges were very active in their duties.

In the 4th lap of the 4th mile Shrubb led out to gain another lap and at 5 miles was 2 1-4 laps ahead. The time for 5 miles was, Shrubb 26.38 1-5, Simpson 27.54. The Englishman kept up his record-breaking running and the time for 6 miles was 32.05 1-5.

Shrubb gained the 3rd lap on the 2nd lap of the 7th mile. Time 37.46 4-5. On the 9th lap of the 10 mile Shrubb drew away for the 4th time and had no trouble in opening up a gap once more, and although the Englishman had travelled nearly half a mile the farther, the Indian was the more distressed and if one was to make a guess which was likely to quit it would not have been Shrubb. At this stage all the experts looked wise and said, "I told you so, etc." Longboat was very pleased and said he could beat Simpson a mile in 10

Time for the 8th mile, Shrubb 43.34 1-5, Simpson 45.32 1-2. Simpson was hanging on some in the 9th, and his supporters gave him a little cheer. Then the runners slackened speed and at 8 1-2 miles the race was all over errop, the little cheer at the end. Time for 9 miles 49.18, with Shrubb 3 3-4 laps ahead. Shrubb still gained and with a great burst of speed he ran the last mile and pulled out a victory by 6 laps in 1 hour 6 mins. and 33 seconds.

Laymen's Missionary Movement in St. Paul's

An interesting leaflet was distributed among the men of St. Paul's congregation yesterday in reference to the Laymen's Missionary Movement. The object of the address was to point out just what this movement is and how it has advanced. The address is as follows:

1. Its object. "To give the gospel to all parts of the world in this generation." It might be pointed out that the resources of the Church in the past have been entirely inadequate to meet the appeals for assistance from the home and foreign mission fields. This is more particularly the case at the present time. The influx of foreigners who are coming to this country each year and settling in our North-west provinces, commands the attention of our home missions, and the great awakening in China the past year is receiving in a very limited measure the help of our foreign missions both of which are great problems for the Church to solve, and demand the consideration of every layman.

2. Our home mission field is enlarging every year, and the responsibility of enabling the Church to extend its influence throughout our Western provinces rests upon the laymen of this country. Thousands of people who are seeking homes, land on our shores each year; some few stay in the cities where they are under the protection of the Church. The vast majority, however, move out to the open prairie and settle in isolated districts. These people are from all parts of the world, speaking many different languages, and naturally bring with them the customs of their native land. It is essential, therefore, for the progress of christianity and uplifting of the foreigner to a sense of duty and citizenship, that the influence of the Church should reach these people.

3. Its origin. The inception of this movement which was inaugurated by they laymen of America, as you are aware, was brought about by the urgent appeals from time to time of our missionaries in the foreign field, who are devoting their lives to the spreading of the gospel, and are utterly helpless, in a manner, to cope with the condition of affairs that exists there at the present time. Millions of people in India and China alone are without the gospel. The Province of Honan (China), with a population of some eight million people, is entirely dependent on the efforts of a few Canadian missionaries to give them the gospel.

4. The appeal. The constant appeals for help led to a meeting of laymen who in the past had given an indifferent support to the cause of missions, their time and attention being devoted almost entirely to the pursuit of their daily occupations, and only at the request of the Church for assistance did the matter give them any concern.

5. The response. This meeting of laymen, therefore, realized the duty and responsibility that rested upon them as Christian men and, in response to the call for men and money to carry on the work in the mission fields, it was resolved that in their opinion, it was practicable "To give the gospel to all parts of the world in this generation." The appeal went out to all laymen and asked for their co-operation and assistance. This appeal has now come to the laymen of Peterborough to join in the movement. It has come to the business man, the man of affairs and every thinking man, to consider his responsibility in the support of missions.

"Molly Maguires" Disavowed as Being Allied to the American A.O.H.

Timothy Healy Makes Scathing Denouncement of Attempts to Break Up the Recent Irish National Convention

Dublin, March 20.—Mysterious signs and passwords are, according to Mr. Timothy Healy, K.C., M.P., the means by which members of the "Molly Maguires" distinguish each other. Mr. Healy described the society and its methods before the divisional police magistrate, and declared that more than 300 of the "Mollies," armed with boxwood bludgeons, came from Belfast to terrorize the recent Irish National Convention in Dublin.

Mr. Healy appeared as counsel for Mr. Eugene Crean, M.P., who charges Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P., and Mr. Denis Johnston, secretary of the United Irish League, with instigating an assault on him at the convention, and with organising a plot to disturb the orderly proceedings at the convention. The latter charge is made under the Public Meetings Act.

The proceedings arise out of the scene when Mr. William O'Brien and his followers were howled down and Mr. MacCreon, it is alleged, was assaulted.

It should be explained that Mr. Devlin is the chairman of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which, the counsel alleges, has no connection with the great American friendly society of that name. Mr. O'Brien and his friends declare that it is a revival of the "Molly Maguires," which became infamous for the crimes of its members in Ulster in the middle of the last century.

Mr. Healy, in his opening speech, declared that the question was whether public men could take part in their public duties only at the will of the "Molly Maguires."

"Public men in Ireland," he said, "are determined that they will not taken their orders from Mr. Joseph Devlin and the 'Molly Maguires.' They are determined to put down this infamous system of ruffianism in the Mansion House, and to expose it to the public gaze.

"The whole of the ruffianism came from Belfast, the tickets were printed in Belfast, the bludgeon-men came from Belfast, and Mr. Joseph Devlin represented Belfast.

"Mr. Devlin, for some furtive purpose, galvanised into life in certain parts of Ireland the remnant of the ancient 'Molly Maguire' faction, and dubbed them 'the Ancient Order of Hibernians.'"

Mr. Healy quoted the language of a Lenten pastoral by Cardinal Logue in reference to this society, condemning it as dangerous to the moral and spiritual welfare of the people, and when he recited the signs and passwords.

"This society, which professed to represent the supporters of Limerick and Sarsfield's Riders, and Rory Orgue, and other distinguished persons in Irish history," said Mr. Healy, "was brigaded by Mr. Devlin under the British Lion and Unicorn and the British Friendly Societies Act.

"A private and confidential circular was issued by Mr. Devlin to the members, and in consequence, 825 young gentlemen, who came from Belfast, marched to the meeting.

Here Mr. Healy held aloft a formidable boxwood baton, which, he said, was a specimen of a number that were in sacks under the charge of Mr. Johnston, who, as the men reached the Mansion House gave each of them a green rosette and a bludgeon.

Canada's Cheese is is Above Suspicion

Ottawa, March 22.—In a report on the cheese industry of Canada, based on the examination of 237 samples collected by officials of the Inland Revenue Department throughout Canada, it is stated that only two sample of skim milk cheese were found, nor was any foreign fat, found in any of the samples, showing pretty conclusively that so-called "filled" cheese is not known in Canada.

Noisy Girls Causes an Actress to Faint

Hamilton, March 19.—In Magistrate Jelf's court today three extravagantly dressed Toronto damsels—Gertie Gentle, Pearl Quackenbush and Viva Harris—were fined $10 each or 21 days for being disorderly in Bennett's theater last night.

The girls occupied a box and created such a stir that one of the women performers fainted.

Staunton and McIlroy Tied for High Score

During the past week 29 scores of over 200 were made on the P.B.C. alleys, and last week's high water mark was passed by two bowlers, Staunton and McIlroy, both making 248. The other scores were as follows;

Martin—221, 234, 203, 203, 242, 226, 211.

Cairns—216, 207, 213, 226, 225, 209.

Sutherland—221, 231, 203, 203, 242, 226.

McIlroy—223, 248

Staunton—212, 248.

Clancy—232, 202

Gutterson—209, 212.

McRae—203.

N. Perry—206.

GRITS AND TORIES.

A whole lot of interest is being taken in the contest between the Grits and Tories, which take place on Tuesday night. The Grit bowlers got a pretty classy bunch together and then got cocky and issued a challenge to any bunch of Tory bowlers, in the city, fully expecting that their bluff would carry. Such, however, was not to be, and now the Tories come along with the announcement that they have five bowlers who can pretty nearly beat the Grits. Articles of agreement have been signed and the officials have been selected. Tuesday night is the date and the greatest battle ever witnessed on the local alleys will be pulled off. The probable teams are;—

GRITS.	TORIES.
Sutherland	Warnham
Cairns	Pollard
Ferguson	McIlroy
Glover	Connors
Martin	Bruce

Mr. W. McIlroy beat the record of the alleys for three consecutive games. Soon after the alleys were opened a traveller, Mr. Grey, put up a total of 662. This held good until Saturday night when McIlroy rolled 663. This will likely be good for some time, although Mr. Grey will be in the city this city and no doubt he will endeavor to show a little more classy bowling.

HIGH SCORE TIE.

Great interest centered around the contest for the box of cigars at the P.B.C. alleys this week. The score of 248 made on Wednesday night caused a lot of excitement among the regulars and it remained solid until Saturday night when W. McIlroy tied it after bowling a beautiful game. Staunton and McIlroy will bowl off tonight, when the box of cigars will be awarded. No doubt the game will be watched by a large crowd of spectators.

SCHEDULE FOR WEEK.

Monday—Belmonts v. Exam. B.
Tuesday—Exam. A. vs. Greys.
Wednesday — Iroquois vs. Lock Works.
Thursday—Pacifics vs. B.A.C.

HOCKEY

An interesting hockey match was played at Brock street rink on Saturday night between five and six o'clock between the Petes and Maple Leafs. The full time score was 3—3 while the half time score was 2—1 in favor of the Petes. The Leafs however came back strong in the second half and tied the score. Walter Armstrong gave general satisfaction as referee.

Important Meeting of Presbyterian Laymen

A very important conference on the Laymen's Missionary Movement will be held in this city on Tuesday next. Delegates will be present from every Presbyterian Church in the Presbytery of Peterborough to decide how this Presbytery can adequately share in the great movement.

Peterborough is among the first of the Presbyteries to hold such a conference, and it therefore intends to be up at the front. Speakers at this conference will be Mr. A. E. Armstrong, Toronto, already known to many in Peterborough, Mr. Matthew Parkinson, Toronto, a noted speaker on this movement, and probably Mr. Fred. Anderson, of the Young People's Missionary Movement.

The conference opens in St Andrew's church in this city at nine a.m. Tuesday morning. The ladies of Knox, St. Paul's and St. Andrew's churches will entertain the delegates at lunch at one o'clock.

The conference is open to men of other churches who will be heartily welcomed at the sessions morning and afternoon. It will be a good opportunity for the men of Peterborough, and particularly of Peterborough Presbytery to get into line with this great movement.

It has been decided to hold an evening meeting for the men of all churches of Peterborough, in the parlors of St. Paul's church on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Mr. Matthew Parkinson of Toronto, will be the speaker. The meeting is open to men of all churches and it is expected a large number will avail themselves of the privilege of hearing Mr. Parkinson on this great movement along the laymen of the church.

In view of the approaching Laymen's Missionary Congress in Toronto, commencing March 31st, this this meeting in St. Paul's parlors will give the men of our churches an opportunity to realise its vast significance.

Ald. Gillespie Supports $15,000 Power By-Law

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—Permit me to say a word in support of the $15000 bylaw to be submitted to the ratepayers on March 30th.

First, I wish to say that the council and the Water Commissioners are endeavoring to work together for the best interests of the city. The commissioners are not at the present time taking any responsibility of the power bylaw, for the reason that they are only acting and responsible to the ratepayers as Water Commissioners. However as soon as the city takes up the business of generating electricity for light or power purposes, the Water Commissioners become power commissioners as well.

At the combined meeting between the commissioners and power committee, held for the purpose of discussing the submitting of a bylaw for the proposed dam, the power committee after hearing the report of the commissioners' engineers, discussed the advisability of submitting the above bylaw at the same time as the bylaw for the dam, with the view of being able to save expense by letting the contract for dam and power house at the same time.

Should this bylaw pass I would be in favor of placing the responsibility in the hands of the commissioners at once, and let them get an estimate of the cost of the total development and recovery believing that they will be better able to do so than the council, especially as they are to assume the management later. Should they find the cost of development too great, the money need not and cannot be used for any other purpose.

I would urge the ratepayers to vote for bylaws, as I do not think it good business to have from 500 to 700 horse power go to waste flowing over a dam owned by the ratepayers, when it could be used for street lighting and other purposes.

In closing I would add that the power committee are also working on a larger power policy which they hope to complete to the satisfaction of the ratepayers, and to the best interests of the city.

G. A. GILLESPIE.

Doctor Said

Much Sickness caused by Coffee Drinking

It is wise to use care in the selection of your table beverage.

The experience of several Hills families proves this and one of them is a very interesting story.

"We were induced to quit coffee about eight years ago because of its injurious effects. The doctors advised us to stop it entirely and we began to use Postum.

"While we drank coffee we had headache, sleeplessness, stomach troubles, palpitation of the heart, etc. We have found no injurious effects from Postum, and are clear of all the old coffee troubles. It has a fine color, a delicious flavor, and we feel free to drink all we wish of it.

"My brother's family has used Postum for eight years, and has been benefited as we have. A Swedish family, neighbors, used to drink coffee for years but finding it harmful, have quit and now use Postum.

"A number of other families we know here who were habitual coffee drinkers with the usual results, have now taken up Postum. The doctors here say much sickness is caused by drinking coffee.

"Some of them did no. like Postum at first, but when we showed them how to make it dark and rich, according to directions on pkgs. they liked it better than coffee, and so agree with."

"There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich., read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

A Startling Revelation

The friends of Miss Mary McKenzie, of London, were astonished to hear that she had gone into consumption.

This sad intelligence came as a shock to Miss McKenzie's many friends. In the early fall she contracted a heavy cold which developed rapidly into Catarrh, and finally made such rapid advances that the bronchial tubes and lungs became affected.

Although the doctors said nothing short of a change of residence to the south would benefit, on the advice of a Dundas street druggist Miss McKenzie decided to thoroughly test Catarrhozone which is warranted to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Miss McKenzie says: "After my druggist had recommended Catarrhozone I spoke to my friends about it and they all said it was such a good remedy that I commenced forthwith to inhale it five or six times each day. I breathed it deeply into my lungs, and felt its beneficial action very quickly. It seemed to go where other remedies did not reach, and was so pleasant and convenient that I did not mind using it very frequently, which, probably, was the cause of it curing my obstinate case so quickly. Certainly no case of Catarrh or Bronchitis should go uncured if the sufferer can get Catarrhozone, which is a sovereign remedy, worthy of the highest recommendations."

Miss McKenzie's case needs no enlargement. She was in a critical condition, apparently beyon dthe aid of doctors' medicines.

Catarrhozone has cured her, and others in her condition should no longer experiment with uncertain, untried, treatments, but should turn at once to catarrhozone, and in it they will find relief and cure unobtainable by other means. Remember the name, Catarrhozone. Complete outfit guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00. Small size 50 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CANADA'S RAILWAYS

A great deal of interesting information is contained in the railway statistics presented to Parliament recently by Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways.

In brief the Canadian steam railway mileage in 1908 was 22,986, an increase in the year of 514. There was not less than 4,327 miles of road under construction on June 30, about 750 miles of which were since operated. Ontario steam railway mileage was 7,982, a gain of 294 miles.

The capital invested in privately-owned roads totals $1,239,295,013; in the Government roads, $325,345,638, a grand total, $1,564,640,644.

A few of the results of the operation of the roads is as follows:—Passengers carried, 34,044,993; average receipts per passenger per mile, 1.92 per cent; average passenger trip, 61 miles; passengers per train, 54; passenger train mileage, 21,959,349, freight hauled, tons, 63,071,167; gross earnings, $146,918,313; average per mile, $6,389; operating expenses, $107,504,142; percentage operating expenses to gross earnings, 73.04; net earnings, $39,614,171; taxes paid, $1,309,209.

It would appear that passenger-train mileage increased in 1908, as did also the number of passengers carried. Gross earnings increased $180,086, but the operating expenses increased $856,479. The net earnings increased also. Of the 87 roads dealt with 29 had a deficit on the year's operations.

There were employed on the railways 160,739 persons, of whom 244 were killed and 1,793 injured. Altogether during the year 449 persons were killed and 2,347 injured—a better showing than in 1907, when 149 more fatalities were reported.

Canada has now 982 miles of electric railway, 178 more than in 1907, with a capitalization paid up of $67,983,231, and employing 9,954 persons. The pay lists amount to $5,757,578. Operating expenses were 62.06 per cent. of gross earnings. During the year 67 persons were killed on these roads, Toronto having 17 of the fatalities.

THE BALKAN SITUATION

It is not difficult to misrepresent or to misunderstand the situation of affairs in the north-western part of the Balkan Peninsula, if the observer is minded so to, but neither is it, nor should it be difficult to take an accurate view of it. The statement from a Paris correspondent has been demonstrated by press despatches on every succeeding day to have been exactly true in detail, and its exact truth in spirit and in general is not to be impugned by subsequent interested inventions of other quarters. The simple fact is that the attitude of the Servian government is and has not been vacillating and shifty, but constant and consistent, and not warlike, but peaceful. Of course, there may have been utterances in Servia of a different character; but it is necessary to discriminate between irresponsible and unofficial individual fulminations, such as are sometimes made in a land of free speech, and the authoritative voice of the responsible government.

As for Austria-Hungary, or more properly, Austria alone, her attitude also is consistent, with the consistency of the opportunist, but we can scarcely esteem it as peaceful. It would be ungracious, and since we cannot infallibly read minds and their motives it would perhaps be unwarrantable, to say that her policy is intentionally provocative of war. But at least it must be said that if it were meant to be warlike it could scarcely be better designed to fulfill that purpose than it is at present. Certainly an assumption by Austria that she could recognize no right of other powers to take cognizance of relations between herself and Servia would be the reverse of reasonable or conciliatory. Nor are the domestic affairs of Austria such as to indicate that her policy is peace. Five Czechish members of parliament and eight newspaper editors have been arbitrarily arrested and imprisoned for no apparent cause except their criticism of the government's policy in the Balkans; relations between Slavs and Germans are more strained than ever, while the economic condition of the people is most distressing. From one point of view, of course, such conditions might be regarded as deprecatory of war. But from a much more generally accepted point of view, at least in Europe, they suggest the desirability of seeking a foreign war, in the enthusiasm of which domestic feuds may be forgotten and domestic distress may for the time either be allayed or overlooked.

It was a fine display of reasonableness and magnanimity, not to say of self-sacrifice in the interest of peace, for Servia to renounce her just claims to territorial compensation for Austria-Hungary's seizure of potentially Servian lands, and to declare her readiness to acquiesce in the Dual Realm's aggrandizement, provided only that her own economic and commercial independence should be perpetually guaranteed; and in making that declaration the government at Belgrade acted with discretion and wisdom such as must commend it to the world. Surely Austria-Hungary should have made haste to meet Servia half way with an equally direct and unequivocal declaration in favor of the strongest possible international guarantee to the effect desired by Servia, since that is something to which Servia would naturally have been entitled in any case, even had Austria-Hungary not seized Bosnia, while, of course, since that seizure there is an additional reason for granting it as evidence that there is no intention of following the annexation of the provinces with actual aggressions upon the integrity of Servia. We must hope, then, in spite of sound and fury at Vienna, that counsels of moderation, justice and peace will prevail at the Hapsburg court, and that a wanton war for mordid aims will not be forced upon Southeastern Europe, with the inestimable danger of its extending to other parts of the continent.

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 8th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and Mr. S. R. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain in congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and he proves it he has created a little pink tablet, that tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—causes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Quietly, though mildly, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are nervous, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain predominates. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Why Do People Deposit Their Money in Banks for only 3 Per Cent. Interest?

BECAUSE, THEY THINK IT IS QUITE SAFE.

Why Do Some Invest in Bonds to get a Little Higher Interest?

Because, the bonds represent a mortgage on the property on which their money is invested which gives a feeling of safety.

Why Do People Invest in Wildcat Gold and Silver Mining Schemes? Because they think the chances of profit are big and they are willing to take the risk.

WHY NOT INVEST IN A SAFE STOCK IN A GOING COAL MINE

making money now and which presents such possibilities for development that it is expected that the profits will run from 25 per cent. to 50 per. cent. higher.

The Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited, Stock at $10 per Share is a safe Stock.

It is all common stock. There are no bonds or no mortgages or no preferred stock, on which interest must be paid before the common stockholder gets anything.

When you buy common stock of the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited at $10 per share you become an actual owner of the mines and have an equal chance of the profits according to the number of shares held. A coal mine with a big deposit of coal ready for the miner's pick is as safe as a bank. To own and control shares of common stock in such a coal mine must be safer and better than holding bonds in a proposition in which you have no control and which may or may not be properly managed. The officers and management of the Winter Port Coal Mines of New Brunswick have the experience in mining and selling coal in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

J. S. Gibbon, the President of the company, opened and developed the Winter Port Mines to the present stage.

W. F. Vroom, the Vice-President of the Company, was for some years actively associated in the management of the Springhill Collieries in Nova Scotia and the Albert Mines in New Brunswick.

Manufacturers in St. John speak highly of the Winter Port coal.

Winter Port coal is a good locomotive coal and has been used on the Intercolonial and other railways.

The Winter Port Coal Mines being practically on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific now opening up through New Brunswick will provide a most convenient coaling facility for that great transcontinental railway. Immense quantities of coal will be needed by the great railways and by the manufacturers, steamship lines, etc., in connection with the development of Canada's Winter Port at St. John, N.B., which is only 55 miles in a direct line from these coal mines.

Secure some Winter Port stock now at $10 per share (there is no personal liability) and get your share of the profits of a safe conservative money-making proposition.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

WEBSTER AND CHOATE.

The Latter a Rapid Fire Maxim, the Former a Thirteen Inch Gun.

"Probably no educational institution in our country has ever graduated two more eminent and eloquent lawyers than old Dartmouth college gave us in Daniel Webster and Rufus Choate," says a writer in Our Dumb Animals. "It was my privilege as a member of the Suffolk bar to attend many years ago the trial of one of the most important cases of the year in our supreme judicial court at Boston.

"On the two sides were arrayed some half a dozen of our most eminent lawyers. Daniel Webster and Rufus Choate, as it happened, were on the same side.

"A hostile witness was put on by the other side, some of whose evidence was of the utmost importance to Webster and Choate, if it could be obtained, and Choate undertook the task of obtaining it. No man at our bar had more profound skill in cross examination, and the questions he put to the witness were like the fire of a Maxim gun, but in every instance he failed to get the evidence he wanted and finally sat down in despair.

"Then Webster, who had been sitting in his great armchair, apparently about half asleep, as though taking no interest in the case whatever, slowly arose to his feet, put his great eyes on the hostile witness, asked him in the most serious tone a single question and brought instantly the required answer. Then as quietly he sat down and apparently went about half asleep again. It was a scene photographed on my mind, never to be forgotten.

"The difference between Webster and Choate cannot better be explained as it rests in my mind than to compare Choate to a Maxim gun raining bullets of eloquence wherever he chose and Webster to a great gun that can send out a thirteen inch shell to penetrate an ironclad.

"It was wonderful to listen to Choate. I remember a case in which an ordinary lawyer would have simply said to the court that he moved a postponement of the case because witness So-and-so was sick, but in this case Choate arose and commenced by saying that his important witness was on a bed of sickness and perhaps a bed of death and so went whirling up almost to the skies on this simple motion, to the great interest of everybody that heard him.

"Our old chief justice, Judge Shaw, one of the greatest lawyers of his time, was a plain, practical man, and looked in his old age as he sat on the bench somewhat like a Chinese idol, and he used to frequently cut off Mr. Choate's eloquence by calling him back to the plain facts."

The Reconciliation.

The doctor was soon at the child's bedside. Remedies were administered; then the agonized pair watched the fight for life—skill and vitality on one side, fierce disease on the other. When at last the struggle ceased, the gray dawn of day was looking in at the window. Life had won. The child slept.

"She is all right now," said the doctor, shaking the man's hand, which had gripped his, and feeling his heart grow warm under the look of mute gratitude the woman turned upon him.

When he had gone the two stood side by side at the baby's crib, listening to her regular breathing. Then, with one accord, they turned and kissed each other. And in that kiss the icy barrier between them melted away.

The French Guide is a Public Pest.

Paris has produced a species which is the lowest embodiment of sentient being. It is the "guide." The guide is an evolutionary "throwback," a reversion to type. You must go deep into the muck heap whence the race has risen to find his prototype—back of the ape, back of the tiger, back of the mouthing hog, though he partakes of the nature of all of these, to the dim ages when senseless trogledytes treaded in cold lethargy the primordial slime. Somewhere in that category belongs the Paris guide. Interminably these ghosts of dead decencies squeak and gibber in the streets of the city.—Collier's.

A Long Spell of Duty.

A Scotsman had come to London on his way to India and for a few days had time to amuse himself by sightseeing before his departure, says Oscar Ramsay in his "Reminiscences." He had been much struck with the appearance of the mounted sentinels of the horse guards, Whitehall, and here them in remembrance during his eastern sojourn. On his return after a period of thirty years, on passing the horse guards, he looked up to one, and seeing him, as he thought, unchanged as to horse, position and accoutrements, he exclaimed, "Od, freend, ye hae had a lang spell on't sin' I left."

Mutual Surprise.

They stood beneath the mistletoe.

She was justly resentful of what he had done.

"How dare you kiss me?" she exclaimed. "I never was so surprised in all my life!"

"Neither was I," he replied contritely. "I thought it was your younger sister."

Forbidden Fruit.

"Your luncheons are always so successful, Mrs. Pearlyn-Paget. Do tell me how you select your menus."

"Oh, you see, the doctor has given me a printed list of things I mustn't eat, and I choose the dishes from that."

A kindness done to the good is never lost.—Plautus.

And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babe. ANCIENT ARMAGH.

Primatial See of St. Patrick Nearly 1,500 Years Ago.

The cathedral city of Armagh is the most sacred place in Ireland, the ecclesiastical headquarters of both the Roman Catholic and the Protestant churches of Ireland, the seat of the most ancient and celebrated of Irish schools of learning, the burial place of Brian Boru, the greatest of all the Irish kings; the home of St. Patrick for the important years of his life, and the cradle of the Christian Church in the United Kingdom. It was from Armagh, says William E. Curtis in The Chicago Record-Herald, that the message of the gospel was sent to the people of Scotland and England, and here was the genesis of the faith that is now professed by all the nation.

Armagh is a quiet, well-kept town of about 8,000 inhabitants, built on a hill around the cathedral founded by St. Patrick in the year 432, and the streets are steep and rather crooked. It resembles an English university town, and looks more like Cambridge or Winchester than the rest of Ireland. More than 1,200 years ago it was the greatest educational centre in the civilized world, and it still has several important schools, including a Roman Catholic theological seminary, a large convent for young women, a technological school, and astronomical observatory, a public library of 20,000 volumes and a little old-fashioned Grecian temple of a building with a sign to advertise it as the rooms of the Philosophical Society. The houses are packed together very closely, as is the custom in all Ireland, although there is plenty of room for the town to spread out, if it were the fashion to do so.

There are ranges of green hills all around, and their sunny slopes are closely planted to grain, potatoes and other crops. There are several linen factories in the neighborhood which furnish employment for the wives and daughters of the town, and a small automobile factory. The population is about equally divided between Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths. There are three Presbyterian churches and one Methodist, which assert themselves boldly, even in the presence of an ecclesiastical see that is nearly 1,400 years old.

The Trials of a Musician.

By hard work, and hard work alone, has Sir Frederick Bridge, organist of Westminster Abbey, attained his present prominent position in the musical world. He can recall the days when, as a boy in a country cathedral town, he had to play, teach, and walk four and a half miles between Rochester and Gravesend to fill the position of organist for $185 per year. He has also mentioned the interesting fact that Sir Edward Elgar once played second fiddle in an orchestra which Sir Frederick conducted.

Sir Frederick has confessed that he tries under all circumstances to be cheerful, and tells a story of how he greatly benefited one pupil by advising him not to grumble. "This pupil," says Sir Frederick, "was an inveterate grumbler. He obtained a very nice appointment in the country. I went down to see him, and asked him how he was getting on. 'Oh, pretty well,' he replied, 'but the place is so inartistic.' He had a nice lot of illuminated texts on the walls of his room, which he said had been drawn by a young lady. 'So you are going to be married?' I suggested. Dolefully he replied that he hoped so. 'Look here,' I said, 'if I give you a text, will you get the young lady to work it? It will do you more good than all these Scriptural subjects.' He said he would. The text I gave him was 'Don't grumble.' I went down to see him a few years afterwards, and he told me the text had done him a lot of good. This happened years ago. He has now a wife and five or six children; he has nothing to grumble about."

An Early Riser.

"What on earth has induced you to come to the Bar?" was the discouraging question asked by Lord Russell of Killowen, when Mr. Justice Bigham, who has succeeded Sir John Gorell Barnes as president of the Probate and Divorce Division, entered the chambers of the famous advocate as a pupil. It was a question that took the pupil some years to answer. During his first twelve months Mr. Bigham's total earnings amounted to seven guineas, although when he succeeded Lord Russell of Killowen as leader of the Northern Circuit, his income was one of the largest ever earned at the Bar. Few lawyers, however, lived more laborious days. "I used to start work at four o'clock in the morning and go on till eight," he says. "Breakfast, and then the Temple at 9.30 or 10, where I worked until six, and after six I did nothing. Such was my program for twenty-seven years."

"Onward Christian Soldiers."

The Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould, who has just celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, has over a hundred books on all sorts of topics to his credit, and shares with many past and present celebrities the distinction of having read his own obituary notice in the newspapers. One of his most popular achievements perhaps was the writing of that famous hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," which is such a favorite in both church and chapel. But when Mr. Baring-Gould wanted to have it sung in his own church his bishop, who was very Low Church, objected, owing to the last lines, "With the cross of Jesus going on before." Mr. Baring-Gould, therefore, changed the last line to "Left behind the door," which made the bishop so angry that he dismissed the vicar. But Mr. Gladstone made it up by presenting him with a far better living in Essex.

$1,800 For a Coin.

A rare coin sold for $1,800 in the Ramsom sale at Sotheby's in London recently. It was probably issued during the great Pythian festival of 346 B.C., on the occasion of the re-assembling of the Amphictyonic Council at the close of the Phokian war.

DOES MUSIC PAY?

Modern Earnings Compared With Old Time Prices.

Lewis M. Isaac has an interesting article in the Bookman on the earnings of musicians and publishers. Times have changed. Schubert sold his best songs for 20 cents each, and Mozart got $100 for each of his two best operas. "Today the tales of royalties paid composers make the profits of a Wall street broker seem small by comparison. And if it is not strictly true that George Cohan makes $5,000 a week or Victor Herbert $500,000 a year out of his music the actual figures are big enough to give color to the story. It has only just been announced that the Rome, Turin and Milan opera houses have each paid Richard Strauss $4,000 for the bare right to produce his opera 'Elektra,' a work not even yet completed and of the success of which there cannot be any present assurance whatsoever. Oscar Hammerstein is reported to have paid the composer $10,000 to secure the American rights of performance. Strauss is certainly taking revenge for the treatment accorded musicians of the past. Mascagni's one act opera, 'Cavalleria Rusticana,' brought the composer $80,000, besides winning the Sonzogo prize. Hansel und Gretel' brought Humperdinck $50,000 in a single twelvemonth, while Puccini's earnings from his operas, while difficult to estimate, accumulating as they do from so many sources, must be conservatively $50,000 a year." Does music pay?

Origin of the Club Sandwich.

Alan Johnstone is said to have originated the famous club sandwich, and the story runs that on going to the club one night between midnight and daybreak he found the cafe closed, the cooks gone, and, being nearly famished, he invaded the larder, toasted himself some thick slices of bread, sliced them through, buttered them while hot and laid thereon everything he found in the refrigerator—cold chicken, ham and lettuce, with a spoonful of mayonnaise. The result was such an epicurean discovery as is not often made, but the story was too good to keep. He confided the recipe to his cronies, and it straightway became one of the popular dishes of the club menu, and so the father of the club sandwich, so deservedly popular, is the present British minister to Copenhagen.—Washington Herald.

Circus Daring Due to Heredity.

Alfred T. Ringling says that nine-tenths of the leading performers before the public can be included in thirty families. As sharply defined as any old English lineage, they can be traced backward in some instances more than two centuries, each generation accepting without question the heritage of spangles and tights. The circus daring and the circus muscles and the circus recklessness have descended from father to children and thence to children again. The thrill of the sawdust ring has got into the blood. From the parent trunk branches have crossed and crisscrossed until, as in the case of the Clarkonians and the Demotts and the Siegrists Florenses, great circus lines have been built up and guarded with the zealous care of a royal genealogy.—Bohemian Magazine.

Self-Made Politicians.

Some of the members of the Australian Parliament have had versatile careers. Here is the record of Mr. William Elliot Johnson, the representative of the Lang division of New South Wales: Born in Newcastle-on-Tyne April 10, 1862. Assisted his father as a scenic artist at Covent Garden. Studied telegraphy, and entered the Civil Service as a telegraph operator at the Royal Exchange, London. He was wrecked at sea on three occasions, and saw active service in the Chili-Peruvian war, and ultimately settled in Sydney, where he took an active interest in municipal and political questions for some years before entering Parliament in 1903.

"A Funny Lot."

Miss Fanny Brough, the English actress, at a recent meeting of the Theatrical Ladies' Guild, of which she is president, said that she had become a nuisance to her male friends owing to her greed for their cast-off garments. A short time ago she overheard two ladies discussing her, and one said: "Does she not go in for an old-clothes shop?" Being told that such was not the case, the lady added: "At any rate, she's a funny lot." On the other hand, the cabman who drove her to this particular meeting paid her one of the greatest compliments she had ever received, for he asked her to accept her fare on behalf of the guild.

No Tips Given.

Apropros of the statement that Mr. J. D. Rockefeller never gives tips, it might be mentioned that Lord Sefton has strictly forbidden his servants to receive tips from guests, and stringent notices to this effect are prominently displayed at Croxteth. The Marquess of Londonderry some time ago introduced the same rule at Wynyard; and it is understood that the present Earl of Derby intends to put it in force at Knowsley. In some cases a box is placed in a conspicuous position in the house, and contributions placed in it by the guests are divided annually among the servants.

A Famous Actress's Mascot.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell possesses what she calls a heart chain. From each of her dearest friends she begged a "heart," and hearts of every conceivable material—of amber, coral, jet, turquoise, and the like—poured in upon her. These she had set in a broad flat bracelet, which she always wears and firmly believes in.

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tired her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Watmers, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleansing, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits —are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essense in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

Review Sunday

Yesterday was the quarterly review of the Sunday school lessons in the George street Methodist Sunday school and the review was taken by Miss Allie Stinson and Miss Bessie Powell, two very clever young ladies. They handled the big subject in a manner which made it most interesting and instructive. Miss Laroena Hinds rendered very sweetly a vocal solo.

OBITUARY.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey will sympathize with them in the loss of their young son, who passed away at the Methodist hospital on Saturday night. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon from the family home, 222 London street at two o'clock. Interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

PERSONAL

Mr. Kenneth Shook sang at the evening service at St. Luke's church yesterday, and made a very favorable impression.

Mrs G. Learmonth, Stewart St., has returned home from Norwood, where she was attending the funeral of her nephew, Mr. T. Alfred Bodsen.

Rev. H. J. Keith has returned home from Toronto, where he has been conducting special services during the week at Riverdale Presbyterian church. Mr. Keith conducted the services in his church yesterday.

The friends of Mr. Victor Loftus, now singing at the Royal theater, gave him hearty congratulations and the emphatic "glad hand" Saturday. The immediate cause was the fact that Mr. Loftus was to leave on Sunday to lead his bride to the altar. Mr. and Mrs. Loftus will arrive in the city on Tuesday and will reside here

Mr D. H. Wilson, proprietor of the Lindsay Post, was among the fifty supporters of the Collegiate Institute team that came down at noon Saturday to meet the Peterborough Collegiate team. The staff of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute was represented as follows, under the guidance of Principal Kirkconnell, Messrs. Robertson, Lloyd, Newman and Miss Moir.

A New Paper to be Started in June

At the regular meeting of the Literary Society of the Normal School, held last week in the Assembly Hall, the students decided to publish a school paper and elected the officers as follows:—

Editor-in-Chief—Colin W. Lees.

Sub-Editors — Messrs. Elliott, Park and Trotter.

Business Board—R. J. Leach and F. McNevin.

The paper is to be published about June 1st and will take the form of a souvenir and valedictory number. It will contain cuts of the staff, executive of "L's" building, etc., together with with reading matter consisting of essays, etc., contributed by students.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

Will Give An Address in this City

Mr. John A. Paterson, K.C., a member of the well-known Toronto law firm of Kerr, Davidson, Paterson & Macdonald, will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Peterborough Astronomical Society, which will be held on Tuesday evening next in the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Paterson is a member of the Toronto Council of the Astronomical Society, and has always taken a great interest in astronomy. Last summer he visited some of the principal observatories in Europe. His subject "The Astronomy of Tennyson," should be found most interesting.

Peterborough to Have Good Track

Upon good authority The Times has learned that the Riverside Park management is seriously considering and practically have decided to build a quarter-mile running track at Riverside Park. Such a move should prove a good business getter for the park people as running, and especially distance running is taking a strong hold of the athletes and the public in Peterborough. With such a track there should be no difficulty in securing for Peterborough some of the big events which are now so popular. Fred Simpson, one of the big runners, would favor a home track for any of his races, and Alf. Shrubb would not be averse to coming here where he has so many admirers, and there is no doubt that the management could secure several of the crack distance runners to perform here, to say nothing of the many local events which would be a drawing card. The public is now ready to fall in with the runners and give that line of sport good support.

Croup positively stopped in 20 minutes, with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One test alone will surely prove this truth. No vomiting no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup —25c. Sold by all dealers.

Was Elected Mayor

Ald. Harry Phelan last week received a copy of a Batavia, N. Y. paper containing a cut of his nephew, Mr. T. Edward Atchison, who was recently elected the Democratic mayor of that city. Mr. Atchison is a young man but possessed with an abundance of business brains and his victory was a great one. His majority over his opponent was 473, and he carried every ward but two.

THE PNEUMONIA SEASON

MORE DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA THAN FROM TUBERCULOSIS.

Pneumonia an Infectious Disease. It Can Be Prevented---A Remarkable Record.

[From the Des Moines Register and Leader.]

"Why has this season of the year become known as the pneumonia season? Why during the closing week of the old year were there more deaths in Chicago and New York from pneumonia than tuberculosis? Why are pneumonia and related bronchial troubles beginning to take the place of tuberculosis as the dread scourge of city life? Simply and solely because we are devoting too much ingenuity and energy to dodging the fresh and invigorating winter air that every twelve months refrigerates our latitude.

It is believed now that pneumonia is an infectious disease, and that in the cities where the death rate is growing so rapidly it is communicated in the heated and crowded cars. A nickel is so small, and the cold air is so chilling, that the American people are forgetting how to walk. The old time red that burned the cheek of childhood does not visit a mature face on an average of once in the twelve months, not even the red of a chilly and pinched nose. We are getting afraid of the climate, and as a result, the climate is taking its revenge.

The mere habit of turning up coat collars has killed thousands of people, and the fur boa has a long list to its account, for no part of the human body becomes delicate more quickly because of superfluous covering than the throat. And yet we are multiplying devices for turning up more coat collars. It is not too early to recognize that this is all wrong, that our climate is here to stay, and that if we are going to live in it with comfort we must accommodate ourselves to it. It will pay to keep on good terms with the climate."

A great many have learned that pneumonia may be avoided by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy whenever they have a cold. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for colds and grip during the epidemics of the past few years, we have yet to learn of a single one having had pneumonia, which should certainly convince the most skeptical of the value of that preparation. Its remarkable cures of colds have made it a staple article of trade and commerce throughout the United States and in many foreign countries.

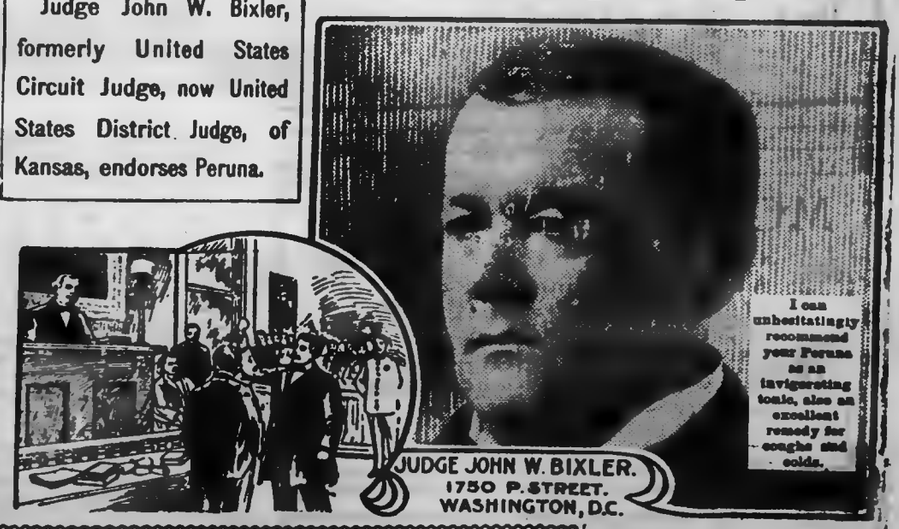
MacGREGOR & REID'S

DISTRICT JUDGE U. S. COURT

Recommends Pe-ru-na as an Invigorating Tonic.

Judge John W. Bixler, formerly United States Circuit Judge, now United States District Judge, of Kansas, endorses Peruna.



I can unhesitatingly recommend your Peruna as an invigorating tonic, also an excellent remedy for coughs and colds.

JUDGE JOHN W. BIXLER. 1750 P. STREET. WASHINGTON, D.C.

Pe-ru-na Testimonials.

When any man or woman, out of pure gratitude, writes us a letter, commenting upon the benefits he has received from the use of Peruna, when he does this without any solicitation or remuneration of any sort, and furnishes us a recent photograph, so that his identity and responsibility in the matter is beyond question, then do we consider a testimonial available for our advertising purposes.

We are at the present time publishing many hundreds of testimonials. We give the name and address in full of each one of these people.

We have no use for, nor would we publish for any sum of money, a fraudulent testimonial. To do such a thing would be dishonorable from a moral standpoint, and commercial suicide from a business standpoint.

Tonic and Appetizer.

W. H. Parsons is ex-State Senator and ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, also Brigadier General in Confederate Army. In a recent letter from 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D.C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials of the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip, with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week. It is especially good in toning up the stomach, and has a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry, in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Appetite and Digestion Poor.

Mr. Charles Schweiha, Lexington, Texas, writes:

"I suffered from catarrh of the liver. What I ate disagreed with me. I was weak and feverish. I slept very poorly, had rush of blood to the head. I was very despondent, and took no pleasure in anything. My appetite was changeable, digestion poor.

"Your medicine made me well again, for which I express to you my heartfelt thanks. I firmly believe that for all who suffer in like manner it would have the same good effect."

Disordered Liver, Constipation.

Mr. W. O. Clement, Assistant Manager "Rome Georgian," Rome, Ga., writes: "It affords me pleasure to voluntarily testify to the true merits of your wonderful Peruna.

"I have for several years been suffering from disordered liver and chronic constipation, for which I had tried a great many remedies, but none did me any good. My whole system was so thoroughly overcome that I was easy to catch cold and the consequence was that a chronic case of catarrh was fast developing.

"I have been taking Peruna for six weeks and am happy to say that it has had the desired effect. My liver is in good condition, constipation disappeared, and I no longer feel any of the symptoms of catarrh.

"In truth I am now in better health and feel stronger than I have for several years and it is all due to the wonderful effects of Peruna."

Systemic Catarrh.

Mr. Moses F. Merrill, Route 8, Columbus, Kansas, writes:

"The improvement in my health has been wonderful. My bowels are regular as clock-work. I can now eat like other people and my victuals digest completely. I think I am cured of systemic catarrh.

"It has been a hard fight, but I came out victor. Many thanks for your kind counsel and management."

Isolation Hospital will be Erected Soon Tenders Called For

At last the isolation hospital is going to be erected. The question has taken form and it begins to look as if the much talked of and long required building was to be carried out. The Property Committee has at last taken hold of the thing seriously and are going to call for tenders very shortly.

Ald. Bradburn informed the Property Committee that this committee must take up the question of an isolation hospital and take it up at once. The city must have some place to take patients suffering from contagious diseases. There have been many cases of scarlet fever in the city this year and many of them among the working people and they are at great loss. They men not only lose their wages by being locked up in their house but they are under great expense as well. It is a different matter when fever breaks out in a family where a nurse can be secured and the patient isolated in the house.

The Board of Health has had plans prepared by Mr. Blackwell for a hospital. These plans provided for a three storey building with basement.

The plans for the hospital were carefully considered and it was decided that the chairman secure specifications from Mr. Blackwell and their call for tenders. A motion to this effect was passed.

It is the intention to build the hospital on the city's farm.

New Market Clerk will Have Charge This Year

The tenders for the collection of the market tolls for season of 1909-10, were received and opened by the Property Committee yesterday afternoon. In all six tenders were received, the highest being $1015 and the lowest $660. Last year, or up to April 1st of this year the receipts were $1,478.28, while the expenditure was $628. This leaves a balance, or net receipts of $850.28. This makes $350 difference between the receipts of the past year and the highest tender for the next year.

The tenders received were as follows;—

A. E. McGaire	900
W. A. Stabler	660
Jas. McGhee	951
Jas. Girvan	925
Robt. Bradburn	1015
Alex. Neethey	1000

After some consideration it was decided to accept the highest tender. Mr. Geo. Ball, the present market clerk did not put in a tender. The highest tender was that of Mr. Robt. Bradburn.

It was moved by Ald. Duncan that the tender of Mr. Robt. Bradburn be accepted. This was seconded by Ald. Morgan and was carried.

The chairman notified the committee that Mr. R. H. Leary asked him for the use of the Market square on Saturday afternoon, April 3rd, for a stallion show. There would be some 80 horses at the show.

The committee did not think it would be advisable to use the market square for that purpose, so Ald. Bradburn said that he would allow the Agricultural Society to use his vacant lot on George street, south of Charlotte street, if that would be satisfactory.

COUNCIL TURNED DOWN REPORT OF THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE

Market Clerk Ball Remains on the Job—Ald. Bradburn and Mayor Rush Have Words—Other Aldermen Take Part—Highest Tender Rejected

City Market Clerk George Ball will be the market clerk for another year in spite of the report of the Property Committee's meeting held in the afternoon when tenders for the collection of market tolls were opened and the highest tender was accepted, and gaining $350 for the city over the past twelve months.

When the Property Committee's report was read Ald. Phelan arose and stated that before the report was adopted he would like to draw the attention of the council to the fact that it was cutting Mr. Ball off pretty short.

This was the opening up of a stormy few minutes between several members of the council, and, after the vote was taken, between Ald. Bradburn, chairman of the Property Committee and Mayor Rush, whose casting vote turned down the committee's report. Ald. Bradburn asked the mayor why he supported the committee in committee and turn them down in the council?

Ald. Metheral said it was no wonder the ratepayers called the aldermen a lot of school boys when they advertise for tenders and then give the position to a man who did not put in a tender. The discussion, however, did not alter the vote and Ex-Ald. Ball remains at the head of the market at a salary while the tender of $1015, was rejected.

The Property Committee's report was read by Ald. Bradburn, and it recommended that the tender of Mr. Robt. Bradburn of $1015 for collecting the market tolls be accepted as it was the highest. (A full report of the committee meeting will be found in another column).

Ald. Phelan stated that before the report of the Property Committee was adopted he would like to state that it was cutting off Mr. Ball pretty short. Mr. Ball resigned his office as alderman in good faith to accept a permanent position with the city. He was made health inspector and that office was done away with and Mr. Ball was asked to take the office of market clerk. During his first year he has given every satisfaction.

Ald. Buller said that he would like to have a statement of the market finances for the past year and compare it with other years before voting.

Ald. Bradburn read the statement required and pointed out that by adopting the committee's report the city gained $357.

Ald. Buller favored keeping the market as it is at present as he liked the principle.

Ald. Phelan moved that the report of the committee be not adopted, but that the market be retained as at present for another year. Ald. Buller seconded the motion.

Ald Metheral said that if the amendment was adopted it would be no wonder that the papers and ratepayers were calling the aldermen a lot of school boys. There was nothing square nor business-like in calling for tenders and then give the job to a man who did not tender at all.

The amendment was lost on a vote of 6—5. Ald. Morrow did not vote.

Then Ald. Duffus called for the yeas and nays on the amendment to the Property's Committee report. The yeas and nays were taken as follows;—

Yeas—Phelan, Morrow, McIntyre, Gillespie, Buller, Duffus—6.

Nays—Metheral, Turner, Bradburn, Morgan, Duncan, Hicks—6.

This put it up to the mayor to decide and he voted for Mr. Ball for a second year.

Ald. Duncan and Ald. Bradburn both told his worship that this was a very poor way to do business. They started out this year to save money and the first opportunity that comes along the money is thrown away. They also told him that he supported the committee in committee and then thrown them down in council.

In explaining why he voted for Mr. Ball in opposition to the committee his worship admitted that he had told Ald. Bradburn in committee that to accept the highest tender was the proper thing to do, he had also told Ald. Bradburn on previous occasions that he favored the present system of conducting the market and that it should be tried for a second year. Then when he found the council was divided evenly on the matter he stood by his original idea believing it was the best system for the market.

Ald. Bradburn admitted that on a previous occasion the mayor spoke in favor of a salaried clerk, but that his worship had also stated that he would always stand by all resolutions recommended by the committees. The mayor also told him after the Property Committee had met that the committee had done right in recommending the council to award the contract to the highest tenderer.

The mayor said that he understood Ald. Duncan to say that Mr Ball had another position to go to and that he was not particular about getting the market.

Ald. Duncan admitted that he did make that statement in the committee and he repeated it in council.

Ald. Morrow maintained that Mr Ball had resigned from the council and had sold out his business to take up work for the city and he did not think Mr. Ball should be turned out on such short notice. That was why he supported the amendment, when the yeas and nays were called.

Ald. Duncan did not think Mr. Ball sacrificed very much when he sold out. He could easily start up again if he wanted to.

The discussion was finally brought to a close by Ald. Bradburn asking the mayor why he voted in opposition to the committee's report when he was in favor of the report at the committee meeting?

One of the aldermen answered, "Just because he did."

City Fathers Have Long talk on Small Matters

The special session of the City Council last night was rather a stormy affair. Practically every question that was brought up called for an argument, and yet, the opposition, were unable to accomplish anything so far as changing the vote was concerned. Once or twice, however there was an exchange of votes but the result was the same. Outside of the Finance Committee's report and the Property Committee's reference to which will be found in another column, only two matters of any importance were introduced and they will be found below.

Those present were;—Mayor Rush, Ald. Phelan, Morrow, McIntyre, Metheral, Turner, Gillespie, Bradburn, Buller, Morgan, Duncan, Duffus and Hicks.

The minutes were taken as read;

Reports were read from the Property Committee, Finance Committee, Legal Committee, Committee of the Whole, Fire, Water & Light Committee, Manufacturers' Committee

THAT $25.

There was a long debate over what was to be done with the $25 Chief Howard of the fire department received from the C.P.R. for services rendered. The whole thing was over nothing and the difference of opinion was very trifling. Chief Howard wanted the money to go into a benefit fund for the firemen, Ald. Morgan wanted the same thing, and every member of the council wanted a benefit fund for the firemen, so there is going to be a benefit.

It was moved that the matter of the $25 received by the chief of the fire department from the C.P.R., be left in the hands of the chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee to deal with as he sees fit. This was carried.

STREET RAILWAY COMPANY.

The Street Railway Company was on the carpet again. That extension of time they are asking the legislature for was the bone of contention and the aldermen argued the thing for half an hour and never arrived at anything definite. One section wants a guarantee from the company that work will be started this year, while the other section favored supporting the company's application for one year. The matter was introduced by Ald. McIntyre who moved the following motion;—

Moved by Ald. McIntyre that the City Council support the Street Railway Company in their application for an extension of time in which to start their railway to Stony Lake that the extension be granted for one year and that the company guaranteed to start in that time.

It was pointed out that the company would not give a guarantee.

Ald. Duncan and Ald. Duffus were added to the deputation to go to Toronto.

Why is Fat

Is it because one is born with the tendency? Or is it one of "life's trials," or is it due to just plain, hearty appetite? The doctors says not any one of these phrases the question correctly. They say fat IS because the fat person's digestive organs are defective. Such organs, it seems, don't change the fatty fatty foods eaten by stout persons into heat and energy, as they should. Instead the food fats pass on into the system unconsumed. Hence fat layers accumulate under the skin in quiet spots, such as the chin, abdomen, shoulder blades, etc.

Let that digestive defect be corrected and the formerly fat person goes back to his or her original shape. You can prove this on yourself. Seventy-five cents will secure from your druggist one of the large cases of Marmola Prescription Tablets recently licensed for sale by the Marmola Company of Detroit, Mich. Take one of these tablets after each meal and at bedtime and the demonstration starts right there. Very soon you will experience a new sense of digestive comfort and a delightful feeling of increased energy which should be followed in due season by a gradual, uniform decrease of your fat.

During the demonstration period you eat and drink as formerly, remember. The tablets need no help from either dieting or exercising; nevertheless the daily loss should approximate ten to sixteen ounces a day.

Now, WHY is it you get thin? Why is it the fat just seems to slip away leaving your flesh smooth, firm and wrinkleless? Simply because Marmola corrects that digestive defect, thereby stopping further fat accumulation and enabling the body forces to harmlessly dissolve what has already gathered.

Has Britain Given Canada Hint That the Teutonic War is Coming Soon?

"We have good reason to believe that the Canadian Department of Militia and Defence has received a tip from the War Office to look out for squalls. The feeling among the men at the top of affairs in the old country is that war with Germany is coming, and coming soon. You can feel that as soon as you come in contact with them."

Toronto, March 22.—The above was the statement this morning of a Toronto military man, who, during the last year or so, has rubbed elbows with some of the best-informed and most conservative men of the British Empire. He had been asked for his opinion on this morning's startling despatches regarding the situation between Great Britain and Germany.

GERMAN JEALOUSY.

That the despatches were read and regarded as significant by local military men, was evidenced by the canvass made by a newspaper representative to get their opinions this morning. That the despatches were somewhat sensational everybody admitted.

"And if they are true," said Gen. Cotton, who commands the military division of Western Ontario, "the despatches simply show that they are waking up there to the fact that Germany is doing something. The Germans are ambitious; they have been for years, jealous of England's growing power. It wouldn't be surprising to me to know that they are getting their navy into good shape to support their army."

SWIFT NAVAL CHANGES.

It is ten years since General Cotton was in England. He recalled that they were then getting out a battleship of a type that had now been relegated to the scrap heap as out of date. That showed how rapidly were the changes in the ships of war, and how swiftly Germany must have been moving to keep up with the English ship constructors, and get their fleets in the good shape that the despatches indicate.

The general noted that according to the reports the Germans were giving more attention to armor plate than to coal bunkers. This was significant, he said, as it indicated that the designers did not expect their ships to be long away from their own shores. They seemed to be vessels built for a short, sharp strike.

CANADA'S PART.

General Cotton said that except what he saw in the papers he knew nothing about the situation, and he did not care to discuss how Canada would figure out if there was such a grim eventuality as war between Great Britain and Germany.

"It will be time enough to talk about that," said he, "when the situation becomes acute enough, if it ever does."

One thing would be interesting to know, observed the general — that was as to the range and velocity of Germany's guns. Did they outrange or out-class Britain's weapons?

"The Germans are clever in the art of gun-making," said he, "they are a race of clever scientists. And from the youth of the German he is trained in the art of soldiering."

SHOULD ALWAYS BE PREPARED.

"There's no doubt," said he, 'that the Germans are very ambitious. It would be a great mistake to let them get a chance to challenge the supremacy of the British navy. While I am not in sympathy with big standing armies, either in Great Britain or Canada, I think these German rumors should again warn us that we should have sufficient men in training to meet any emergency, not only to handle the situation with Germany, but any other nation."

The Council to Meet the Newspapermen

A meeting of the Legal and Reception Committee was held last night for the purpose of considering the arrangements for entertaining the members of the Canadian Press Association who will be here on Saturday next. Ald. Turner outlined the plans of the publishers of the local papers which take up all the time that the visitors will be here. The program is a very elaborate one and the newspaper men will have a good time.

It is proposed that a committee from the council take the local C.P.R. train and go as far as Burketon where they will meet the special train and get on and get acquainted with the visitors and thus assist in the introductions when the train arrives in Peterborough.

This suggestion was adopted and as large a delegation as possible will go up.

Tax Rate Remains at 19 1-2 Mills in Face of Stiff Opposition

The tax rate for the city of Peterborough will remain at 19 1-2 mills for 1909 in spite of the refusal of the City Trust Commission to reduce their demand by $8500, and in spite of the stiff opposition from three or four members of the council. The Finance Committee held a meeting recently and after due consideration came to the conclusion that the council could get through the year on the 19 1-2 mill rate but that every department would have to practice the most rigid economy. With this end in view, the committee recommended that the appropriations to the various departments be reduced to the original figures.

When this report was read to the council there was considerable opposition from several of the members but the report was adopted and in due time the bylaw fixing the rate was introduced and the question was opened up again by Ald. Hicks moving that the rate be 20 mills. This was also defeated and the rate remains at 19 1-2 mills.

The Empire Versus Germany

Most people will agree with Lord Rosebery that the British Empire is the greatest secular agency for good in the world. Lord Milner said that the contemplation of its responsibilities made him want to go apart into a corner and pray. At Old St. Andrew's church church yesterday Rev. Dr. Milligan prayed that the British communities all over the world might stand true to the Empire and its civilising influence.

Everywhere thoughtful men regard with anxiety German's evident determination to build a larger navy than Great Britain and then strike at the Mother Country for the dominion of the seas.

The sinister significance of Germany's naval ambitions is emphasised by the fact that the Emperor already has the most powerful army in Europe.

Great Britain maintains her navy as an absolutely necessary defence force. Germany's attitude is that of the aggressive military nation.

How would it benefit the world to replace Great Britain and her thousand and one agencies for the advancement of peace and civilization with a restless nation ambitious for conquest and domination?

How would the millions of Egypt and India fare under the iron heel of Germany?

How would the Canadian people fare were they deprived of the shelter afforded by British prestige? What would become of our shipping on the Atlantic and the Pacific? What of our trade with Europe and Asia?

England stricken would mean the disappearance of the market which takes nearly all our exports—nearly all the produce of our grain fields.

Great Britain subdued, where would Canadians secure the capital necessary for the development of the country's undeniably vast resources?

British capital has built our railways and loaned us the money to dig our canals. She furnishes us with the funds for municipal improvement, and last year alone she advanced to us no less than $200,000,000. But for our credit in the Imperial capital the period of depression out of which the Dominion is only now emerging would have gone as hard with us as it has with the United States.

Deprived of London's financial backing, Canada would be plunged into financial ruin, whence it would require several generations to deliver us.

Shorn of Great Britain's prestige, Canada would be a football of the great powers. She constantly would be at the mercy of other nations. Even the United States would be unlikely to make any treaty concessions to us.

As long as the British Empire lasts, Canada has a share in its noble traditions and in the splendid work it is doing for civilization on every continent and the isles of the sea.

We share in the glory of India's redemption and Egypt's reclamation. We are partners in the task of carrying the Hebrews' religious message and the Greek's message of culture to all the world.

We have a part in this splendid work because we are within the Empire. But we do not pay our way. We stand aside while the taxpayers of the Mother Country carry the entire burden.

In reply to Germany's aggressive attitude, New Zealand offers a war ship to Great Britain and Australia probably will give one or two Dreadnoughts.

Meanwhile Canada does nothing, except to still boast of her wonderful natural resources and great potential wealth.

If we Canadians did our duty we should let Germany know that Britain does not stand alone—that we will at once build a navy to protect our own shores and that our vessels, under all proper circumstances, will be at the call of the British Admiralty.

Once seized of the fact that all the outlying British nations stand with the Mother Country, Germany might be persuaded of the hopelessness of building ships against a combined Empire.

That consideration might lead the war lords at Berlin to abandon their present mad program and perhaps even to join in a conclave of peace.—Toronto News.

Peterboro's Representative Returns Home

Fresh from laurels in Scotland, Mr. R. M. Waddell arrived in the city yesterday morning from Montreal. On the train were also four other Canadian curlers, Messrs. Patterson and Strathy, Toronto; Mr. Needlands, Barrie, and Mr. Logan, Parry Sound. These with Mr. Waddell were among the 12 Canadian curlers who sailed from Liverpool on February 12th on the Empress of Ireland. The passage to St. John's was rather a rough one at times, but none of the party suffered any ill effects from the voyage.

At St. John's the Ontario rink played with the curlers of that city, and won with two shots up. Mr. Waddell was vice-skip.

It is not necessary to review the doings of the Canadians in the land of the heather as they have been reported very fully in the press dispatches. Mr. Waddell says they were given princely treatment and the Scotch brethren seemingly made it a special study to see that the visitors were entertained in the best possible fashion.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think. It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the box. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. J. H. Knapman Won the Consolation Trophy

The curling season is closed in Peterborough for 1909. The last games of importance were played yesterday afternoon and last night when the semi-finals and finals in the club bonspeil consolation contest were pulled off and resulted in a big surprise to everybody. The winners of the competition were what was started off as Mr. J. H. Burnham's rink. That gentleman skipped all his games up until Saturday night and was successful. He defeated several of the old-seasoned players who have waged war with the broom and stone for many years and have the artistic parts of the game down to a nicety, and Mr. Burnham had the distinction of playing with practically new men in every game. On Saturday night he won two games in good style and was entered for the semi-finals. On Monday, however, he found it would be impossible for him to keep his engagements and resigned and Mr. J. H. Knapman took the rink and after a couple of brilliant games landed the coveted prize. To Mr. Knapman and his colleagues belong the honors of the victory. They deserve great credit for the games they played and especially the skip who was in splendid form.

In the afternoon Mr. Knapman defeated Mr. G. L. Hay by one shot, but at night after curling and skipping a great exhibition he won from Mr. W. J. Thompson by 17 to 6. This practically closes the curling season Peterborough although there may be a few scratch games if the ice hangs out.

The rinks in the semi-finals were;

Weistenholme	James
Winch	L. Hall
Webb	Dixon
Knapman—9	Hay—6
Barber	Moore
Oke	Barber
Ferguson	McDermid
Lang—10	Thompson—16

New Feature in Kinrade Case--10-Chambered Pistol

Hamilton, March 22.—A new and interesting fact has come to light which may have an important bearing on the case. It is understood that Mr. George Lynch-Staunton has discovered in an American magazine or newspaper advertisement of a 10-chambered revolver, or at least one that will fire 10 shots without reloading.

One of the strange facts in connection with the murder of Ethel Kinrade was the fact that it was shown conclusively that nine shots were fired. This, according to the detectives, meant that either the murderer had two revolvers or that he reloaded the one he had. Now, however, with the discovery of the existence of this new style of weapon it is possible to believe that the murder may have been committed with one of these, and new possibilities are opened up in the case at once. The police described is apparently sure, and it should not be difficult to trace the sales.

The revolver is made in some city down South, it is understood, and Mr. Lynch-Staunton, at any rate, considered it of sufficient importance to report to County Crown Attorney Washington, Friday night last at the inquest.

A PRIVATE DETECTIVE!

The Kinrade family, it is said, is not satisfied with the fact that the detectives have apparently ignored everything that tended to lead to the supposition that the murderer was a stranger and unknown to them or Miss Kinrade. It is rumored that, in view of this, they have employed a private detective on their own account, and this revolver clue has been, or will be, handed over to him among other matters which they wish to have investigated, and which seem to support their theory of the affair.

Earl Kinrade was asked this morning what his father's plans were.

"I don't know whether they intend to leave town or not," he said.

Bronchitis

SCIENTIFICALLY TREATED.

The best authorities agree that bronchitis is treated most scientifically by Catarrhosone, which goes right to the root of the trouble.

Bronchitis can be treated successfully only by a remedy carried direct to the affected parts along with the air breathed.

Catarrhosone is a vegetable antiseptic and is inhaled at the mouth, and afterpassing through all the air passages of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, is exhaled through the nose.

The healing vapor of Catarrhosone goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and reaches every part that is affected. No matter how deep-seated the bronchial irritation may be, Catarrhosone is sure to reach it.

Catarrhosone protects and heals the mucous membrane, stops the cough, heals up the sores, and is guaranteed to bring speedy relief and sure cure.

By means of the inhaler Catarrhosone treats the local symptoms of bronchial trouble very effectually. The poisons and impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrosone, which is a wonderful tonic and stimulant for the entire system.

Ferrosone is a muscle and tissue builder, increases the appetite aids digestion and makes the body so healthy and strong that bronchitis goes away for good.

A prominent steamboat owner, well known throughout Eastern Ontario, Captain Dunlop of Kingston, was perfectly cured of Bronchitis by Catarrhosone. The Captain had suffered for more than 20 years, and says that Catarrhosone is the best cure for Bronchitis on the face of the globe.

Mr. A. J. Calhoun, a prominent citizen of Neepawa, Manitoba, speaks very appreciatively of Catarrhosone as a specific for Bronchitis, and states that his wife could not get along without it.

Everyone that has used Catarrhosone is satisfied that it is superior to all other remedies. It is delightful to inhale, simple and convenient to use, and relieves from the first breath taken through the inhaler.

Better try Catarrhosone. All druggists sell and recommend it. Complete outfit, price $1.00; trial size 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Letter to The Editor

(To the Editor of The Times:)

Dear Sir,—Having lately removed from the city of Toronto to Peterborough, I find that two of the necessaries of life, water and gas, cost me much more than I paid in the former city.

There I occupied an eight-roomed house, with bath, w.c., sinks and hot and cold water.

Toronto, net cost to me, $2.75, 6 mos., $5.50 year. Peterborough, net cost to me, same accomodation, $4.20, 6 mos., $8.67 year. Toronto photo gallery and living rooms, bath, etc., $2.75, 6 mos., $5.50 year.

Peterborough photo gallery, living rooms, bath, etc., but three rooms less and two taps less, $4.70, 6 mos., $9.40 year.

Toronto gas, 85c per thousand; Peterborough gas too expensive altogether. The power here being by water, the rates should be much less than in Toronto, where plant is operated by steam. As power is owned by the city of Peterborough, the only expense is the up-keep of the power house and dam. That the rates are excessive is only too evident when it is proposed to spend $150,000 more and yet not have to increase the rates to meet the interest and sinking fund.

It is on a par with the electric light, run by a private company, whose sole desire was to squeeze the last cent from their patrons. We are not going to live forever and our grand children could pay for some of the proposed improvements if they are necessary.

Yours truly,

"A FRESH TAXPAYER."

P. C. I. Students in the Drama

The Dramatic Society of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute will present a play on April 2nd, just before the Easter holidays, the name of the vehicle in which the young students will be seen is "The Scheming Lieutenant."

There are two acts and six scenes. The leading roles will be taken by Messrs. Cyril Moore, Max Dobbin, Alex. Primeau and Misses Willeys Blewett and Katie Leary. There are besides officers, soldiers, peasants, etc. Principal Kenner's fostering of the musical and literary natures of the students has been greatly appreciated by the friends of the P.C.I., who have enjoyed the entertainments given during the past winter.

Rev. Knowles at St. Paul's Church

The following notes and notices were taken from the weekly announcement pamphlet distributed among the congregation of St. Paul's church yesterday;—

The Rev. S. E. Knowles, the popular preacher, author and lecturer, will occupy the pulpit of St. Paul's next Sabbath at both service. Don't miss this opportunity of hearing this message. Mr. Pogue exchanges pulpits with Mr. Knowles.

The ladies are arranging for a lecture in the near future by Rev. L. Geggie of Toronto. The title of the lecture is; "The Rose, Thistle and Shamrock." Mr. Geggie will be assisted by Rev. Ernest Haseldine, tenor vocalist, formerly of Manchester, England.

The Laymen's Missionary Convention to be held here on Tuesday, will be attended by laymen from all over the Presbytery. A good meeting is expected. It meets in St. Andrew's church, and there will be two sessions, morning and afternoon. Three distinguished speakers and leaders will be with us from Toronto. We would urge all of our men to be present. The ladies of the three congregations are providing lunch for all.

The communion will be observed on Sabbath morning, April 4th. Those intending to unite with us, by certificate or profession, are asked to let Mr. Pogue know of it as soon as possible. He has a little book on the Lord's Supper which he will give to all such to read before the communion.

Our Bible class has now an enrollment of 212. The average attendance, however, is only about half that number.

Rev. A. T. Taylor, D.D., of Cooke's church, Toronto, is to be our anniversary preacher this year. More of this later.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 6th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Progress tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplies by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. H. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,

P. E. RYAN, Secretary.

The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway.

Dated at Ottawa, 6th March, 1909.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the commissioners will not be paid for it.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never—unless your lungs, throat or bronchial tubes is simply cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated membranes. Don't blindly empirate it with a stupefying poison. It's amazing how fast Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure does. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has consistently warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Hereafter for this very reason you and others should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's label—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said by the best judges, the finest in use, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Quite so chances there, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the 2 bottles, package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Why Do People Deposit Their Money in Banks for onl 3 Per Cent. Interest?

BECAUSE, THEY THINK IT IS QUITE SAFE.

Why Do Some Invest in Bonds to get a Little Higher Interest?

Because, the bonds represent a mortgage on the property on which their money is invested which gives a feeling of safety.

Why Do People Invest in Wildcat Gold and Silver Mining Schemes? Because they think the chances of profit are big and they are willing to take the risk.

WHY NOT INVEST IN A SAFE STOCK IN A GOING COAL MINE

making money now and which presents such possibilities for development that it is expected that the profits will run from 25 per cent. to 50 per. cent. higher.

The Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited, Stock at $10 per Share is a safe Stock.

It is all common stock. There are no bonds or no mortgages or no preferred stock, on which interest must be paid before the common stockholder gets anything.

When you buy common stock of the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited at $10 per share you become an actual owner of the mines and have an equal chance of the profits according to the number of shares held. A coal mine with a big deposit of coal ready for the miner's pick is as safe as a bank. To own and control shares of common stock in such a coal mine must be safer and better than holding bonds in a proposition in which you have no control and which may or may not be properly managed. The officers and management of the Winter Port Coal Mines of New Brunswick have the experience in mining and selling coal in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

J. S. Gibbon, the President of the company, opened and developed the Winter Port Mines to the present stage.

W. E. Vroom, the Vice-President of the Company, was for some years actively associated in the management of the Springhill Collieries in Nova Scotia and the Albert Mines in New Brunswick.

Manufacturers in St. John speak highly of the Winter Port coal.

Winter Port coal is a good locomotive coal and has been used on the Intercolonial and other railways.

The Winter Port Coal Mines being practically on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific now opening up through New Brunswick will provide a most convenient coaling facility for that great transcontinental railway. Immense quantities of coal will be needed by the great railways and by the manufacturers, steamship lines, etc., in connection with the development of Canada's Winter Port at St. John, N.B., which is only 55 miles in a direct line from these coal mines.

Secure some Winter Port stock now at $10 per share (there is no personal liability) and get your share of the profits of a safe conservative money-making proposition.

SKIN TROUBLES

YOUR SKIN REFLECTS YOUR HEALTH!

JUST as your skin is, so is your health. If the pores of your skin are not acting properly, the wastes of your body are not getting away as they should, and this means that your kidneys, liver, lungs, and heart have to take on extra duty. Your skin requires periodical cleaning, just as the housewife knows that the stove requires periodical shaking down to make it burn brightly.

Just at this season, pimples, face sores, eruptions, scrofulous diseases, and eczema, are very common because the winter has thrown extra work on to the skin, and in many cases the skin has been unable to do this extra work. Zam-Buk is a skin tonic. Your skin needs a tonic just as much as your stomach or liver!

If you have any skin disease, scrofulous sore, festering ulcer, or an outbreak of pimples and eruptions, apply Zam-Buk. Apply it freely at night. Let its healing essences sink well in! You will be surprised at its wonderful healing power.

HOW ZAM-BUK REMOVES SKIN DISEASES.

Mrs. S. Jones, of Queen Street, St. James, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time back pimples and sores broke out on my forehead, and spread over the whole of one side of my face and neck. Small red pimples, jounting up into a kind of red rash, which discharged and then became very sore, was the form the disease took. The irritation from skin was terrible, and whenever I went out of doors it was very painful. I consulted the family physician, who gave me a lotion to use. This only seemed to irritate the disease the more, and to cause more pimples to appear, so I left off using the lotion and began applying Zam-Buk. In a wonderfully short space of time this proved effective, and every trace of it was removed from my face and neck, leaving my skin clear and smooth as before. There has been no return of this disease since, so I believe the cure is permanent. I have also used Zam-Buk for an open running wound on the calf of my right leg, which had troubled me for some time, and it cleared away all the foul matter and healed the wound up nicely."

Mr. Wilkinson Purser, of 1325, Elgin Avenue, Winnipeg, Man., says:—"As a cure for skin diseases I do not think there is anything to equal Zam-Buk. Last year pimples and sores broke out all over my face, and defied various remedies which, from time to time, I applied to them. Not only were these sores unsightly, but they were very painful. For over two months I was afflicted in this way, until I was advised to try Zam-Buk. I found this balm was entirely different to the ordinary remedies. It reduced the irritation and the smarting pain. The sores, from first being anointed with the balm, grew less and less angry, and then began to dry off. With perseverance I was able to clear my skin entirely from all the sores and eruptions. I highly recommend Zam-Buk to all who suffer from any skin disease."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, abrasions, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, scabs, chapped hands, cold sracks, chilblains, ringworm, quinsy sores, bad leg, diseased nobbles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

NILE'S VALUE TO EGYPT.

Why It Is Necessary For Great Britain to Hold the Soudan.

In his note on the budget for 1909 Paul Harvey, financial adviser to the Egyptian Government, says:

"The year 1908 has not been a period of economic prosperity for Egypt. Nevertheless the economic situation is, in fact, essentially sounder now than it has been for some years past. The complaints which are heard are due in a measure to a comparison of the present situation with times of abnormal and morbid commercial activity.

"The portion of the expenditure which has incurred the severest criticism is that which has been devoted to the Soudan. The criticism is, however, based on an incomplete understanding of a large political and economic problem. The essence of Egypt's prosperity is the water of the Nile. The diminution of this supply, particularly in the critical summer months, would involve an incalculable loss to Egypt. But this would at once result, if the Nile water were diverted, as it very well might be, to the irrigation of the Soudan. It is to maintain the supply intact at its source that Egypt holds the Soudan. Unfortunately, the Soudan is not to be held without sacrifice. A vast country, almost entirely undeveloped, without communication, largely occupied by unruly tribes, needs expenditure on its administration considerably in excess of its annual revenue.

"To remedy this situation two objects must be pursued, the development of the country's resources, and internal security. For both these purposes capital expenditure is necessary. The soundness of this policy has been proved by the growth in eight years of the Soudan revenue from £E.167,500 to £E.1,000,000, and the reduction last year of the Egyptian annual subsidy from £E.253,000 to £E.-208."

MASTERS IN CONCLAVE.

Pedagogue Caused a Sensation By Showing Ignorance of Scholars.

Something awful happened the other day. The headmasters of the great English public schools met in conference, and proceeded to tell each other how they believed the young idea should be taught to shoot. The headmaster of Birmingham caused shudders of horror to run down the small of all the pedagogic backs by telling how he had discovered a "University scholar" who actually didn't know that the stars shifted of nights, but thought they just stayed where they had been put to twinkle. The whole house of heads saw that the only thing to do was to applaud wildly, which they did. And the Birmingham man, thus stimulated, worked himself to the strong language pitch. He said that the condition of that university scholar could be characterised only as one of "crass, impenetrable, and serious ignorance" — and again all the heads roared applause. All but one. A headmaster of Rugby school rose, unafraid, and said, "I have never listened to such unmitigated rubbish!" Then he showed the great heads gathered together in council that, while a knowledge of the movement of the stars was a very pleasant thing, a man might still have a very fine culture without knowing anything beyond the nursery rhyme lore that they twinkled, twinkled, and were wonderful. He went on to explain that all our modern science was good, but not essential to the deepest humanity; man had lived very well, and thought very highly, for some thousands of years without knowing anything at all about these mysteries of nature. In the end, the masters seemed to be of his opinion.

Relics of Queen Mary.

The late Lord Herries, of Everingham Park, York, England, and Caerlaverock, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, father of the Duchess of Norfolk, who inherited his Scottish titles, left unsettled property of the gross value of $370,000, of which the net personality has been sworn at $3,500. The eccentrix in his wife, and to her (who it is stated in the will has been amply provided for by marriage settlement and otherwise), to his daughter Angela, and to other relatives he leaves various bequests. His family jewels and plate, his relics of Queen Mary and Lord Nithsdale's cloak and his furniture, he leaves as heirlooms following the settlement of his Yorkshire and Lincolnshire estates, as settled on the marriage of his daughter Gwendoline Mary to the Duke of Norfolk. He left his effects at Kinharvie to follow the Scottish deed of disposition of the Caerlaverock estates. The residue of his property he left to his daughter, Gwendoline Mary, Duchess of Norfolk.

Scottish Marriage Custom.

Many quaint marriage customs still survive in many old English and Scottish families. One notable tradition of this sort still kept green by the Dukes of Atholl and their heirs is that of the bridegroom carrying the bride across the threshold of Blair Castle, it being in accord with an ancient tradition that it is unlucky for a bride who enters the castle for the first time to walk in the ordinary way. This is one of the many quaint old feudal customs that are observed upon this estate, which the Duke of Atholl holds from the crown by one of those strange tenures which are occasionally to be found in Great Britain. Upon fear of forfeiture the owner has to present his sovereign with a white rose whenever he or she visits the castle.

The Postal "Doctor."

Probably one of the most interesting of the many occupations followed at St. Martin's-le-Grand, London, is that of the postal "doctors." These worthies are really four senior sorters, who perform the special duty of "doctoring" letters, packages, etc., which—owing to insecure or careless packing—have become broken or damaged in the post. It is in the sorting-room that they are humorously termed "doctors." Articles of infinite variety pass through these "doctors'" hands, from coin of the realm, banknotes, and stamps, to bottles of medicine, oil, and poison.

BABIES SUBJECT TO COUGHS AND COLDS

KICK OFF THE COVER AND TAKE COLD.

How One Baby Was Cured of a Dreadful Cold by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

All the world loves a baby and everyone is more or less interested in their health and happiness. There probably never was a baby that did not kick off the covers and take cold; in fact, babies are particularly susceptible to colds and croup, and the favorite remedy for these ailments is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It always gives quick relief and is pleasant and safe to take, in fact, it contains nothing injurious. Mothers have become acquainted with this fact and do not hesitate to give it to their babies when such a preparation is required. Mrs John D. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., says: "About two weeks ago our baby had a dreadful cold, and at one time I feared it would have pneumonia, but one of our neighbors told how Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had cured her little boy, and I began giving it to our baby at once and it soon cured her. I had tried other remedies but they all failed to do her any good. Our baby is now well and we heartily thank Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for it cured her. I cannot recommend it too highly, say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced as I was."

Notice

Notice is hereby given that a bylaw was passed by the council of the City of Peterborough on the first day of March, A.D., 1909, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $10,000 for the purpose of paying for permanent improvements to the Collegiate Institute of the City of Peterborough.

And that a bylaw was passed by the said council on the said first day of March, A.D., 1909, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $4,000 for the purpose of paying for permanent improvements to Public Schools in the City of Peterborough.

And that such bylaws were registered in the Registry Office of the County of Peterborough at Peterborough on the tenth day of March, A.D., 1909.

Any motion to quash or set aside the bylaws or either of them or any part of either of them, must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice, and cannot be made thereafter.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of a postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

DINING AT "THE LORDS."

Very Democratic Meals Can Be Had In Upper House.

Time was when the House of Lords was famous for its Terrace assemblages, its strawberry creams, its dinners—aye, and for its dances in the "Mess" Room. The Sir Alfred Jacoby of that age was given by his grateful peers a selection of silver plate to commemorate his specious management of my lords' kitchen; and when asked how he would like it replied, "In a loving cup, if you please; only see that its surface is big enough to take in my head."

It was in 1885 that their lordships first set up housekeeping. Prior to this the peers took meat and wine in Mr. Bellamy's kitchen, which in William Pitt's days constituted the Parliamentary restaurant for the Lords and Commons alike. There they nourished debate by "sending to the cookshop round the corner." Later, the hereditary bremsh were "paying guests" of the new House of Commons, and now they maintain a separate establishment famed both for its chops and its wines.

The dinners or the progressive variants of the dinner or dinners now served at the House of Commons are as democratic as is that assembly itself. Here the member may dine with his guests at any figure from ninepence to five guineas per head of himself and his guests.

The diner de resistance is what is called the "shilling basher," and at this, despite its title, millionaires and Cabinet Ministers may also be found daily.

The society dinners, held in specially provided and equipped rooms, are between toilettes and flowers worthy of the most brilliant esteries known to Mayfair. Here practically champagne is alone drunk. In one sense at least the House is sober enough. In the members' rooms red wines even of the cheaper brands are surrendering to the consumption of white seals. Even the taste for whisky has declined quite 10 per cent. during the last ten years.

In the "still room" stands a vast hogshead known locally as the "Valentia Vat." It was installed when the noble viscount of that ilk, the member for Oxford, was Chairman of the Kitchen, containing 1,000 gallons of Scotch whisky, and was laid down in his honor. But of late it has not been refilled as frequently or as steadily as its openness perhaps anticipated, or even desired, and it has been coyly suggested that it should be emptied and used as a swimming-tub.

However, be that as the future may ordain, the Valentia Vat is one of the institutions of Parliament. The spirit is ten years old and 15 u.p., and it is never permitted to run below a minimum of 400 gallons. It is, perhaps, a grievance of old Ireland that the Irish vat contains only 400 gallons, but the quantity is regulated by the logic of supply to demand only.

They Thought Well of Themselves.

The reminiscences of Mr. Hermann Vezin, the famous actor, who celebrates his eightieth birthday on March 2nd and his diamond jubilee as an actor, includes a couple of stories which show that actors in the old days knew how to appreciate themselves. The great American tragedian of Mr. Vezin's youth was Edwin Forrest. "He was certainly the finest Richelieu I ever saw," says Mr. Vezin, "and a magnificent King Lear. One day a fellow-actor complimented him on the way he played Lear. 'Play Lear!' exclaimed Forrest. 'I play Hamlet, Othello, Macbeth; but by heavens, sir, I am Lear!'" Beaucicault had an enormous belief in himself, too. Once he was detected in the act of praising Shakespeare. "Surely," remarked Beaucicault, by way of excuse, "great men may admire each other."

"The Spider."

So in Egypt they were wont to call Lord Cromer, who as president of he Men's League for Opposing Women's Suffrage, has declared himself the opponent to the aspirations of Mrs. Pankhurst and her followers. He speaks in short, sharp sentences, and his face betrays nothing of what is passing in his mind. Yet in Lord Cromer's character there is a wealth of good nature. Just before he retired from the Council-Generalship of Egypt he heard that one of his officials had overworked himself and fallen ill. Lord Cromer sent for him. "I shall not want you any more," he said, looking the startled man up and down, and then added, "for two months. You're ill. Here's a prescription for you." It was a check for two months' sojourn in England.

The Dean's Pet Spider.

To his particular passion for angling—and he has many record catches to his credit—and his general fondness for all animals, Dr. Barber, the Dean of Carlisle, has now added a partiality for spiders. His pet insect is one which Mrs. Barber discovered in an ante-room of the deanery, and there at present it is allowed to remain. Unlike most ladies, Mrs. Barber is specially fond of spiders, as well as birds, and it is a pretty sight to see her in the garden each morning surrounded by sparrows, tom-tits, robins, and ravens, who collect round her when she whistles and allow her to feed them with crust, meat and bread.

Fight Between Child Card-Players.

It was stated at the Ballyboy (Ireland) Petty Sessions that while four children were playing cards with a toy pack, and with pieces of broken china for stakes, they quarrelled, and two of them, who were under six years of age, were badly injured. One of the children lost an eye.

Tax on Horseflesh.

One of the new taxes contemplated in Paris is a duty of 1s. 5d. per cwt. on horseflesh used for human consumption. Strong objections have been raised on the ground that the tax would fall on the very poor and the sick—horseflesh is recommended for consumptives—and would bring in only about £25,000.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think! It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's Little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the 25c. box. Sold by all dealers.

Says This Medicin Has Mystic Powers

If's in the spring that health gives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, tireless—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged.

If you've reached this stage read what J. W. Jervell, well known in Morristown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.—They possess mystic powers surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—come right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and ointments,—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which revitalize delicate glands, search out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficent aid that comes from this king of all tonics. During his stay in Peterborough Mr. Cartwright was a guest of the Oriental Hotel. It is fifteen years since he last visited Peterborough and he sees great changes.

Miss Edith Flavelle left today on a three months' trip to Europe, sailing on Tuesday from New York on the S.S. Finland, of the White Star line. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Rundell and Miss Mina Flavelle, daughter of Mr. J. W. Flavelle of Toronto. The party will tour many parts of the continent, and on the return trip will visit Madeira, the Azores and Gibraltar. Their many friends unite in wishing them a very enjoyable trip.—Lindsay Post.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. House and Driving Shed Burns Down

A lantern overturning was the cause of a disastrous fire at the home of Mr. Thos. Sutton, Smith, shortly after midnight on Saturday. The farm on which the fire occurred is the property of Mr. Bert McKee.

Mr. Sutton's sons returned home from the city about 12 o'clock on Saturday night, and accidentally upset a lantern in the driving shed. The flames caught under the driving shed floor and the young men used their coats to smother them, and thought they had succeeded in extinguishing them. They went into the house and about one o'clock in the morning the family was awakened by the flames from the shed. The fire had not been thoroughly put out and commenced to burn again, getting great headway.

The driving shed is situated about one hundred feet north-west of the house, and the wind was blowing from the north-west. This blew the sparks from the shed to the house, which also caught on fire. There were no means of fighting the flames, and both the shed and house were burned down. Most of the household effects were saved. A shed between the driving shed and the barn was torn down in order that the latter might not endanger the barns.

Mr. J. A. Scorey, agent for the Farmers' Union Fire Insurance Co., stated yesterday that the loss would be partially covered by insurance.

Presbyterian Laymen in Conference in St. Andrew's Yesterday

The Presbyterians of Peterborough city and Presbytery were in session all day yesterday and last night discussing the laymen's missionary movement. The conference was an important one and the result should bear fruit. The object was to fully explain the meaning of the movement and to devise the best ways of impressing the laymen with the genuineness of the proposition and their personal obligation to contribute towards the missionary funds. It was pointed out that if each communicant in the Protestant churches gave $5 a year to the fund sufficient money would be raised to send the gospel to every section of the globe within the next 25 years.

The conference was opened with a morning session, and was very well attended, including a large number of laymen from outside churches. At noon hour the ladies of the three Presbyterian churches in the city served luncheon to the delegates in St. Andrew's hall. Three large tables were laid and about 180 delegates sat down. There were some twenty churches in the Presbytery represented. The luncheon was exceptionally well served and the men were much pleased with the attention they received from the ladies. The chairman at dinner and also at the afternoon session was Mr. R. F. McWilliams.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Matthew Parkinson of Toronto, a prominent business man. He spoke for about half an hour on the objects of the movement and taking up particularly the work the individual churches should do in order that the objects of the movement may be accomplished. If each communicant gave $5 per year the world would be evangelized in 25 years. This does not mean christian ed.

Other speakers in the afternoon were Rev. F. W. Henderson of Toronto, who took up the educational work in the churches, Sunday schools and societies, and pointed out what was being done in the way of spreading information. Rev. Mr. Armstrong of Toronto, spoke on the ways and means of carrying out the objects.

MORNING SESSION.

Sheriff Hall presided at the morning meeting, the most important feature of which was an address by Mr. A. E. Armstrong, associate secretary of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church. He gave a very comprehensive review of the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

THE ADDRESS.

The two topics demanding most attention were the Laymen's Missionary Movement itself and the great duty of the Christian church and therefore the call of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Armstrong referred to the beginning of the Laymen's Movement and also the formation of the first Foreign Mission Board, resulting from the celebrated Hay Stack Prayer meeting. In Canada the Laymen's Missionary Movement includes all the missionary work of the Christian Church at home and abroad. The movement does not get a dollar, therefore they will not have the handling of the money. It is simply a movement to inspire men and to inform them regarding the work they ought to do and so men they should see that their respective congregations do their duty in this regard. The money will flow through the regular church channels as in the past and will be handled by the regular missionary societies. The difference, Mr. Armstrong stated, was that the Laymen's Movement was aiming at greater efforts, broader interest in the missionary work and an awakening to the real duty of the christian people in spreading the Gospel of Christ. It has spread throughout Canada and the United States and is being accepted in other countries.

The movement is not visionary but rests on a strong and sane basis and has at its head some of the most prominent men of the Dominion. It is a movement that should command the attention of men everywhere, particularly from the character of the men who are now connected with it. Men have had their whole conception of the church's duty in the world transformed. They are beginning to entertain a broader idea of Christianity and realize that the joy and happiness accompanying the Gospel of Christ should be spread throughout the whole world. The character of our laws and our people will depend upon the manner in which the minds of the incoming people are moulded. It will not be long, Mr. Armstrong said, before Canada will have its greater population west of the Great Lakes. Our government will in future years be in the hands of the people who are not now living in this country. It is therefore necessary that the work of home missions should be widely extended.

The missionaries in China, and these countries are not propagating Presbyterianism or Episcopalianism, but they are spreading Christianity. Our home religions may no.be emitted to the Japanese or Chinese. The Presbyterian Church has accepted the duty of evangelizing twelve million people.

Three Men Were Burned to Death in a Cornwall Hotel--Six Injured

Too Frightened to Call Fire Brigade--People Jumped in Their Nightrobes---A Dog Gave Warning

Cornwall, March 23.—Three men burned to death, a half dozen others more or less seriously scorched, cut, and bruised, and others badly frightened by the shock, tell the tale of a fire which broke out in the Windsor Hotel here about 12.45 o'clock this morning.

The Windsor is situated on Water street, just off Pitt street, Cornwall, a main thoroughfare, and faces the Cornwall Canal. A large force of men engaged on the Ottawa and New York bridge work and the canal break were boarders at the Windsor, and some of them were accompanied by their wives.

As late as twelve o'clock, when some of the boarders retired, everything appeared to be all right.

DOG GAVE WARNING.

Mr. James Grundy, pianist and singer at Wonderland, a moving picture theater, was suffering from a severe toothache, and was pacing the floor of his rooms. His dog suddenly commenced to bark and howl, and awakened Mrs. Grundy, who informed her husband that she smelled smoke.

Hockey Team Reception

He got Mrs. Grundy out in her night clothes and gave the alarm.

The Y.P.S.C.E. of St. Andrew's church tendered a reception in the form of a social evening to the St. Andrew's hockey club which won the championship of the church league for the season of 1909-10. There were over a hundred young people present including all the members of the team. A very interesting program of music and readings were given, after which refreshments were served. Those taking part were Mr. Clark, banjo solos, Mr. John, reading, and Miss Maggie Rae, recitation, and several piano solos.

Conservatives to Urge that Canada Should Assist British Navy

Ottawa, March 23.—The Conservatives in caucus this morning discussed the question of a contribution Canada to the Imperial navy. It is understood that the feeling was strong in favor of the Dominion taking immediate action in the direction of lending a helping hand to the Mother Country. It was decided to press a discussion on Mr. Foster's motion, which has been on the order paper since the beginning of the session, and which is as follows;

"That, in the opinion of the House, in view of her great and varied resources, of her geographical position and national environments, and of that spirit of self-help and self-respect which alone befits a strong and growing people, Canada should no longer delay in assuming her proper share of the responsibilities and financial burden incident to the suitable protection of her exposed coastline and great sea ports."

Stream of Western Grain is Flowing to The Pacific

Calgary, Alta., March 23.—A comparative statement of the number of cars of grain inspected by the local office from Sept. 1st to March 1st, for 1907-08 and 1908-09 seasons is as follows;

Grain;	1907-08	1908-09
Winter wheat	754	1022
Spring wheat	671	1015
Oats	1166	1615
Barley	85	123

HEAVIER SHIPMENTS

Shipments of flax were three times as heavy and of rye over twice as heavy during the latter season than during the former. The south again sustains its enviable record as a wheat producing area, in fact two-thirds at least of the wheat was grown in the southern part of Alberta, while 75 per cent. of oats came from the north. Grain shipments from March 1st this year have been very heavy, up to date 501 cars being inspected. Grain dealers, appreciating the value of a Western outlet, are now shipping all milling grain westward.

NEARLY ALL TO THE COAST.

For the past two months a total of at least 90 per cent. of the grain moved through Calgary has been consumed locally or shipped to the coast, the balance going to Fort William for the purpose of being cleaned. Shipments to that point were of such grades as Nos. 4, 5 and 6, with a large quantity of rejected grain, showing that once a suitable terminal and cleaning facilities are provided here or at the coast the entire crop raised in Alberta will find an outlet via the Pacific instead of the Great Lakes route.

NEW ELEVATOR SITE.

Montreal, March 23.—Mr. Thomas Hensaw of Vancouver, has visited Sir Thomas Shaughnessy here, and it is learned that he is negotiating for the sale to the C.P.R. of a valuable piece of property in Vancouver for an elevator site. Mr. Hensaw stated that he was quite certain that an elevator would be built this coming year by the C.P.R.

Grits were Victorious Won on Total Pinnage

The bowling event of the season was pulled off at the P.B.C. alleys last night when five-men teams under the colors of the Grits and Tories met for three games for the oyster supper. To make the story short, as Capt. McIlroy wishes it, it will suffice to say that the Grits won in a drive, with Capt. Martin plying the whip in great shape.

The contest was a most interesting one from start to finish. The Tories won the first two games and were in the lead in the third up to the fifth end when the Grits went mad and rolled nothing but strikes and spares. As the total average counted the followers of Sir Wilfrid hung hard and piled up a beautiful score, two men beating 200. The best of it was the Tories did not known that they were being trimmed and rolled away in ignorant bliss quite confident that they had a lead big enough to come out on top. On the other hand the Grits were not sure that they could pull out a victory.

The total score was;—Grits 2505. Tories 2474, giving the former a majority of 31 pins. The Tories lost but they had the consolation of winning two of the games and also of having the two highest scores, rolled by McIlroy and Pollard. They also had the lowest total of 427 by Bruce, and the lowest single game score 117, rolled by Wareham. The last score was a sore touch and the man who made it claims the credit of losing the game. This was the first time Wareham ever bowled so small a score, but he promised his captain not to do it again.

Sutherland made the high single game score, taking 225 pins. To do this he made five consecutive strikes and it was his last score which won the game. Had he got the same as he had in the second game there would have been nothing to it.

Capt. Martin for the Grits, was a busy man. He didn't strike his own gait until the last game. The rest of the time he was coiling his colleagues and raising Caine generally and in pure desperation he got into a corner and drafted a challenge ready for publication for a second game. He had given up all hope of winning out and began to figure on what he would do to the Tories next time. But when his men got settled down Bert took heart again and destroyed the document which was to have informed the public that the Grits were game.

McIlroy and Pollard bowled exceptionally well. They play as a team and their two scores were nothing to be ashamed of. In the first game McIlroy rolled a strike and a spare all through and got an even 200. This is the first score of the kind ever made on the local alleys.

As matters stand now it is up to the Tories to challenge the Grits for a return game next week, and Capt. McIlroy says he will do it, as he is sure his team can beat the Free Traders.

The scores were as follows;

GRITS—
Sutherland	119	171	225—	515
Ferguson	176	127	186—	489
Glover	125	174	156—	45
Martin	141	147	185—	473
Cairns	172	157	214—	543
	763	776	966—2505

TORIES—
Wareham	117	202	179—	498
Bruce	120	154	153—	427
Connors	151	146	142—	439
Pollard	190	198	173—	561
McIlroy	200	161	186—	547
	778	861	833—2472

OYSTER SUPPER.

After the game was over the vanquished Tories took their captors into camp at Hooper's Palm Gardens, where they were joined by members of the press and partook of an appetizing supper. Mr McIlroy filled the chair of honor and after supper called upon the various sports present to say a few words to encourage the losers and to hand out a button hole bouquet or two to the victors.

Verbal Fight for a 20 Mill Tax Rate for 1909

On account of the shortage of space The Times was forced to leave out part of the reports of the council meeting. It is given below;

The report of the Finance Committee referring to the rates was as follows;—

We recommend that in view of the opinion received from the city solicitor in regard to the request of the Council to the Peterborough City Trust to reduce their demand for this year by $8,500, the bylaw passed at the last meeting of the council levying rates for this year be amended to make the appropriations for the departments as originally drafted by this committee and the rate 19 1-2 mills.

We recommend that the rate bylaw be further amended by repealing the clause which required the taxes for city public schools, Collegiate Institute and separate school purposes to be set out seperately, and that it be provided as an illustration that there be printed on the tax bills the amount of taxes payable on each $1,000 of assessment for general city purposes and for school purposes respectively.

In reference to the Finance Committee's report Ald. Metheral took exception to the recommendation to issue debentures for $2000 for concrete crossings laid the past two years. He said that these small amounts should be paid out of current revenue as the issue of debentures means a much higher price for the work.

Ald. Morrow said that the committee was following out the set policy of the council.

Ald. Turner supported Ald Metheral's suggestion.

Ald. Hicks asked the chairman of the Finance Committee what position the finances would be in with a 17 1-2 mill rate?

He was told that if the appropriations were not exceeded there would be $5300 to apply on the overdraft of last year.

Ald. Hicks moved that the rate be 20 mills and that whole deficit of 1908 be provided for. Ald. Turner seconded the motion, but it was lost on vote of 4 to 6.

The Finance Committee's report was therefore adopted.

Ald. Morrow said that he thought an increase of three mills in one year was too much and he thought the council could get through very well with 19 1-2 mills.

THE BYLAW.

When the bylaw fixing the rate of taxation at 19 1-2 mills, was read was read Ald. Hicks moved that the bylaw be amended to read 20 mills. He stated that the council was making a big mistake in not cleaning up all of last year's deficit. There would not be a cent too much even at 20 mills.

Ald. Turner seconded the motion and stated that he did so upon the business merits of the motion.

Ald. Morrow said the committee considered the matter very carefully. He personally did not take any active part in the discussion in committee, but left it entirely with the committee. He said, however, that for several reasons he would like to see the whole debt cleaned up. But he added that this year he would strongly oppose any overdrawing on the part of any committee and he had asked the city treasurer to notify him just the minute that there was any chance of one of the committees to overdraw their appropriation.

The amendment was lost on a vote of 6 to 6, so thus the rate remains at 19 1-2 mills.

Whole Moon is Visible Now to the Naked Eye

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Astronomical Society last night. The feature of the evening was the address by Mr. John A. Patterson, K.C., Man. of Toronto, on "Tennyson's Astronomy." Mr. H. B. Collier occupied the chair, and in opening the meeting he drew attention to a specially interesting feature in the study of the sky at the present time. The whole moon is visible to the naked eye, being elliptical in shape. The reason of this was the reflection of the sun striking the earth and being reflected again on the moon and then reflected back to earth again.

The chairman then introduced the speaker of the evening. The lecture of Mr. Patterson was both a literary and astronomical treat and also showed that the speaker was well versed in Tennyson. The speaker stated that the great poet was a practical and close observer of science and astronomy, and did not glean his knowledge from books. He go, it first, and the speaker quoted 25 or 30 passages from Tennyson which bore this out.

At the close of the talk a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. D. W. Dumble and Rev. J. G. Potter, to Mr. Patterson and it was unanimously carried.

New Verandah for the Manse

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's church met on Monday night at the home of the president, Mrs. Robinson, Charlotte street. A large number were present and it was decided to undertake the work of proving funds for a verandah at the front of the manse. A committee was appointed to decide on the style of the verandah and to get an estimate of the cost. To raise the necessary funds the ladies will hold a series of at-homes and the first will be held next week at the manse.

Ryan on Trial for the Murder of His Brother

North Bay, March 23— Maurice Ryan was placed on trial this morning before Judge Latchford and a jury, charged with the murder of his brother, Frances Joseph Ryan, on or about November 18, 1907.

The court room was crowded with interested spectators, and the case is attracting widespread attention from its many sensational features.

T. H. Creswicke of Barrie, is Crown prosecutor, while George L. T. Bull of North Bay, is defending the prisoner. Provincial Inspector Wm. Green, who secured the evidence in the case, is in attendance.

The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded not guilty.

Crown Prosecutor Creswicke briefly sketched the events leading up to the disappearance of Frances Joseph Ryan, the finding of his body, nearly a year later, and the arrest of his brother.

Cuthbert, the first witness, said he was on his farm in Ferris Township, eight miles from North Bay, last October, when he discovered a skeleton in the bush about sixty feet from the main road. The body bore the appearance of having been dragged from the road. The bush had been burned over, and two trees had been interlocked, in falling across the remains. The witness identified articles shown in court as having been found with the remains, a watch, aluminum tags, with Frances Joseph Ryan's name on.

Dr. Shaw of Callandar, who examined the body at the time, identified portions of the clothing as having been found with the body, besides trinkets.

Dr. Shaw stated that the skeleton must have lain where found previously to the bush fires, as decay was far advanced, and in his opinion was that death was not caused by fire. He could not swear positively as to the sex of the skeleton, but was of the opinion that it was that of a man about 5 feet 2 inches in height.

Joseph Berow testified to finding a piece of lead resembling a bullet under the body.

MISS McKEOWN'S STORY.

Nora McKeown, a fine looking young woman, the principal witness for the Crown, told of her relations with Francis Joseph Ryan, whom she met about October 1st, 1907, and took charge of a resort for him near North Bay. Witness saw Francis Ryan for the last time one day after he had a summons served on him for keeping the place. He came to her house, accompanied by the accused, and told her that he would be going away to avoid being arrested. He picked up some things, returning in the evening after nine o'clock with the accused. The prisoner asked his brother to hurry or they would not be able to make it, and assured the witness that he would see that Frank got safely away. Francis Ryan gave her some money and displayed a large roll of bills, consisting two or three one hundred dollar bills, with tens and twenties.

SAID HE'D "KILL HIM."

Two or three weeks, before Francis went away, witness said, the accused was refused a loan of five dollars by his brother, and said I'll write his mother that he is keeping a resort. It will kill her, and I will kill him. The morning after Francis Ryan left, the prisoner told her that he had seen his brother safe and sound on the train at Callendar. Accused took charge of the house, and disposed of the furniture, telling witness that he had bought them from his brother before he left.

Reasons Why the Ratepayers Should Support the Power By-Law

(To the Editor of The Times)

Sir,—We wish on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the By-law to authorize the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter of providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the waterworks property, asked the council to submit a By-law to the electors for that purpose, which the council has done. At the same time the commissioners informed the council that when the 1200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the waterworks department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be said would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work, when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of building the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when that work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to instal the electrical machinery. That would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the Bylaw which is now submitted to the electors. But when the watering in done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the Bylaw. The interest on that sum will be $457.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the waterworks department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 600 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another Bylaw could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work, the city will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the committee and the council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the Bylaw authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the Bylaw.

Yours respectfully,

H. RUSH,
Mayor.

IF YOU HAVE

Catarrh

Remember the Best Catarrh Medicine that Money can Buy is Catarrhozone; it cures quickly and permanently when all others fail.

The remedy doesn't exist that will cure Catarrh as quickly as Catarrhozone. It relieves the most stubborn cases in a short time, and drives the disease so thoroughly from the system that it never returns.

Druggists boldly recommend Catarrhozone in preference to other remedies, because they know it is the best, and every progressive doctor prescribes it Catarrhozone is a rational, common-sense treatment that finds favor with everybody. It cures by the inhalation of medicated air, which comes into contact with the mucous surface of all the breathing organs. It gets at the source of the trouble, kills the germs and drives every vestige of catarrh right out of the system.

It doesn't matter how deep-seated or chronic your case may be, Catarrhozone can cure it. Even though a thousand other remedies have failed, don't give up hope till you have used Catarrhozone. It has cured other cases probably worse than yours, and will cure yours if it gets a chance.

Mr. Dutcher Law, a prominent citizen of Italy Cross, N. S., says: "I experimented with hundreds of Catarrh remedies and found the majority to be worthless, dismal failures. Catarrhozone was the first to give lasting relief; it cured me and I am with pleasure testifying to its merits as a cure for Catarrh of the nose and throat.

(Signed.) DUTCHER LAW.

You are sure to derive the most pleasant results from Catarrhozone. It has been tested many times and never found wanting. Every druggist in Canada sells it. Complete two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure costs $1, or a trial size 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

POLICE MAGISTRATES

There seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of the principle that police magistrates in this Province at least should not practise law and perform the duties of magistrate at the same time. Bill No. 137, entitled "An Act to Amend the Act Respecting Police Magistrates," an introduced in the Legislative Assembly at Toronto, provides that the "Police Magistrate of a city having a population of more than 15,000 shall not practise the profession of barrister or solicitor or engage in any business while holding such office, but this shall not apply to the case of a police magistrate of city having a population of less than 25,000 who was appointed before the 1st day of January, 1908, and is in office at the time of the passing of this Act."

Of itself, this single amendment constitutes a very valuable medium of law reform so much needed in this Province.

The cost of applying the principle of this Bill to cities and towns and township with populations under 15,000 would be greater than under the present system, but the benefits to the communities from the change if it were made, would more than outweigh the actual financial cost entailed.

ARE THE NEWSPAPERS SENSATIONAL

In view of a case at present before the public, one frequently hears the sensationalism of the press discussed. The particular case under consideration is one where a seemingly insoluble mystery baffles the keenest minds. There has not been in fiction nor on the stage anything to surpass it in human interest. It has been the talk of the continent. At Ottawa the members of parliament have spent their spare time doing little else but speculating on this senseless tragedy. In Montreal the people have shown as lively an interest as if the case had occurred at their doors. It is true that the Toronto dailies have devoted a great deal of space to the evidence, but whether this is to be described as enterprise or sensationalism depends entirely on one's point of view. Granting that the evidence deserved publication, then the publication of it in ample and authentic form was enterprising.

One may sometimes hear it said that a newspaper makes a great spread in reporting a crime in order to make money on it through selling a greatly increased number of papers. But, as the London Advertiser says on this point, all the extra copies sold by a newspaper do not begin to recoup it for the extra outlay involved in its heavy telegraph tolls. A sensation reported at full length does not mean a financial gain but a financial loss to a daily journal. If there be any gain about it, it is to that newspaper only which can permanently hold the readers who flock to it owing to one of these passing excitements. Why do the newspapers go to this expense, then? Because, notwithstanding what the critics say, and what the people think they think, the newspapers have overwhelming evidence, based on experience, that the people want such news and will not be denied it.

But the press of Toronto is not sensational. The English newspapers publish pages of divorce court evidence such as one never sees in a Toronto paper. Cases go to trial regularly in our courts which it is the practice of the local press to ignore, but which a sensational press would exploit. Not only so, but seldom or never does a Toronto newspaper mention scandals that are the talk of the town, and which in American cities would be spread before the public. The Canadian newspapers are away ahead of the English in excluding social scandals, and have far greater respect for the privacy of home life than has the American press.

Consider the matter in still another way. The newspapers of Toronto rigidly exclude from their columns news of occurrences in real life that are almost exactly in line with the plots of plays that are staged almost every week in the Toronto theaters. Mrs. Tanqueray, Mrs. Ebbsmith, and other stage women with their problems, are not a bit more perplexed nor a bit more interesting on the boards of the Princess or the Royal Alexandra than real people in real life could be made in the columns of the newspapers, but for the fact that the papers refuse to discuss the sex problem.

Against the statements sometimes used in defence of the newspapers that they are as good as the public, we make protest. The newspapers occupy ground in advance of the public. They decline to print news that the people would join in a wild scramble to read. Look for evidence to the large sales in Toronto of what may be called yellow fiction. There is as a matter of fact a popular demand for the yellowest of journalism, and it is the press of Toronto is steadily resisting.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

Why Do People Deposit Their Money in Banks for only 3 Per Cent. Interest?

BECAUSE, THEY THINK IT IS QUITE SAFE.

Why Do Some Invest in Bonds to get a Little Higher Interest?

Because, the bonds represent a mortgage on the property on which their money is invested which gives a feeling of safety.

Why Do People Invest in Wildcat Gold and Silver Mining Schemes? Because they think the chances of profit are big and they are willing to take the risk.

WHY NOT INVEST IN A SAFE STOCK IN A GOING COAL MINE

making money now and which presents such possibilities for development that it is expected that the profits will run from 25 per cent. to 50 per. cent. higher.

The Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited, Stock at $10 per Share is a safe Stock.

It is all common stock. There are no bonds or no mortgages or no preferred stock, on which interest must be paid before the common stockholder gets anything.

When you buy common stock of the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited at $10 per share you become an actual owner of the mines and have an equal chance of the profits according to the number of shares held. A coal mine with a big deposit of coal ready for the miner's pick is as safe as a bank. To own and control shares of common stock in such a coal mine must be safer and better than holding bonds in a proposition in which you have no control and which may or may not be properly managed. The officers and management of the Winter Port Coal Mines of New Brunswick have the experience in mining and selling coal in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

J. S. Gibbon, the President of the company, opened and developed the Winter Port Mines to the present stage.

W. E. Vroom, the Vice-President of the Company, was for some years actively associated in the management of the Springhill Collieries in Nova Scotia and the Albert Mines in New Brunswick.

Manufacturers in St. John speak highly of the Winter Port coal.

Winter Port coal is a good locomotive coal and has been used on the Intercolonial and other railways.

The Winter Port Coal Mines being practically on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific now opening up through New Brunswick will provide a most convenient coaling facility for that great transcontinental railway. Immense quantities of coal will be needed by the great railways and by the manufacturers, steamship lines, etc., in connection with the development of Canada's Winter Port at St. John, N.B., which is only 55 miles in a direct line from these coal mines.

Secure some Winter Port stock now at $10 per share (there is no personal liability) and get your share of the profits of a safe conservative money-making proposition.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

JUST A FEW TRINKETS

JEWELS WORN BY THE PRINCES OF INDIA.

Most Costly Article of Ornament the World Has Ever Known Is a Diamond Cape Worn by Bahadur of Baroda and Valued at $6,000,000—Rajah of Jaipur Has a Piece of Jewelry Worth $2,000,000.

In a palace older than western civilization, on a jewel encrusted throne, a relic of a vanished art, sits the maharajah of Gwalior. Over $2,000,000 worth of diamonds and priceless stones glitter on the magnificent robes which mark his regal state. The wealth of a Rockefeller or a Carnegie pales into insignificance before the vast riches of this prince, whose clothes alone represent a king's ransom.

The barbaric magnificence of the most richly-dressed man in the world is almost inconceivable in a land where a paltry diamond tiara or a single necklace is regarded as wonderful. Around the neck of the prince are six rows of pearls, the least row pendent and of enormous size. Even in India cannot be found a collection of these stones to equal this necklace. Seven ropes of large pearls swing from the shoulder to the hip for the support of his sword in his gold enameled and diamond-encrusted scabbard. The gorgeous weapon is estimated as being worth $250,000, and it is possible that that value falls far below the real worth of the gems with which it is adorned.

But the necklace and sword belt form but a small part of the means of jewels which glitter from every part of the prince's costume. The only parts of his dress which are not ornamented are his headgear and his boots. In this respect he forms a contrast to the majority of his brother Indian rulers, who usually wear gorgeous jeweled turbans. The maharajah of Gwalior, however, affects a curious kind of hat which looks like an oriental slouch and is bare of jewels with the exception of a great ruby, valued at $70,000. His highness probably in a modest moment considered that ruby sufficient, and perhaps he is not alone in his opinion.

But all the wealth of the Maharajahs' families cannot compare with Maharajah Sir Sayaji Rao Gaekwar Senas Khas Khal Bahadur of Baroda, G. C., S.I., commonly known as the Gaekwar. This person is even more magnificent than his name. His jewels have been valued at $4,000,000, while his yearly income exceeds $15,000,000.

This superb monarch has one article of dress which is the most costly piece of jewelry that the world has ever known or is ever likely to know. It is celebrated under the name of the diamond cape and its value has been placed at $6,000,000, although it is impossible to properly estimate the value of the stones which compose it. The only reason why his brother maharajah is able to claim the title of the richest dressed man in the world is because the lord of Baroda is demure. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of a postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. E CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

Speed Boat with Fifty Horse Power Engine

Mr. H. B. Rye, proprietor of the Otonabee boat livery, has nearly completed a new speed boat. It is thirty feet long and four feet two inches wide, and is fitted with a fifty h.p. engine. It was built for Mr. E. R. Hughson of this city. It is his intention to use it on the Otonabee river and Rice Lake waters. It is built entirely for speed.

Mr. Rye has also built two other gasoline launches this winter, and there promises to be a bigger fleet of motor boats and yachts on the Otonabee this coming summer than ever before. The large addition built to the boathouse will make ample accommodation for those desiring to keep their smaller crafts, such as skiffs and canoes.

BOY HERO REWARDED.

Lad Who Saved Pony's Life Is Given a Medal.

"Our Dumb Friends League" held a field day at Claridge's Hotel, London, a few days ago, and the room in which the meeting took place was so crowded that there was scarcely space for the photographers to work in. Three cameras were trained on the table at which Julia, Marchioness of Tweeddale, presided, and her ladyship prolonged the gesture with which she handed a medal to Henry Marten, favorably known as the pit-boy hero, while flashlight photographs were taken of the scene.

Marten, a youth of 17, is employed as a pony boy in the Woolley colliery, Barnsley. Some months ago he was taking his pony down an incline with some empty trucks, when he was warned that the roof was crumbling. With great presence of mind, he unharnessed the pony, and dragged the animal out of danger.

Then the roof fell in, eight tons or more of it, completely filling the empty wagons, while fragments of it ripped the pony's harness off, and cut Marten about the hands. Incidentally, Marten saved the life of another boy who was following, and who, but for the warning, must have been crushed to death.

But the great achievement honored was that he saved the pony's life. For that he was awarded a silver medal by the league, as well as the Fitzwilliam medal, presented by the Countess Fitzwilliam, who is president of the Yorkshire Society for the Encouragement of Humane Treatment and Kindness to Pit Ponies.

To give verisimilitude to the ceremony, Marten appeared in his pit clothes, and with his face "made up" with coal dust, specially brought to London from the colliery where he works. He carried a lighted Davy lamp, and smiled appreciatively when the secretary announced that two members of the league had contributed a sovereign apiece, as a mark of their admiration for him, and that Arthur Collins had invited him to see the Drury Lane pantomime.

When Grayson Ran Away.

Mr. Victor Grayson, British M.P., who has been chaffed a good deal about the motor-car "kidnapping" jokes, which kept him away from a Labor party conference, complained, when at school, to run away from home with a schoolmate, Billy Lee by name. Young Victor located some sandwiches from home, while Lee stole a revolver belonging to his father, and which the lads carried alternately, stock in their breeches. They were determined to see the world, and as they sat on a bank in a country lane to devour the sandwiches they imagined themselves being able to say, "Oh, yes, we have been to this and that place and have had some really thrilling experiences." But when night drew on and hunger began to assert itself, the temperaments of the boys underwent a great change. They thought of the old melody, "Home, sweet home," and mutually agreed it was far better for them to remain under parental control a little longer. It was nearly midnight when the boys reached home. Their reception was one to be remembered. Some time afterwards, Victor decided to go to sea, and successfully prevailed on an old sailor to make him a stowaway on an outward-bound vessel to Australia. When three days out, three other stowaways were discovered, and Victor decided to appear before the captain with them. The latter told them it was only respect for the flab that restrained him from having all four thrown overboard. For $50, a passing steamer consented to return the stowaways to England. When they were landed they kept together for a time, but eventually each of them was locked up for begging, while another joined the navy.

A Shipbuilding Magnate.

Lord Pirrie, on whom His Majesty has conferred the Order of St. Patrick, is one of the heads of the great Belfast shipbuilding firm of Harland and Wolff, which he entered forty-seven years ago as an apprentice, and such was his ability that twelve years later he was taken into partnership. He possesses an amazing knowledge not only of shipbuilding, but of how to get orders for ships. There is a story told of him to the effect that on the afternoon of one of his periodical visits to Liverpool a large shipowner had a more serious face than usual when he met his colleagues on the Exchange. "Well, the fact is," he said, "Pirrie has been over and has persuaded me to order a ship, and I am puzzled to know what to do with it."

Two Famous Hymn Writers.

Mr. Alfred Midlane, the jubilee of whose famous hymn, "There's a Friend for Little Children," was recently celebrated, learned the trade of an ironmonger in his youth, and it was after a day of hard work that he sat down and endeavored to put upon paper the ideas for the hymn by which he will always be known. By a curious coincidence, Mr. Midlane lives in a house in Newport, Isle of Wight, which is quite close to that occupied for so long by Mrs. Lake, another venerable hymn-writer. She wrote the well-known hymn, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old."

Peer With French and English Titles.

The Duke of Richmond, who is shortly going abroad, is a "triple" Duke in the United Kingdom, besides holding the French title of Duc d'Aubigny. The late duke succeeded his father as Duke of Richmond and Lennox, and in 1876 the title of Duke of Gordon was revived in his favor. The Duke of Abercorn is the only peer who holds peerages in each of the three kingdoms, as well as a French dukedom, that of Chatelherault.

"Comforters" and Smoking.

Miss Pearose Philp, of the State Children's Association, advanced a novel theory as to juvenile smoking when speaking at the Women's Institute recently. She said it was the common practice of putting "comforters" in the mouths of infants which had much to do with boys later on taking to cigarettes.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think! It matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's little Pink Pain Tablets will surely stop it in 20 minutes. Formula plainly printed on the 25c. box. Sold by all dealers.

Genuine bargains during Red Ticket Sale now going on at Times Bookstore.

"OXOL"

The word "Oxol" does not mean one kind, or one preparation No! "Oxol" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. A. E. & T. C. Windsor of Auckland New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen, and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their increase by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which in them means money.

In compliance with "Sec. 99," Ontario Companies' Act, I give the following information; A Director, to qualify, must hold one or more shares. Under agreement, dated 14th of January, 1909, which may be inspected at Head Office of the Company, the entire Capital Stock of the Company has been allotted to J. T. Thompson as fully paid and non-assessable for the Companies' properties, 40 acres each, from which assays of 671, 864 and 976 ounces of silver to the ton have been taken. Mr. Thompson has transferred 100,000 shares to a trustee to be sold at 25c per share. Out of the sale of this stock are to be paid $10,000 to J. T. Thompson, Toronto, the balance $15,000, to be used for development.

The Directors received no consideration in either stock or money or their services. Usual Broker's commission of 5c per share to be paid on sale of stock. No payment to promoters other than as above set out.

Estimated preliminary expenses not to exceed $000. Prospectus dated and filed with the Provincial Secretary the second day of February, 1909.

PRUDENTIAL MINES, Limited

Capital $2,000,000, Shares $1.00 par value fully paid and non-assessible.

Owners of five 40-acre claims known as the Todd-McNeil claims adjoining the townsite of Elk City. Claims developed and thirty veins stripped showing native silver. Will start shipping upon opening of river. Claims conceded to be the richest group in Montreal river district by all competent authorities.

As the company is headed by the most honorable and conservative business men of Montreal, we are assured of a square deal all around, and no manipulating of stock.

We have the best Mining Engineer money can procure to put in charge of the work, namely,

J. C. BIEDLEMAN, OF SPOKANE, WASH.

Stock is not in the hands of any brokers, thereby saving the company the excessive commissions demanded by them, which enables us to put it in development work instead. The present allotment of stock is all that will be put on the market at any price.

What Every Woman Requires for Headache Lanqour

Miss your strength given out? Do you feel languid and tired this spring?

Are you pale, somewhat nervous, finding it hard to do your housework? Thousands feel just the same,—feel the enervating influence of spring, whether that brings out latent symptoms of disease and weakness. You should do like Mrs. Flannigan of Bonar Junction—here is her experience. "I will never again suffer the torture of deadening spring illness — never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I lived through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that cures. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless,—Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite—I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks, every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonic, blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Women who are continually pale, tired and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, aching muscles, bearing, downa pains, lack of sleep and loss of appetite—they are the poor women that surely need Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c at all dealers.

No Maple Syrup Yet

There has been no maple syrup offered by any of the farmers or the stores as yet, which is to be wondered at considering the fine weather that has prevailed lately. Some farmers have tapped, but the flow of sap has not yet been fast enough to warrant making preparations for boiling, although a small quantity passed through town this week on its way to Stirling, which may been shipped from up near Lindsay. There will likely be some on the market next Saturday, according to reports from the stores, but those who intend purchasing need not be surprised if a high price is asked.

WEDDING BELLS

MORROW—JOBE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Thomas Jobe, 51 Ware street, when his daughter, Miss Edith, was united in marriage to Mr. John Morrow, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of George street Methodist church, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride entered the drawing room leaning on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Morrow. The bride looked charming in an Empire gown of white taffeta silk. She wore the conventional bridal veil and carried white roses. She was assisted by Miss Ella Morrow, who was becomingly attired in a dress of ecru poupee silk. She carried pink roses.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed on the happy young couple, the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow left on the 4.38 train for Toronto and points west.

BEWIE—DICKSON.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Wm Dickson, Aphedel, on March the 18th, when his eldest daughter, Cassie Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Mr. John M. Bewie of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. A. Frost under a floral arch. The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march played by the bride's sister Miss Annie. The bride looked charming in a pretty gown of cream chiviot with trimmings of duchess satin ribbon and silk over lace. her veil was arranged beautifully with knots of ribbon. After the ceremony and the hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the young couple, a sumptuous wedding repast was partaken of in the dining room the usual toasts being responded to. The bride's going-away gown was of navy blue broadcloth with trimmings of satin and buttons and hat to match.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only reasonable and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

Tea was Served

The ladies of the Presbyterian churches served tea to the visiting delegates from the various churches in the Presbytery who were attending the laymen's conference yesterday. There were about thirty present and they appreciated the kindness of the ladies.

Mr. Robert Bradburn Writes Hot Letter

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir.—No doubt the ratepayers of this city are proud of the mayor and aldermen who are supposed to do business at the city hall. Every time the mayor is called upon to vote his knees give way and he bows to the powers that be and then says he is sorry. The chairman of the Finance Committee was afraid to vote on the market question until forced to, and he also turned the city down the same as the mayor and for the same reason. The council authorized the property Committee to advertise for tenders for collecting tolls at the market. Six of us responded and mine happened to be the highest. The committee was practically unanimous in giving the contract to the highest bidder, and Mayor Ross and Ald. McIntyre were both present at the meeting and said no a word in protest, but on the contrary the mayor supported the committee. In council Ald. Phelan on behalf of Mr. Ball threw down the gauntlet and the weak-kneed and child-like city fathers collapsed. Mr. Ball remains the salaried market clerk and the council casts aside with scorn nearly $400 A business proposition is beyond the comprehension of the mayor and some of the aldermen, and for the sake of keeping in the good graces of Mr. Geo. Ball, ex-alderman, ex-health inspector, etc., and his friends, they permit themselves and the city to be used up to ridicule. Ald. Millyard calls them "school boys." A number of school boys have a greater sense of honor and business. With boys it is a square deal, with some of the council its policy (D...

Now, Mr. Editor, Mayor Ross, Ald. Morrow and the rest of them who voted against the Property Committee have an explanation to make to the public. Why did they stay with Mr. Ball? Why is he the only man who can fill that position? Why did the mayor and half the council throw away $400 in cold cash? Are the taxes not high enough now? Does the council not put through enough bad business without deliberately throwing away $400? The ratepayers have a right to an explanation from the mayor and his six colleagues

Yours truly,

R BRADBURN.

Large Turnout of the Laymen

There was a large turnout of laymen at St. Paul's church last night to hear Mr. Parkinson's address on the Laymen's Missionary Movement. The evening session was a fitting climax to the morning and afternoon conferences held in St. Andrew's church in which a great interest was taken. Mr. Wm. Madill occupied the chair, and Mr. Parkinson was the speaker of the evening. He dealt with the formation, the object and the policy of the movement and also explained the plan of campaign and the organization throughout the different churches in the Presbytery.

Grand Trunk Takes Up the Gauntlet of United States Lines

Montreal, March 24.—The Canadian trunk lines did not lose any time in meeting the reduction on the eastbound grain rate made between Buffalo and New York the Grand Trunk Railway announcing today, throughu Traffic Manager Loud, that notices would at once be sent out cutting the Canadian rate to four cents a bushel.

This would make the rate the same as along the American route, but the G.T.R. makes the further very important announcement that they will make any further reduction that may be necessary to keep the bulk of the grain traffic moving along the Canadian route, as had been the case during the past few years.

Exporters here say that the Canadian companies can always handle the business at a lower rate than can the American companies along the Canadian route.

Find Ryan Guilty of Brother's Murder

North Bay, March 24. — Maurice Ryan was found guilty yesterday afternoon of the murder for money of his brother, Francis Joseph Ryan, after the jury had been out but 25 minutes. The verdict was reached on the first ballot. The case went to the jury at 3.45. A large number of witnesses were called for the Crown, while the defence practically rested its case on the testimony of one witness, Robert Carswell, who stated that he saw Francis Ryan at North Bay station in February, 1908, two months after the murder was supposed to have been committed.

The evidence submitted by Inspector Greer for the Crown was most complete, and left little opportunity for defence. [illegible] Justice Riddell fixed the date of Ryan's disappearance as November 18, 1907, from informations laid that day charging him with keeping a disorderly house.

James Ryan, brother, said he had received two letters since the disappearance signed Frances Ryan, but he was satisfied his brother did not write them, as he was illiterate. The accused told the witness that Joe Driscoll drove Francis to Callender. Driscoll produced time books of his employes to show that he was not in North Bay within two months of the tragedy. Judge Latchford's charge was strongly against the prisoner. Sentence was deferred till today.

NEW KNOX CHURCH ON CORNER OF RUBIDGE AND REID STREETS

The Site is South East and at the Rear of the Present Church—Was Decided Upon at a Meeting of the Congregation Held Last Night—Will Cost About $24,000

The new church to be erected by Knox Presbyterians will be on the corner of Rubidge and Reid streets, a site east, and a little south, or at the rear of the present church. This was decided upon at a meeting of the congregation held last night. A representative gathering was present although it would have been much larger had the night been at all favorable. Two sites were considered, viz., the one chosen, and also at the corner of Reid and Wolfe streets.

The Board of Managers now have the matter in hand with instructions to go ahead with the building as soon as possible. The congregation was shown sketches of the proposed new church as prepared by Mr. Simpson of Toronto, architect, and he will get the plans and specifications completed at once. The edifice will be considerably larger than the present building and will have a seating capacity, with the gallery, of about 800. It will be of brick with stone front and will cost some where in the neighborhood of $24,000. Just as soon as the frost is out of the ground the excavation work will be started.

Church League Banquet

A meeting of the Church Hockey League was held this week at the Y.M.C.A. and representatives were present from the different clubs concerned. It was decided to banquet the champions of the Senior League and also of the Junior Church League. The event will take place on Friday evening, April 2nd, at Jacobs restaurant. Mr. Burnham, the donor of the cups to this league, has promised to attend and will present the same to the champion St. Andrew's team. A committee has been selected to make the necessary arrangements and the banquet should be a very successful affair.

Gowns and Mortar Boards for Murray Street Choir

Next Sunday morning, for the first time the choir of Murray street Baptist church will appear in their gowns and mortar boards, and they will present a very attractive appearance. The robes arrived in the city yesterday and are very satisfactory. They are made of very fine material and are well put together and reflect credit upon the W. C. Senior Toronto Co. of Toronto. The mortar boards were imported from England. The gowns and mortar were presented to the choir by the Ladies' Aid Society, and the kindness and generosity of the ladies will be greatly appreciated.

Impressive Confirmation Services at St. John's

The apostolic rite of conformation was conferred upon 43 young people at St. John's church last night, by Rt. Rev. Bishop Reeve, assistant Bishop of Toronto. His Lordship was assisted by Rev. Canon Davidson, the rector. The beautiful ceremony in ratification of the vows made on behalf of the candidates at baptism was witnessed by a large congregation in spite of the inclement weather. His Lordship's address was particularly appropriate and explanatory of the spiritual benefits attending the laying on of hands. He explained that while no outward visible signs are manifest in this ceremony as at the day of Pentecost we have God's assurance that those undergoing the solemn rite of confirmation shall receive the Holy Spirit. He exhorted the candidates to pray God to defend them with His heavenly grace that they may continue His forever; and that they may daily increase in His Holy Spirit more and more until they come into His everlasting kingdom.

Those confirmed last night will take their first communion with their friends on Sunday morning at 8.30. They are requested to meet the rector in the church at 7.30 Friday evening to prepare for Holy Communion.

Figures as to Cost of Power at the Proposed New Water Works Dam

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I have lived in Peterborough for the last twenty-four years, and having had twenty years' experience in erecting and testing hydraulic machinery, in twenty-five different power houses, with heads of water ranging from seven to thirty-five feet, from Quebec to Winnipeg river,

At the present time I am temporarily absent from Peterborough, but my family is still living there, and I have financial interests at stake in the city, therefore I claim the privilege of giving my opinion, with experience combined, on this power question.

I have erected the hydraulic machinery in three of the power houses between Peterborough and Lakefield, and have had charge of improvements, repairs and testing in every power house on the Otonabee river. I am not a civil engineer, but maintain there is not 700 horse power, nor the one-half of that power, as stated by Mayor Rush, available every day in the year over and above the 600 reserved by the water commissioners.

I have been in the Otonabee Co's power house, on several occasions, when the water was low and they could not put up 650 horse power on the switch board. They have three of the best designed wheels in America, and they are the largest the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co. ever built. These with about a fourteen foot head, as they have there, with plenty of water in the river, would develop 1468 horse-power on the wheel shaft, or 1100 horse power on the switch board, and these three wheels will discharge, under full head 66,666 cubic feet of water per minute.

In explanation of the loss of power between the wheel shafts and the switch board, the best results I ever saw obtained from a vertical water wheel (such as would have to be put in on the new waterworks dam) had a loss of 15 per cent. and some of them had as much as 35 per cent. and the conditions must be very favorable to obtain the above results.

COMPARISON OF DAMS.

At No. 3 dam they have the same sized wheels, but four of them, as at No. 5. The head is a little less, but the power developed is about the same, as they have the extra wheel. Now, I have been in this power house when they could not get much over one-half the power they could develop, for the want of water. Both No. 5 and No. 6 dam are Government maintained, and they are as tight as can be made. Now my point is this with the same sized wheels installed in the new power house, it would give ten feet effective head. It was only nine feet in 1895, when I worked on the installing of the water works plant, but I see it is now raised to 11 feet. But, however, the effective head will be one foot less than whatever the actual head is, as when a wheel is running, the level of water is taken immediately over and under the same. Now it will take three 68-inch wheels, at 10-foot head, to develop 664 horse power, on the switch board, or a duplicate plant of No. 5 dam.

This new power being on the same river, but a little lower down, you will not get as much water, as part of this water is diverted to the canal at Nassau. If dams No. 3 and No. 5 can only get water enough for less than 2-3 of the power their plants are capable of producing the same thing will apply to the new dam; so part of the year all the power available on the proposed dam is 442 horse-power put on the switch board. But the water commissioners reserves 500 horse-power. I presume this is on the wheel shaft.

Now, it does not take a very clever man to see where the new power house would land. It would be high and dry for part of the year. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. Commercially a water power plant is only as valuable as the minimum flow of the river.

COST OF POWER HOUSE WILL BE $30,000.

With regard to the cost of this power house for $15000 complete, without machinery. According to the mayor's letter in The Times of the 20th inst. we are to have forebays, wheel pits, a tail race and foundation. They have left out the retaining wall, that will have to be built on the shore side of this power house, fifty feet on the upper side and 100 feet on the lower side, as the current to and from the wheels will eat the banks away as it is in gravel formation. The Water Commissioners went through this experience three or four years ago when the river started to run around the end of the dam, about the place where the new power house is to be built. A break water wall must be built about 100 feet long between the raft race and the river. The tail race will have to be dredged out because if it is not 6 or 7 feet deep the tail water will back up on the wheels and reduce the head. I will ask any contractor in Peterborough how he would like to take the contract for $15000 to duplicate the Otonabee power house with wheel pits 12 feet below the level of the tail water and foundation to start on that level, dredge tail race, and build power house and retaining wall, having all foundations complete to erect hydraulic and electric machinery on. I claim it will cost $30,000 to duplicate the Otonabee Power Co's plant, and you cannot buy today hydraulic and electric machinery and transmission line and put it up for $20,000.

THE AVERAGE POWER DEVELOPED WILL BE ABOUT 300 HORSE POWER AT A COST OF $166 PER HORSE POWER

KENORA PLANT MOST EXPENSIVE, $160 PER H.P.

The most expensive power plant I ever put hydraulic machinery in is at Kenora on the east bank of the Winnipeg River. To show that engineers' figures are not always reliable I will state this case for the benefit of the ratepayers of Peterborough. The engineer advised the raising of $200,000 to build a power plant to be erected there in six units at 800 horse power each, three of these units to be installed at first. Through unforseen difficulties and bad management the town submitted the second bylaw to raise $100,000 more to finish the work and this did not complete it, for they had to raise $75,000 more, all told $375,000 with only one-half of their machinery bought. I was there when the last bylaw was submitted to the people and it will cost them nearly $500,000 before they get this power plant complete, but they will have over 6,000 horse power, at a cost of about $100 per horse power.

The town of Orillia had a similar experience. They built three dams at Rugged Rapids, but they have the power, and they are selling power and light cheaper than any town in Ontario today.

The Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., from their engineer's report, built a power house to contain three units. They have two of them in now, and every person in Peterborough is aware that last fall they did not have sufficient water to keep one unit running to its full capacity.

MAINTENANCE EXPENSIVE.

I will now take up the cost of maintaining a vertical wheel setting, as this would be the design that would have to be put in a new power house, as the head is too low for a horizontal wheel design. In a vertical design the power is transmitted throughout vertical shafts, and heavy gearing to a horizontal design. The wheel shaft is directly connected with the generator. The cost of repairs on a vertical outfit is ten times as much as the other. To my knowledge it cost the Otonabee power company $2400 for repairs in one year. The cost of maintaining and repairing this proposed $50,000 power plant will figure out this way;

Interest at 5 per cent.—$2500.
One head electrician—$1500
Two power house men, each $750—$1500.
Two line men, each $750—$1500.
Depreciation, maintenance, and supplies, five per cent. off total cost—$2500.
Coals—$9500.

COST OVER $30 PER HORSE POWER PER ANNUM

This is a very low estimate, or at a cost of over $30 per horse power to keep up this 300 horse power plant running part of the time.

Electors of Peterborough, they do not make this clear to you, when they state that it will only cost $2 per horse power on the wheel shaft. That $2 means the interest on the $15,000, the first investment. You will have to expend $35,000 more afterwards, before you will have a power house and with no permanent supply of water. I would strongly advise the electors of Peterborough to turn this wild cat scheme down. The promoters have not given you the total cost. They do not know anything about the design of this power plant, or the number of wheel pits they will have to put down in the rock.

I AM STRONGLY IN FAVOR OF A MUNICIPAL POWER PLANT, — but I would not support or advise any elector to vote for a power plant that did not have a [illegible] head, or a horizontal design could be installed.

Secure some other good power before it is too late.

During the last few years I have given this power question considerable study and I have a number of things along this line I would like to say but my letter is already too long.

I will close by making the proposition to any of the power experts of the city council. That I will now enter into an agreement that when the proposed power house is completed, each to deposit $500 with the city treasurer to lie for three years time, at the end of this period if there has been five hundred horse power available every day in each year on the switch board, over and above the five hundred horse power reserved by the water commissioners the other party to get his money back with a reasonable rate of interest the balance of my $500 to be handed over to the Charity Board, and I expect the same treatment if this five hundred horse power cannot be put up every day in the year, for three years. I have no money to give away, but I am sure I would have a good investment.

Yours truly,
D. S. HARVIE.

P.S.—One suggestion to the Water Commissioners. When you are putting in an auxiliary pump to look into the advisability of installing an electric driven pump instead of steam pump. I know of a town, one half the size of Peterborough, which has the electric pump, and is successfully operated.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space.

Yours truly,
D. S. HARVIE.

CURLING.

A scratch game that caused a whole lot of fun was played last night when Skip A. H. Webb defeated Skip M. C. Tooley. The rink and scores were as follows;—

IMPORTANT MEETING.

An important meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club will be held in the rink on Monday evening next, March 29th at eight o'clock A. this season the prizes will be presented for the winners of the primary and consolation contest in the recent club bonspiel. The meeting will also be an informal closing of the most successful curling season the club ever had. All the members are requested to be present.

Britain Has Accepted New Zealand's Offer

London, March 24.—In the Commons today Premier Asquith stated that the Government had decided to accept New Zealand's patriotic offer of one Dreadnought, and if necessary, two, for the next financial year, ample security having been provided for the present year.

New Zealand has only 948,000 people, including a hundred thousand Marois.

Improvement to the Plant of the Calcutt B. and M. Company

The Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company are not going to be behind the age in improvements to their lager plant. In order to meet competition in bottle and draught lager they have lately installed a filtering plant which they have purchased from the Leow Manufacturing Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the best and most reliable filter manufacturing firms in the United States. The brewery has also placed a pasteurizing machine in its plant, which insures the export bottle lager keeping in any climate and so get the bottled lager out much more readily the firm had added to their bottling room a labelling machine which performs the work of labelling much more quickly than when it is done by hand.

NEW BOTTLED LAGER

The Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company are going to turn out a new brand of bottled lager, which the company is confident will be one of the most popular lagers on the market—the Trent Valley lager. Considerable money has been spent by the brewery in order to have its lager recognized as ranking with any of the most popular American and Canadian beers.

The name Trent Valley is a very appropriate one, not only for the company's goods, but the name is known between Toronto and Montreal, and will keep the city of Peterborough before the public as the Trent Valley headquarters. The local trade will no doubt be pleased to know that just as good if not better goods can be obtained at home as from outside centers and by purchasing them will keep their money in town and help to build up local industries.

The Iroquois Took Three Straights

The Iroquois are coming. They took three straights from the Lock Works last night, and one of their men, Gutterson, tied McIlroy's high score for the weekly box of cigars. 231 This is one of the very few 200 scores that have been made in a league game. Capt. Herb. Martin, the representative of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, distinguished himself by rolling an even 100. It was a sore touch, especially after having rubbed it into Wrigham the night before. It was the foul line that put Martin on the trough. The scores were as follows;

Death of Mrs. Alex. Fitzgerald

One of the best known and most highly respected residents of Ashburnham, passed away Tuesday evening at nine o'clock in the person of Mrs. Alex. Fitzgerald, whose death occurred at her late residence, 83 Hunter Street, east, after a lengthy illness. The deceased had been gradually growing worse and little hope had been entertained for her recovery for some time. The news of her death was learned with profound regret as the late Mrs. Fitzgerald was a woman highly esteemed in the community and her death will be a distinct loss.

She was born in County Cavan, Ireland, coming to this country when twelve years of age. Her maiden name was Sarah Jane Graham, she being the daughter of the late Jas. Graham of Smith. She was married thirty-nine years ago to her now surviving husband. She had lived in Ashburnham for twenty-two years. She was an earnest and consistent christian woman, and was a member of St. Luke's church.

Her husband, one son and one daughter, two sisters and one brother are left to mourn her loss. The children are Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald of Lakefield, and Mrs. Edmison, wife of Rev. J. H. Edmison of Cheltenham. Misses C. and Lizzie Graham and Mr. James Graham of this city, are sisters and brother of the deceased.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence to St. Luke's church, thence to the Little Lake cemetery.

Tom Eck Still Banks on Fred Simpson

Toronto, March 24.—Now that Tom Coley has refused to turn pro. to meet Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Thunderbolt itinerary looks like this;

Brantford, March 31.—Twelve-mile race against relay consisting of Red Hawk and W. F. Cumming.

Guelph, April 3.—Twelve-mile race against Meadows or a relay.

Montreal, April 9.—A twenty-mile race with Hins Holmer.

"Simpson's defeat by Shrubb does not worry me a bit," said Tom Eck today. "I know what that boy can do, and I still bank on him."

Tories Challenge Grits

J. W. McIlroy, on behalf of the Tories, to be known hereinafter as the parties of the first part, do hereby place a chip on my shoulder and dare Herb Martin and the Grits, to be known hereinafter as the parties of the second part, to knock it off. The parties of the first part aforesaid, claim that the parties of the second part hereinafter mentioned, cannot, and will not defeat the parties of the first, at the game of ten pins. The parties of the second part may have won from the parties of the first part, but the latter mentioned parties did not know that they were being trimmed. Therefore, this is a formal challenge for a second game to be played on Tuesday evening next, March 30th, at eight o'clock when the aforesaid parties of the second part will receive as sound a beating as the power bylaw which is to be voted on that same day by the ratepayers in general.

Shasta Gold Belt Mine

The Shasta Gold Belt Mine of Shasta County, Cal., gives promise of being a very good dividend payer. The property consists of 50 acres of patened lands and is in a district where large quantities of gold have been taken out. There are four veins of the property varying from a one-foot to four feet in width, and they show surface values of from $4 to $500 per ton. The location of the mine enables the company to ship ore to the big smelters at Coram and Kennett for treatment at a cost so reasonable that ore producing $4 per ton can be handled at a profit. This is an advantage which is worth a lot of money. The investor in Shasta Gold Belt Mine stocks is not taking a very big chance in comparison to other prospects as the veins on the surface show value which will assure the stockholders of at least 20 per cent. dividends and this value is bound to increase as the shaft goes down. The Shasta Gold Belt Mine is issuing stock to raise funds for installing more machinery and increasing the plant. The stock is being offered in limited quantities for a short time. The price is very low. Fuller particulars may be had upon application to head office. See adv. on another page.

Pimples, Blotches and Sores

Zam-Buk's Purifying Action on the Skin

Interesting Cure of Chronic Case

It is just at this season that pimples, blotches, sores, scrofulous ailments, and eruptions generally make themselves most felt. Zam-Buk will be found of wonderful use wherever there are pain eruptions, or deep-seated ulceration.

Mr. Geo. Riddell of 108 Manitoba street, St. Thomas, Ont., says;—"My left cheek broke out in a mass of red, watery pimples, which gradually spread over all the lower part of my face and neck and kept getting more inflamed and troublesome until they developed into a mass of running sores and scabs. In the meantime I had been using one remedy after another, but instead of checking this disease, it grew worse. I happened to hear a report about Zam-Buk and straightway obtained a box. The first application checked the itching to a certain extent and encouraged me to persevere with the balm. In a week's time this wonderful ointment had worked like magic, cleaning out the sores, healing them up, and banishing the unsightly scabs. I kept on applying it, however, for a few days longer until I was positive of a cure, and my face was smooth and free from all traces of pimples or eruption."

Pimples, blotches, and irritating rashes on the face and other parts of the body indicate a disturbance of the functions of the skin. Impure matter which the blood should discharge by means of the skin is allowed to remain, the process of "exhalation" is interrupted, and just where the bad matter collects, these pimples, ulcers, and sores quickly appear.

To remove the impurities the pores must be opened and the skin made healthier by assiduous applications of Zam-Buk morning and night. Zam-Buk stimulates the functions of the skin by the penetration of its refined herbal essences, and thus reaches the root of the disease, which can't be done simply by the use of internal medicine.

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for eczema, ring-worm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, bad leg, suppurating wounds, cuts, burns, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. per box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

"There's a Reason"

Britain is Able to Maintain Supremacy

London, March 24.—The Times in reference to the Empire and fleet says; "There can be no Britain worthy of the name who has not felt redoubled pride in his lineage this week. The Mother Country can make no answer to the splendid demonstration of New Zealand, Canada and Australia, which would do full justice to its significance.

WELCOMES IT WITH PRIDE.

"She welcomes it with pride, but she must also make it clear that while she counts upon the dominions with even greater confidence than before for co-operation in the task of Imperial defence she must be and is prepared to maintain her supremacy in the quarter at present challenged, of her own strength alone. That is a national necessity wherein the whole Empire is deeply concerned, but which would still be necessary to this country if the Empire did not exist. We are fully able and fully determined to take it upon ourselves as our particular care. That determination on our part will no way, however, detract from our appreciation of their aid.

The best use to which the welcome naval co-operation now offered by the dominions can be applied is towards strengthening the defences each in its own quarter of the world. Co-operation in that manner will prove the best form of co-operation in the end. We shall await with confidence the elaborating of provisions for that purpose between our government and theirs."

Deaf

For Thirteen Years

Mr. Geo. Warner, publisher of The Masonic Register, Toronto, was almost totally deaf in both ears for a number of years. He experimented with a thousand different remedies, and only got relief by using Catarrhozone, and it cured.

Mr. Warner says:—"For the past thirteen years my hearing has been badly affected. The streets were as quiet to me as if I lived in the city of the dead. I could neither hear the noise of street cars or sound of horses' feet on the pavement. Before I had used Catarrhozone Inhaler three days I was able to notice a great change in my condition, which gradually improved until now I can hear a whisper across the room. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate Catarrhozone or the wonderful results I have derived from using it. Catarrhozone has my strongest endorsement and I am quite willing that you should use it."

Mr. Warner's unsolicited testimonial furnishes abundant proof that deafness can be cured, even in old age, if Catarrhozone is used. This remedy scientific in its application and meets with the endorsement of prominent ministers and doctors all over Canada. Our best equipped health institutions always keep it on hand, and cases are recorded where it has been used with great success in the Government deaf and dumb institutions where other means proved futile.

If your hearing is poor, if you have head noises, or ringing in the ears, be sure and use Catarrhozone. It is a regular miracle worker and is sure to help you. Complete outfit costs $1; trial size 50 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A CRIMINAL WEAPON

In supporting the suggestion that revolvers should be discouraged, suppressed, put out of business, withdrawn as far as possible from sale and use, the Ottawa Journal endorses the views expressed in these columns and remarks that murder is nearly always done with a revolver and seldom with a gun. "Guns," it says, "are not so easy to procure and are harder to dispose of after the tragedy. Besides, in most cases cases where murder is committed by means of a revolver the shooting is done in hot blood. If the hot-blooded one could not easily possess a revolver, the heat in the blood would probably result in nothing more than an ordinary fistcuffs."

There may be parts of the world where it is wise for a man to carry a revolver, although it is difficult to imagine any state of society in which this weapon would not make itself the special instrument of crime. It lines up with the bad man; it favors him every time. In a country where the householders keep loaded revolvers by their pillows as a defence against burglars, the burglar can hurl a bullet faster than the honest man whose home he invades, and, if disturbed, he shoots on sight. In a community where nobody is armed the burglar, even, does not shoot, for he does not expect to be shot at. In centers of lawlessness, where most men go armed, cowardice leads to killing. When a trifling quarrel occurs between two men, each, knowing that the other is armed, has a nervous fear that the other will shoot. So they both shoot where neither intended or desired to do so.

Of late several things have occurred which have served to bring the revolver to the bar of public opinion for trial. Not only in Ontario, but in various parts of the United States, the demand is made at this time why this weapon of murder and accident should be in general use. Its usefulness is so small and its villainies so appaling that there can be but little defence of it—except as a weapon issued under careful license. Jay Wellington Bull of New York, in a letter to Printers' Ink, says: "There is more public money and more private blood wasted on account of the revolver than any other one instrument in existence." The statement is not too strong. He would go the length of prohibiting their manufacture, sale, use or the carrying or keeping of one on any person's premises.

But at least their use should be suppressed. The fine imposed on the man who is found carrying one is not enough. The view should be that the man has not merely violated a law, but has menaced society. The man who is caught with a revolver on him should not be fined, but shut up in a safe place for a spell.

Coroner Anderson is one man connected with the Hamilton mystery who cannot be accused of having talked too much.

"Dicky Larrup."

Sir Oliver Lodge, whose ideas for the dispersion of fog are again being talked about, was, apparently, not the best of boys at school. When he was eight years of age he was sent to a boarding-school where the master "kept the cane in his boot, except when he flung it at the class and caned the boy who picked it up and returned it to him. He was always caning somebody, but never severely, and was by no means disliked. He was nicknamed Dicky Larrup." But the second master was more severe, and Sir Oliver confesses that on an average he used to get three cuts a day. And such were the daily canings that the hands were disabled from holding anything for about half an hour afterwards.

Chinese Riot at Mine.

Six Chinamen were shot dead and fifteen others were wounded and taken to hospital during a riot at the Village Deep Mine near Johannesburg, recently, caused by a misunderstanding of the interpreter about the Chinese New Year holiday. The Chinese refused to work, and created a disturbance, finally breaking up the compound. The police were twice driven back by a mob of 800 coolies, and were eventually forced to use arms.

For Boiling Purposes.

The most popular married couple on the English stage is Mr. Arthur Bourchier and Miss Violet Vanbrugh. They have just added another to their long list of successes at the Garrick, by the production of "Samson." It is fifteen years ago since they were married. At the wedding the couple were literally loaded with presents. Amongst them was a kettle sent by Miss Ellen Terry. "It will do to make tea for him when he is good," wrote the donor, "and to boil him in if he is troublesome."

Prosperous New Zealand.

Sir Joseph Ward, the Prime Minister of New Zealand, speaking at a gathering at Christchurch, recently announced that the postal and telegraphic revenue for the December quarter of 1908 exceeded $1,000,000. The revenue from both services exceeded the estimates, the postal revenue by $75,000 and the telegraphic revenue by $50,000. He considered that these facts were indicative of activity and of the development and progress of the country.

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 6th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. R. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other works as per schedule, and for the sum of $20,000 for steel superstructure and flume.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" seems also decent for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but action early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's purely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Prompt action may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day, Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 10 boxes for the pocket, also in the hopes of 48 Preventics. ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Why Do People Deposit Their Money in Banks for only 3 Per Cent. Interest?

BECAUSE, THEY THINK IT IS QUITE SAFE.

Why Do Some Invest in Bonds to get a Little Higher Interest?

Because, the bonds represent a mortgage on the property on which their money is invested which gives a feeling of safety.

Why Do People Invest in Wildcat Gold and Silver Mining Schemes? Because they think the chances of profit are big and they are willing to take the risk.

WHY NOT INVEST IN A SAFE STOCK IN A GOING COAL MINE

making money now and which presents such possibilities for development that it is expected that the profits will run from 25 per cent. to 50 per. cent. higher.

The Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited, Stock at $10 per Share is a safe Stock.

It is all common stock. There are no bonds or no mortgages or no preferred stock, on which interest must be paid before the common stockholder gets anything.

When you buy common stock of the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited at $10 per share you become an actual owner of the mines and have an equal chance of the profits according to the number of shares held. A coal mine with a big deposit of coal ready for the miner's pick is as safe as a bank. To own and control shares of common stock in such a coal mine must be safer and better than holding bonds in a proposition in which you have no control and which may or may not be properly managed. The officers and management of the Winter Port Coal Mines of New Brunswick have the experience in mining and selling coal in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

J. S. Gibbon, the President of the company, opened and developed the Winter Port Mines to the present stage.

W. E. Vroom, the Vice-President of the Company, was for some years actively associated in the management of the Springhill Collieries in Nova Scotia and the Albert Mines in New Brunswick.

Manufacturers in St. John speak highly of the Winter Port coal.

Winter Port coal is a good locomotive coal and has been used on the Intercolonial and other railways.

The Winter Port Coal Mines being practically on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific now opening up through New Brunswick will provide a most convenient coaling facility for that great transcontinental railway. Immense quantities of coal will be needed by the great railways and by the manufacturers, steamship lines, etc., in connection with the development of Canada's Winter Port at St. John, N.B., which is only 55 miles in a direct line from these coal mines.

Secure some Winter Port stock now at $10 per share (there is no personal liability) and get your share of the profits of a safe conservative money-making proposition.

Cosgrave's Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discrimin ting and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

HUMORS OF THE P. O. BANK.

Some Amusing Incidents Preserved In the English Records.

When we consider that one person out of every six in the United Kingdom is a depositor in the Postoffice Savings Bank, it is not difficult to realise that there are great possibilities of humor, which is often the more amusing as it is unconscious. In fact, a most entertaining volume could be composed merely of the humorous answers to official question put to depositors.

To the question, for example, whether the would-be depositor's address is permanent, such answers as these have been received: "Here is no continuing city"; "Heaven is our home"; "Yes, D.V."; and "This is not our rest."

One such question, asking for particulars of an account, evoked the following amusing, if irrelevant, reply. "He is a tall man, deeply marked with smallpox, has one eye, wears a billycock hat, and keeps a booth at Lincoln Fair."

Equally entertaining are some of the entries on the withdrawal-forms. Thus one depositor, scorning figures: "Sir, I want to close the bank"—an ambition which, happily, was not realised. Another, equally ambiguous, wishes "to make a clearance"; while a third, who is not a born financier, writes on his form, "The book fairly puzzles me." For downright magnanimity, however, it would be difficult to beat the schoolboy who, when withdrawing his few shillings, wrote, "Never mind the interest; it can go towards paying off the National Debt."

That the postal authorities may lose no time in sanctioning the required withdrawal, some very urgent reasons are given, as—"Don't delay, my boy must have a new suit for next Sunday"; "Hurry up, please, the bailiffs are in the house"; "I want it quick, to buy a birthday-present for my young man"; and, "If you aren't quick it'll have to go towards my funeral."

The claims made by creditors of deceased depositors are often very ingeniously framed. Thus, "Loss of time and money in consulting a solicitor, £1 10s.," appeared as one of the items of a recent claim, which was actually allowed by the solicitor to the postoffice. More original still was a claim made by the son of a dead depositor, who, as investigation proved, came into the world before his father's marriage. When he was informed of this awkward fact he responded with a demand for £2 5s., for "shock to system on learning of my illegitimacy." This was "moral and intellectual damage" with a vengeance.

Collars In the Cabinet.

Mr. Asquith wears a large pointed club collar, which style he adopted many years ago. Mr. Haldane wears a shallow curled corner collar. Mr. Lloyd-George also wears a curled corner collar fairly deep and bent back in a negligee style. Lord Loreburn wears the singe collar of a style fifty years old. Sir Edward Grey has a comfortable neck decoration, with a deep opening in the front. Mr. McKenna also wears a single collar, rather stiff, with roll-back corners. Lord Morley wears an unobtrusive Fits-William collar, with a carelessly-tied bow riding too high upon it; while Mr. Winston Churchill wears a single collar with large corners turned back, and Mr. John Burns the old unconventional polo collar.

England's Oldest Lady Doctor.

Apropos of the recent celebration of her eighty-eighth birthday by Dr. Elisabeth Blackwell, the first woman to take a medical degree and to be placed on the English Medical Register, it might be mentioned that when she first began to practice in 1849, Punch recorded the event in some amusing verses, one of which ran as follows:

Young ladies all of every clime,
Especially of Britain,
Who wholly occupy your time
In novels or in knitting
Whose highest skill is but to play,
Sing, dance, or French to clack well,
Reflect on the example, pray,
Of excellent Miss Blackwell.

Four Clever Sons of a Clever Father.

The centenary of Darwin's birth reminds The Bookman that four surviving sons of his are men of eminence. Sir George Howard Darwin is professor of astronomy at Cambridge, and has made valuable discoveries in meteorological science. Mr. Francis Darwin is a doctor of medicine and a distinguished botanist. Major Leonard Darwin was on the Staff Intelligence Department of the War Office; he served in several scientific expeditions, and after retiring from the Royal Engineers sat as M.P. for Lichfield; while Mr. Horace Darwin is chairman of the Cambridge Scientific Instrument Co. and an ex-mayor of Cambridge.

Relic of Lost Ship.

Part of a ship's boat was recently picked up at Rangauna Bay, New Zealand, with the word "Lomond" on it. The first part of the name had been broken off. Presumably it is wreckage from one of the ship's boats of the Glasgow bark Loch Lomond, which has not been heard of since she sailed from Newcastle, N.S.W., on the 16th July for Lyttelton, New Zealand.

London's New Danger.

Sir Alexander Binnie, who has suggested a new danger to life in London in the form of disused sewers, was the engineer of the Blackwall Tunnel, the success of which has made it certain that in some not very distant future the lower reaches of the Thames will have similar tunnels at short intervals for many miles.

Important Cornish Document.

One of the ancient documents at Devises, instead of being a "charter," as was supposed, is, in reality, "letters patent" by James I. under the Great Seal (1609-10), regranting charity lands to the mayor and burgesses of Devises. The discovery may have important results.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

"GEE-GEE."

Once In His Life He Wasn't Asked For an Autograph.

The stories are legion concerning Mr. George Grossmith, the prince of entertainers, who confesses that alone at the piano he has earned $50,000 in seven working months, and who has definitely decided to withdraw from active work. "The sympathy of the public," he once remarked, "is simply amazing. One night I was unable to appear at a certain west of England town, and the next morning a parcel and note was sent to me at the hotel. The letter read, 'Dear Mr. Grossmith,—Don't on any account be ill this afternoon, because I promised to take my niece to your recital. Yours sincerely,——.' The parcel contained a bottle of cough mixture." The autograph hunter is an individual by whom "Gee-Gee" is constantly being worried, and in this connection he had an amusing experience one day. He went to a little inn in a town in Hampshire and ordered tea. After tea he was surprised by the landlord sending upstairs for a great autograph book, which, with due ceremony, was placed before him. Mr. Grossmith took up a pen and dipped it in the ink, naturally thinking that the servant had brought it for him to write his name in it. "Stop, stop, stop'" yelled the landlord; "that book's not for you to write in; it's for you to look at."

Mr. Grossmith, by the way, is not one of those celebrities who have fallen victims to the craze for golf. "and I take no pleasure in walking for the sake of walking," he says. "Amongst my special recreations, however, is reading newspapers and magazines. Then I am intensely interested in engineering, shipbuilding, and any great commercial enterprise. I go all over large factories, down coal mines, and anywhere where there is any considerable business venture to be studied, and I should think that I have read nearly every book that has been written about engineering."

Contraband Goods Materialized.

Much amusement has been caused throughout Australia by an incident in which figured Mr. Smart, the Victorian Collector of Customs. Not long ago Mr. Smart raided the museum of a spiritualist—Mr. T. W. Stanford—and demanded duty on goods said to have been "materialised" by "medium," Mr. C. Bailey. Accompanied by an inspector, the collector called on Mr Stanford and suggested that, whatever the origin of the wonderful articles "materialized," they had in some way been imported, and that duty should be paid. Mr. Stanford stuck to his story concerning the spiritual source of the mandarin's robes and other products of the East. The two officers then prepared a report for the Minister of Customs. When, however, the report reached the Labor Minister he declared that he was not going to make a martyr of Mr. Stanford, and that the sooner the incident was buried the better. Mr. Stanford's claim is that the "medium," by spiritualistic agency received the marvellous carved ivory beads, Chinese silks and robes, Indian tapestry, etc., in atomic form from Eastern countries through the atmosphere.

England's Generals.

There has not been an English general since Marlborough. Wellington was born at Dangan Castle, Meath, of an old Irish family called Wesley, and christened in Dublin. Wolfe was born at Ferneaux Abbey, Kildare, and christened at Westerham. His grandfather defended Limerick against William III.

Sir John Moore and the Napiers were Scotchmen; so was Abercrombie (Egypt); so were Napier of Magdala, Crawford and Clyde. Wolseley, Roberts and Kitchener are Irish. So was Gough. The generals and statesmen who saved India to Great Britain were Neill, Nicholson, the two Lawrences (Irish), Edward (Welsh), and Rose (Scotch).

The Milkman-Peer.

Lord Rayleigh, whose profit-sharing scheme, by which some 800 employes on his Essex estate have received bonuses, has created so much interest, is one of the most practical of English agriculturists. His dairy business has proved a most successful venture, and every morning special trains, loaded with drums of milk from his herds at "leafy Terling," his beautiful Essex home, arrive in London to take the milk to his London shops. The success of his lordship's dairy business may be estimated from the fact that his employes invest their money in the same at a guaranteed four per cent. interest and a share of the profits beyond that margin.

Mrs. Macquoid Still Working.

Mrs. Macquoid, better known to novel readers, perhaps, as Katharine Macquoid, who has written over fifty novels and hundreds of short stories, is still writing in spite of her eighty years. She does most of her work on the typewriter herself, and confesses that if she has to lay it aside for a little while she feels worried, and yearns to get back to it. Her husband, Mr. Thomas Macquoid, R.I., is ninety years of age, and also is still working.

World's Greatest Lakes.

If anyone will refer to the map, he cannot fail to be struck with the continuity of the series of lakes which extends northwesterly across Canada from the head of Lake Superior. Discarding the Great Lakes themselves, this is the most important series of fresh water bodies in the world.—Victoria Colonist.

British Premier a Trinity Brother.

Prime Minister Asquith was recently elected an Elder Brother of the Honorable Corporation of Trinity House, in succession to the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. As Master of the Corporation, a position which he has held since 1894, the Prince of Wales presided.

SCOTLAND AND RACING.

Even In Roman Days It Was Famous For Its Military Horses.

It is apt to be forgotten that Scotland has been famous for its horses from the most ancient days. When Agricola defeated the Caledonians at the Battle of the Grampians, A.D. 84, the Celtic enemy, as Tacitus relates, were exceptionally strong in cavalry and charioteers. Successive Kings of Scotland did much to improve its native breed of horses; and in this connection, it is not to be forgotten that the first Scottish King of England, James I., did more to improve the race-horses in Great Britain than was ever done before him or has ever been done by any individual since.

James I. was the real author of horse-racing, as it has since been known, in England. He it was who first established regular courses; and during his reign there came into being the code of regulations that led up to the modern laws of the turf. Nobody denies that horse-racing has done much for the breed of British horses. It was a gift from Scotland.

By way of supplement to the foregoing, you should bear in mind how great was the dearth of horses in England when James ascended the throne. His predecessor, Queen Elizabeth, could muster only about 3,000 cavalry when the Spanish Armada threatened the kingdom with destruction; and, if contemporary writers are to be believed, the quality of English horses was then very poor. Even the horses employed in the hunting-field would seem to have been for the most part little better than coarse cart-horses.

Famous Service of Gold.

The Marquis of Ormonde, who has erected a brass tablet in St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny, Ireland, to the memory of his ancestors from the Thirteenth Century who are not buried in Kilkenny, is hereditary Chief Butler of Ireland, and has an unique collection of cups, which have been granted from time to time at the Coronations at which his ancestors officiated. Both Lord and Lady Ormonde own nicknames. Lady Ormonde is known to her friends as "Lilah," while with his lordship "O" has been a life-long appellation, as he was Lord Ossory before Lord Ormonde. Kilkenny Castle is one of the oldest inhabited houses in the three kingdoms, some of the rooms remaining almost exactly the same as they were in the year 1100.

There is a famous service at the castle made of almost unalloyed gold, and, as a consequence, is so soft that it could easily be spoilt with cleaning. Further, it cannot be heated in the usual manner. The plates are warmed by being plunged into a cauldron of boiling water and fished out by means of tongs, the ends of which are carefully covered with chamois leather. This elaborate process takes place just outside the door of the dining-room.

Lady Ormonde possesses robes which have seen service at three coronations, and they are exceptional as being the only robes in existence which have been adorned with embroideries. They are worked round the edge in elaborate designs in gold and silver thread, which makes a rich effect.

Athlete at Eighty-Four.

A wonder amongst octogenarians is Dr. Furnivall, the famous English scholar, who recently celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday. "Keep steady; take exercise; don't drink and don't smoke." By following his own maxims Dr. Furnivall is able, at the age of eighty-four, to help a crew of stalwart young men pull a four-seated sculling boat from Hammersmith to St. Margaret's, Twickenham, and back every Sunday. Furthermore, he walks daily to the British Museum from his house on Primrose Hill. When he is not reading in the famous library—his first ticket was issued to him in 1860—he is engaged at home in the fascinating pursuit of words for the great dictionary.

Records of the Leicester Family.

The recent death of the Earl of Leicester has revealed the fact that his eldest son, who has succeeded his father in the family honors, has been heir for more than sixty years. When Georgina, Lady Leicester—who will be thus designated now that her daughter-in-law, known for thirty years as Lady Coke, has become the reigning countess — married the late Lord Leicester in 1875 as his second wife, she found herself the stepmother of nine children, nearly all of whom were older than herself. Her own marriage was blessed with six sons and a daughter, so that she has been for more than thirty years the presiding mistress of a truly patriarchal household. Two of her own sons married in 1907.

Natives Want Rights.

A petition, signed by nearly 4,000 aboriginals residing in the Transvaal, has been sent to the National Convention, praying that Parliamentary representation should be granted to them in the United South African Constitution. The educated natives of the Witwatersrand are organising themselves, and have formed a society called the "Transvaal Native Union," for the purpose of advancing native interests, and obtaining the franchise, and "the removal of oppressive class laws."

Last of the Dandies.

Lord Althorp, who accompanied the King to Germany as Lord Chamberlain, goes by the name of the "Last of the Dandies," by reason of his immaculate attire and the variety of his fancy waistcoats.

Found Liquified Air.

The bestowal of the Albert Medal on Sir James Dewar recalls his discoveries in connection with the liquefaction of gases. He spent $5,000 getting his first pint of liquid air.

Bishop of North Pole.

The Bishop of Moosonee presides over one of the largest dioceses in the world. It is 400,000 square miles in extent and includes the North Pole.

CLEAN Up INSIDE

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful habits safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is no full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years, says W. B. Sangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a perfect spring medicine, they destroy germs and poisons of every description and strength whereby the system rallies and the patient quickly enjoys the blessings of Perfect Health. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills today—25c. At a druggists.

Some Did Not Knit

The many friends of Mr. Leo Sullivan, who had his leg broken by being knocked off a freight car near the Ceral dam recently, will be sorry to hear that he is having considerable trouble with his injured limb. After being able to be out and around it was found that the bones had not properly knitted together, and he is now confined to his home again. Mr. Sullivan is in a serious condition, but it is to be hoped he will recover without any injurious effects resulting.

Going to Toronto

The committee that goes to Toronto today representing the city in regard to the request for an extension of time which the Peterborough Radial Railway Company require, held a meeting Tuesday night to consider the plan they should pursue. The members of the committee are; Mayor Rush, Aldermen Duffus, McIntyre, Morgan, Duncan, Phelan and Bradburn. They will adopt practically the stand which was spoken of in the council. One year is all the time they will allow and they will oppose the request for a longer time.

Prince Rupert--British Columbia

In response to many enquiries from all parts of the world with regard to the new Pacific Coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Prince Rupert, a comprehensive and interesting pamphlet, has been issued giving information respecting this great seaport of the Pacific. The land acquired by the railway company for this new city is 24,000 acres for the purpose of the townsite and the development of the port. The first subdivision of the townsite will cover an area of about 2,000 acres, and will be opened to the public and sold on or about May 1st, 1909.

The publication contains a general plan of the new townsite, and a large interesting map of the North Pacific showing Prince Rupert Harbor and vicinity.

Copies of this publication may be had for the asking by applying to J. D. McDonald, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

OBITUARY

MISS AGNES JOHNSTONE.

Keene, March 23—The death occurred Sunday morning at the age of seventy-four, of an old and highly respected resident of Otonabee in the person of Miss Agnes Johnstone. The deceased was a native of Scotland, but emigrated with her parents to Canada at an early age, living for some time near Grafton, Ont., and moving to this township about forty-three years ago. She had been ill for some time, and her death was not unexpected. She is survived by two brothers, Adam, of Lang, and John, of Grafton. Her sister, Alice, predeceased her by about three months. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, Rev. D. D. McDonald, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Keene, of which the deceased was a member, conducted the services, and the interment took place at Fife's cemetery.

MRS. JANE ROBSON.

The death occurred Tuesday evening of Mrs. Jane Robson at her late residence, 176 Dublin street. She was 71 years of age and had lived practically all her life here. Her maiden name was Jane Grant. Her husband, the late John Robson, predeceased her a number of years ago. She was a Presbyterian in religion and was a woman highly esteemed by all who knew her.

The funeral will take place on Friday at two o'clock from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness in the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

BLOOD DISEASES

Guaranteed Cured or No Pay.

If you ever had any contracted or hereditary blood disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been removed from the system. You may have had some disease years ago, but now and then some symptom alarms you. Some poison still lurks in your system. Can you afford to run the risk of more serious symptoms appearing as the poison multiplies? Beware of mercury or mineral drugs used indiscriminately—they may ruin the system. Reasons Why the Ratepayers Should Support the Power By-Law

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—We wish on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the By-law to authorize the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter of providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners, having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the waterworks property, asked the council to submit a By-law to the electors for that purpose, which the council has done. At the same time the commissioners informed the council that when the 1200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the waterworks department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it would be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of building the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when that work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to instal the electrical machinery. That would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the Bylaw which is now submitted to the electors. But when the unwatering is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the Bylaw. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the waterworks department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 500 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another Bylaw could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work, the city will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the committee and the council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the Bylaw authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the Bylaw.

Yours respectfully,

H. RUSH,
Mayor.

Radial Railway Company Must Build Line to Lakefield by 1910

Toronto, March 25.—The request of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company for an extension of the time in which they must commence the work of extending their lines in and around Peterborough, was heard by the Railway Committee of the Legislature this morning, was granted on certain conditions. The company asked for two years but were opposed by a deputation from the City Council of Peterborough and the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association. The opposition agreed to favor an extension of time for one year on the understanding that the work be gone on with in that time.

The arguments for both sides were heard and the Railway Committee granted the company an extension on condition that the company build to Lakefield by Aug. 1st, 1910, to Clear Lake by Aug. 1911, to Stony Lake by Aug. 1912, and that the whole system must be completed by May 1st, 1914.

It now remains with the company to accept these conditions or abandon the whole scheme.

The Radial Railway Company was represented by Mr J. H. Larmonth, general manager, and Mr. E. A. Peck, solicitor. The city was represented by Mayor Rush, Aldermen Duffis, McIntyre, Phelan, Morgan, Duncan, and Bradburn, while the Cottagers' Association was represented by Mr Acton and Mr. R. Neill.

Are Still Looking for the Missing Revolver

Hamilton, March 25.— The whereabouts of Mrs. Cuilke, the Detroit woman, divorced wife of a nickle-in-the-slot machine manufacturer, who was said by the detectives to be the Miss Elliott who figured so prominently in the story of the wanderings of Miss Florence Kinrade, as told by her at the inquest, have been discovered. She is in Los Angeles, under the name of Mrs. Zeirlyn. It has not yet been ascertained whether or not she was really the Miss Elliott referred to. C. Montrose Wright, when spoken to about it, said it was quite impossible, and when asked if Miss Kinrade had ever admitted it to be the case, as it was stated she had by the Detroit papers, he was exceedingly indignant, and styled their statements absolute falsehoods. Mrs. Cuilke or Zeirlyn, when spoken to at Los Angeles, denied that she knew Florence Kinrade, or anything about her. Neither, she said, did she know Miss Elliott.

LOOKING FOR REVOLVER.

Search is being continued for the revolver with which the murder was committed. In connection with this the detectives are getting some interesting suggestions from people who have dreamed of the location of the weapon, or profess to have learned about it from other sources. One woman said she dreamed it was in a jar of fruit. A man who is interested in psychic phenomena, states that he has been told by the spirits that the murderer hid the revolver in a little brook, digging a hole for them (he says there were two) and and afterwards tramping the mud over them. Another man called on Detective Miller personally with an infallible plan to catch the murderer. So sure was he of it, in fact, that he considered the $2,000 as good as his. The detective didn't see it that way, however.

FOLLOWING UP SMALL CLUES.

"The inquest will be kept open until we finish following up all the clues we have," was the statement made by one of the detectives yesterday. "There is a number of little things that have to be looked up, and these will take us several hundred miles, perhaps. It all takes time."

The Kinrade family have not left town, and Mr. Kinrade states that he does not know yet what he will do. It is rumored that he is contemplating handing over the collection of rental of his property in Hamilton to an agent, and going to Toronto to live. The family have been instructed by their lawyer, Mr. George Lynch-Staunton, however, to keep absolute silence in regard to all their affairs, and particularly to speak to no one on the subject of the murder. Like instructions have been given everyone who has had anything to do with them since the murder was committed, including Montrose Wright and Nurse Walker, and the latter's mother and sisters. It is understood that Florence Kinrade is still stopping at Nurse Walker's, although Mr. and Mrs. Kinrade have left, and, it is said, are staying at their son Ernest's home.

COLONEL WARBURTONS.

When Miss Florence Kinrade was examined at the coroner's inquest she referred to Col. Warburton, who was a friend of Miss Elliott, as a British army officer. An examination of the active list of the British army, militia and yeomanry shows that while there are several Warburtons, the name of Col. F. E. Warburton does not appear. The Warburtons mentioned are: Captain Edward Beamish Warburton, Royal Munster Fusiliers, third battalion; John Henry Augustus Warburton, captain in the same regiment; William M. Warburton, captain-adjutant in the Royal Horse Artillery, and Lieut. J. Egerton Warburton, of the Scots Guards.

STRATHCONA OFFERS $250,000 TO TRAIN YOUNG CANADIANS

$10,000 to be Spent Annually in Encouraging Physical and Military Training in Schools—Offer Has Been Accepted—Sir Wilfrid's Tribute to High Commissioner

Ottawa, March 25.—Sir Frederick Borden announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that he had received a letter from Lord Strathcona, in which the Canadian Commissioner in London offered to donate a sum of $10,000 per annum for the encouragement of physical and military training in schools. Lord Strathcona said, in his letter that he was anxious to take part in the good work of training the youth of Canada. The first duty of a free citizen was to be able to defend his country in the hour of need, and he recommended that the fund be used first in the interests of the children in those institutions which are maintained entirely out of the public funds, both sexes to participate in the benefits of the trust.

Lord Strathcona recommended that the following compose the board, which shall administer the fund;

President—The Minister of Militia.

Vice-President—The ministers of education in the various provinces, which adhere to the principles agreed upon between the Department of Militia and the Province of Nova Scotia, and made applicable to the other provinces by order-in-council of August 30, 1908.

Executive Council—(A) Members of the Militia Council. (B) Two representatives to be named by the ministers of education in Ontario and Quebec, and one each by the others. (C) Military officers commanding the commands and independent districts of the Dominion.

In a private letter to the minister of militia, in connection with the matter, Lord Strathcona stated that as soon as he was notified of the acceptance of the offer, he would forward a check for $250,000.

"I am particulary anxious that the especial value of Rifle shooting for boys should constantly be borne in mind—Lord Strathcona.

Sir Frederick Borden announced that he had cabled to Lord Strathcona a grateful acceptance of the generous offer, and asked his permission to name the fund the "Strathcona Trust."

Sir Frederick also stated that Earl Grey had agreed to become patron of the trust, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier vice-patron.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, seconded by Mr. R. L. Borden, moved that the thanks of parliament be conveyed to Lord Strathcona. The premier said that his lordship had rendered many important services to Canada, but none greater than the present.

WEDDING BELLS

FITZGERALD—ELLIOTT.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Isaac Elliott in Smith, when his second daughter was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Cruikshanks, of Selwn Methodist church, in the presence of about sixty guests. The bride was becomingly attired in a Princess dress of white with trimmings of baby Irish lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Laura Elliott, sister of the bride, wore pale blue. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Bruce Fitzgerald.

After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of. A large number of beautiful presents were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will reside in Smith.

Next Few Days Must Finally Settle the Great Issues of Peace or War

Paris, March 25.—It is held in official circles here that the Balkan situation, on account of the irreconcilable attitude of Austria Hungary, has now reached its most acute stage, and that the next few days will decide between peace and war.

The efforts of Great Britain, France and Russia to present a formula for the settlement of the difficulty acceptable to Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs, having failed, Austria-Hungary is expected forthwith to deliver an ultimatum at Belgrade. After this if Servia refuses to make complete surrender, no doubt exists in Paris that Austria-Hungary will dispatch an army across the Servian frontier.

The Eclair today announces that the absent officers belonging to the French regiment on the eastern frontier, have been recalled. The minister of war admits that "certain precautionary measures have been taken on account of the tension of the present European situation.

Simpson May Get in the Big Marathon Race

Toronto, March 25.—Tom Longboat may be the favorite in the betting for the Marathon Derby, but there will be a few others who will get support. In New York they like Dorando and Shrubb, and local penciliers are taking in a few little wagers on this pair's chances.

LIKES DORANDO.

"Dorando is the man to watch in the coming Marathon Derby," declared Alfred Shrubb, when interviewed in Ottawa Tuesday night. His own chances of winning he declined to discuss, simply saying that any competitor is likely to win a Marathon, but that if he was defeated he would take his failure in good part.

Shrubb is a hustling, mild-mannered young man, whose every appearance marks him as one of ability. Five feet seven inches in height, he is thirty years of age and appears to be in the finest of condition.

Asked his opinion of Longboat as a runner, he laughingly eluded the matter of superiority. "Longboat is simply a patent plodder," he replied. "But he has absolutely no speed." Shrubb is anxiously awaiting the return race with the Indian on April 17th in Toronto, and is confident of beating Longboat at fifteen miles.

SHRUBB'S CHANCES.

The New York Mail says; Alf. Shrubb, the English pro. lost a host of followers when he lost that Marathon match with Tom Longboat at the Garden a few weeks ago, but not so many that he will be unbacked when he starts in the derby at the Polo grounds a week from Saturday. The Englishman, on t heconrary, will give Longboat and Dorando a hard rub for the post of honor. There will be a lot of "wise" money bet on him against the field, despite the fact that Longboat holds a decision over him and regardless of the truly wonderful race that Dorando ran against Johnny Hayes.

The conditions of the race should suit Shrubb to a'dot. It will be run outdoors on the grass. Practically all of Shrubb's records were made on the turf, and though he has not been on the green for some years his former experience will come in handy, particularly if the going is just the least bit wet. All of the other starters have done more or less road running, but it is another thing to run on the grass.

Shrubb himself fancies Dorando, with St. Yves as the dark horse. The Irishman, will be allowed in the Derby. Tom Eck pricked up his ears when he heard this. "If there is a chance to get Simpson in I am going to go after it," said Eck last night as he left for Montreal. "I am going to Montreal to arrange a 20-mile relay race for Simpson against Hans Holmer of Halifax, and W. E. Cummings, of Toronto. I'll wire Pat Powers from there, and if he gives me any encouragement, I'll be right down to see him in his own office. I want Simpson in because I think it's a cinch that he'll cop a good lump of that $10,000 prize money."

WHO IS INTERFERING?

"I would advise every young runner to leave the Marathons alone," said Alf Shrubb, in an address Tuesday night in Ottawa. "Fifteen miles is far enough, for if a man runs Marathons frequently he will hardly last more than two or three years. But if he runs shorter races, he will be good for ten or twelve years, as I have been."

Grits Accept Challenge

The Examiner publishes the following reply to the Tories' challenge in yesterday's Times;

Whereas, as one Wm. McIlroy, acknowledged leader of the Tory Bowling team has seen fit in his mightiness to duly challenge to a game at ye olde pastyme of bowling, the Grit Bowling team know ye by these presents, that I, Herbert Martin, sometimes known as the Big Chief of the Iroquois, do hereby after due deliberation and with malice afore thought accept, agree to and accede to the aforementioned defi on behalf of the Grit Bowling team, known as the parties of the second part, and stipulate that the contest shall take place at the Peterborough Bowling Club's alleys, at eight o'clock on the evening of March 30. The penalty for defeat being that the unlucky wights on the losing side shall dig into their private exchequer to such an extent as to provide feasting for the members of both parties.

The many friends of Conductor "Daddy" Huskill, who has charge of the G.T.R. flyer, will be sorry to hear that he is confined to his home through sickness. His place will be filled by Conductor George Jobin of the Lakefield train, while Mr. E. Dubois will take Mr Jobin's place on the Lakefield run.

Over 3,500 Delegates to Laymen's Congress

Toronto, March 25. — Thirty-five hundred delegates have already applied for seats in the Massey Hall for the great Laymen's Missionary Congress, which will be in that building next week. For the accommodation of those who may be unable to secure seats in the hall, arrangements are already under way for overflow sessions in the Metropolitan Church. Most of the delegates from Toronto are contributing $5 each for seats, while those from outside are giving $2. With very few exceptions the delegates are paying these amounts out of their own pockets, the exceptional cases being provided for by the congregations or other bodies sending the delegates. The money thus contributed will go towards defraying the heavy cost of the congress. The gathering will be the most important event yet held in connection with the great Laymen's Movement, and will have special interest and significance for all denominations. The sessions will begin on Wednesday, continuing until Sunday night.

Some of the best speakers available will take part in the program, including Mr. Robert Speer, New York; Bishop Thoburn, India, and Dr. Zwemer, Arabia. In addition there will be present seventy-five of the most prominent Missionary [illegible] in the United States.

Officers of Peterborough Golf Club

At a meeting of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club on Tuesday evening the following officers were elected; President—W. R. Denham.

Sec.-Treas.—H. W. Hopwood.

Chairman Tennis and Boating Committee—F. D. Kerr.

Chairman House Committee—T. F. Matthews.

A meeting will be held in April to elect executive, green and house committees.

The at-home to have been given at the Y.M.C.A. this afternoon has been indefinately postponed.

Many Peds Are Coming Here

The announcement that Peterborough is to have another six-day walking race has been received with unqualified pleasure by local sporting enthusiasts, who have not yet stopped talking about what was undoubtedly the most successful sporting event ever held in Peterborough. It will be remembered as a week of excitement, all the way the fascination of the contest growing on one as they will bring together a more classy field of walkers than the contestants of last year. Hoagland is coming and will bring with him a coterie of the best walkers in New York State, including Koertang and Lorelin, the pair who did so well in the recent six-day contest in New York. Peterborough will be represented by Harrison, Hartley and probably Spenceley, Guerin, and a number of other walkers, while many other entries from different parts of Canada are expected, including our old friends, Jem Graham of Buffalo, and Blake, the negro walker from Syracuse. Tom Slater will also be over from Oswego, and the entry list will include the best walkers on the continent.

Toronto Bowlers to Play the Locals

The Pacifics took two games from the B.A.C. last night and still maintain their position at the top of the ladder. The scores were;

B.A.C.—
Bruce	194	118	147
Campbell	154	160	117
McRae	136	115	181
	484	393	445
PACIFICS—
Connors	181	140	139
Lillie	140	132	137
McIlroy	214	171	162
	535	443	438

BOWLING

High score for the week is 231 made by McIlroy and tied by Gutterson, and the nearest approach to this is 225 made by Sutherland.

Already this week there have been 23 scores of 200 or over and unless one bowls around the 200 mark he is not in it as a classy bowler.

Manager Clancy returned from Toronto Wednesday night and brought some good news with him for the local bowlers. He issued a challenged for a matched game between five picked men from Toronto and five picked men from Peterborough. The challenge was accepted, and the game will be played on the local alleys as soon as a date can be arranged satisfactory to the Toronto bowlers. It will however be in the near future.

Mr. Clancy also states that the Parkdale bowlers want a game with Peterborough as do also a team from the Toronto Bowling Club, and these two games will also be played here in the near future.

Mr. Harvie's Letter is Endorsed by Mr. Meldrum

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I would like to emphasize the letter of Mr. Dan Harvie in reference to power available at the waterworks dam and more especially to that part where comparisons are made with other dams, and the experience of power owners on the river, which shows conclusively that for the City Council to attempt to develop power at the waterworks dam is childish and absurd. You could not get a capitalist in America to invest a dollar in such a scheme as that proposed by the water commissioners and endorsed by the City Council. If the water works scheme is worked out along the same lines, then the ratepayers would confer a favor on themselves by voting down both bylaws until such time as a thorough practical scheme is submitted to them. Mr. Harvie's statements which are correct, and cannot be gainsaid, should make the promoters of such a scheme look like thirty cents.

Not that the promoters have not got the ability but because that they have not used their ability to get at the facts.

Is it any wonder that the ratepayers are getting scarey about going into ownership of public utilities when engineers will advise a scheme which shows up in the face of actual experience as this one does. All the information in Mr. Harvie's letter could have been secured by the council from operators on the river, and I dare bet dollars to doughnuts that if these gentlemen had been investing their own money in a scheme of this kind they would have not only had Mr. Harvie's information, but other information which is just as pertinent to any scheme of development on the river as the information given by Mr. Harvie, as you can never get too much information on dams and power. No one knows it all, be he engineer, water commissioner or water power owner, but a little consultation and friendly criticism of opinions and deduction of facts would save the city many thousands of dollars at this time.

A gentleman well remarked the other day referring to the waterworks dam, that if you gave the waterworks power for nothing you could not get a man or a syndicate to invest the money necessary to develop and electrify it as a commercial enterprise, and I must say I quite agree with him.

I notice Mr. Harvie makes some suggestions which are alright, but I will not follow suit, because the authorities are not taking suggestions just at this time. But I think the ratepayers, if wise on polling day, will give the authorities the suggestion that they want their money spent in such a manner as to give them some return on their investment.

The writer is in favor of a well thought out and carefully planned scheme of city owned power and light. I believe the large majority of the ratepayers are, but they want to see where the profit comes in before they vote the money.

Yours truly,
W. H. MELDRUM.

A New Precedent was Established, Says R. Hicks Writing on Power By-law

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir.—In your columns I noticed a letter from Ald. Gillespie recommending the passing of a bylaw to raise $15,000 for a power house. The conspicuous part of this letter is that it is void of all information on the subject. No positive statements are made, and while I, out of courtesy to the writer, would like to reply to his letter, there is no material to work from.

With regard to the other letter signed by Mayor Rush and Ald. McIntyre I cannot say the same, because neither of the gentlemen wrote the letter, but what was supposed to be their ideas on the matter was very ably put together for publication and inserted in the papers. The statements, however, are misleading, and the people are also paying for the cost of boosting the wild scheme of the mayor and his chosen few. If the figures were doubled would the mayor sign the bills just the same if he were asked by certain members of his remarkable cabinet.

When the statement is made in the letter that the city is paying nearly $9000 for street lighting, I challenge this statement as the figures referred to includes the bonus to the street railway. This, however, has no bearing on the merits of the question as these have not been intelligently discussed because the council lacked information.

I credit Mayor Rush, Ald. McIntyre and Ald. Gillespie and the others responsible, with creating a new precedent in municipal affairs—that is, publishing statements, under the guise of facts, and recommending in council the payment of all expenses for the same. At the same time those who are trying to keep the council and ratepayers safe, must, if they wish to distribute or advertise the true facts, pay the same out of their personal funds.

Writing, however, at this date, with five days between now and polling day, there is this redeeming feature in the situation—the minds of the mayor and cabinet, being like a wholesale price list on a rising market, "subject to change without notice"—are likely to take a turn once or twice in the meantime, and I believe when they get in the polling booth on the 30th of March, with a curtain drawn between them and outside world, they will be faithful to the trust the people have placed in them, and will mark their ballots against the power bylaw for $15,000.

Yours truly,
R. HICKS.

Catarrhozone

The only cure for Catarrh Endorsed by the Medical Profession.

Physicians boldly state that every requirement of a perfect cure for Catarrhal diseases is fulfilled in Catarrhozone, and on this account it is prescribed by almost every intelligent doctor.

It is the most powerful antiseptic known. When the lungs are filled with its germ-killing vapor the microbes which cause and maintain the unhealthy condition of the mucous membrane die immediately. Disease germs cannot exist where Catarrhozone is used.

Although very penetrating, Catarrhozone is a soothing and healing treatment. It quickly heals the raw spots and dries irritation and congestion of the mucous membrane.

When using Catarrhozone you don't have to wait all day for relief; it comes with every breath taken through the Inhaler. Head and throat are cleared and cleansed almost at once. Droppings in the throat, headache, coughing, and spitting, and all other disagreeable symptoms of catarrh are banished by a few days' use of this superior remedy.

Catarrhal diseases of every description yield without much difficulty to Catarrhozone. When used for Bronchitis, Lung Trouble and Colds, it affords not only instant relief, but cures in a very short time.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Winter Flu simply won't live any time if Catarrhozone is inhaled four times daily, and as a safeguard for Pneumonia and Consumption it has no equal.

Better get a Catarrhozone Inhaler; use it occasionally, and you won't have a cough or cold in the head or catarrh. These afflictions can be prevented by Catarrhozone as well as cured. Complete outfit, full two months' treatment, costs $1. Small size, 50 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Sailors and the Present War Scare

The German invasion scare in England has been mainly due to sailors, headed by Lord Roberts. Do sailors agree with them about it? According to a writer in the Contemporary Review they do not. He signs himself, "Master Mariner," and is evidently a naval officer, but he does not deny the possibility of invasion on the ground that the vigilant navy would let nothing get by it. He waives the question of interference and considers the difficulties and delays of an unopposed invader. He undertakes to show that the attempt could not possibly contain the element of surprise, while all admit to be indispensable to success. The case depends chiefly in his opinion on certain "maritime considerations," which the military alarmists, amateurs from a nautical point of view, have overlooked, says the New York Sun, by way of comment.

These calculators do not expect Germany to build a special fleet of transports for the attempt, since they recognize the need of surprise, but they argue that 200,000 tons of shipping are normally to be found in German ports, and that this tonnage, which would carry the troops required, might be commandeered for immediate use at any moment. Here "Master Mariner" puts in his first spoke;

"What does 200,000 tons represent? It represents a heterogeneous collection averaging at least 150 vessels of different sizes and speeds from Atlantic liners to coasting tramps, in which the actual numbers and individual vessels vary, with arrivals, and departures not only every day, but every tide."

How could this miscellaneous, constantly changing collection be "commandeered for immediate use at any moment" to convey Lord Roberts' force of 150,000 men? The transport of so large a force must be elaborately organized beforehand with a precise knowledge of the number of ships to be used, and of the exact accommodation afforded by each. This is imperative if the troops are to be landed in any kind of order. The various units cannot be split up anyhow, or the confusion on landing would be stupendous. The disembarkation from 150 ships, even formed up in three lines, would extend along at least sixteen miles of beach.

"Infantry divisions might be disembarked at two or three points, miles apart, and all ignorant of where to look for each other; the guns of an artillery brigade thrown on shore from some cargo tramp might be waiting vainly for their horses in a collier in the offing."

It would be necessary, therefore, in order to permit the slightest semblance of transport organization, that the vessels should be commandeered three or four days before the embarkation was completed. This step, says the writer, must be known in London in half the time. England has secret agents of course in German ports, and if neutral shipping were detained to prevent the news spreading, "the sudden cessation of normal trade would excite alarm, leaving us, no doubt, of what was to follow."

As to the first stage of the voyage "Master Mariner" remarks:

"No seaman in the world would undertake to empty this huge and motley crowd of whipping out of the basins and pilot it down the long and tortuous estuaries of the German coast in less than two or perhaps three high tides."

Broke Rule to Win Scholarship.

Sir Alexander Mackenzie, principal of the Royal Academy of Music, who has discredited the story that Mendelssohn left the score of his "Midsummer Night's Dream" in a cab and re-wrote it from memory without variation from the original, was as a boy of thirteen in a German orchestra playing Gounod's "Faust" before it was known in England and playing from the manuscript of Liszt's compositions before ever a printer had seen them. At the age of seventeen he was in London, and won the King's Scholarship at the Academy over which he now presides. Whereas now there are hundreds of scholarships open to competition, the one young Alexander secured was the only scholarship then offered. When he went in for it he was earning his living by playing in orchestras, and in order to attend the competition he absented himself from a rehearsal without leave. On his return the conductor told him to take up his fiddle and clear out. Young Alexander did as he was told, saying, "Well, I don't care. I've won the King's Scholarship." "Oh, you have, have you?" replied the conductor. "Very well, under the circumstances you may stay."

A Story of the "45th."

There is no more hard-working officer in the British army than Lieut.-Col. the Earl of Longford, who has been created a member of the Victorian Order. During the South African War he raised and commanded the 45th, or Dublin, Company, Imperial Yeomanry, and was unfortunate enough to meet De Wet at that terrible skirmish which history has dubbed the Lindley disaster. The four companies were surrounded, but the Earl of Longford would not surrender his company, in spite of the others having ceased fire. He called out, "The Forty-fifth will not surrender," but a shell knocked him over, when the company gave in to De Wet, not before thirty out of the 120 were either dead or wounded.

Gun-Running Into Afghanistan.

It is calculated that between 30,000 and 40,000 breech-loading rifles and a large quantity of ammunition have been smuggled into Afghanistan from the Mekran coast during the past year. Gun-running from South Persia and Eastern Arabia is also active.

Tender for Red River Bridge

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for the Red River Bridge," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway until twelve o'clock noon of the 8th day of April, 1909, for the construction and erection of a steel and concrete bridge and approach spans over the Red River between Winnipeg and St. Boniface, near the foot of Lombard street, together with grading and approach spans over streets in Winnipeg.

Separate tenders must be submitted for the substructure with other works as per schedule, and for superstructure.

Plans, details and profiles may be seen and full information obtained, at the office of the chief engineer at Ottawa, and also at the office of the district engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the commissioners, which may be had on application to Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer, Ottawa, Ont., and M. S. E. Poulin, district engineer, St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway for the sum of $25,000 for substructure and other work as per schedule, and for the sum of $25,000 for steel superstructure and floor.

The cheques deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

Why Do People Deposit Their Money in Banks for only 3 Per Cent. Interest?

BECAUSE, THEY THINK IT IS QUITE SAFE.

Why Do Some Invest in Bonds to get a Little Higher Interest?

Because, the bonds represent a mortgage on the property on which their money is invested which gives a feeling of safety.

Why Do People Invest in Wildcat Gold and Silver Mining Schemes? Because they think the chances of profit are big and they are willing to take the risk.

WHY NOT INVEST IN A SAFE STOCK IN A GOING COAL MINE

making money now and which presents such possibilities for development that it is expected that the profits will run from 25 per cent. to 50 per. cent. higher.

The Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited, Stock at $10 per Share is a safe Stock.

It is all common stock. There are no bonds or no mortgages or no preferred stock, on which interest must be paid before the common stockholder gets anything.

When you buy common stock of the Winter Port Coal Mining Company, Limited, at $10 per share, you become an actual owner of the mines and have an equal chance of the profits according to the number of shares held. A coal mine with a big deposit of coal ready for the miner's pick is as safe as a bank. To own and control shares of common stock in such a coal mine must be safer and better than holding bonds in a proposition in which you have no control and which may or may not be properly managed. The officers and management of the Winter Port Coal Mines of New Brunswick have the experience in mining and selling coal in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

J. S. Gibbon, the President of the company, opened and developed the Winter Port Mines to the present stage.

W. E. Vroom, the Vice-President of the Company, was for some years actively associated in the management of the Springhill Collieries in Nova Scotia and the Albert Mines in New Brunswick.

Manufacturers in St. John speak highly of the Winter Port coal.

Winter Port coal is a good locomotive coal and has been used on the Intercolonial and other railways.

The Winter Port Coal Mines being practically on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific now opening up through New Brunswick will provide a most convenient coaling facility for that great transcontinental railway. Immense quantities of coal will be needed by the great railways and by the manufacturers, steamship lines, etc., in connection with the development of Canada's Winter Port at St. John, N.B., which is only 55 miles in a direct line from these coal mines.

Secure some Winter Port stock now at $10 per share (there is no personal liability) and get your share of the profits of a safe conservative money-making proposition.

STILT WALKING.

In Some Parts of France It Is an Absolute Necessity.

In some parts of the world, particularly in the low districts of France, stilt walking is a necessity. In Gascony there are great level plains covered with stunted bushes of dry heath. These waste lands have a soil that is so permeable, so soft and yielding, that the slightest fall of rain makes them practically impassable by ordinary methods of pedestrianism. But these wastes must be traversed at all seasons by the poor people of Gascony, and necessity has accordingly made the Gascons a stilt walking people, and men, women and children may be seen at all seasons of the year stuck upon high stilts, trudging through the waste lands, carrying baskets, bundles and the like. The stilts used are about five feet long and often longer.

The shepherds of Landes all go on stilts. The shepherd is provided with a stout staff that answers for many purposes. At the proper place in the staff is a flap, which makes a comfortable seat when turned down. On this the shepherd quietly sits and watches his flock, and while he sits up there he knits or spins with a distaff thrust in his girdle.

The Landes stilt walker can do marvelous things with these five foot leg extensions. He can run with a speed that will tax a horse, pick up a pebble or pluck a flower as the cowboy reaches to the earth from his pony, and he can drop to the ground level and regain the perpendicular as quickly as a boy can turn a handspring.

WRECKED VESSELS.

Difficulties That Beset the Work of the Salvors.

What it means to salve a wreck is something that few outside of practical seamen can properly appreciate. The wreck is a ponderous, unwieldy mountain of steel and oak, weighing between 3,000 and 12,000 tons, often dangerous for any vessel to approach, and this must be lifted bodily and floated from the decks of pitching, unstable scows and barges. The wreck may be submerged beneath fifteen or thirty feet of water and so stove in that divers must go down and effect temporary repairs before it can be raised. It may be a wreck so shattered that it is not worth raising, so that the wrecker's work consists merely in blowing up the hulk and removing it as a menace to navigation. Or the vessel may be fairly intact, but sunk too deep to make attempt at raising advisable, the wrecker's work consisting in salving valuable cargo. Often the wreck is one not submerged at all. A ship may have run on to a reef, where it lies, nose on a crag and stern afloat, rising and falling on the ocean swell, pounding, pounding and pounding until the very ocean bottom drones and she is gradually broken to pieces. Or, again, the wreck may be that of a steamer which has pointed its nose shoreward in a fog, finding a beach, plowing a furrow through the yielding sand and never coming to a halt until it is stuck fast all but high and dry, a helpless victim to the next storm that comes screeching up the coast to pile breakers against her and crowd her even higher upon the beach. —Appleton's.

Failure of a College Education.

"Well," observed old man Potts, "I've spent a heap of money on my boy Bill's education, more'n $900, jest to see him through Yale, and I ain't through yet. It shorely makes me sore to think of the money I'm wastin' on a boy who ain't got as much sense now as he had before he went to college."

"What's the matter, father?" asked Mrs. Potts. "Mebbe you're a little hard on Bill."

"No, I ain't, Mary," answered the old man. "Just to show you, a little while ago I says to him I thinks it was going to rain tomorrow. What fool answer d'ye suppose he made me?"

"I'm sure I don't know, father."

"He begged my pardon!"

A Case of Urgent Need.

It was in the hotel of a mining town that the New England guest, registering in the office, heard a succession of loud yells. "What in the world is that—a murder going on upstairs?" he demanded.

"No," said the clerk as he slammed the book and lounged toward the stairs. "It's the spring bed up in No. 5. That tenderfoot up there don't get the hang of it, and every few days he gets one of the spiral springs screwed into him like a shirt stud. I guess I'll have to go up if there ain't anything more I can do for you for a few minutes."

A Severe Sense.

Grateful Mother—Oh, are you the noble young man who rescued my daughter from a watery grave? Noble Young Man (who is truly modest)—Yes, madam, but I assure you I only did it from a sense of duty.

Her First Chance.

"How long has she been talking to the crowd?"

"Two hours."

"Why doesn't she stop?"

"Stop! Why, this is her first chance!"

Boots to Suit Arctic Tastes.

Shoe Dealer—Here is a pair of boots that will suit you exactly in your next dash for the pole. How did you like the last pair I sold you? Arctic Explorer (reminiscently)—The best I ever tasted.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

POWER OF ONE VOTE.

A Single Ballot Has Often Decided an Important Contest.

In the Continental congress of 1775 Benjamin Harrison defeated John Hancock by one vote for the presiding office. But the Virginian insisted on a new ballot and by his own vote chose Hancock.

In 1784 the illness of one delegate from New Jersey kept slavery out of states admitted to the Union after 1800 and thus confined the civil war contestants to the south Atlantic states.

July 25, 1788, one vote ratified the constitution after the famous debate between Madison and Henry at Richmond. The next day the debate between Hamilton and Clinton ended with New York following suit. In 1790 Rhode Island came in with an equally small margin.

Alexander Hamilton swung one vote to Thomas Jefferson in the electoral college of 1800, thus breaking a deadlock after thirty-six ballots and defeating Aaron Burr. This really began the feud which cost Hamilton his life on the Palisades at Weehawken.

In 1808 Jesse Thomas by his own vote went to congress from the Indiana district. He succeeded in moving the northern boundary of Illinois fifty miles north, thus giving it a lake outlet. Had Illinois been united commercially with the south and her interests tinged with southern ideas the election of Lincoln could never have taken place, and the whole history of the country would have been different.

May 26, 1868, the senate of the United States declared against the impeachment of Andrew Johnson by one vote, 35 to 19, when two-thirds were necessary to decide.

A MISNAMED EXHIBIT.

Brings Joy to the Museum Visitors and Worries the Curator.

A curator at the Metropolitan Museum of Art is threatened with insanity, the cause being a small misnamed exhibit in the gallery outside his office door.

"Twenty times a day," declared the harassed man, "people discover that that china statuette out in the Franklin collection is named General Washington instead of Benjamin Franklin. Then they burst in here and announce their discovery and wonder that no one ever noticed it before. Half my time is spent in explaining that we know it well, that it was simply a mistake of the potter who labeled it in France over a century ago and that we cannot change it nor wouldn't if we could.

"Of course I tell them this courteously and patiently, and you know what a strain that is when you are going over the same thing for the thousandth time! I'd latch the door, only there are too many employees seeking me all day long, so here I must sit and listen to the names of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin repeated a million times till I wish that neither of those glorious patriots had ever lived. And it's driving me insane, I tell you; it's driving me insane!"

Just then the door opened and a lady popped in with:

"There's a statue out here named General Washington, but I'm sure"— And the weary curator, being a southerner, rose smilingly to his task.

A Telegram That Talked.

At one time when Georgie Drew Barrymore was playing in San Francisco a fabulous sum was offered her by a local theater for her services for a few weeks. The offer was exceedingly tempting, but her contract with Charles Frohman stood in the way. However, on the nothing-venture-nothing-won theory, she telegraphed a detailed statement of the offer she had received to Frohman in New York, explained how anxious she was to accept it and wound up with the plea, "Will you release me?" In due course of time she received the following telegram in answer:

Mrs. Georgie Drew Barrymore, Palace Hotel, San Francisco:
No! CHARLES FROHMAN.

Albeit disappointed, Mrs. Barrymore at once sent this characteristic reply:

Charles Frohman, New York City:
Oh! GEORGIE DREW BARRYMORE.

Doing Double Duty.

"It was one of those sleepy, one horse, back water towns, like Squash," said a congressman, describing at a Hot Springs dinner a town that he disliked.

"Squash is the limit. A gentleman arrived there the other day and wanted a hair cut. He found the barber shop and, after shaking the barber vigorously, managed to awaken him.

"'How long will it take you to cut my hair, barber?' he asked.

"'Not long, boss,' said the barber.

"And he rose, yawned and stretched himself. Then he called upstairs to his wife:

"'Hey, send the kid down to the newspaper office to tell the editor I want my scissors just as soon as he's done editin' the paper. There's a gent here waitin' for a hair cut.'"

A Slight.

"Isn't McCorkle awfully thin since his return?"

"Yes. Do you know what they call his valet at the club?"

"No."

"They call him the valet of the shadow."

A GREAT RUNNER.

One of His Feats of Which He Had to Be Reminded.

"I'm the real thing as a runner," said Howard James majestically as he seated himself at the first home dinner since his return from college. His mother and sister looked at him in sheer admiration.

"Yes, mother, I wish you could have been at the university to see me run. During the football season I ran away from every one on the team. They were not in it for a minute. In the classes I took the lead, leaving them in the lurch. I always stood highest in my lectures. And then when it came to selecting a president for the class I made the race. When the voting started I ran second, but at the last, well, I ran ahead of all of the other candidates. There's no doubt about it, I'm a runner. Of course, when the baseball season opened the crowd wanted me to get on the team. At first I hesitated because I realized my superiority, but persuasion succeeded. I went on the team, and the way I ran bases was a positive shame. Then I went into the track meet. I ran ten yards in ten seconds, almost equaling the world's record. Yes; I am a runner. Then"—

"Then you ran into debt," interrupted Old Man James, with a distinctive grunt, "and I have to pay you out."

DARK DOINGS.

The Reason One Woman Is Disgusted With the Voting Proposition.

When any one asked little Mrs. Pratt her opinion on the question of equal suffrage she had her answer ready. "I don't want to hear anything about it," she would say pleasantly, but firmly, "and I'd just as soon tell you why. It's because there's got to be a concealment and mystery about voting, and I like things open and aboveboard. It's the way I was brought up and the way I shall always feel if I live to be a hundred.

"I've had one experience, and that's all I want. A friend of mine talked and talked to me about voting on the educational question till at last I said I would, because I was brought up to think a great deal of education, and I always shall. So I gave up an engagement to go to the polls and register (and the dress was almost spoiled on account of my missing that trying on, too, because she didn't wait to see whether it fitted or not, but stitched the seams right up), and then I took the greatest pains to go and vote just as they'd told me to, and what do you suppose Henry Pratt told me afterward? My vote was thrown out because I had the frankness to write my full name and address on it!

"I told Henry that nothing would surprise me after that—nothing!"

Arago's Modesty.

Arago, the great French scientist, was never seen with a decoration on his breast. He valued honors lightly. One evening Leverrier, the astronomer, called on him on his way to dine with a minister. He expressed a wish to appear decorated with an order to which he was entitled, having received the official notice of the honor, although he had not as yet the decoration itself.

"Open that drawer," said Arago, "and take whatever you want."

In that drawer were all the crosses and ribbons which kings and emperors confer.

While Arago wished above everything to promulgate science and to make his researches useful, he did not attempt to identify himself forever with his discoveries by writing books. He had no time for writing, but contented himself with noting the results of his work in the record of the bureau of longitude or announcing it verbally to the academy.

The Valuables.

The man with a wife and seven children hauled up in front of the hotel desk, registered, got his bellboy and was starting off when the clerk, thinking maybe he might jolly the new arrival, called to him.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but hadn't you better leave your valuables in the safe?"

"Do you think I ought to?" inquired the man innocently enough, to hear him say it.

"Well, it is the best plan."

"All right," said the man, and, turning to his wife, "Here, Mary, pass the children over to the gent behind the counter. He'll look after them and give us a rest."

Whereupon the clerk apologized.—Judge.

Exempt.

"Jes' you come right home, Henry Hiram—breakin' the Sabbath day in that scan'lous, sinful fashion."

"Well, Jimmy Hicks is let play on Sunday."

"The commandant don't apply t' him. His paw's a vegetarian."—Life.

"I don't know," she answered. "I might, but if I were a man I'd hate to think that I was an acquired taste."

Prince Rupert—British Columbia

In response to many enquiries from all parts of the world with regard to the new Pacific Coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Prince Rupert, a comprehensive and interesting pamphlet, has been issued giving information respecting this great seaport of the Pacific. The land acquired by the railway company for this new city is 24,000 acres for the purpose of the townsite and the development of the port. The first subdivision of the townsite will cover an area of about 2,000 acres, and will be opened to the public and sold on or about May 1st, 1909.

The publication contains a general plan of the new townsite, and a large interesting map of the North Pacific showing Prince Rupert Harbor and vicinity.

Copies of this publication may be had for the asking by applying to J. D. McDonald, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

OBITUARY

WESLEY WHITFIELD.

A well known resident of South Monaghan died yesterday in the person of Wesley Whitfield, aged 42 years. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence near Fraserville. Interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. MARY JACKSON.

The death of one of the residents of the Protestant Home occurred on Wednesday when Mrs. Mary Jackson, 82 years old, passed away. The funeral will be held this afternoon at three o'clock and interment will take place at Little Lake cemetery.

The Dredge Has Started Work

The dredge "Emmerson" started work yesterday deepening the channel in the river between Lakefield and No. 2 dam. The tug Empire is also employed in connection with the work, and good progress should be made.

The river is entirely free from ice between Nassau and Lakefield, which pretty nearly establishes a record for an open channel on that part of the river. There is still some ice in the stretch between the lift lock and Nassau, but if the weather continues as at present it will soon be gone.

Keene

Keene, March 25.—Mr. Jas. J. Dickson has moved into his fine new residence on Mill street.

Mrs. John Foley and daughters of Lindsay, have moved to our village.

Messrs. Thos. Wedlock and Frank Dean went to Toronto to witness the Shrubb-Simpson race on Saturday. Although Fred was beaten, we do not think it in any way reflects on his ability as a runner, as he was up against the best twelve-miler in the world.

Miss Marguerite Whitty of Stirling, is the guest of her uncle, Mr. Martin Kennaley of the Victoria House.

Mr. Platt, express agent at the G.T.R., Peterborough, is visiting friends in Keene. He kindly favored the congregation of the Methodist church with a solo on Sunday evening.

Mr. R. J. Brown, the genial manager of the Curling and Skating Rink has started a smaller rink factory in the village. He has a number of orders for new boxes for the coming season. We wish him every success in his new enterprise.

A number of the sports went down to Rice Lake for a day's fishing through the ice. They returned with a nice catch averaging six bass each. Mr. David Moore caught one bass of the large-mouthed variety which tipped the scales at six and three-quarter pounds. The Indians had taken out eighty bass the same day.

The Aldersville Indians have returned once more to their camp on the banks of the Indian river. They report that rats will be scarce this year, a great number being drowned, owing to the water raising so early.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McLachlan were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Wedlock, Sr., on Tuesday evening.

Mr. R. H. Campbell is moving into his mother's home. As this is situated over the store he owns, it will make it much more convenient for him. Mr. Hugh Lesson is moving into the house Mr. Campbell is vacating.

The Keene Gun Club would like very much to meet the Peterborough bunch in the near future. Hiawatha has become such an easy victim the boys would like to place Peterborough in the same column. They have sent a challenge to the Petes but it has not been accepted.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE PNEUMONIA SEASON

MORE DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA THAN FROM TUBERCULOSIS.

Pneumonia an Infectious Disease. It Can Be Prevented---A Remarkable Record.

(From the Des Moines Register and Leader.)

"Why has this season of the year become known as the pneumonia season? Why during the closing week of the old year were there more deaths in Chicago and New York from pneumonia than tuberculosis? Why are pneumonia and related bronchial troubles beginning to take the place of tuberculosis as the dread scourge of city life? Simply and solely because we are devoting too much ingenuity and energy to dodging the fresh and invigorating winter air that every twelve months refrigerates our latitude.

It is believed now that pneumonia is an infectious disease, and that in the cities where the death rate is growing so rapidly it is communicated in the heated and crowded cars. A nickel is no small, and the cold air is so chilling, that the American people are forgetting how to walk. The old time red that burned the cheek of childhood does not visit a mature face on an average of once in the twelve months, not even the red of a chilly and pinched nose. We are getting afraid of the climate, and as a result, the climate is taking its revenge.

The mere habit of turning up coat collars has killed thousands of people, and the fur boa has a long list to its account, for no part of the human body becomes delicate more quickly because of superfluous covering than the throat. And yet we are multiplying devices for turning up more coat collars. It is not too early to recognize that this is all wrong, that our climate is here to stay, and that if we are going to live in it with comfort we must accommodate ourselves to it. It will pay to keep on good terms with the climate."

A great many have learned that pneumonia may be avoided by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy whenever they have a cold. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for colds and grip during the epidemics of the past few years, we have yet to learn of a single one having had pneumonia, which should certainly convince the most skeptical of the value of that preparation. Its remarkable cures of colds have made it a staple article of trade and commerce throughout the United States and in many foreign countries.

Reasons Why the Ratepayers Should Support the Power By-Law

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—We wish on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the By-law to authorize the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter of providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the waterworks property, asked the council to submit a By-law to the electors for that purpose, which the council has done. At the same time the commissioners informed the council that when the 1200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the waterworks department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of building the new dam, pumping station, power house etc., so that when that work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to instal the electrical machinery. That would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the By-law which is now submitted to the electors. But when the waterworks is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, in that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the By-law. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be paved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the waterworks department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 500 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory there, another By-law could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work, the city will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the committee and the council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the By-law authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the By-law.

Yours respectfully,

R. BUSH, Mayor.
